Says District Will Only Lose

No Cash Gain For Schools By Lowering Equalizer: Official

Arthur Perry, Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59 assistant superintendent for administrative services, is opposed to lowering the equalizer to compute state aid to schools.

Perry said the district "would lose far more in local tax revenue than it would gain in state aid."

Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton, Richard Martwick, county superintendent of education and other Democratic counties have charged that the state has used a higher equalizer for Cook County than for any other county in the state. They want the equalizer for Cook County lowered.

Cullerton is now suing the state to get the equalizer lowered.

According to Cullerton, Dist. 59 is losing $442,660 in state aid because of the high equalizer.

Perry said the district would suffer a net loss in funding if state aid increased while the local tax revenue declined.

PERRY SAID he had not figured the overall loss for Dist. 59, but said it would be "large."

He estimated that every dollar gained in state aid would result in a two-dollar loss from local tax revenue.

A meeting for school district officials was held Monday at the invitation of county officials. The meeting became disorganized when the school officials refused the county's claims.

Perry said he, "didn't bother going to the meeting because it was politically oriented."

The equalizer is part of the formula used for determining the amount of state aid a school district will receive. The Illinois Department of Local Government Affairs sets an equalizer for each county to compensate for differences in property assessment practices by county assessors.

The equalizer is multiplied by the total property assessment to give the equalized assessed value for the county. The greater the equalizer, the higher the total equalized assessed value will be.

State aid to schools is based partially on the equalized assessed value. A high assessment will give less state aid.

COUNTY OFFICIALS have charged that the high equalizer means local school districts are not receiving the proper amount of state aid.

Perry, and officials from other school districts, counter the Democratic claims by saying any gain in state aid would be more than offset by a loss in local tax revenue since a lower equalizer results at a lower total tax base for the district.

Erviti Changes School Boundaries

Attendance boundaries were changed, effective Tuesday for five Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 schools. Boundaries were changed for John Jay, Robert Frost and Forest View schools in Mount Prospect and Brentwood and High Ridge Knolls schools in Des Plaines.

The changes were an administrative action by James Erviti, superintendent.

Principals of the schools confirmed that the changes were made in accordance with a letter dated July 26 that Erviti mailed to them.

The changes were apparently made without board approval.

Harry Peterson, school board chairman, said board members were "apprehensive of the action," but have "taken no formal action."

"We're aware of the plan and the need," said Peterson.

Peterson said he would have to consult with the board's attorney to see if the changes could be made without board approval.

FRANK HINES, board attorney, declined to comment on the legality of the changes. "It is not my position to answer legal questions to the general public," said Hines.

Erviti is on vacation and could not be reached for comment.

When questioned about the boundary changes, a spokesman for the legal division of the Illinois Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction said, "As a general rule, it should be a question for school board determination. The reason is that the school board represents the different areas that will be affected."

The spokesman said he was basing his opinion on a general interpretation of the school code.

Peterson said the board planned to take action on boundary changes when a special attendance boundary committee submitted its report in October.

The boundary committee was formed in April to study anticipated student population at all district schools and make recommendations for boundaries through 1977.

To date, the committee has considered boundary changes for Robert Frost and Cook schools, but no official recommendations have been presented to the school board.

The committee is charged by the board to place the welfare of all the children in the district as its first concern.

At a meeting held Tuesday evening, the committee discussed formal adoption of certain principles to be used in recommending boundary changes. The motion to adopt the principles was tabled pending further discussion.

THE CHANGES MADE by the district administration this week were in anticipation of increased student population at Frost and Jay schools from housing construction now being completed.

Erviti has estimated that approximately 20 children now at Frost would be affected by the boundary changes. Judd Thompson, principal at Frost, said letters explaining the change were being sent to parents whose children are affected.

Children now in the district who are affected by the changes may still attend

Rudd Cites Illness, Resigns From Schaumburg Bd. Of Ed

Donnie Rudd, member of the Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 Board of Education, submitted a letter of resignation Tuesday.

Rudd, who has undergone five major operations this year, said he faces further surgery and his ill health forces a resignation he has postponed before.

Board Pres. Dianne Hart, confirming Rudd's resignation, said it was received during a special session of the board Tuesday, but was not acted upon because of a lack of a quorum.

The board is expected to meet Sept. 7. Mrs. Hart said Rudd's resignation "leaves a void" on the board, on which he served as an active member for the past 2 1/2 years.

THE VACANCY must be filled in 60 days, and the board will decide on how to fill the post during that time. In the past, we have asked for resumes and applications from interested residents," she added.

A year ago Rudd resigned as president of the school board, citing ill health, but remained as a member of the board.

Rudd said yesterday the past year has not been easy and that his workload has increased because of teacher negotiations and his work with the legislative and unification committees of which he is a member.

"I can't sit in a board slot and do nothing and thought it best to follow my doctor's orders, resign, and let the board pull someone else that can carry a full load," Rudd said.

If his health allows him to return to active service, Rudd said he would seek a seat on the board again.

Rudd, 30, a Hoffman Estates resident for the past four years is employed as a patent attorney for Quaker Oats.

Police Department Promotions Made

Elk Grove Village Police Sgt. Ray Marinac, 34, was promoted to lieutenant, and Detective Ron Iden, 25, was made sergeant, Police Chief Harry Jenkins announced Wednesday.

Lt. Marinac joined the department in February 1962 and made sergeant in July 1969. He currently is assigned to the investigative unit.

Sgt. Iden, also in investigations, came to Elk Grove Village in April 1969 as a patrolman.

Marc Gens, 19, Chicago, joined the police department Wednesday as a cadet. He is a sophomore at Northeastern Illinois University in Chicago and has worked for the Chicago Park District in the summer.

Employer Workshop Set Aug. 30

A workshop to acquaint area employers and managers with the detailed regulations of the Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) is scheduled for Aug. 30 at the Navarone Restaurant, 1905 E. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village.

Officials of the Elk Grove Village Association of Industry and Commerce said at their monthly board of directors meeting this week that Leonard Day, labor relations manager with the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, will answer all questions management needed to know about an OSHA inspection at the workshop.

The OSHA regulations, passed by Congress in 1970, list requirements employers must meet to provide a safe, healthy working environment for their workers. Citations are issued and fines are levied for violations.

Since inspections began, there has been some confusion as to how the guidelines apply, and OSHA has been criticized for being too trivial in some of its demands on industry.

At a luncheon meeting last month, Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council, spoke to the members on a history and overview of the regulations.

However Stan Klyber, director of the Elk Grove Village Association of Industry and Commerce, said the workshop will get down to the "nuts and bolts" of how OSHA operates, the employers' responsibilities, the employees' responsibilities and how to prepare for an OSHA inspection.

THE WORKSHOP will meet from noon to 2 p.m. with a sandwich and salad lunch served at noon. Klyber said most of the program will be a question-and-answer session, and not a lecture.

The cost of the program is $3 for members and $5 for non-members. Reservations can be made at the association office, 15 Park 'n Shop center.

Also at their meeting this week the board of directors passed a resolution at the meeting criticizing the state of Illinois for delays in the completion of road construction along Rte. 72 in the village.

The resolution said delays in completion of the project, which was started two years ago, has caused the "residents and industry and commerce in the Elk Grove Village area needless inconvenience, out-of-pocket expense and delay."

Klyber said the association is publishing a buyer's directory, listing 900 companies and businesses in the village, which will be available Sept. 1 to 15. Members will get a complimentary copy of the book, which lists firms alphabetically and by classifications, and the directory will be sold to non-members for $10 a copy.

In other action, Pres. Thomas Fulrath, of Ampex Corp., appointed John Lecraw, Mossytype Corp., nominating committee chairman; Ray Stenberg, Howell Tractor and Equipment Co., budget chairman; and Al Shumski, Holland Storage and Moving Co., program of work chairman to outline goals for the coming year. Shumski also was named chairman of a membership drive scheduled for Sept. 18 to 22.

Klyber announced at the meeting that the association will be moving to new offices at 1010 Grove Mall for additional space in September. He said there will be an open house as soon as the move was completed.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Former presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger said he met privately with North Vietnamese negotiators in Paris as a emissary of George McGovern and told them the Democratic presidential candidate hoped they would press peace talks without regard to the American election.

Former President Lyndon Johnson has endorsed George McGovern for President.

Republicans swiftly blocked maverick Rep. Paul McCloskey's attempt to challenge President Nixon symbolically by having his name placed in nomination at next week's national convention. In two separate moves, the party denied McCloskey a chance to have his antiwar views brought to the convention floor and aired over nationwide television.

Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W.Va., charged an Air Force general who retired under fire will get a tax-free retirement payment for a claimed lung disability while thousands of coal miners are unable to collect black lung compensation payments.

Bombing incidents in the United States during July killed two persons and injured 13, the FBI reported.

Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's top foreign policy adviser, arrived in Saigon for a series of secret meetings with President Nguyen Van Thieu. Political observers speculated he had come either to reassure Thieu or to ask him to quit.

The World

Three unidentified military aircraft attacked a special Boeing airliner carrying Moroccan King Hassan II. The plane landed with Hassan uninjured.

The British government offered a $125,000 reward for the capture of a gang of psychopathic killers suspected of murdering up to 40 persons in Northern Ireland within the past month.

The African nations threatened to spoil a $600 million dream by walking out of the 20th Olympic summer games because of Rhodesia's participation.

The State

Mayor Richard Daley canceled his meeting with Sen. George McGovern because he was angry by a news magazine article in which McGovern appears to apologize for soliciting Daley's support, a Chicago newspaper reported.

The War

Heavy fighting was reported in both North and South Vietnam despite dramatic and puzzling trips by two of the top secret peace negotiators and speculation that a settlement is pending in the 11-year-old conflict.

Condominium Market Booms

by KURT BAER

Five years ago a condominium was something a graying retired couple bought in Florida when they were ready to stroll the sunset years.

Today townhouse and apartment condominiums are the hottest items on the suburban real estate market, so popular in fact that they may be spelling an end to the large apartment complexes that have been built here over the past 10 years.

Four major multi-family developments are on the drawing boards now, scheduled to come before the Arlington Heights Plan Commission in the next two months. Together they represent 720 new dwelling units and they are all condominiums.

Representative of the swing to condominiums is the experience of land developer Plato Foulas who two years ago became involved with the Randhaven project in Arlington Heights.

RANDHAVEN HAD been in and out of various village committees since 1967 when Foulas became interested in the project and finally won village board approval of 336 apartment units for the 28-acre site at the southeast corner of Rand Road and Rte. 53.

Today Plato Foulas and Co. is ready to break ground for Randhaven but he no longer plans to build apartment units. Instead he has sought and won village board authorization to convert his development entirely to condominiums.

The forces behind the condominium building boom, not surprisingly, are largely economic. The large, high-rise apartment complex is becoming a kind of economic dinosaur in today's rapidly evolving housing market. They are increasingly less attractive to developers and tenants alike for the simple reason that they cost too much.

"Condominiums portend a trend for developers growing up and becoming entrepreneurs," Foulas says. "Many of the real estate tax advantages once afforded developers have been eroded and I think still more are going to be changed in the future."

As land and construction costs spiral upward developers have been forced to charge higher and higher rents to meet their costs and realize a profit.

In many cases rents have climbed to a point where the apartment dweller finds it not only more attractive but actually month-to-month less expensive to buy his apartment rather than rent it.

"One aspect of condominium apartments is economic necessity. Higher land prices and percentage cost of construction means developers can get a better return on a sale rather than a rental program. Rents are so high they are less marketable today," says developer Jerry Falcon of Fidelity Builders which is planning a 253-unit condominium development near Surrey Ridge West.

BUYING ALSO affords certain tax advantages which renting does not have and this too, Foulas believes, is leading more people into the condominium market.

"The overall trend is government policy and tax benefits is toward individual homeownership. But not everyone can afford to buy a single family home so the condominium becomes an attractive substitute," Foulas says.

On a $33,000 condominium townhouse, a prospective buyer typically would be required to make little more than 10 per cent downpayment, and could finance the rest at a charge of 7-7½ per cent interest, Foulas says.

"With his premium, insurance and real estate taxes the condominium buyer might pay $275-$280 per month. Why should he pay $325 a month to rent an apartment of comparable size?" Foulas says.

Falcon believes there is also a new type of buyer becoming increasingly prominent in Arlington Heights' housing market. These are the so-called "empty nesters" and include older couples whose family has left the house and young couples who may have one or no children.

"Arlington Heights is going through a cycle where there's a need for housing for the empty nester who likes home ownership but doesn't want the maintenance responsibilities," Falcon says.

Generally, Falcon says, the apartment condominium buyer is an older couple whose children, if any, have grown and left the house while the townhouse condominium buyer is often a young couple.

"Townhouses are frequently the least expensive type of housing young families can buy. Many of them are less than rent," he says.

Foulas thinks condominium buyers are also looking for convenience and security in their choice of a home.

THERE IS A greater freedom and flexibility in the person's time because the outside maintenance is generally taken care of through a private contract between a landscaper and the condominium association, he says.

"Condominiums allow you to lock your door and take off if you want to," Foulas says, noting growing security problems even in exclusive single-family developments.

Condominium living, as Foulas characterizes it, is "personal participation without the drudgery."

Whatever the alleged benefits of condominium living for the buyers, builders are convinced that, at least for the time being, condominiums are the thing for the Northwest suburbs.

For one thing, condominiums enable developers to "get in and get out" of a project, rather than assume the on-going maintenance and tax liability that goes along with an apartment project.

Condominium projects usually involve more careful site planning and better construction because they are tied to a sales rather than a rental program, Falcon says.

"The inclusion of on-site recreation facilities like swimming pools and tennis courts helps to take some of the pressure off similar facilities at schools and parks," he adds.

ALL OF THIS would seem to make condominiums more attractive to suburban city officials. And such is the case, according to Arlington Heights Village Planner Joe Kesler.

Kesler says he sees the trend toward condominiums, which he calls a national phenomenon, as "a very healthy thing."

Besides the tax advantages of ownership, he notes that good condominium projects frequently appreciate in value much the way single family homes often do.

And the fact that maintenance is provided for by the condominium association greatly insures that condominium projects will be well kept, he says.

As for the danger of over-building, Kesler has figured that with zoning areas already in existence, there is a potential for 3,600 new condominium units in Arlington Heights.

This excludes the possibility of condominiums on the land now owned by Arlington Park Race Track.

THE REAL ESTATE development business, Foulas says, has always been one of "boom or bust" and he believes the condominium craze is no different.

Yet, in the perspective of all new construction now being started, condominium starts are "just a drop in the bucket," he says.

Falcon also believes the housing market will eventually "recycle" but he adds "condominiums are going to be around for a while."

And it would seem that, in Arlington Heights at least, with four major new projects pending, the condominium's golden age is just beginning to dawn.

Republicans To Be Put On Picnic Auction Block

Area persons may rent a Republican Saturday at the annual picnic of the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township (ROOST). Hoffman Estates Republicans will also compete against Hanover Park and Schaumburg Republicans to retain their title in a softball tournament.

Approximately 20 township Republicans will be on the auction block at the picnic in Deer Grove Forest Preserve, Quentin and Dundee roads, beginning at 11 a.m.

Republicans to be auctioned for one hour of work to the highest bidder include Donald L. Totten, candidate for state representative from the 3rd District; Mrs. Virginia Hayter, Hoffman Estates trustee; Mrs. Susan Armstrong, deputy committeewoman from Hoffman Estates.

Mrs. Sally Catlin, Schaumburg Township committeewoman; Bill Hall, Precinct 20 captain; Bill Cowin, Hoffman Estates trustee; Ed Hennessy, Hoffman Estates trustee; Bill Hogan, vice-president of ROOST; John Jensen, township auditor.

Mrs. Diane Jensen, Hoffman Estates trustee; Mrs. Sharon Kimble, treasurer of ROOST; Vern Leubenstein, Schaumburg Township supervisor; Scott MacEachron, township assessor.

Mrs. Beverly Rank, corresponding secretary of ROOST; Karl Schroeder, president of ROOST; Dan Stowe, township auditor; Pete Wing, township clerk, and Kay Wojcik, township clerk.

In the softball tournament, the Hanover Park team will play the Schaumburg team during the first round. The winner of the game then will play the Hoffman Estates team for the championship.

Captain of the Hoffman Estates softball team is Carl Shoemaker. Dan Stowe captains the Hanover Park team and Pete Wing leads the Schaumburg team.

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS of the picnic include two pie-eating contests. A clown and a dragon will organize children's games at the picnic site. The clown and the dragon will be donated by the restaurant, St. George and the Dragon of Hanover Park.

Republican precinct captains are selling tickets to the picnic, for $3 per family. The cost entitles the entire family to an unlimited amount of roast beef, baked beans, potato salad, rolls, ice cream, soft drinks and beer.

A limited number of tickets also will be available at the picnic.

From The Library

by MARK CLARK

(Today begins a new column on library features written by Mary Clark, administrative librarian at the Elk Grove Village Public Library.)

Meadow or jam-packed city street, where you live and how you live is getting the eye from authors ready to offer advice from the blunt and practical (join a church in your new community — it looks good) to the breathtakingly blithe (don't sweat the population crisis — we'll pull through somehow.)

The advice is free — in some of the newest books at the Elk Grove Village Public Library.

"Buying and Renovating a House in The City" by Deirdre Stanforth and Martha Stamm is a practical guide to the finding, financing, buying, renovating and maintaining of old city houses. One section tours famous renovated neighborhoods in Atlanta, San Francisco, Chicago and other cities.

Rows of brownstones and decaying sections of cities come in for criticism in another book, "The Crowding Syndrome" by Caroline Bird. The author of "Born Female" says that our systems of living won't stand the pressures of increased population so we must find other ways of dealing with "too much and too many." She suggests shrinking things, moving faster and thinking bigger, among other things.

"Your Vacation Home," by William E. Hague offers suggestions on what type of house to build or buy, what utilities you need, how to landscape and decorate for minimum maintenance, how to open and close for the season, and a host of details.

If you prefer camper-type vacations, "Meals on Wheels" by Loyta Wooding has recipes streamlined for easy cooking in tiny kitchens and over campfires, arranged by seasons of the year. Some of it is downright gourmet.

Before you decide to move into the country permanently, read "Buying Country Property" by Irving Price. A real estate broker, Price points out for city types all the pitfalls of country real estate investment, including property taxes, zoning, utilities, availability of construction workers, making a living in the country, and retiring to a development.

If your neighborhood seems pretty good, "Properly Power" by Mary Anne Guitier can help keep it that way with accounts of successful grass-roots campaigns to keep communities out of the hands of spoilers who would industrialize, build highways, ruin the ecology and expand, expand, expand.

If nothing else can help, "I've had it! A Practical Guide to Moving Abroad" by Robert Hopkins is for you. Chapters on what countries to go to and what the difficulties will be, how to leave the U.S. and how to get a job in your new country, and what you should do about your children's education should set the would-be expatriate on the right paths.

THE AUTO THAT CRASHED into Lake Rossiter early yesterday morning after veering from Rte. 53 near Palatine Road, emerges from the man-made lake. James Otis, driver of the car, and his wife Mary, escaped injury when they crawled out of the car windows to safety. Otis apparently fell asleep at the wheel, police said. State trooper Richard Turner, in the car, searched the waters for several hours before the vehicle was discovered. Palatine fireman Joe Pannhausen is shown assisting in the salvage operation.

Pair Narrowly Escapes Watery Death

A Palatine couple narrowly escaped death early Wednesday after the car in which they were riding went off Illinois Rte. 53, down a steep embankment and into Lake Rossiter, just west of Palatine.

James D. Otis, 29, of 259 Boynton Dr., and his wife, Mary E., 28, emerged from the car without assistance. They were shaken but apparently uninjured.

Their 1971 red Chevrolet Impala later was retrieved from the 80-foot deep lake, about 70 feet from shore. The lake is more than 150 feet from the highway.

Palatine Police Lt. Frank Ortiz said the Otises were "lucky people. If they had the window closed with the air conditioning on, they would still be in there," he said as the car was pulled from the murky water.

The couple escaped by crawling through a window during the five to seven minutes that the car was afloat, making their way to shore, and up the embankment where they hailed Trooper Greg Fritz of the Illinois State Police.

FRITZ SAID if the couple had been injured and unable to get up to the highway, "nobody would have found them till morning." The accident occurred at 2:10 a.m.

State police said Otis apparently dozed while driving southbound in the right-hand lane of Illinois Rte. 53, about half a mile south of Palatine Road.

The car, traveling an estimated 60 m.p.h., veered off the highway, where there is no barrier, and gained additional momentum as it went down the 20-foot embankment.

Otis was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. He also was charged with not having an Illinois driver's license.

Seek Way To Personalize Teaching

by CINDY TEW

Take a dozen teachers, throw them together for a month and ask them to come up with methods of personalizing teaching, and there's going to be fireworks.

And it's been a long, hot month in the air-conditioned conference room on the third floor of St. Viator High School.

The teachers, along with the administrators of St. Viator will put a new, almost radical, teaching approach to work in a few weeks.

Teachers knew they were stepping into the unknown when they signed their contracts last spring. They knew teaching was no longer going to be a personal operation and their private teaching methods would be challenged. And so far no one has quit.

TEACHERS WERE divided into four "schools," each with a different area of emphasis, and the teams have worked closely to build their school. The programs include:

—Social studies in which students will study man in relation to his society.

—Science in which technology will influence courses of the curriculum.

—Humanities in which students will study man and his culture.

—A traditional program, which will be essentially the same program St. Viator has always had, with no special emphasis on any subject.

"A GROUP DECISION has to be a compromise," said a member of the social studies faculty. As discussion proceeded, the sentence proved to be an understatement.

The Otises refused medical treatment and were taken home.

The effort to retrieve the car began at 6 a.m., but divers were unable to spot the car in the muddy water.

TWO FIREMEN from the Palatine Rural Fire Dept. later located the car with a hook dropped from a rowboat.

Divers Richard Turner of the Illinois

State Police and Lance Bedini of the Palatine Police, attached hooks to the vehicle, and it was pulled from the water by a tow truck.

Turner, a diver for 15 years, said later the effort was the "hardest" he had encountered, because of the depth and coldness of the water, and the lack of visibility.

Investigate Brothers In Connection With Murder

Chicago police planned Wednesday to administer lie detector tests in connection with the Barrington Hills murders to two brothers arrested with a stolen car.

Police said the pair, identified as John Egan, 25, and James Egan, 29, told them they could name three men who committed the four murders.

The bodies of retired insurance executive Paul Corbett, his wife, her daughter and sister, were found Aug. 5 in the Corbett's luxurious home in Barrington Hills, an exclusive suburb west of Chicago.

Chief John Killackey of the Chicago police criminal investigations division said checks were being made on the leads provided by the brothers, but that lie detector tests also would be administered.

The Egans were arrested Tuesday night in a Chicago garage with a stolen car, police said.

Barrington Hills police could provide no details, but confirmed that police were checking out leads in connection with the Egan brothers.

Suspect In Attempted Murder Gives Self Up

Daniel L. McGladdery, 19, charged with attempted murder after an incident early Tuesday morning in Hoffman Estates, surrendered Tuesday evening to the Niles Police Department.

The Lombard resident was released Wednesday morning after posting bond, reduced from $50,000 to $20,000 in a hearing in the Niles Branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

A warrant for McGladdery's arrest was issued Tuesday after he allegedly tried to run down an officer of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEG) during a drug arrest at the home of Charles E. Deering, 19, of 442 Bode Rd., Hoffman Estates. The warrant charged him with attempted murder and delivery of a controlled substance.

Police still are seeking an unidentified female, allegedly in the auto with McGladdery when he escaped arrest while officers fired at the car.

McGLADDERY AND FOUR other suburban residents facing drug charges are to be arraigned at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in the court rooms in Niles.

Other defendants and the charges they face are Deering, delivery of a controlled substance; Richard Alan Pain, 19, of 4700 Arbor Dr., Rolling Meadows, delivery of marijuana; Linda Marie Moser, 18, and Carl J. Isenberg, 17, both of 6654 Pine-tree, Hanover Park, delivery of a controlled substance, police said. All have posted bond.

MEG agents said they first arranged the purchase of drugs from the Hanover Park residents, and arrests there led them to Hoffman Estates. Deering's arrest then led the agents to Pain, said Niles Police Chief Clarence Emrikson, MEG spokesman.

In the arrests, the agents confiscated marijuana, amphetamines and LSD with an estimated total street value of $3,500, said Emrikson.

Cassette Tapes Now At Library

Cassette tapes have been added to the circulating materials of the Elk Grove Village Public Library.

A total of 120 tapes were purchased recently and the library board at Tuesday's meeting approved the circulation of the tapes for one-week loan periods. A fine of five cents a day will be charged for overdue tapes.

Records and films were also put on a one-week loan period.

The library has also purchased six cassette players, four monaural and two stereo units. These units will be available for patrons to play tapes in the library.

The board is considering a circulating policy for the monaural units.

The board approved a policy permitting the library an option on whether to purchase books at a patron's request.

their present school under the district's "open transfer" policy.

In the letter sent to the school principals, Erviti outlined the boundary changes as:

"John Jay Area: Remove the DeMucci Apartment complex located along Golf Road and attach the area bounded on the east by Oakwood Drive, on the south by Palm Drive, to Tamarack (Drive) and Tamarack (Drive) to Thornwood (Lane) and along the line of Thornwood (Lane) to Goebbert Road, and the west by Goebbert Road to Forest View School. Remove the area of Gate House and Village Green (apartments), the area west of Goebbert Road and south of Seeger Road and attach it to Forest View."

"ROBERT FROST (School) Area: Remove the area east of Linneman Road and east of a line described by the center of South Church Road from Linneman Road to Ash Drive, and then along the rear lot line of homes facing Lancaster Avenue to Golf Road. (This will detach all of Diamond Point (subdivision), all of the Huntington Commons (development), and all of the Pickwick (housing area), plus some older homes)."

"Attach to Brentwood School all the territory north of a line from Linneman Road along the center of Huntington Commons (Road) to Elmhurst Road."

"Attach to High Ridge Knolls (School) all territory east of Linneman (Road), south of the center line of Huntington Commons (Road), west of Elmhurst Road, and north of Dempster (Street)."

Free transportation will be furnished to the K-5 buildings from areas remote to the schools and where hazardous street crossings are involved.

In the letter, Erviti said he expects no change in the junior high school boundaries.

Carpeting Worth $150,000 Stolen

An estimated $150,000 to $200,000 worth of carpeting, belonging to Walter Carpet Mills of Elk Grove Village, was stolen from O'Hare Warehouse Inc., 2300 Devon Ave., Elk Grove Village Tuesday.

The burglary was discovered by Cook County Deputy J. Green, who noticed a window over a door was ajar while checking the building.

The warehouse had been locked up by the county sheriff's office on a court order because of a contract dispute between Walter Carpet Mills and O'Hare Warehouse.

County Board Committee OKs Strong Pollution Bill

A Cook County Board committee yesterday approved new, more stringent regulations on air pollution, but delayed action on a noise abatement ordinance for the county.

The new air pollution ordinance will bring the county regulations in line with those enforced by the state once the county board gives the ordinance formal approval.

The public service committee delayed action on the proposed noise and vibration regulation until September at the suggestion of Commissioner Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines. Fulle questioned whether the proposed noise regulations might not be redundant of already existing disturbance of the peace laws.

He said the commissioners needed additional time to digest the proposed ordinance and objections presented yesterday by truck, snowmobile and lawn mower manufacturers.

Moreover, he noted that while the county is setting decibel levels for noises from trucks and other land machinery, residents of the area within a five-mile radius of O'Hare International Airport must endure "an average noise level of up to 100 decibels."

"What about a noise ordinance for O'Hare Field?" Fulle said.

The new air pollution control ordinance will reduce allowable smoke emissions from No. 2 on the Ringelmann chart for measuring smoke darkness to No. 1.

SAMUEL BOORAS, director of the county department of environmental control, explained that the new county law will exceed state regulations in two respects.

Booras said the state law waives a violation despite smoke darkness in cases, where a "stack test" shows that the number of particles suspended in the smoke are below the legal limit.

The county will not allow such a waiver, Booras said, because it would weaken application of the new air pollution control law.

The county regulation on particles in smoke would limit particles to one-tenth grain per standard cubic foot of exhaust gases. That is another limitation that exceeds state regulations.

During discussion on the proposed noise and vibration regulations, Booras said the county's proposed law is similar to one adopted by the city of Chicago.

HE SAID FEDERAL officials have found the proposed county law to be in conformance with anticipated federal regulations on noise levels for machinery manufacture.

Representatives of engine manufacturers, tractor companies, truckers, farm machinery producers, snowmobile firms, companies that make lawn mowers, and stone quarry operators testified before the committee on the proposed noise regulations.

Several speakers asked the county to leave setting of standards of manufacture of specific machinery up to the federal government. They asked the county to concentrate instead on regulating the noise produced by a user in relation to the specific location where a machine is used.

'Behave,' Judge Chides Hanrahan Trial Lawyers

Attorneys in the conspiracy trial of Cook County States Atty Edward V. Hanrahan were under judge's orders yesterday to "comport themselves like professionals" after the chief prosecutor reported he was threatened by Hanrahan and his brother.

Barnabas Sears told Circuit Court Judge Philip Romit that defendant Hanrahan and his brother William, who has been a spectator at the seven-week trial, threatened him as he was leaving the courtroom after Tuesday's morning session.

Sears said William Hanrahan approached him and said "Class," a sarcastic epithet meaning presumably that Sears lacked "class."

SEARS TOLD the judge he turned to ask what he meant when Edward Hanrahan interrupted and said, "I'll take care of you when this case is over."

Sears said Edward Hanrahan has called him "fraud" several times since the trial started and that he wished to make the remarks a portion of the court record.

Camillo Volini, an attorney representing Hanrahan, told the judge that he was "unaware" of the alleged remarks by his client. A moment later, after stepping to the defense table for a word with Hanrahan, Volini denied the threats were ever made.

Romit halted all discussion of the incident and cautioned attorneys from both sides "to comport yourselves like the professionals you are."

When the trial resumed, defense attorney Thomas Sullivan continued to attack the testimony of Black Panther Harold Bell, whom he called a "deliberate liar" in cross-examination.

THE DEFENSE SEEKS to show Bell lied when he testified last week and in his earlier statements that he handled no guns during a 1969 police raid on a Black Panther apartment.

Bell also has insisted that Panthers were not required to stand guard duty at the apartment during the night.

"What I'm proving now is that this witness is a deliberate liar," Sullivan said. "The defense may squirm if they like but that's a fact."

The remark was stricken from the record at Sears' suggestion and the judge's permission.

Hanrahan and his codefendants are charged with conspiring to obstruct justice by altering evidence following the raid which left Panther leaders Mark Clark and Fred Hampton dead of police bullets.

Nixon's Plan Is Rejected

Development Plan Is 'Dead'

by DANIEL RAPOPORT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An ambitious plan by President Nixon to create a new Department of Community Development is dead, the victim of special interests in industry, Congress and probably the government itself.

Its burial ground seems to be split between the Senate, which has shown little interest in the plan, and the House Rules Committee.

After lengthy hearings, a bill to gather a passel of existing agencies into the new department cleared the House Government Operations Committee on May 25. It has been languishing in the Rules Committee ever since.

Government Operations Chairman Chet Holifield said the legislation apparently was marked for extinction after seven of his fellow chairmen went to Speaker Carl Albert and gave at least seven reasons why they thought it should not get the clearance for floor action that Holifield was seeking in the Rules panel.

HOLIFIELD SAID he could not recall all of the seven Democratic chairmen who supposedly did him in but he did mention Rep. W. R. Poage of Agriculture, John Blatnik of Public Works, Wayne Aspinall of Interior, Wright Patman of Banking and Currency, George Mahon of Appropriations and Carl Perkins of Education and Labor.

Although the bill passed Government Operations Committee on a 27 to 7 vote opposition was greater than appeared.

Farm interests were not happy over the prospect of seeing rural development programs taken from the familiar and friendly confines of the Agriculture Department to the untested waters of a new home. Friends of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), which has problems surviving on its best days, figured the agency would soon disappear if it lost its current independent status and was tucked into a mammoth department.

Transportation interests reportedly were not overjoyed at seeing mass transit and other community transportation programs moved from the Department of Transportation, where they were transferred only a few years ago from other parts of government.

AND SO ON WITH the other elements of government that would be affected. Fighting their battles on Capitol Hill were the committee chairmen who exercise jurisdiction over the programs now but who probably would not under the reorganization.

During their hearings, members of the Government Operations Committee mostly from departmental witnesses sent by the administration. Opponents found they could be more effective outside the Government operations Committee and the offices of other committees.

Asked what the bill's chances were now, Holifield said glumly: "I don't think they're very good."

He appeared a bit annoyed that considerable investment in time by himself, his fellow committee members and staff were going for naught. But he did not seem personally heartbroken over the demise of the proposal.

"I'VE DONE MY part," said the Democratic chairman, of a Republican administration plan.

The measure could be revived next year — in the event President Nixon is reelected or George McGovern takes a shine to it.

But now its fate illustrates what amounts to an adage around Washington: The only constituencies government reorganization proposals can count on in the crunch are Presidents and government professors.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

When a raise to one trick from game may be passed it stands to reason that the jump to game must be stronger. When the raise cannot be passed the bid becomes a dual type. It may be a very weak bid or it may be the start of a slam sequence.

North's three-spade call was one of these temporizing bids. He just wanted to hear South rebid to four spades to show that he really had spades and wasn't making some ultra fancy forcing bid.

South did rebid to four spades and then North took full charge. He used Blackwood to check on aces and kings and finally went to seven spades on the theory that one of his partner's kings just had to be in spades and it didn't really matter where the other two showed up.

South won the spade lead in his own hand and quickly counted 12 top tricks. The 13th would come if he could just ruff a heart in his hand or a diamond in dummy. He was looking at a total of just five hearts as against six diamonds so at trick two he led a heart to dummy's ace; then he ruffed a heart high and drew trumps. The 4-1 break did not bother him since he had started with five top trumps in the combined hands.

Real Estate Tax Deadline
Is Sept. 1

Sept. 1 is the deadline for the second installment of real estate taxes to be paid to the Cook County treasurer's office.

County Treasurer Bernard J. Korzen has issued a reminder to residents about the deadline. Penalties of one per cent per month of the amount of taxes due are assessed if a taxpayer does not meet the deadline.

Early payment of the second installment of a tax bill will help local taxing bodies retire outstanding tax anticipation warrants and result in a savings overall, Korzen said.

So far $836,968,225 has been collected in real estate tax payments this year. Total billing for the county is $1.4 billion.

Assessor's Hearings To Continue Today

Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton's hearings on classifying real estate for tax assessment purposes will continue today in Chicago.

Among those scheduled to testify in today's session of the public hearings are representatives of the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry, the Better Cities Committee of Illinois, the Society of American Registered Architects (Illinois State Council), the Illinois Society of Architects and the Chicago Residential Hotel Association.

Cullerton's office is conducting the public hearings in the Cook County Board chambers in the County Building.

The hearings are being held to help the assessor decide how different types of real estate — such as single-family homes, apartments, offices, commercial and industrial buildings — should be assessed for tax purposes in relation to their true market value.

The new Illinois Constitution allows such classification of property.

The

by Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There has been talk around town that some of the political analysts who have been casting stones at George McGovern have ulterior motives.

These pundits, it is said, bear malice toward the Democratic presidential candidate because he made them look bad by winning the nomination after they had said he didn't have a chance.

Hell hath no fury like a political analyst whose prophecy goes sour, it is said. Hence the pundits took great glee in picturing McGovern's handling of his vice presidential tribulations in the worst possible light.

I am only a simple country boy, unversed in the ways of the wicked world, and I know nothing of these matters first hand.

But I have a friend, Ebenezer McAugur, who is a pundit of sorts, so I sought his guidance.

"EB," I SAID, "you were one of the first political analysts to recognize that George McGovern's quest for the Democratic nomination was a hopeless undertaking. In the light of subsequent developments, do you now feel you may have underestimated his prospects?"

"Certainly not," McAugur snapped. "I am more convinced than ever that McGovern had no chance."

I asked, "then what went wrong?" McAugur's face darkened. "Treachery," he said in a hard voice. "Any candidate in a hopeless situation should do the honorable thing and drop out of the race. But McGovern proved he can't be trusted to do what's right and proper."

I said, "Why do you think he persisted in the campaign, knowing he faced certain doom?"

"I believe that's rather obvious," McAugur replied. "He stayed in the race in a deliberate and calculated effort to undermine the credibility of us pundits."

I REMINDED McAugur that early in the campaign he was predicting that Muskie would win the nomination. "Do you think that Muskie's nose dive was part of the plan to tarnish your reputation?" I asked.

McAugur's eyes narrowed in suspicion. "And later on," I continued, "you said Humphrey was unbeatable. Was his collapse connected with the move to discredit your predictions?"

"That's it!" McAugur cried.

"The whole thing was a conspiracy. Every Democrat in the race must have been out to get me."

So if you see predictions of a McGovern landslide in November, you'll know that the pundits are seeking revenge.

Union Man's Decision: Will It Be Nixon Or McGovern?

by BARRY SIGALE

The guys who helped build your home — the carpenter, the bricklayer, the plumber — have a gut decision ahead of them.

And so do the people who fix your car, pave your streets and the millions of other persons throughout the United States who toil and struggle under the labor union label.

Their decision? Whether to break from the traditional leanings toward the Democratic Party which became popular with the reign of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt and vote for a Republican President.

Labor now speaks of Democratic presidential hopeful George McGovern as they spoke of President Nixon and most of the other GOP presidential candidates since FDR's New Deal wiggled the country out of the Depression.

Historically, on the national level, the views of organized labor consistently have been given a warmer reception by the Democrats than by the Republicans. The New Deal resulted in a full-scale crusade of reform in which organized labor played a significant part. It was at this point that the political sentiment of labor leaders and most union members became identified with the Democratic Party.

THE LABOR MOVEMENT took much credit for the reelection of FDR and it was evident in 1960 that it had a great deal to do with the election of President Kennedy. Now, that support the party long enjoyed may be slipping.

The split in the ranks is evident in the Northwest suburbs, where a major organization is being formed, a committee to reelect Nixon and also make a two-time winner of Gov. Ogilvie. The movement, which will focus on union members in the all-encompassing Chicago and Cook County Building and Construction Trades Council and on members of other labor organizations, will benefit from the breakaway Democratic party followers who dislike McGovern.

The most dramatic defection from the traditional Democratic loyalty was the AFL-CIO executive council decision to back no presidential candidate this year, the first time the massive union conglomerate has not backed a Democrat. That was followed by a Nixon endorsement from the 2.1 million member independent Teamsters Union, and a bitter denunciation of McGovern by Teamsters Pres. Frank Fitzsimmons.

McGovern remains hopeful in spite of those grim tidings, saying he still might get the support of 10 million of the AFL-CIO's 13.5 million members by election day. And this week leaders of 25 unions within the AFL-CIO formed a committee to help elect McGovern and running mate Sargent Shriver.

But however the in-fighting among union leaders goes, it still will be the independent-thinking rank-and-file man who will decide labor's role in electing the next president.

The drift of those rank-and-files, in random interviews around the Northwest suburbs, increasingly is to speak of McGovern with four-letter words, when they're not so mad at him that they're tongue-tied. And Nixon can sit back and tell the American people he needs another four years to carry out the programs he began in 1969, like ending the war in Southeast Asia, straightening the economy and generally "righting" wrong.

That's how they speak in the construction pits and the back shops where the bulk of union membership works.

Nixon's a good politician but I don't think he's going to end the war. We'll probably stay there. Money is everything.

AT THE SITE OF THE Strathmore housing development in Buffalo Grove, a Levitt and Son project, they grunt about both aspirants, but mainly it's McGovern who suffers from the most damaging remarks.

"McGovern? I can take him or leave him." That's their sentiment wrapped in a nutshell.

Howard Harlan is 22, married with one daughter and lives in Mundelein. The member of Carpenters Local Union #61 in Highland Park is an Army veteran and it's the war issue that will sway him to vote for Nixon.

"Nixon has done a lot for the country," Harlan said during a lunch break Monday at the Strathmore site. "At least he's done more than any of the presidents before him. He's done a good job. He's trying to end the war as best he knows how. I can't believe anyone would not want to end the war, as Shriver said. There's not much left to say about the war that hasn't been said before. I don't want to see anyone killed."

Harlan wondered aloud how anyone could please all 200,000,000 people in the country and concluded that you can't, but that Nixon would have an easier time pleasing more people than McGovern.

"I won't vote for McGovern," he said. "He's always see-sawing back and forth. I can't see a guaranteed wage, like I understand McGovern wants to do. Why should I work and somebody else who doesn't work get paid? It's impossible for taxes to go down like McGovern promised. If guaranteed income went into effect taxes would have to go up."

For Harlan, the state of the economy also makes him mad. "The economy is not too good," he said. "You can work 40 hours a week and not be able to buy anything."

Harlan gave two examples of how his opinion of the economy became what it is. He said that while living in Virginia Beach, Va., he lived in a two bedroom, air-conditioned apartment by the ocean for $125 a month. In the Chicago-area, he said, a similar apartment costs $210 a month.

"I can't believe that 25 per cent of what I make goes for rent. It shouldn't be more than 20 per cent. I can't believe it." The other example, though minor, points up his argument. Three years ago, he said, it cost him $5 for a nail pouch. Now it cost him $8 for the same pouch from the same company. His salary has gone up in that same time from $5.75 an hour to $7.65.

For fellow carpenter, 50-year-old Chester Blevons of Crystal Lake, the economy also is a sore spot. And he would like things to return to like it was in the good old days.

"I WISH IT WAS the way it was back then, back in 1934," Blevons said. "Then, when you made a buck it was worth a dollar."

Blevons, who rents a home and is married and supports three children, became a Democratic voter because his family voted that way for years. And he referred back to those years during FDR's terms as president and expressed a desire to see as good a man as the former president elected today.

"Roosevelt did a good job for the country," Blevons said. "The way I look at it if a man does a good job he should be elected. He can only try his best. Roosevelt took the kids off the street and gave them jobs, forming the Civil Conservation Corps, the CCC. He was a good man and a good man will keep getting voted in. Nixon has done a pretty good job but I'm still going to vote for McGovern."

According to 37-year-old bricklayer Marty Nelson of Round Lake Beach, "There's a little of b.s. behind everyone," but President Nixon is "the better of the bunch" and he's going to vote for him.

Nelson, a member of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers International Union Local 21, said he doesn't think either candidate can win the war and that neither candidate can help the unions. "McGovern? I can take him or leave him."

A PLUMBER WORKING on the other side of the construction site could leave McGovern. He said he thinks the country should stick behind Nixon.

"The president has done a good job since he's been in. He's bringing the war to an end. Hanoi is running out of steam. We should stick behind him."

He also feels "party politics should be removed when it comes to national security. What Ramsey Clark said in broadcasts on Hamlet radio borders on treason. If this was a declared war by the U.S., Clark should have been shot."

As his fellow workers, he feels the state of the economy could be improved. "I don't agree with all the raises workers have been getting, especially the trades. It's not just the plumber's union but other unions also. They've gone a little too far. Raises are too big. If raises wouldn't be so high prices wouldn't go up as much."

Born in Germany, he came to the United States in 1956. He is 34 years old now with a wife and two kids and lives in Schiller Park. He just came back from a visit to Europe, including stops in Germany, Austria, Hungary, Romania and Holland.

"I'm glad to be home," he said with a wide grin. "Life in some of those countries is horrible. In Hungary people are so poor they don't know how poor they are. And in Romania it borders on slavery. And in the more progressive countries, like Germany, plumbers like myself never make it as we do here, having a house and other things. You can accumulate more here."

IN THE BACK SHOP at Schmerler Ford, Inc., in Elk Grove Village, "Blackie" was talking about the ruination of the Democratic Party and his dislike for McGovern.

"The Democrats ruined their own party," said Blackie, whose real name is Richard Wojcik, 45, who lives with his wife and four children in Des Plaines. "To start with the split (with all the candidates vying for the nomination) hurt them. They tore themselves apart."

Blackie said he never liked Nixon and didn't vote for him in the past, that he didn't like Minnesota Sen. Hubert Humphrey and that he doesn't like McGovern either.

"I don't like the way the man talks," Blackie said of McGovern. "He says a lot but says nothing." Blackie says he'll vote for Nixon.

"He's a good politician," he said. "But I don't think he's going to end the war. We'll probably stay there. Money is everything. There's an old saying, 'You've got to have war to have prosperity.' Nixon has pulled a lot of men out, but he'll probably send more in after the election."

Blackie said he is satisfied with the economy and with the salary and benefits he has at Schmerler, gotten mainly through a strong union, Auto Mechanics Union Local 701.

"THE GUYS ARE satisfied with our business here. The average pay for a mechanic here is around $16,000 to $18,000. But we are mostly degraded people. People think we are ignorant. Few people give us the benefit of the doubt. That's changing a little bit, now, though. Even so, my neighbor wears a business suit to work every day. He makes $11,000 a year. And he looks down on ME!" Blackie concluded.

Fellow worker Vic Graziadei, 27, also feels the Democratic Party proved to be its own worst enemy this year. And he thinks the dumping of Missouri Sen. Thomas Eagleton was the straw that broke the camel's back.

"They should never have dropped him (Eagleton)," Graziadei said. "Hell, the whole world's got the problem (with mental health). A person can work too hard."

Graziadei, who is married with one child and lives in Chicago, said he will vote for Nixon in November because "there's no one else to vote for. Nixon inherited a bad situation. And "I wish it was the way back then, back in 1934.

Then, when you made a buck it was worth a dollar."

McGovern's talk of a guaranteed income is ridiculous. I'm not going to hustle my tail off when other people who don't work get all kinds of benefits."

OUT ON THE HIGHWAY, a county road worker talks mainly of the war and the eventual peace that will come with Nixon as President, and that it will happen before Nov. 7.

"Nixon has tried in the past 3 1/2 years to end the war," he said. "He has brought the number of men down from about 555,000 to where it's practically nil today. He's certainly tried harder to end the war than either (President Lyndon) Johnson or President (John) Kennedy. And I think the war will be over by Nov. 7. It's just a shame they play politics with people's lives."

What about McGovern? "I don't like his looks and I don't like the man's tactics. Personally, I would have liked to have seen (Washington Sen. Henry) Jackson or (Maine Sen. Edmund) Muskie as the Democrats' choice."

Taking it a step further, he said, "I wish Mayor Daley was in there (the White House). He reminds me of Teddy Roosevelt, a man of action. When he said something he did it. He was a man with spunk. He didn't take anything from anybody."

He also thinks Nixon's running mate, Vice President Spiro Agnew, would make a good president and that he may get his chance in 1976. "Agnew isn't afraid of anybody. He speaks what he thinks and doesn't take any bull. He should be president."

THESE TWO MEMBERS of the carpenter's union and the millions of other rank and file union members throughout the country are struggling this year on whether to follow the traditional pattern of voting for the Democratic Party's aspirant for president, Sen. George McGovern, or switch to President Nixon in November.

MAKE PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS PART OF YOUR DAILY LIFE

Watching kids change makes teaching fun, says Gerald Petersen, Conant High School.

'Favorite Teacher' Styles Varied

by BETSY BROOKER
First of Three Parts

School days have blurred into a hazy collage of bells, carved desk tops, recess and school chums for most adults.

But one thing stands out with the sharp clarity of a camera lens in focus. It's a favorite teacher. His face, his philosophy and what he did to touch you personally are still there, popping back into consciousness like a rerun of a popular film.

You favorite teacher wasn't just another figure ruling the classroom. He was a person, a friend, who helped shape your future, as well as led you through the routine of academics.

He might have been an easy-going jovial fellow, or he might have hit hard, demanding the most from his students. But he cared — he cared about his subject and he cared about his students. And he was willing to work for both.

Teaching wasn't a nine to five job for him. It was a dedication.

Gerald Petersen falls easily into the roll of good teachers. He moves between the work tables in his industrial arts class at Conant High School in Hoffman Estates like a coach pulling for his team — not a drill sergeant.

STRAIGHT LECTURES are rare in Petersen's class. He prefers the informality of a demonstration. Most of the time he teaches on a one to one basis, helping students individually with their projects.

When Petersen talks to a student he doesn't sound patronizing. He speaks at the student's level. It's a calm voice, one that listens, sounds firm at times but never shouts.

"You have to have a feeling for your students," said Petersen, "which takes patience. And you have to accept the fact they are going to make mistakes. Too many adults expect kids to be perfect."

Petersen's students say he is fair. "He laughs at our jokes and isn't always telling us to be quiet. He doesn't sit behind his desk like the ruler of the world."

Or, "if we're fooling around he gives us a warning. He doesn't send us to the office."

It's Petersen's philosophy to handle each discipline case individually and find the reason for the student's misbehavior. "First I ask them if they need help. I don't holler at them and I try to avoid embarrassing them." In most cases his counseling works. If it doesn't, he says it is important not to hold a grudge.

IS PETERSEN a soft touch? If student production is any sign, the answer is no. His students are working. Metal street signs, mailboxes and toolboxes are being turned out by the dozens.

The students like Petersen because he "treats us good," but also because he gives them something. "He helps you along," said one student.

And more than that, "he doesn't go strictly from the book but talks from his own interest . . . he explains what you are supposed to know so well you know it in your own terms . . . he makes it enjoyable."

The students prize Petersen for freedom: "He doesn't lecture all the time, but lets you work on your own said one student." Or, in more modern terms, "He lets you do your own thing."

Teaching for Petersen can be boiled down to a simple formula. He says he tries to "treat students the way I would like to be treated. I treat them with respect. If I give them my best, then they'll do the same for me."

Handling a younger crowd, Mrs. Jean Nowack takes a different approach, but the effect is the same. Her class of second graders at Greenbrier School in Arlington Heights is a beehive of happy children intent on a variety of activities.

The room is cluttered with colorful paper constructions, puppets, books, games and a reading corner complete with rug and rocking chair. There is much to do in Mrs. Nowack's class and the children love it.

"The atmosphere of a classroom is very important," says Mrs. Nowack. She believes every child is interested in something and it is her job to find out what it is and then help him learn more about it.

MRS. NOWACK shepherds her young charges like the proverbial mother hen. With a kind word, a pat on the head and a smile, she encourages the students to have fun and to learn. Happiness, she says, is discovery.

It's a playhouse and the grade school teacher is enjoying it as much as her students. A boy races up to announce he has learned all the state capitals. Mrs. Nowack drops what she is doing, picks up a handful of prompter cards and begins a quiz, lavishing him with praise every time he answers correctly. A crowd of students gathers around to watch the game and pick up some knowledge at the same time.

The quiz game, the science experiment in the corner and the writing workshop in the hall all come to a halt with the introduction of a student-produced puppet show. Learning, says Mrs. Nowack, doesn't have to be painful.

Wheeling High School teacher David Thiessen subscribes wholeheartedly to Mrs. Nowack's philosophy. Decked out in a sweatshirt with the message "physics is fun," Thiessen is a dynamo of enthusiasm.

But fun doesn't necessarily mean easy in Thiessen's classroom. He likes to give his students the responsibility of planning, so he passes out weekly worksheets. Heavy with homework assignments, but lightened with comics and jokes, the sheets are a portrait of the man. He is quick to demand and quick to reward.

"ANYONE WHO makes an effort can get a C in my course," said Thiessen.

He moves fast and speaks fast as he rigs up a couple of magnets to demonstrate the force of gravity. Most of his students move right with the pace, firing questions as he goes.

There's an electricity in the air radiating from Thiessen's enthusiasm. And it's this enthusiasm that embodies his teaching philosophy. "A teacher who isn't interested in what he is doing and doesn't like his subject," he says, "can't win the kids over."

But, he adds, the students should never have the upper hand. He says he keeps control with good preparation of material and early clarification of authority. "Kids always know how far they can push a teacher, so you have to set limits immediately and follow through."

Thiessen, Nowack, Petersen — they have different personalities and use different teaching techniques. But, one thing they have in common is success in the classroom. They're not superhuman or near perfect, but they have a special talent and the insight to know how to use it to the utmost.

Most teachers are in the gray area somewhere below these three models, struggling to improve or resigned to mediocrity. We forget them immediately — they never did really count. But the Nowacks, the Thiessens and the Petersens. They live on as one of many guideposts on the road to maturity.

(Friday: What do school administrators say is the secret of good teaching?)

Teaching shouldn't be all chalk-talk, says David Thiessen, Wheeling High School.

ICC May Reconsider Bell Rate Hike

The Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC) may consider a bid for rehearing of Illinois Bell Telephone Co.'s rate hike proposal when it reconvenes next week.

Still "shocked and deeply disappointed" by the commission's denial last Friday of the full service rate boost sought by the utility, Bell filed an application early this week with the ICC in Springfield for a rehearing.

The commission's Aug. 11 ruling allows only a 4 per cent rate increase for a selected number of Bell's services. It does not apply to basic service rates, a contrast to the 20 per cent general rate boost sought by the company.

The company's original request was for increased rates which would raise its annual revenues by $182 million. The commission order calls for increased revenues of $44,562,000.

Illinois Bell filed an application for a rehearing on Monday, according to a spokesman for the ICC in Springfield.

"THE COMMISSION can either grant or deny the application," the spokesman said. "If it is granted, a date will be set for rehearing. If it is denied there is nothing more they can do before the commission." ICC hearing examiner Robert Tarrel would set the hearing date if it is approved.

Bell's application for a rehearing labels the commission's decision as "unlawful, unreasonable and against the manifest weight of the evidence." The company claims that the ICC made several errors in its ruling.

Specific "errors" cited by Bell include: The fair rate of return on investment set at 7.33 per cent by the ICC is unsupported; no consideration of the downward trend in earnings; the "regulatory lag" in commission proceedings; the handling of testimony by federal and state general services representatives; an understated rate base.

THE INDEPENDENT Voters of Illinois (IVI), one of several intervenors in the Bell rate increase hearings, intends to file a petition for rehearing next week. A 30-day time limit following the ruling is in effect for such applications.

"Our response to the Bell's motion for reconsideration is that we agree that the commission did the right thing in its ruling," said IVI attorney Richard Means yesterday. "We agree with the commission on every count, but we think they should have gone even further." Means said he anticipates the IVI will go to court if its bid for a rehearing is denied.

Open Area McGovern Office

A regional McGovern for President campaign office has been opened at 1630 Miner St. in downtown Des Plaines. The office will serve as headquarters for U.S. Sen. George McGovern's Democratic presidential campaign in Maine Township and as a regional base for campaign efforts in suburban Cook as well as DuPage and Lake counties. The new headquarters, just a block from the office of the Maine Township Regular Republican organization, joins storefront campaign centers for U.S. Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., and for U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva, which have also located in the downtown area. The McGovern office regional operation is headed by Bob and Helen Bar-tee, with Mike Mogill heading up the local efforts in Maine Township. MOGILL SAYS A key reason for the choice of Des Plaines is its location in the heart of the new 18th Congressional District. "The 10th District has had tremendous interest in elections, with a high degree of voter turnout and involvement." Furthermore, he says, a large number of the area's Democrats live in Des Plaines and "that gives us a hub to work out of," Mogill said. Bar-tee calls the suburban vote crucial to McGovern's campaign. "In order to do well in Illinois, we have to do well in suburban Cook County," he says. "If we can make any substantial turnover among suburban voters, who traditionally are progressive Republicans and independents, then we can do well in Illinois." According to him, McGovern workers will cooperate closely with the campaigns of Mikva, who is opposing Republican Samuel Young, and with Democratic gubernatorial hopeful Dan Walker, who is trying to unseat Gov. Richard Ogilvie. Voter registration will be a prime focus of the McGovern campaign in Maine Township, as throughout the nation. Mogill says particular attention will be paid to the unincorporated areas of Des Plaines. "There are about 18,000 unregistered voters in Maine Township, and they could very well swing the election." The township has about 74,000 registered voters. The McGovern campaign will be divided into two phases, according to Mogill. In September it will focus on voter registration, with door-to-door canvassing in high priority areas. In October, the campaign will center on canvassing to pinpoint McGovern's supporters and get out the vote. FOR THE REST of August, the Des Plaines office will focus on organizing volunteers. Mogill has a goal of 400 local volunteers, and he expects to meet it. "If we can," he says, "we're going to do a tremendous job and we will have a very good chance of winning here." He adds that the volunteers recruited thus far cut across all age groups. "Only about 20 percent are students," he says. "The vast majority are working people." Mogill feels critical election issues in the Maine Township area will center on the economy. "Some people have already told me how upset they are by rising food prices," he says. "I expect that concern will continue throughout the campaign." Another key issue will be tax reform, he says.

Foreign Nations Tough About Use Of Drugs

by MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor
An American youth recently was sentenced to five years in jail by a court in Thailand for possession of LSD. An American girl is waiting trial in Italy on drug charges that could get her up to eight years behind bars. Actually, these are only two of the hundreds of young Americans who have found out the hard way that foreign governments are not more permissive than the United States about drug use, smuggling or trafficking. According to the U.S. State Department, more than 900 Americans are being held in foreign jails. The fact of the matter is the possession or sale of illegal drugs overseas is punishable by stiff fines, long-term imprisonment and even, in Iran, by death. And a U.S. passport does not make one immune to arrest and prosecution if the holder breaks the laws.

money two ways, by selling narcotics and then trying to blackmail the buyer or collecting rewards by tipping off customs or police." Elliot said American Express, as a public service, reprinted a U.S. State Department booklet with travel tips for young Americans and is distributing more than 500,000 copies free through cooperating airlines and travel agencies. WHILE THE drug scene has been getting most of the attention recently — and deservedly so — Elliot said there were other problems for youths traveling abroad. "In the excitement of travel many first-time travelers lose their natural prudence," he said. "Young people meeting other young people tend to be trusting and as a consequence are careless about their belongings." He said don't leave cameras, clothing, musical instruments "around as a temptation — and that goes also for your money, passport or return ticket." Most young travelers know by now they should carry funds in the form of travelers checks, Elliot said. They can be replaced without loss if the company is notified promptly when lost or stolen. "But, recently there have been a rash of cases of youthful travelers being swindled by people offering to sell them travelers checks or foreign currency at bargain prices or cut-rate airline tickets — which turn out to be counterfeit or stolen," he said. "Street corner and black market deals with strangers are hazardous — laws in foreign countries are stringent and penalties can be severe." When it comes to youth, Elliot should know whereof he speaks. He was for many years manager of the American Express office in Paris, an almost traditional port of call for generations of young American travelers in Europe.

THIS WAS PART of the message delivered to youths and their parents during a 20 city tour through the United States by Maxwell C. Elliott, who has lived, worked and traveled in Europe and the Far East for over 40 years. Elliott, now director of international public affairs for American Express, said that wherever young people gather the word is being spread around: "Stay out of hassles with the fuzz." At an interview during a New York stopover on his way back to his headquarters in France, Elliott said: "There's a mistaken impression around that foreign drug law enforcement is less stringent than in the United States. Not so. Prosecutions have been intensified in many countries, and penalties can range from expulsion to heavy fines plus imprisonment for up to life in some cases." He said that in some countries drug pushers are also informers "who make

Dear Dr. Lamb — Can you tell me what tests can be taken for tuberculosis besides chest X-rays to determine whether a case is arrested or active?

Handle Must Be Repaired

by MR. FIX

Hatchets and axes need sharpening from time to time and the claw in a hammer may need touching up with a file. But otherwise such tools last nearly forever.

The one part that doesn't is the handle. The wooden handle does crack or break in time and it seems a shame to part with the tool.

Handles can be replaced but they must be replaced properly. A different handle off some other tool is not proper replacement. It will make the tool difficult or even dangerous to use.

Tools such as these are carefully balanced. When a new handle is put on a hammer it should achieve the same balance as when it was new. Pairing a new handle to the old head should be done with care. Neither picking nor fitting should be done hurriedly.

TRY TO FIND a handle as close to the original as possible. Consider size, shape and weight. Make certain it is for the same kind of tool.

Once you have picked one that seems right, check its grain. The grain should be straight, not run diagonally across the handle.

No handle fits the first time. Some shaping is necessary. Put the head on as far as it will go without forcing. The head will leave a mark where it cannot go any further.

Use a wood rasp to take away wood at that point. Work slowly and remove the same amount all around.

Fit and file, working off the excess wood until the handle fits the eye of the head with wood touching all interior surfaces evenly. Try to keep the original shape of the handle and do not leave sharp corners which are the first to break.

ONCE THE HANDLE is fitted it must be wedged. Some handles have slots already cut for the wedges. These are necessary if you use wood wedges. Metal wedges make their own cuts.

Wooden wedges may be hard to find. It's worth the effort to cut them from the old handle since wood wedges can be fit to size. Metal wedges are usually used for tightening an old handle.

Drive the wedges in gently. Slim wedges that go in deeply are preferable to short, fat ones.

With the wedges in, finish by cutting away the excess so that it is flush with the hammer head. Smooth the end.

Don't leave the handle unfinished. Seal it so it does not absorb moisture and warp. Use shellac or varnish applied in several thin coats. Never paint a handle, since paint hides cracks.

Question? Address Do-It-Yourself, Pad-dock Publications, P. O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

Dear Reader — Chest X-rays certainly help. In addition, skin testing is thought to be important by some doctors in assessing the status of tuberculosis and, of course, there are numerous cultures that can be taken. One of the most common of these is to collect sputum specimens and then samples of the sputum are streaked over a culture medium (the food material for the bacteria) and set away to see if germs will grow.

Basically, you could almost say that the bacteria are planted like seeds and then you wait to see if they grow out. If there is no growth you assume there weren't any seeds, or in this case no bacteria.

In addition to the frequent sputum samples for tuberculosis cultures, blood cultures can be taken and the urine can be tested. The urine is often tested to see if the tuberculosis involves the kidney.

Incidentally, tuberculosis can involve other parts of the body besides the lungs and for this reason X-rays of other parts of the body are sometimes helpful, including those of the skeleton. Principally by the use of cultures and X-rays one can determine fairly accurately whether a case of tuberculosis is truly active or not.

Dear Dr. Lamb — When I was 18 my family doctor found a heart murmur. He sent me to a heart specialist who took some tests and said it wasn't serious. Then three years later, I went to another doctor and he discovered that the heart murmur was caused by pulmonary stenosis and said I should be checked every six months. He thinks it should be getting better, but it remains the same. Can you enlighten me further to explain what this is?

Dear Reader — If that indeed is what you have, it's a defect that you were born with. The blood that flows out from the right muscular chamber of the heart is pumped to the lungs for oxygenation. The entire amount of our unoxxygenated blood must go to the lungs through the pulmonary artery. If there is an obstruction to the outflow of blood to the pulmonary artery it is called pulmonary stenosis. The obstruction can be of the pulmonary valve itself or it can involve the overgrowth of the heart muscle tissue at the outlet below the pulmonary valve.

If surgery is needed the surgeon simply enters the heart and opens the obstructed valve or cuts away the excess muscular tissue directly underneath the valve. These operations have been done for many years and are highly successful. Of course, if the obstruction is minimal, then you don't need to have the surgery. I would guess from the innocuous sound of your history that you have been getting along fairly well and this is probably why your doctor hasn't recommended doing anything else.

Students Take Host Of Tests

College Main Course — Alphabet Soup

by PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — High school juniors, seniors and even adults headed for college or reaching for college credits submit to tests that sound like alphabet soup.

Samples: CEEB, SAT, CBAPP, ACT, CLEP. Even before these tests many a high schooler already has been exposed to SSAT — a kind of junior test that helps determine admission to nifty prep schools. The SSAT stands for secondary school admissions test. Many an eighth grader has had fidgets over that one.

What all of these tests have in common: They cost money to take; they are recognized by colleges and universities as valid determiners of either learning aptitude or knowledge of a specific subject; they are given under conditions that resemble the security at a bank's vault to guard against having a bright person sitting in for a dullard for a fee.

Here's a guide to the alphabetland of testing:

—CEEBS. This means College Entrance Examination Board tests. These measure aptitudes, some knowledge and predicts chances of success in a particular college. Some schools, such as Harvard, require high scores on the CEEB since their academic requirements are stiffer than those of some other schools. The College Board is a non-profit educational association whose members include more than 1,600 colleges and school systems.

—SAT, SCHOLASTIC aptitude test. This, a College Board test, predicts a student's chance of success. It rates individuals from very slow to very rapid learners. This score, along with the high school record, is supposed to weigh heavily on a school's decision to accept or reject a particular student.

—ACT, American College Testing. This is a test similar to the SAT and with the same objectives. It is said to be favored over SAT in the Midwest and South. SAT is big on the East and West coasts and in the North.

—CBAPP, known for short as APP. This stands for College Board Advanced Placement Program operating in more than 4,000 high schools. Under this, college level courses are taught to able students in high school. The bright, able and interested youths take examinations, primarily essay types in whatever advanced placement subject studied.

The exam costs $27 to take. Grading is done by a special set of teachers imported from across the country each summer at the Educational Testing Service Center (ETS) in Princeton, N.J. The $27 may seem steep. But it's worth it.

If the student gets a good grade, he gets credit for the course toward college graduation. He escapes the per credit charge. At some colleges it goes up to $90 a credit — $270 for a three-credit course a semester!

SO MANY BRIGHT students are going in for CBAPP that it is helping to shape a trend to three years for the undergraduate degree instead of four. A boy or girl who takes enough APP courses in high school can enter college as a sophomore — and save one-fourth the cost of a college education!

—CLEP means College Level Examination Program. This is a test for mature men and women as well as high school students who think they might gain some college credit by taking the exam.

Each in CLEP takes a college-level exam and receives academic credit for a good grade. The philosophy behind this program started in 1967: Lots of learning goes on in the proverbial school of hard knocks and a person who's learned enough ought to get credit for it.

This program last year drew more than 21,000 participants. Through independent study — in theory at least — a person could bone up on many college level courses and take many of these CLEP tests. When he took enough, he might be able to apply for a degree without ever having sat in the college's classroom.

Post Card To Honor Colonial Patriots

by BERNADINE M. RECHNER
The second in a series of postal cards honoring colonial patriots will be issued

Sept. 1 as part of the commemoration of the bicentennial of the American Revolution.

The 6-cent card honoring John Hanson will be issued at Baltimore. The first in the series, honoring Paul Revere, was issued last year.

The Hanson card will also be issued in both single and double reply-paid forms.

Hanson was a Maryland delegate to the Continental Congress and has provoked one of history's more intriguing debates. Elected to head that body under the Articles of Confederation, he signed himself "President of the United States in Congress assembled." Accordingly, his supporters argue he preceded Washington as President.

The articles, however, did not provide for a national executive. That came with ratification of the Constitution. So most people regard George Washington as the first president.

The Hanson post cards will be printed in unlimited supply by letterpress at the Government Printing Office.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations should address their requests to John Hanson Postal Card, Postmaster, Baltimore, Md. 21233. Remittance is 6-cents per single card and 12 cents per double card.

NOW THAT the current National Parks series has been issued, I am interested in the most popular stamp of the group. Therefore, I am conducting an unofficial, unscientific survey to determine which of the stamps was most pleasing to local stamp collectors.

As you recall, the series included the eight-cent Yellowstone stamp, the 2-cent Cape Hatteras stamps which, issued in a block of four, constituted a picturesque seashore scene including the Hatteras lighthouse; the six-cent Wolf Trap Farm Park stamp; the 11-cent City of Refuge stamp and the 15-cent

Collecting Coins

by Mort Reed

In all of the 180 years of American coinage history no story stirs the imagination quite as much as the saga of the Confederate half-dollar. Born out of sheer desperation, the incident ended almost as quickly as it began. Leaving only four 50-cent pieces to show for it.

The Act of March 3, 1865 authorized construction of a United States Branch Mint in New Orleans, La., which was completed and in full production by 1868. The building depicted by George O. Osborn's fine ink and charcoal rendering still stands in the "old" section of the city, just north of Canal Street adjacent to the old French Market.

IT MINTED THE 1861 silver three-cent piece, half-dimes, dimes, quarters, half-dollars, and dollars plus gold dollars, quarter-eagles, half-eagles, eagles and double-eagles. The first half-dollar to be struck at a branch mint, and the first to carry a mint mark, was coined at the big "O" in 1861. To this day it remains as one of the most valuable coins in a United States series. One of the 20 known specimens brought $14,000 at the Charles Jay sale in 1967.

Although it was struck in 1861 the Confederate half-dollar failed to make a numismatic appearance until 1879 when a specimen and the original dies were found in the possession of Dr. B. F. Taylor of New Orleans, former chief coiner for the Confederate States of America.

The government of the Confederacy took over the New Orleans mint in April 1861 with full intentions of striking an independent coinage of equal weight and value to coins of the Union. This would have been accomplished by using the obverse dies for regular United States half-dollars, on genuine half-dollar silver blanks, but backed or "muled" by the seal of the Confederate States of America.

A lack of silver bullion brought the project to an abrupt halt but not before four patterns were struck. However, the J. W. Scott Co. of New York, having acquired the Confederate dies through a third party from Dr. Taylor, planed off the reverse of 500 genuine United States 1861 half-dollars and restruck them with the Confederate seal. These are known as restrikes valued at $750 uncirculated.

Of the four original Confederate halves, one was given to Secretary of the Confederacy Memminger who passed it to President Jefferson Davis for approval. A second was presented to a Professor Biddle of the University of Louisiana and the third was given to Dr. E. Ames of New Orleans with the fourth remaining in the possession of Dr. Taylor. Air Pollution Warning Plan Is Expanded Illinois Pollution Control Board members yesterday certified expanded regulations for the state's emergency air pollution warning system.

The new rules permit the state to declare an emergency air pollution "episode," the most serious and dangerous situation, whenever there are excessive levels of nitrogen-oxides, carbon monoxide or photo-chemical oxidants as well as particulates and sulfur dioxide.

Under the two-year-old regulations, episodes could be declared only when high levels of sulfur dioxide, either alone or with smoke and dust, were recorded.

A board spokesman said the three new pollutants are generally associated with car exhausts.

"Episodes" generally occur from stagnant atmospheric conditions or temperature inversions which trap contaminants in stale air at low levels.

The state's declaration of an episode triggers a four-step safety program, a watch, a yellow alert, a red alert, and an emergency. All industries are required to submit to the state "episode action plans" to tell what steps they will take to alleviate episodes.

Let's Discard Boundary Board

Almost invisible in its obscurity, the Cook County Board of School Trustees has hit a crisis in public credibility.

Last March an election was scheduled to fill two vacancies on the board, but no one filed for a seat.

The board's invisibility can be attributed partly to its meager function. The volunteer trustees' sole responsibility is to rule on school district boundary changes and the formation of new school districts.

With so little to do and so little public interest, it is clear the board's role is superfluous. The duty of setting school boundaries should be shifted from backroom obscurity to front office accessibility. Cook County Supt. Richard Warwick's office, for example, could be a suitable agency to handle the responsibility.

This is not to rule out the effectiveness of an elected board. Such a board could serve as a necessary check over an appointed office staff. But the board must have talent and responsibility to be more than a figurehead.

Leaving the responsibility with the board, as it now exists, only diminishes its importance. In this day and age setting school boundaries can be a crucial function.

Decades ago, when a one room school house constituted a district, drawing boundaries was fairly routine. The lines were usually drawn to fill a void.

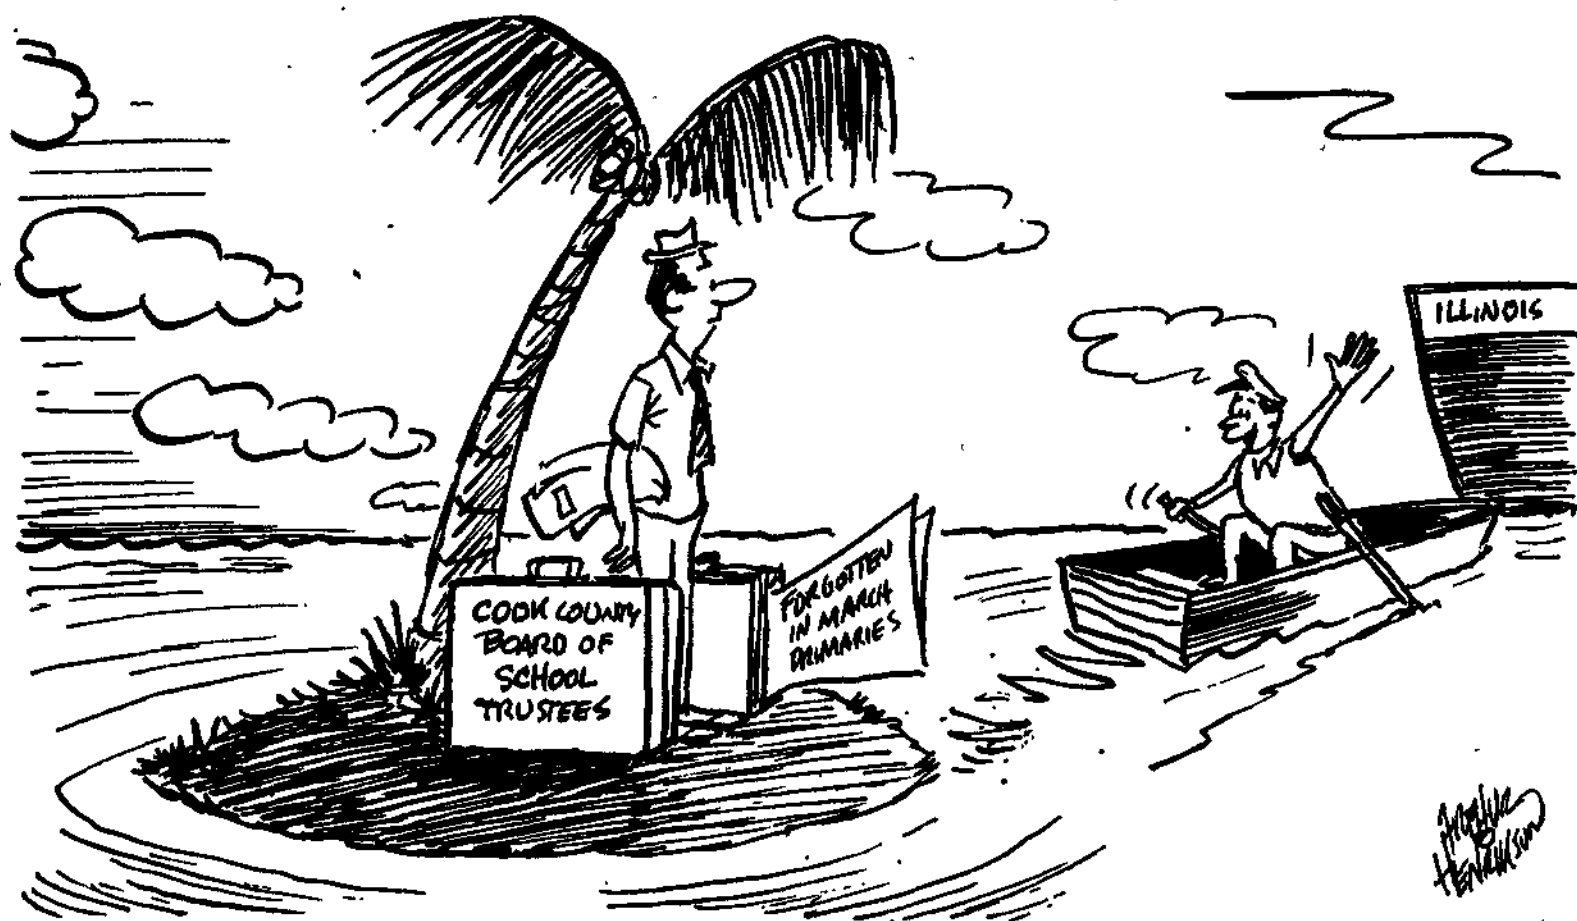

But today, all of the state is included in a school district, so any boundary decision involves change. And, as in most cases, change goes hand in hand with controversy.

Consider Elk Grove Dist. 59's plan to study the feasibility of forming a new school district, combining elementary and high school grades. If the new district was formed it would require disannexation of part of High School Dist. 214, realignment of staff, a new school board — all items sure to rouse public interest.

Approval of such a transition would require a high level of competency, a guarantee we do not now have.

Action should be taken immediately to put the duty of setting school boundaries in more responsible hands, whether it be a public education office or elected board with greater authority.

Have A Nice Retirement!

Agnew Vs. Percy: 1976 Battle?

Bob Lahey

With the outcome of the 1972 Republican National Convention already certain in the choice of its presidential and vice presidential nominees, speculation is already beginning about who the party will pick for president in 1976.

At this moment, it is easy to picture a convention battle between Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and Sen. Charles H. Percy for the prize.

Agnew, in the view of at least one Illinois congressman, has the inside track for the privilege of succeeding his boss as the GOP choice.

Rep. Edward Derwinski of South Holland declared at a conference of 12th Congressional District Republicans on Sunday that Agnew will be in a position to "walk away with the nomination" if he wants it in '76.

Derwinski based that view on the fact that the Republican Party "when the chips are down, will come down somewhere right of center" while the Democrats will wind up to the left of center.

With the party leaning to the right, Derwinski figures, the conservative Agnew could become a shoo-in.

Conservatives in the party, however, believe Percy is already attempting to lay the groundwork for a movement to block Agnew's path to the nomination, with his proposals for changes in rules for selecting convention delegates.

Percy wants delegations of the bigger states enlarged, and establishment of a committee which has been likened by critics of the plan to the McGovern Commission. It would be the committee's task to oversee selection of state delegations to assure selection of more women, young people and minority members.

Some who oppose the Percy proposals, including Rep. Philip M. Crane of Mount Prospect, suspect that Percy would then attempt to ride the committee to the nomination, as the South Dakota senator did with the McGovern Commission.

Since he first entered the national spotlight as chairman of the Republican Platform Committee and candidate for governor in 1960, Percy has been eyed as a potential presidential candidate.

In 1976, at the age of 57 and with 10 years as a senator behind him, the time would seem right for him to make a run at the presidency.

If he should, it is a practical certainty that he will meet stiff opposition from the conservative wing of the party, which considers Percy hardly distinguishable in his voting record from Sen. Adlai Stevenson and other liberal Democrats.

That opposition might well be led by Crane, who is considered by many to be gearing up for a race against Stevenson in 1974.

Crane, who is regarded by GOP conservatives as one of the nation's outstanding congressmen, believes that the proper course of the party and of the nation is to the right. He would probably feel more comfortable with Agnew heading the ticket than with his fellow Illinoisan.

Some Republican congressmen see in the almost certain reelection of Richard Nixon an opportunity to capture control of the House this year. Derwinski and Rep. John H. Terry of Syracuse, N.Y., agreed at that Sunday conference that Republicans are very likely to win a minimum of 200 seats in November, and quite possibly could add 18 more to give them a majority.

If the GOP does achieve such gains, conservative strength will surely be enhanced and the voice of Republican congressmen would be strengthened in opposing a Percy candidacy.

Mexico's Prisons

The government of Mexico is engaged in a far-reaching program of prison reforms that should be of interest to penologists in this country.

The administration of President Luis Echeverria, who has long deplored "jails which are schools for crime," has instituted legislation to achieve minimum standards for the social readaptation of convicts.

Most dramatic and successful of the reform measures is the "open prison," in which prisoners serving two to 10 years are assigned to penal homes just prior to being granted their freedom. Here is where they serve their remaining time while being permitted and encouraged to hold jobs in outside society.

Goal of the open prison concept is to ease the ex-criminal back into the normal flow of society with minimum stigma and maximum confidence. It has been found that the self-esteem of holding a job and being accepted is invaluable in blunting impulses toward "easy money" and violence.

The prerelease program includes visits by selected groups of prisoners to public recreation centers, restaurants, museums and public events. Some prisoners are also allowed to spend weekends with their families.

Mexico has also recently established a Committee for Former Convicts, consisting of representatives from government and private agencies, including labor and industry, to provide moral and material aid to released prisoners.

The entire system is based on the belief that society has the obligation to receive former convicts, after they have paid their "debt," and then to assist them in pursuing a normal life.

Des Plaines Reader Blasts Sewage Treatment Plant

To John Egan, president, Metropolitan Sanitary District:

I am a resident of Des Plaines and yesterday I was fortunate enough to be in attendance at the Des Plaines City Hall in regards to the proposed site of the Metropolitan Sanitary District Plant at Oakton and Elmhurst.

I know I speak for every resident in Des Plaines, and especially within the immediate residential area, that this location is unsuitable for such a plant. The area is mostly surrounded by residential homes, not apartment buildings, offices or motels/hotels, but where people have invested thousands of dollars in their homes and take pride in their community.

We are, at this very moment, plagued with noise and air problems from the jets to and from O'Hare airport. There have been numerous occasions when we cannot even be outside or talk on the telephone because of the noise. Many letters and phone calls have been made entering complaints but the noise continues and nothing has ever been done to alleviate the situation. No one cares because we know that the airport is there to stay, and we have to live with these problems day in and day out! You ask us why we don't want to have the Sanitary District Plant at Oakton and Elmhurst. It is because we don't want to have more problems with air contamination, lowering of our property values, and the relocation of our families if we find that the area is undesirable to bring up our families in.

I know that Mayor Daley and other city officials feel this site is the best but they are not realizing the total impact on the community we live in. Everyone is opposed to its location here and I think that Mayor Daley's representative yesterday evening was convinced how we feel about it. Let another plant site be found, but certainly not in Des Plaines! There were many other sites, we understand, from which the Sanitary District could choose. We wonder why they couldn't spend this time developing this land for this particular plant. One desirable site mentioned was on Mannheim Road off of Higgins Road, just east of the airport. This is government land and now contains deserted army barracks. The plant would certainly be an improvement over what is there now.

Mr. Egan, we urge you to do everything in your power to settle this once and for all . . . to have the plans for this plant changed to another location so that it will not interfere with the well-being of our community and lives of our citizens.

I understand this problem has been battled back and forth for several years. One lady yesterday evening voiced an opinion which speaks for all of us. "We are tired of hearing about this plant site . . . we do not want it here nor do our city officials and Mayor, . . . so let's do everything we can to get this resolved!"

We would all appreciate your carrying this message for us, Mr. Egan, to whom ever you can to have this plant site changed. Everything worth fighting for takes a long and difficult time and I think that we have displayed this these past years but we would like to get this settled now and we need your help and the Mayor's help to oppose this from being built in our community.

Local Movie Theater Prices Hit

We as students would like to voice our opinion regarding theatre prices. We have noticed that some of the theatres in Des Plaines, Mount Prospect and surrounding areas have a reduced price rate of more than one-half the regular ticket price.

We are wondering why some of the theatres can sell tickets for 60 cents and $1.25, while other theatres charge so much more? We feel, since we are students and are not able to see R-rated movies because we are not adults, we should not pay adult prices of $1.80 and up. We feel that the age of adults should be changed to 17 and over, as are the ratings.

Here is the list of the prices:

Des Plaines Theatre — 60 cents.
Mount Prospect Theatre — $1.25 - $2.00, depending upon the movie.
Prospect Theatre — $1.25.
Randhurst Theatre — $2.00 before 6 p.m., $2.50 after 6 p.m.
Woodfield Theatre — $2.50.
Pickwick Theatre — $1.80.
Golf-Mill Theatre — $2.50.

We thought that as a newspaper you could help our cause. If you can't, please let us know soon so we can send copies of our letter to the theatres in our area.

'Butchers Damn The Public'

In support of your butcher editorial, may I say I have lived in two other states before moving to Illinois. In neither of the other states did I have to wait until 9 a.m. to buy fresh meat nor did I have to shop before 6 p.m. to buy fresh meat.

Butchers in other states must know something Chicagoland butchers don't because other places manage to provide fresh meat without ruining a butcher's family life as one of your readers worries.

Many other fields manage to provide for the public without working 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

I strongly suspect Chicago's reputation as a "good union town" has a great deal to do with why the public can't buy fresh meat anytime the supermarket is open.

My feeling is the Chicago butchers union has the motto "The public be damned."

Business 'Efficiency'

How often has it been said that if only the government were operated as efficiently as private business, the national budget could be cut, the federal payroll trimmed, the public debt wiped out and taxes slashed?

But consider this example of business "efficiency": Newspaper editors, business writers and other journalists across the country recently received a news release from one of the nation's largest conglomerates.

The release was mailed on a Friday — air mail, special delivery — even though it could be expected that it would not be found on their desks by the majority of recipients until the following Monday, if that soon.

Postage costs: 71 cents per mailing.

What was the earthshaking news contained in the release, which could have been delivered just as quickly for only 8 or at the most 16 cents? An announcement that one of the conglomerate's divisions was planning to build a 20-story hotel in a southwestern city — hardly the sort of intelligence that couldn't wait for a weekend.

Tomorrow . . .

EDITORIAL: The GOP next week should broaden its delegation selection process.

Memco Store Opens Today

Memco Membership Department Stores will open two facilities in the Chicago area today.

Located at Rand Road at Thomas Ave., in Arlington Heights and 8901 Milwaukee Ave., in Niles, grand opening ceremonies will be held at both stores at 10 a.m. Leading civic officials along with officers of Memco will participate in the ribbon cutting festivities.

According to Leon W. Roush, vice president of Lucky Stores, Inc., and manager of Memco Midwestern Region, "Both stores are over 100,000 square feet in size and include ample parking area."

Each store will include a supermarket as well as a department store, pharmacy, auto service center, and other services for family-style shopping under one roof.

Although the membership concept is new to the Chicago area, it has proved successful in other areas of the country.

ROUSH SAID "Membership in Memco is a one time, one dollar fee with a major portion of the fee going to the Memco Charitable and Scholarship Foundation which is administered by local civic leaders for the benefit of the communities in which Memco stores are located. In this way, we can serve the community and become an integral part of its growth."

The public is invited to the opening. Membership applications will be available at the stores during the 10-day open house beginning Monday. Store visitors will be able to register for free prizes.

Construction is scheduled for another Memco store in Lombard.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The present recovery of the stock market reflects investment community belief Sen. George McGovern has little chance to be elected president this year, according to Hoppin, Watson Inc. If politics has been written off as a market influence then, Hoppin, Watson says, the paramount question is whether or not investor confidence will push the market past the 1000 level in the Dow Jones industrial average. The company believes the investor might be willing to follow strong institutional leadership.

INDICATOR DIGEST says there are signs of a better market climate. Its latest figures reveal specialist short selling has declined to a "very favorable" 43 per cent, the lowest level in over a year. The firm notes volume has been "drying up" on declines and increasing very favorably on advances. It expects the fireworks to spread into a "broader market."

SELECTIVE BUYING with reasonable values should guide investors through the next intermediate period, according to Standard & Poor's Outlook Factors pushing the market higher include a strong outlook for the economy and corporate profits. Additionally, the availability of large investment funds will help the market as new financing of stocks and bonds slows.

NEW YORK (UPI) — A large supermarket chain cut its utility bills $2,000 to $3,000 annually at each store;

—A heavy equipment manufacturer in Pennsylvania found a savings of $50,000 in a different power rate;

—A Paris construction company saved 79 per cent on its electric bills by using a different rate schedule.

These companies, all large electrical users, hired "rate checkers" to help them pare costs.

So far the National Utility Service, New York, one such "rate checker," says it has saved big electrical users in the U.S. a total of between $12 million and $14 million a year. NUS foreign operations have a comparable business. NUS currently represents more than 10,000 customers worldwide, including 350 of the Fortune 500 list.

NATIONAL ELECTRIC SERVICE, also of New York and the country's oldest electric bill checker, estimated it saves customers a total of $16 million a year.

Customers who prefer to remain unidentified confirmed the saving.

One corporation composed of 200 companies with a $25 million annual utility bill says NUS saved them about $600,000 at one plant alone. Rate checkers, they say, "have a comprehensive understanding of the national utility situation. We figured it would cost us about $134,000 a year to do the same thing."

NUS, Consumers Utility Service, National Electric Service, Utilities Service Corp. and others like them exist on an ability to find savings for industrial electrical consumers by clearing the confusion surrounding utility rates and charges. Most of them collect 50 per cent of any savings. Some rely on contracts.

Most utilities have departments to help customers decide on their needs but, as Theodore Maynard, president of NUS says, "Utility rate overcharges are a common problem. Utilities have a 'license to steal.'"

Con Ed in New York says it has a simple rate schedule and sees no reason for using rate checkers on their lines. However, NUS and National Electric Service both claim to have dozens of Con Ed customers as clients.

One large company said the substantial savings found by a rate checker caused some company opposition to the checker.

A TYPICAL NUS operation involved a large supermarket chain which had most of its units on a general service schedule. NUS discovered the utility had offered a special rate to customers who could show a connected "power and heating" load to meet a minimum requirements. The utility had not been giving most of the supermarkets this special rate on the grounds that they did not have that much load actually invested in heating and power.

However, the utility did not take into account heaters in the store room and fans in the freezers. Arguing that the equipment should be counted as a "heating and power load" NUS convinced the utility the lower rate should apply. Each store saved $2,000 to $3,000 on electric bills.

Although utilities claim to offer the best rates to their customers, Maynard disagrees and adds, "If it were true that the utilities gave their customers the best rates all the time, we would be out of business."

Half Of Year's Drownings Happen In Summer: Study

June, July and August — a delightful time of the year, but also an extremely dangerous one. These three months account for more than half of all drowning accidents, notes a Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. study.

Drownings of all types accounted for 6 per cent of the accidental deaths in 1968 (the latest year for which official figures are available) and were preceded only by motor vehicle accidents and accidental falls, according to Metropolitan Life statisticians.

Drowning deaths increased from 6,382 in 1958 to 7,372 in 1968, a rise of about 12 per cent. However, the death rate has remained fairly level over this period, and was 3.7 per 100,000 in 1968.

Of 1968's 7,372 drownings, 1,422 occurred during water transport accidents, and 5,950 occurred in accidents associated with swimming, wading, playing in the water and falling into the water; more than four-fifths of all accidental drownings resulted from nontransport drowning.

YOUNG PEOPLE are the most affected with three-fifths of the male and two-thirds of the female drowning fatalities involving those under age 20, according to the study.

There were five male deaths for each female death in 1968 for nontransport drownings, but this figure varied considerably by age. Drownings were at a peak among young men 15 to 19 (12.2 per 100,000). Preschool boys, particularly at ages 1 and 2, also registered high drowning rates, as did school-age boys and men in their early 20s. Among females, the maximum death rate — 3.1 per 100,000 — was recorded by girls 1-4, with the greatest risk at ages 1 and 2.

Since 1958, the death rate from drowning has increased only slightly among males for all ages combined, but has risen by 11 per cent for females. Boys aged 3 and 4 experienced marked increases, while increasing deaths were also registered for girls under 10 and women 65 and over. The largest rise was recorded for infant girls and girls 5-9, the study reports.

DESPITE THE rapidly rising popularity of boating in the United States in recent years, drownings in boating accidents have decreased by over a fifth between 1958 and 1968.

Most of the 1,422 drowning deaths in water transport accidents in 1968 involved occupants of small boats, having a passenger capacity of less than 10 persons; men accounted for about 90 per cent of these drowning fatalities. The 1968 death rate was 1.3 per 100,000 for men, compared to only 0.1 for women.

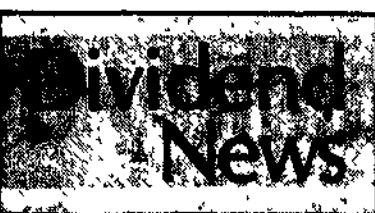

The fatality rate was lowest for children under 14 and highest for the 25-34 age group. Those 35-64 also maintained a relatively high death rate.

A. B. Dick Co. reported six months earnings of $5,107,075, or 88 cents per share on record sales of $94,903,614. This represents an increase of 40.9 per cent over first half 1971 earnings of $3,624,575, or 60 cents a share after eliminating 1971 losses on a discontinued operation. Sales increased 15.6 per cent over 1971 sales of $82,079,205.

Second quarter earnings of $2,877,793, or 49 cents a share were up 46.1 per cent over restated 1971 earnings of $1,969,555, or 33 cents a share for the same period. Sales for the quarter were $48,637,499 which is 15.7 per cent over 1971 sales of $42,046,431.

The company attributed the improvement in earnings to increased sales, domestically and internationally, and to selective cost reductions.

Richmond, Ind. is one of the world's largest producers of roses which should suit the Arlington Heights Legion team just fine.

Arlington is the 1972 State Legion champion and will be paying Richmond a visit Wednesday to begin the regional series.

How sweet it is!

Heights' invitation to Indiana was hardly of the flowery variety. It took the locals 12 thrilling innings before Mark Leonhard steered a liner down the left-field foul line to drive in teammate Bert Newman with the decisive run in a 5-4 heart-stopping triumph over rival Belleville.

The two-out blast capped a tournament that none will forget very easily and it also overshadowed some earlier heroics by both teams that highlighted the crucial finale.

Arlington was all set to wrap up the championship in nine regulation innings except Belleville's Dennis English and Mike Hopkins slapped a two-out run-scoring single and triple, respectively, to hike the visitors on top, 4-3.

But the smell of roses lingered into the bottom of the ninth as Bob Harth threw the game up for grabs with a run-producing single while representing Heights' last hope in the game.

The extra innings were garnished with cautious strategy, stranded baserunners and scoreless results — until, that is, the last of the 12th.

Harth went out on a disputed call at first and was ejected, but Newman walked and stole second. Pat Broderick got under the ball too much and sent a routine fly to left for the second out, but Leonhard gained the winning hit, the pitching decision and reservations in Richmond with his first single in five earlier trips.

Arlington seemed destined to repeat their 6-1 verdict over Belleville in the early stages of the tourney by racing to a 3-0 advantage after seven frames.

Heights' hurler Jim Hopkins was working on a powerful one-hitter during that span and appeared to have the upperhand with no walks and seven strikeouts.

His teammates backed his masterful performance with a pair of runs in the fourth on two walks. Dave Zare's base hit and an error on the catcher and padded the cushion with an unearned marker in the seventh — climaxed by Tony Fricano's checked-swing single.

Belleville stormed back in the eighth on a leadoff double, an error and a single to kayo Hopkins from the mound and although Leonhard was summoned to protect the 3-2 margin, Belleville solved him in the ninth for two go-ahead runs on two hits.

Leonhard retreated back to his position in centerfield as both Dave Sherron and Ed Carpenter took turns blanking Belleville in short relief appearances, but the hard-throwing righthander was recalled to the mound in the pressure-filled 10th.

Mark was in the groove despite getting nicked for an infield hit and an error over the final two and one-third frames he mopped up. He left two Belleville runners frustrated in the 10th, struck out the side in the 11th and fired only 12 pitches in a four-batter 12th.

His bat did the rest of the talking and what sweet words it spoke.

Arlington will face the Indiana State champion in the Great Lakes Regional at Municipal Stadium Wednesday at 4 p.m.

If Heights can emerge from this seven-team playoff, the rosy situation will swing to Memphis, Tenn. for the National World Series.

Gutty Leonhard Proves Toughness

by PAUL LOGAN

A cooling shower is the place to be when you get knocked off the mound in a ball game. That's the way it is in the majors.

Mark Leonhard, one of Arlington's two ace pitchers, didn't have a chance to cool off after getting rapped by Belleville in the ninth inning. Instead, he had to return to the position he had been playing most of the championship game of the American Legion State Tournament — center field.

"I'm too nervous when I come in there," said Leonhard of his relief performance of the season yesterday at Recreation Park. "That's the first time I've relieved all year."

It was hardly a masterpiece for Belleville scored two earned runs and took a 4-3 lead into the bottom of the ninth. But Leonhard's teammates — a scrappier group you'll never meet — took him off the hook and tied the game.

That's when both Coach Lloyd Meyer, Leonhard and Arlington were glad that Leonhard's shower was a sweaty one in center. You see, two outs later, the stocky (6-1, 200) right-hander was back on the mound.

"It's a little easier coming in when it's tied," admitted Leonhard after he quelled a second Belleville rally in the 10th and then dazzled the visitors the of the way.

After fanning four in those final frames, Leonhard ripped "a fastball around the letters" which drove in the winning run in the bottom of the 12th. "I knew one of these times I was due for one," said Leonhard of his screaming single.

Prior to the late Belleville rallies, Jim Hopkins had been brilliant. But he was feeling the heat and the championship strain in the middle innings, as Meyer recalled, "A couple of innings before, Leonhard warmed up to stay loose because about the fifth Hoppy said he was getting tired."

Meyer said he though Hopkins did an outstanding job but couldn't finish the game "because we had a couple of bad breaks" in the two-run seventh for Belleville.

"That takes guts," said Meyer of Leonhard's second time around on the mound after being shelled the first go. He also spoke of that inner character freely with everyone on the team, including assistant Coach Mark Newman "who does more coaching of the team than I do."

Meyer said that defense and knowing the strike zone were the biggest reasons why his team is now planning a Regional Tournament trip next week to Indiana. As to how much his second state title meant to him, he had this to say:

"Naturally the first one meant more because it was the first. But I wanted this one more, especially after we won those first two games. I thought we were the best club in the tournament. They really responded when I wanted them to."

Golden Acres Fair Test For Tournament

Golfers Should Enjoy 18-Hole Tour Sunday

BEING CHARGED with the duty to play the host course each year for the Paddock Golf Tournament sounds like a pretty easy assignment. Almost like being a professional golfer, I'm paid to go out and check out the course for a hole-by-hole description story.

Last week's fun job was touring the 6385 yards of lush terrain at Golden Acres Country Club in Schaumburg.

Surprisingly enough, I was a little reluctant this time because I hadn't played a round of golf all summer. Somewhere in St. Louis there's a guy enjoying my clubs, bag, shoes and practice balls. My equipment was stolen along with my car in the first days of our vacation.

So, with the boss' clubs in the trunk and no time to stop off at the local driving range, I went about my task of possibly shooting 100 over two of the three different nines on this course. Despite my fears, I shot a fairly respectable 88 — one under bogeys over the par 71 combination of the Red and White nines.

This score is not mentioned for bragging purposes (I'm a little embarrassed), but to show all you fellow bogey shooters that this course doesn't appear too difficult. Since those of you who have qualified (your teeoff times are located elsewhere in the sports section) have had the benefit of playing all summer, you should do much better than I did.

Don't misunderstand, I'm not bad-mouthing Golden Acres. I'm sure that some of the lower handicap golfers will take chances and will pay for their daring with penalty strokes. This is because the course has an abundance of water because of the wet summer. It also has plenty of testy trees and large mounds.

But for you fellows who are happy to break 100 and elated to crack the 90 barrier, here's your chance to score. Playing like most golfers of this caliber — conservatively with respect for any course — you should do well.

There are a half dozen good reasons for this — four fairly short par fours of 285, 295, 320 and 350 yards and two mini par fives of 460 and 490 yards. All the golfers in the tourney have to be drooling over these delicious holes. However, a few more rains before Sunday and even these birdie holes will seem much tougher because of the soggy ground.

A hole by hole description follows:

WHITE NINE

No. 1 par 5, 538 yards — The elevated tee reveals a very rolling fairway all the way to the green. It's best to stay to the right for side hill lies and a lake await pulled shots. This longest of the par fives demands shot precision. A second shot just to the left and front of the green should promise a fairly flat position to approach the green. You also will be able to avoid the sand traps to the left and right of the putting surface.

No. 2, par 4, 350 yards — High handicap golfers must try and keep their drives up on this hole. The reason — one of the course's many high mounds rests about 150 yards off the tee. If you drive clears that barrier, you must try to hit an elevated green, guarded on both sides by bunkers. If you hate sand, better lay up short of the green.

No. 3, par 3, 130 yards — The tee overlooks a little valley with a swollen creek about 70 yards out. An accurate 7 or 8 iron is needed to reach an elevated green. Dangerous little traps — located below the putting surface — could lead to double bogeys.

No. 4, par 5, 510 yards — If you hook the ball slightly, you should enjoy this hole. Slicers, beware! Teeing off from the side of a hill, the hole doglegs right with water most of the way on the right. Since the heavy rains have caused flooding, stakes marking off the soft ground will give those who land there a free drop. However, hitting to the left will avoid those problems as well as giving the golfer a lot more roll. A solid second shot should leave you just short of the green and a pitch away from a birdie try.

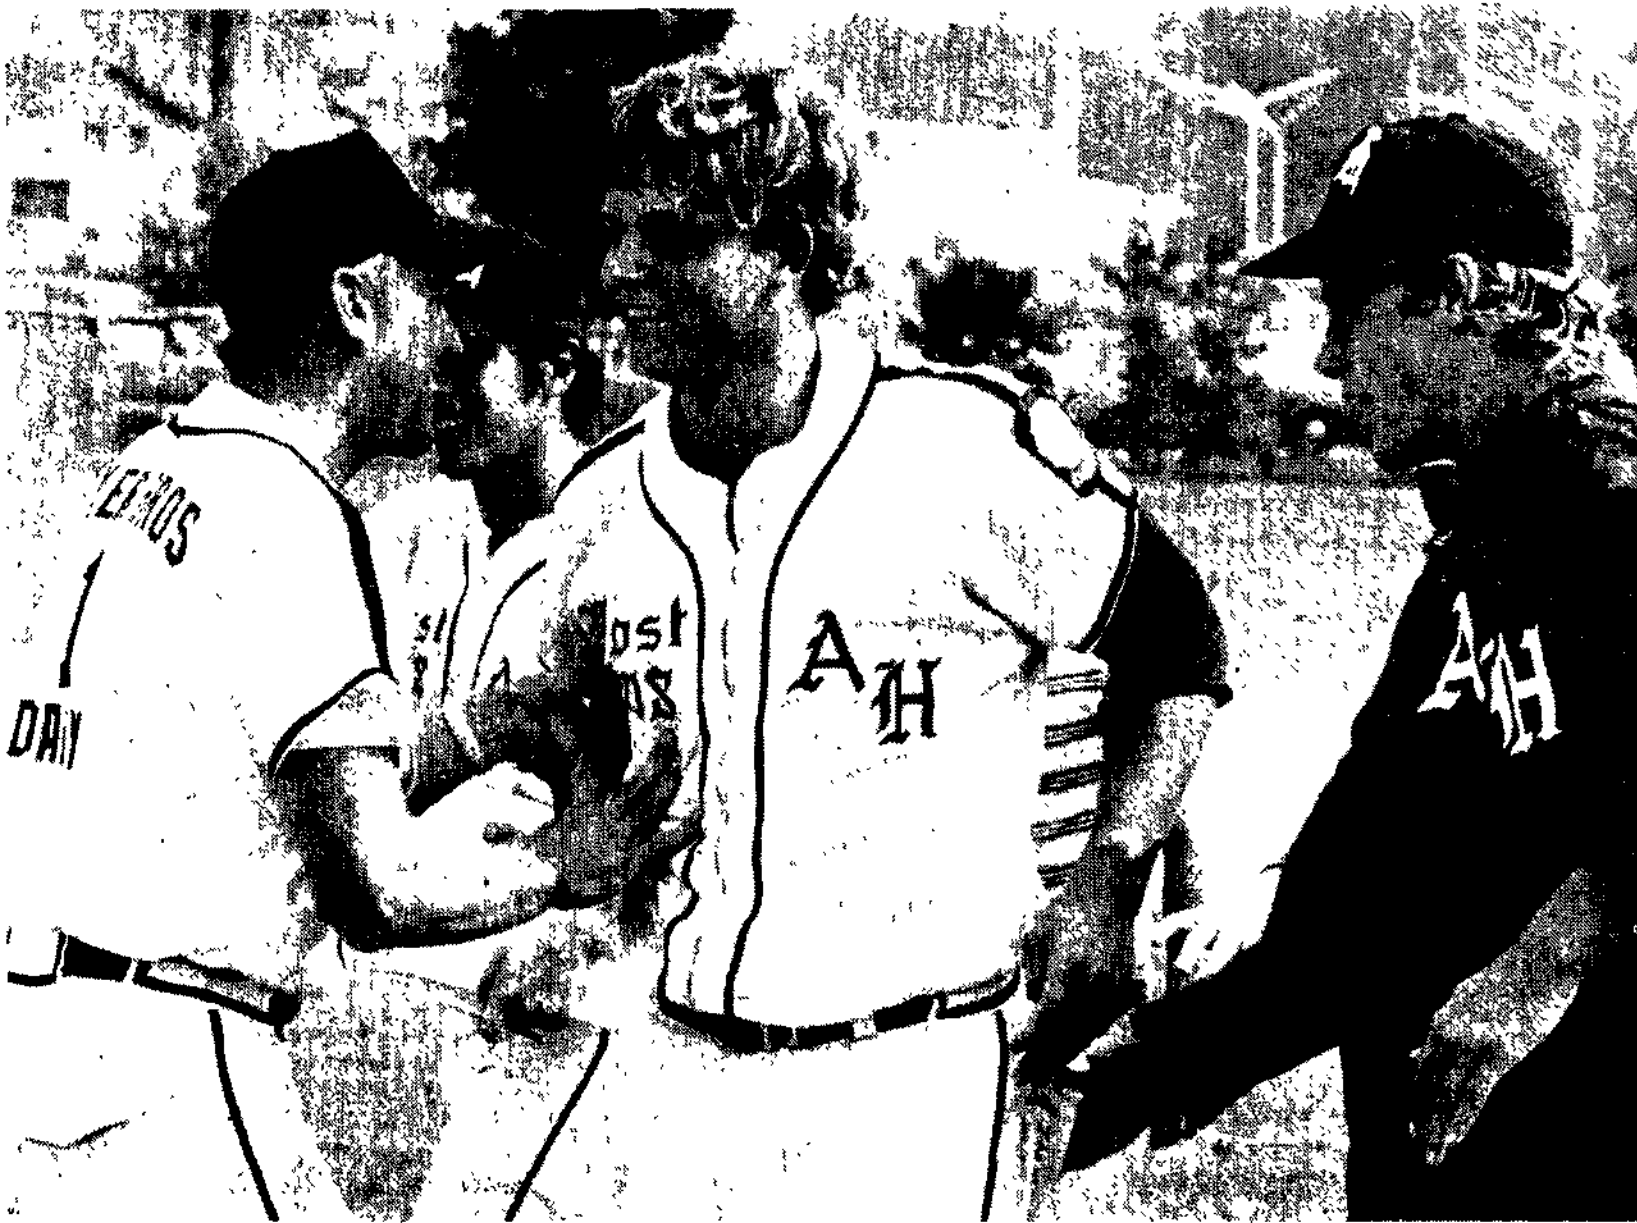

No. 5, par 4, 295 yards — Unless you push or slice the ball extremely, the lake shouldn't present much of a problem for you. That is, unless you just freeze when you see water. Hitting over the left side or directly at the green will demand a shot of between 140 and 160 yards to carry the hazard. A missed shot to the right must fly at least 180 yards. Unless you boom your tee shots, your approach to the green will be from below the hole. For this blind pitch to the pin, stay to the right to avoid a trap.

No. 6, par 3, 120 yards — This takes the prize for the strangest shaped green on the course. Measuring about 45 yards in length, the day I played it the pin was in an area just 12 yards wide. A very accurate short iron is needed to both hit the green and be close enough to two putt.

No. 7, par 4, 410 yards — This dogleg to the left isn't extreme, but trying to cut it can only bring tree trouble. A wide fairway should be easy to hit. The second shot demands the most thought. A low hit second might catch the large mound cutting into the fairway from the right. Traps also stand protect both sides of the green.

No. 8, par 4, 285 yards — Pound your drive on this hole and your second birdie (you've also recorded one on the fifth, clutch hit in the bottom of the 12th inning gave Post 208 a 5-4 victory over Belleville yesterday for the state championship. Jim Hopkins, who pitched his second strong tourney game before leaving in the eighth, also joins in on the congratulations. (Photo by Bob Finch)

MOVING HAZARDS. Several dozen geese add to the color of the fifth hole at Golden Acres Country Club's White Course. These feathered fairway friends aren't as big a worry to golfers as the lake that awaits a poorly hit drive on this short (295 yards) par 4. Once the water and birds are conquered, however, the steep hill makes the approach shot pretty difficult. Golfers playing in the 23rd annual Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap Tournament will find it out this Sunday.

right?) awaits you. You must stay right to avoid the dam-like mound that stands tall about 180 yards off the tee. But don't go too far right or you'll find the chain link fence and penalty strokes.

No. 9, par 4, 486 yards — The longest of the par four holes on the three nines, this hole should be an extremely tough finisher. Mounds out about 200 yards exist for the sole purpose of forcing high handicappers to shoot from a side hill lie. But don't go too far right because of the trees. Make sure on your second shot that you're looking at the right flag. That's the one on the right side. The one on the left is another 100 yards or so up the course and belongs to the yellow nine.

RED NINE

No. 1, par 5, 485 yards — This is also a par four when the other teeoff is used (425 yards), but course professional Lew Janus is hoping the flooding from the lake on this hole won't be too extreme so as to let the longer fairway be used. Golfers will have to lay up short of the water with an iron before blasting away with a fairway wood. Despite driving with an iron, this dogleg hole still plays pretty short.

No. 2, par 4, 398 yards — From a picturesque teeoff surrounded by little ponds, you must fly your shot to the left side of the gently curving fairway. Then its a long iron into a green trapped left and right.

No. 3, par 3, 180 yards — This second longest par 3 on the 18 holes the tourney will use is a tough par. Another ridge cuts across the fairway and runs down to the right side of the green. A trap on the left side of the green adds to the problem.

No. 4, par 4, 320 yards — The first legitimate birdie hole on the big Red course awaits you. However, you'd better keep any hook-shot clubs in their bags on this one. The lane leading from the entrance of the course to the clubhouse is out of bounds as is any shot going over it. A blast to the right side of the fairway should leave a pitch and putt finish.

No. 5, par 4, 250 yards — This is a very troublesome hole. Besides the lane running down the left side of the fairway, a pond on the right side of the green and a sand trap on the left makes the second shot reacherous.

No. 6, par 4, 440 yards — Probably the toughest hole to negotiate in four strokes on the Red, this lengthy fairway has a little of everything. Mounds, naturally, are scattered in potential driving areas. Then there's the wire fence on the right with Roselle Road beyond. After your drive, the green is finally visible. Looking almost like an island, the green and the land around it are surrounded by ponds, a creek and out of bounds. A wood or iron — if hit solidly — should fly over the hazards and leave a shot for a par. However, a subtle green — appearing flat — could catch the careless off guard. The weeping willow trees and surroundings make this the best looking hole on the Red.

No. 7, par 4, 430 yards — Flooding of the lake (which also will be causing some problems on the first Red hole) will force most of the players to lay up short of a makeshift lake that grew out of the heavy rains recently. It occupies part of the fairway where drives normally land. The second shot must be hit very accurately at the green or the large mounds to either side will knock it off course. This green is probably the toughest to putt on the Red.

No. 8, par 3, 190 yards — This is one of those "It's a wood... no, an iron... no, it has to be a wood... no, it's got to be an iron..." After the shot, "It was a wood." Whatever club you decide on, it is better to miss the green on the left rather than the right because of a trap and the green's elevation. This is the longest par 3 of the three nines, and it plays just as tough as its length.

No. 9, par 4, 400 yards — If you can stay clear of the out of bounds stakes on the right side (they protect golfers playing the first hole on the White course) of this dogleg, you have a shot at a par.

Tomorrow Golden Acres' very personable pro will discuss the site for this Sunday's 23rd annual inter-league handicap tourney.

Lauterburg & Oehler Takes Big Lead In Twilight Golf

Lauterburg & Oehler increased its lead in the Arlington Heights Twilight Golf League last Friday but Koops Mustard slipped into second place by overtaking Service Stampings.

Lauterburg & Oehler now holds a 94-point advantage. Baird & Warner jumped from fifth to fourth while City Welding dropped back one notch to fifth place. Control Equipment went from ninth all the way to sixth to round out the top half.

Marty Gilmore shot both the low gross (37) and the low net (31) scores last week. Gilmore took advantage of three consecutive birdies on the fifth, sixth and seventh holes. Other birdies were registered by Jim Markiewicz on No. 3, Steve Gecan and Tom Styczkowski at the 12th and Gecan again on No. 16.

League secretary Mike Brant also announced that Bill Turner has been inserted into the league's lineup for the Paddock Golf Tourney to replace another golfer who will not be able to play.

Bettenhausen Racers To Visit State Fair Track

The auto-racing Bettenhausen family will make another assault on the one mile dirt track when USAC racing visits the Illinois State Fairgrounds Aug. 18-20 at Springfield.

Gary Bettenhausen, the oldest of three racing brothers and the son of racing great, Tony Bettenhausen, will be at the wheel of Car No. 14 when the 100-mile championship division race gets underway on Sunday, Aug. 20.

The state fair hosts three USAC races, climaxing by the 100-mile championship event; other divisions are Midgits on Friday, Aug. 18, and Late-Model Stocks on Saturday, Aug. 19.

Tony Bettenhausen won three Illinois State Fair championship races in his career. Gary, who led the 1968 race through the first 80 laps was forced out of last year's race after 25 laps.

Other entries in the championship field include Jim McElreath, Don Hawley, Jimmy Caruthers and Rolfe Beale. They finished last year's race in positions 3-4-5-6, behind winner A. J. Foyt and runner-up George Snider.

Foyt has entered a car in this year's race but may be unable to drive because of an injury suffered on May 28.

Butch Hartman heads a talented field in the stock division. He finished seventh in last year's race and went on to win the USAC national stock division championship. His chief competition is expected to come from 1971 runner-up Roger McCluskey, fourth-place finisher Tom Klippel and fifth-place finisher Paul Feldner. Al Unser, who was forced out of the competition with lost oil pressure after 14 laps last year, will also be back for another try.

The three USAC races at the Illinois State Fair are the only directly fair-sponsored entertainment which is not free with admission to the grounds.

Ticket prices for the races are USAC Midgits, $4, $3, $2; USAC Late-Model Stocks, $5, $4, $3, $2; USAC Championship, $6, $5, $4, $3.

Tickets are available both by mail and over-the-counter.

MUSTLIN' MARTH Arlington's Bob Marth just beats a throw from centerfield for a double against Belleville Tuesday at Recreation Park. Marth's hit helped spark a brief rally that left Arlington one run short of tying the score. Belleville won the game, 3-2, to hand Arlington its first loss in the American Legion State Tournament. (Photo by Bob Finch)

The Volunteer Bureau

Everyone Can Do Something To Help

"It doesn't matter who you are or where you live, you can do something to help someone." So spoke Quarterback Roger Staubach of the Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys in regard to his film appearance as a volunteer (he really is a volunteer — not pretending to be one) on TV.

The National Football League has joined with the National Center for Voluntary Action in a television campaign to encourage volunteerism in community projects. Twenty-two NFL players, each an active volunteer, will appear in the public service spots to be shown during telecasts of NFL games throughout the 1972 season.

During the 1972 preseason, regular season and post season games over ABC, NBC and CBS there will be other TV "spots" such as San Diego's quarterback John Hadl who volunteers his time at the Indian reservation in California's Pauma Valley; New England Patriot players Jon Morris and Daryl Johnson at a Pro Football Rap Session in Boston, Larry Little of the Miami Dolphins at a youth camp in Florida; Jim Plunkett of the New England Patriots at a Mexican American Center near San Jose, Calif.; Claude Humphrey of the Atlanta Falcons at a community center in Nashville; and the list goes on.

These are all real life scenes as these football players really do make volunteerism a part of their life.

THE NATIONAL CENTER for Voluntary Action (NCVA) is founded and operated on the belief that "the power of the individual citizen — voluntarily channeled — can still be instrumental in helping to solve our most pressing problems — and that a national support effort, in partnership with but outside of government, is needed to help American channel their volunteer power to where it is needed."

The NCVA's program is keyed to the formation of a national network of local voluntary action centers (or bureaus) which offer a local process through which those who want to volunteer can find useful outlets for their concerns and energies, and through which those who need volunteers can find them.

The NCVA slogan is "What we need, money can't buy... We need you." The logo is a heart ending in an arrow within the heart and it will appear on billboards, newspapers, etc. in increasing amounts as the year goes on. The billboards will say "Somebody out there needs you. We can tell you who." And as the TV spots indicate, you can write to the national center in Washington, D.C. and the returns will be channeled to the appropriate Volunteer Bureau or Voluntary Action Center.

The Volunteer Service Bureau, Northwest Cook County, has been aware of this advertising campaign for some time and has endeavored to do several things in preparation for the hoped for results of such a massive campaign. One is the organizational work in setting up the bureau to handle the requests of individuals or groups who want advice and consultation on what they can do.

To this end the bureau has established five branch offices in addition to the central office to receive the calls and letters, and it has also attempted to train (and continue to assist) the individual branch directors in the art of interviewing and in the knowledge of what is available within the community and nearby.

The other step in way of preparation has been to alert the agencies (the bureau lists 56 which includes school districts) that this new movement may call for their own preparation in incorporating new volunteers into their midst and innovating and developing additional opportunities to incorporate the volunteer. The orientation and the training of the volunteer (and the staff member) is also an ongoing concern of the bureau.

THE BRANCH OFFICES in Arlington Heights, Palatine-Rolling Meadows, Mt. Prospect, Prospect Heights, and Elk Grove Village will be in operation right after Labor Day. These offices are open only at specified times as they are staffed by volunteers who have hours set aside for this endeavor. The central office in the District 214 Administration Center had the only paid staff and the hours there, starting Monday, are Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday 9 to 2. The phone number is 398-1320.

The bureau has a speakers bureau consisting of members of the board who can speak to groups about the volunteer movement, and any requests for such a presentation can be directed to the bureau central office.

The Volunteer Bureau philosophy has been and continues to be that within this northwest Cook County there are individuals who are interested in devoting part of their time to various agencies while serving as volunteers. The bureau has attempted to set up a structure whereby these individuals can voluntarily search out where these needs are, and voluntarily give of their time — because they care. This weekly column is part of that structure, and if you are so inspired to find your niche — whether you use the auspices of the bureau or not — in volunteerism, GREAT.

Tax Relief Signups Accepted

An estimated 80,000 taxpayers over age 65 in Cook County may now apply for tax relief under the Homestead Exemption Act through the office of Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton.

By law, persons 65 or more on Jan. 1, 1972 will be allowed an exemption or deduction of $1,500 in equalized value.

Tax experts have estimated the exemption will mean a savings of $100 to $125 for most qualified taxpayers.

The exemption, however, takes effect on tax bills received in the spring of 1973 for 1972 taxes.

To qualify for the exemption, a taxpayer must be more than 65 years old as of Jan. 1, 1972, must be the owner of record of the property and must occupy, as a principal residence, the property for which the exemption is sought.

THE HOMESTEAD Exemption Application form is available at the assessor's office in the county building, 118 N. Clark St., Chicago, or from many banks, savings and loan associations, and township assessors throughout the county.

Proof of age and proof of ownership must be submitted with the application for the exemption.

Medicare cards, birth certificates or other documents will be accepted as proof of age. To prove ownership, the applicant must submit copies of a deed, owners title policy or other documents.

The application must be submitted, either in person or by mail, to the county assessor's office no later than Sept. 1, 1972.

Top Banana Is Not One Of The Bunch

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jack Albertson is one of the few burlesque-vaudeville second bananas who has managed to survive the shuffle-off-to-Buffalo, hokey routines of another generation to achieve major stature in movies and video.

Hollywood and New York know all too well the thumping fraternity of hooters and comics who never quite made it. They work as extras, play bit parts and hang out at such clubs as the Macquers playing pinhole, reliving the good old days.

Not Albertson. He won an Oscar for best supporting actor in 1968 ("The Subject Was Roses"). Movies beckon him frequently for character roles. Yet Albertson cannot overcome his early days, throwing in one-liners and old vaudeville jokes at almost every opportunity.

ONCE A PARTNER of Phil Silvers, and straight man for Milton Berle, Jack Benny, Bert Lahr and Joe Penner, Albertson gives the appearance of a displaced person in the somber atmosphere of a movie sound stage.

On the set of "The Poseidon Adventure," Jack played host to his wife and daughter.

"I can still hoof," he said, breaking into a softshoe routine and added as he danced, "My wife is a good dancer too, always light on my feet, the dear girl."

"You don't know how many times I've heard that," Mrs. Albertson replied patiently.

Albertson merely stopped his shuffling. "Very seldom do comedians ever win Oscars," he said. "Think about it. Red Buttons and I are the only ones I can think of. And we're both in this picture."

"Sure, some dramatic actors have won the award for playing comedy roles. Clark Gable, Jack Lemmon, Lee Marvin. But I mean guys who came from the stage or night clubs. Real comedians."

"I know the reason, too. Lack of depth in comedy roles. People think you're just playing yourself."

Curiously, both Albertson and Buttons won their Academy Awards playing melodramatic characters.

NEITHER MAN ever played romantic leads, which is fine with Albertson.

"There's always been an advantage to playing character roles," he said. "You can work into your dotage. And I may not be far away."

The actor proved his point by naming a dozen character actors who have spent 40 years in motion pictures. He finished with an hilarious imitation of the late Lionel Barrymore.

"The leading men come and go, but the character actors are around forever," said Albertson, a note of hope in his voice.

Vaudeville dies hard, but old vaudevillians never quit. Jack struggled with himself but lost out.

He leaned close and said, "Did you hear the one about the lady at the beach when a strange man comes up and..."

Suburban greenery — contrast from the city

Friend Of Friendly Town

Editor's note: Scores of suburban residents each summer take part in the Friendly Town program — opening their homes for a brief period to children from the inner city. One participating family this summer was Mr. and Mrs. Robert Strawn of Rolling Meadows. He is a staff photographer for the Herald; she is a former employee of the Herald, and — before becoming a mother — public relations representative for Western Electric. Here, in words and pictures, is their portrayal of a Friendly Town experience.)

Story by Mary Ann Strawn
Photos by Bob Strawn

Thank you Yvette.
Thank you Veronica.

Than you for two weeks of learning and laughs, frustration and sometimes impatience.

Yvette and Veronica came to live with us in Rolling Meadows for two weeks through the Friendly Town program.

Yvette, age 5, was princess of the magic tennis shoe. No matter how many times she tied them, the laces were always dragging in the dirt.

VERONICA AT 8 was the wise mother. She knew almost as much about taking care of our infant son as I did.

Early in the summer I talked with Betty Ginger, one of the coordinators of Friendly Town. "We like to place children with families who have children of a similar age," she told me. "Otherwise, we want you to take two. That gives them a playmate, and relieves you of the burden of trying to entertain them constantly."

Since Bob and I had only six-month-old Steven, we signed up for two children for the second of three sessions.

As the time got closer, I decided I had been crazy when I talked to Mrs. Ginger. The fact that the children would be black, Puerto Rican or Spanish-American had nothing to do with my feelings. Two strangers were going to be running through the serenity of my ordered life. There would be two extra people to share with.

I was a little uneasy and nervous as we drove to the Faith Community Church in downtown Chicago. A storefront, its pastor, Rev. E. Turner, began the Friendly Town program almost 17 years ago.

THE BUILDING VIBRATED as the choir sang, but I couldn't concentrate. I kept scanning the faces in the room wondering which children would be ours.

Finally we met our visitors and their families.

No one talked much during the drive home. Steven, with a skill peculiar to a six-month-old, charmed the girls. They lavished him with attention and he loved it.

In our neighborhood reaction ranged from, "We can stand anything for two weeks," to "What a great opportunity for my children to have a black playmate."

There was the other extreme too. One family made it clear that their children should stay away from our house.

I was still feeding Steven the first morning when the girls ran out to explore their new neighborhood. In 10 minutes they were back, elated.

"We've found a friend! We found a friend!" Our next door neighbor was the first of many.

In the afternoon they helped another neighbor rake her lawn, although I'm not sure help properly describes the squeals, laughter and chaos that resounded.

AFTER THE WORLD'S longest bath and numerous glasses of water, Yvette and Veronica finally fell asleep after our first full day together. I couldn't believe life was going to rush at such a pace for two weeks. But I too had decided I could stand anything for two weeks.

My jerry-rigged clothesline turned into a jump rope, a far more suitable use. The laundry basket became a basketball hoop. We accumulated 18 jars of lightning bugs. Checkers I had borrowed from a friend kept appearing in the kitchen and under the couch. Bandages were consumed almost as fast as cookies and the bathroom was tied up for hours.

But suddenly the two weeks were almost over, and I wasn't sure I wanted our new friends to leave. Steven didn't. They had become a part of our family.

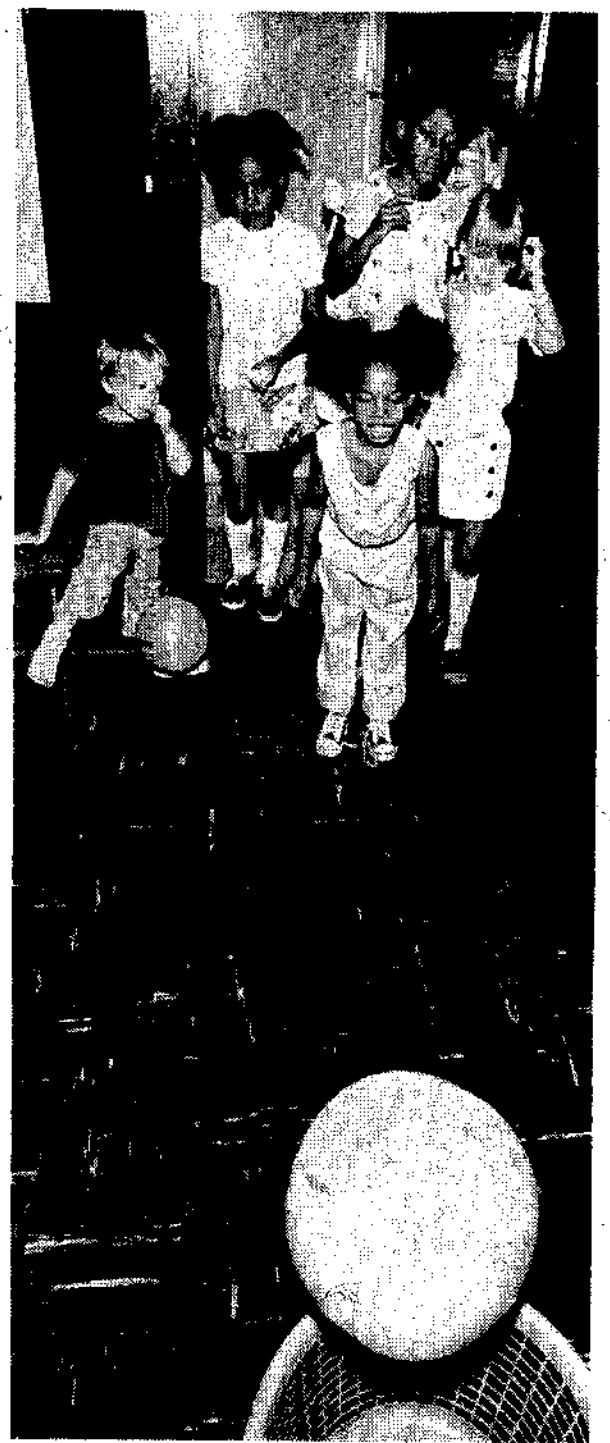

One minute they wanted to stay. The next they were anxious to return to their home.

TWO WEEKS IS just about right. It can be a long time for a young child, but it gives you time to know one another, to establish a routine and to build relationships.

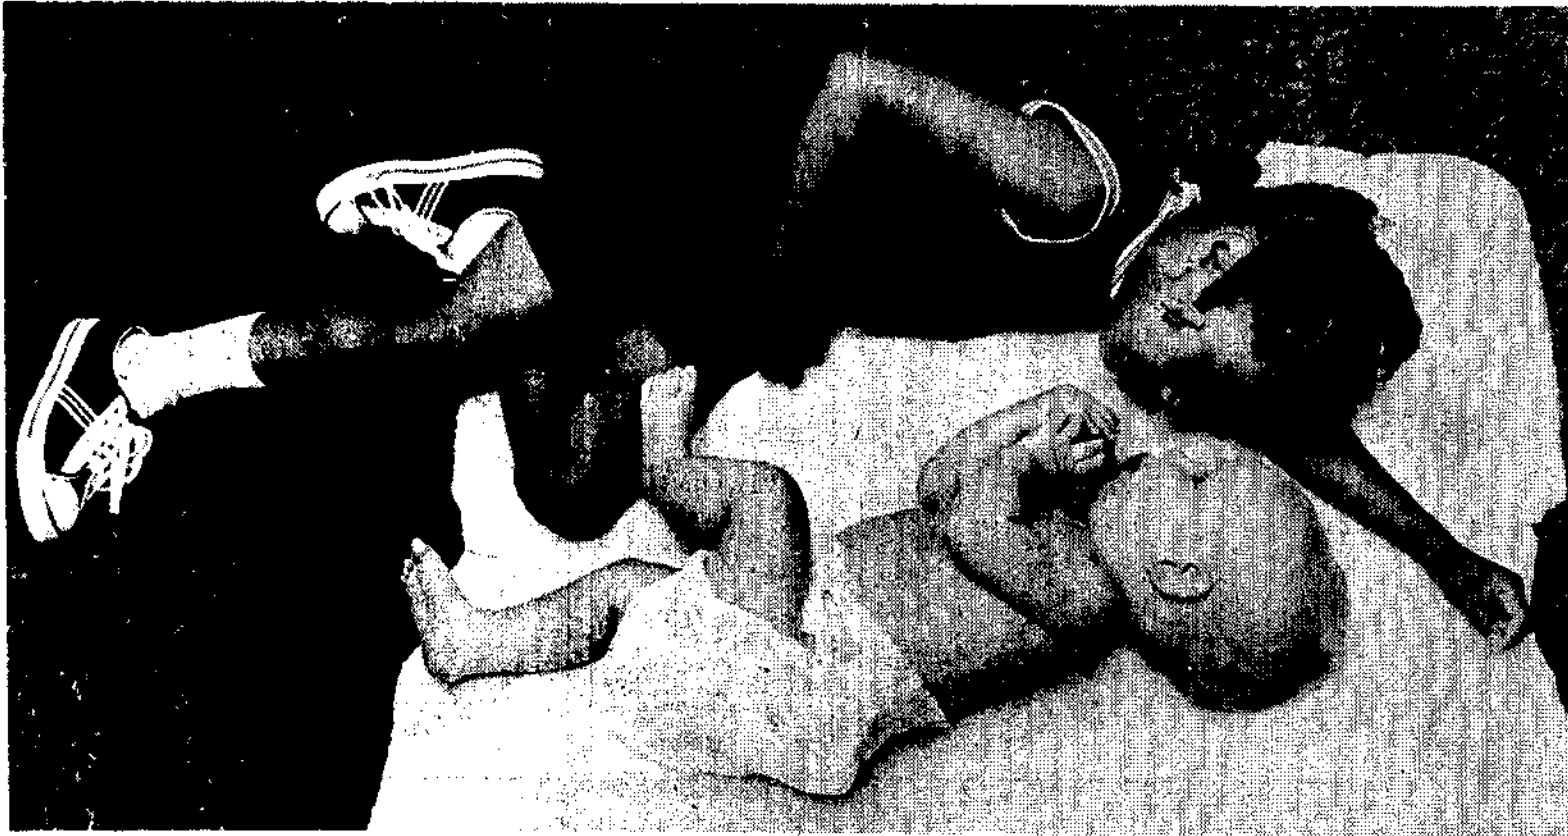

But what do I do with all the quiet now? Nobody is going to run through the house giggling or spill milk on the patio. There are no more skinned knees to medicate. And what do I do with all the lightning bugs?

Bob and I learned a lot about ourselves. What we learned had nothing to do with color — but with children and patience and giving and sharing.

Thank you Yvette and Veronica.

It's party time

David Packard Doesn't Miss The Pentagon Problems

(First of Two Related Articles.)

by MURRAY OLDERMAN
SAN FRANCISCO — (NEA) — The worlds of David Packard, chairman of the board, Hewlett-Packard Company, and Martin Stone, chairman of the board, Monogram Industries, Inc., are, on the surface, quite similar.

Both are eminently successful industrialists.

Both, although born outside the state of California, were educated there and exemplify its career types.

Both had vigorous athletic backgrounds.

Both have distinguished records of public involvement.

And that's where it ends. Because David Packard is a conservative Republican who believes deeply in the political tenets of Richard M. Nixon and was highly involved in our Vietnam policy. And because Martin Stone is a liberal Democrat who has personal political aspirations (unlike Packard) and claims to be the first Californian of any prominence to attack the administration's Vietnam policies.

HERE THEN ARE two noteworthy figures whose views reflect divergent worlds.

We go first to the starkly modern, functional plant of Hewlett-Packard on Page Mill Road in the hills west of Palo Alto. It is an open edifice. No partitions. No one snoozes here. Only the office of David Packard is walled off.

He is a big, solid man who exudes calm. He is just now really getting back into the electronic precision instrument firm which he helped found 34 years ago. For 35 months, until this past December, he was away in Washington as Mr. Nixon's deputy secretary of defense. ("I probably spent as much time in my three years there," he says wryly, "in meeting with Dr. Henry Kissinger as anyone else.")

Now Packard is chairman of the Republican Party's Bay Area Committee to Reelect the President.

"I have taken the job for one simple reason," he says. "I think it's tremendously important to get the President back in the White House for four more years."

He has no ambition to return to Washington himself. He got out when he did because it would have cost him millions personally to remain in government service into 1972. As it was, it is estimated the Washington experience cost him $18 million.

"WASHINGTON IS a tough league," he says. "and it's especially tough in a year like this, with politics. And people are just plain mean. I had no prior political experience of any kind except that I ran for the Palo Alto School board about 20 years ago."

The ITT hearings last spring dismayed him.

"Sen. Kennedy got involved strictly for political reasons," he maintains. "Sen. Proxmire, and I've said this before, takes any fact or figure he can get and quotes it, distorts it, usually out of context, to try and get over some point and make headlines or get on TV. They all do it. Sen. Fulbright, he's one of the worst. He's a fairly sensible man when you see him in private but he gets in front of a TV camera and he isn't trying to do anything for anybody except himself."

Packard, whose main work in the Defense Department involved technical work in procurement, was also a major architect, with Secretary Melvin Laird, of the Vietnamization program in 1969.

"I am still convinced," he says, "the Vietnamization program was the only way we had at that time. To have negotiated the termination of the war in the spring of 1969 would have amounted to unconditional surrender to the North Vietnamese and would have had disastrous consequences in terms of our ability to maintain any leadership throughout the world."

Resumption of the bombing of North Vietnam was to him a logical response to "a aggression by the North Vietnamese, clearly backed by the Soviets, with heavy equipment, tanks, large field guns and heavy anti-aircraft equipment necessary to mount an invasion."

Yet the mood of young people runs counter to his thinking.

"I understand young people are against the war," he says. "I'm against the war; don't like it any better than they do. But they have been fed a line of propaganda that we're the aggressors whereas the contrary is true. We live in a real world; we can't reform it overnight. I wish we could."

"If North Vietnam was convinced that this country is united behind the President, I think we would have had an acceptable negotiation today, or before now. As long as there are large numbers of people in the United States, including elected officials and candidates for high office, who are giving more support to North Vietnam than they are giving to their own country, then it's going to be very difficult to achieve a satisfactory negotiation."

"I'm sure the North Vietnamese think if McGovern is elected, we'll just turn Southeast Asia over to them."

What did the Washington experience do for him as an individual?

"IT WAS A LIBERAL education in learning firsthand how government operates. The Defense Department is large; I doubt it will ever be a model of efficiency. There is a great deal of ineptness in allocation of resources. Then there are Congressional pressures. I'm sure we could save a billion dollars a year if we had a free hand in selecting the bases and operating facilities without political influence."

David Packard is now free of these pressures. Life is a lot less hectic. Almost every weekend he retreats to one of the three ranches he owns in the inland valleys, for some hunting and fishing. He will be 60 in September. He is content that he has done his share of civic duties.

"I can decide now," he says, "what I want to do today or tomorrow."

GENERAL INFORMATION:

Palatine, the fifth town on the solid line of northwest "finger" communities along the C&N's right-of-way, is a cross between country town and city suburb. The central village has a peaceful appearance given by towering trees and large frame houses. Palatine celebrated its centennial as a "real home town" in 1955, during the decade of its 182% population growth. Recently, several industrial parks have been developed along with separate distinct areas for light industry and professional building complexes.

SCHOOLS:

There are 13 elementary and 2 high schools serving the area. The pupil-teacher ratio is 22:1 with $627 spent annually per pupil. In addition, there are 2 Catholic and 1 Lutheran elementary school. Harper Junior College is also located within the village.

CHURCHES:

Included in the village are 3 Catholic, 3 Lutheran, an Apostolic Baptist, Bible, Christian Service, Episcopal, Evangelic and Reformed, Presbyterian, and United Methodist houses of worship.

HOUSING:

The majority of the homes in Palatine were built during the last 12 years, and range in price from $34,000 to $175,000. New homes start at $37,500. There are some 2,200 rentals priced from $200 to $350 per month. Several multi-acre total living developments are under construction, and there are many ultra-modern townhouses and apartment complexes on the perimeter of the village.

TRANSPORTATION:

C&NW railroad provides 53 minute service to the Loop (40 minutes on express trains). United Motor Coach buses make 89 minute trips to the Loop. Schaumburg Transportation Company provides local bus service and Northwest Tollway entrance is 3 miles south of the village.

MEDICAL:

Northwest Community Hospital in adjacent Arlington Heights and Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village provide health care. There are 3 family medical centers in town, plus an additional center in the planning stages. There are currently 16 practicing doctors and 15 dentists in Palatine.

TOWN SHOPPING:

The active two-part downtown area is supplemented by 5 outlying areas. In addition, Palatine residents may make use of Randhurst Center in nearby Mount Prospect and Woodfield Mall is located 2 miles south at Golf Road and Route 53. There are 3 20-unit shopping centers planned for areas on the perimeter of the village.

RECREATION:

The Palatine Park District and the Salt Creek Park District serve this suburb and the surrounding communities. There are several forest preserves, 2 community golf courses, plus 8 nearby public and private country clubs, tennis clubs, and golf courses. Arlington Park Race Track is located 2 miles southeast of the village. A Y.M.C.A. is to be completed in 1973.

HISTORY:

Many of the early settlers of the Palatine area came from New England, probably in search of rich farmland. Using Indian trails, they continued north and west of the settlement at Fort Dearborn (named Chicago). Two of these trails are today Algonquin and Rand Roads. The location of the Village of Palatine was determined by the building of the present Wisconsin Division of the Chicago and North Western Railway, which first operated as the Illinois and Wisconsin and then the Prairie du Chien and Fond du Lac. The government of Palatine officially began in 1866.

No history would be complete without some mention of the enormous population growth during the last 25 years. In the 12 years since 1960, Palatine's population has increased from 11,504 to 27,500, a jump of more than 239%. During the last 12 years there has also been a marked increase in the industrial growth rate.

CLUBS AND ORGANIZATIONS:

Palatine residents enjoy numerous social and civic clubs, and there is the famous "Joint" teenage supervised social club.

GOVERNMENT:

The Mayor of Palatine heads its village form of government. He is also the Village President, and heads a Board of 6 trustees, all of whom are elected at large. The Village Manager, chief administrator, is responsible for carrying out the policies and legislation passed by the Village Board.

Interest Rates Seen As Stable For 1972

Interest rates for home mortgage loans will continue to be relatively stable for the rest of 1972, according to a June survey among members of Inter-City Relocation Service.

ICRS, the nation's leading real estate referral organization, polled its market research committee on local prevailing interest rates and other conditions in the real estate market. The committee represents a cross-section of the nearly 6,000 U.S. cities and towns in which ICRS broker-members help families on the move sell former residences and buy new homes.

About half the responding committee members predicted no changes in mortgage interest rates in their communities during the rest of 1972. Most of the remainder foresaw maximum increases of 1/4 per cent, in August or September or "after the election," although a scattering thought increases might be as high as 1/2 per cent.

FOR JANUARY-JUNE, the average prevailing rate reported was about 7 1/3 per cent, falling slightly from 7.32 per cent in January to 7.30 per cent in March and April, and climbing to 7.34 per cent in June.

More than half the respondents reported house prices in their areas, April-June, remained about the same as they were in January-March, 1972. Among those reporting higher house prices in the second quarter, the average increase was 6.2 per cent, over January-March. This compared to a 6 per cent price increase, January-March over the last half of 1971, reported by three-quarters of respondents to a similar ICRS survey conducted in March.

Members responding to the June survey were agreed that house prices for the remainder of the year can be expected to stay at about the April-June level.

About three-quarters of members surveyed reported continued increases in personnel transfers by companies located in their market area. In this key area of ICRS members' service, average increases in transferee activity of 27.4 per cent (with 1970 as a base year) were reported.

ASSISTING TRANSFEREES with their housing problems helped 72 per cent of responding members realize better over-all business in their offices in April-June, 1972, than in either April-June, 1971, or January-March, 1972.

General real estate conditions continued to be favorable, according to the survey. A "sellers market" — in which most houses can be expected to sell in a relatively short time, at close to asking prices — was reported by 91.7 per cent in April-June, 1972. Seventy-six per cent predicted that sellers market conditions will prevail for the rest of the year.

75 Million Acres Of Forest Land In Need Of Replanting

It's time we started replanting America's trees, says the American Forestry Assn.

According to AFA's best estimate, there are presently over 75 million acres of forest land in the U.S. in need of replanting. These lands, scattered throughout federal, state, and private ownerships, are in both rural and urban areas. Over 60 billion seedlings will be needed to carry out this mammoth job of reforestation.

AFA stresses that the need to replant is urgent and must be completed within the next decade if we are to keep pace with the increasing use of forest products and the even greater need for the ameliorating effects of trees in purifying air, stabilizing watersheds, and controlling climate.

To air this problem, AFA is calling a National Tree Planting Conference to be held October 22-26 of this year at the Rivergate Convention Center in New Orleans, La. This is a ways and means conference and the public is invited.

Russell Train, chairman of the President's Council of Environmental Quality, will be the keynote speaker. Train recently led the U.S. delegation to Stockholm for the U.N. Conference on the Human Environment.

Mark Evans, a nationally known television and radio announcer and producer will be master of ceremonies.

Other prominent people who have accepted an invitation to speak at the conference are North Carolina Governor Robert Scott, and Mrs. Kermit V. Haugan, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. State Foresters will play a large role at the meeting in terms of pinpointing specific state needs and suggesting ways to get the job done.

For further information regarding exhibit space at the convention or attendance write The American Forestry Assn., 1319 18th St., N.W., Washington, D.C.

People More Interested In Communities: Exec

There are thousands of Americans for whom the label "home buyer" is a complete misnomer. "They really are community buyers," said Jackson W. Goss, president of Investors Mortgage Insurance Co., Boston, who explained that "these families and individuals — whose first consideration when buying a home is where, not what, they are purchasing."

Investors Mortgage, a subsidiary of Continental Investment Corp., Boston, is an organization in the private mortgage insurance industry. The company works with lenders, such as savings and loan associations, mutual savings banks and commercial banks, by insuring the top 20-25 per cent of high-ratio conventional mortgage loans.

"Community-oriented buyers are found in the rapidly growing number of open space communities — developments in which some land has been left open to be used and enjoyed by residents of the community."

A recent independent survey of 721 families in 15 open space communities, scattered throughout the country, pointed up the fact that, for 23 per cent of those families, the community was more important than the actual home they purchased. While 28 per cent gave first consideration to the edifice, 49 per cent gave equal weight to home and community before buying," Goss noted.

THE ANSWERS indicated very strongly that those communities with the greatest number and largest variety of communal facilities had the largest number of families who put location ahead of the actual dwelling.

"This was particularly true in those developments where townhouses dominated the housing picture. And, it turns out that 63 per cent of the families said they would definitely recommend their communities to friends. Their reasons were directly related to the community or its environment," Goss said.

The most frequently mentioned community characteristics or factors included safety street patterns, quiet rural atmosphere, recreational facilities, convenience of shopping facilities, jobs and schools and the people.

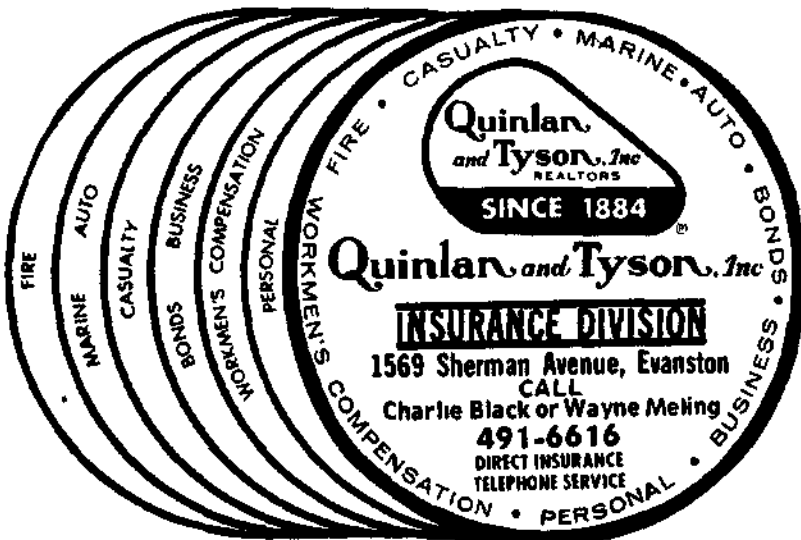

"About two out of every three families said that open spaces and good community planning strongly influenced their final decisions."

"The most popular recreational facilities were swimming pools, trails for walking, jogging and bicycling, play areas for children, and tennis courts," Goss said.

"The trend — well, today potential buyers cast a very discerning eye first at the neighborhood — then at the home," Goss said.

Credit, Housing Market Will Be Less Favorable

The housing and credit market during the next few years are unlikely to be as favorable to the potential home buyer or renter as they are today, the United States Savings and Loan League said today.

In its "Midyear Report on Trends and Economic Policies," the trade association, which represents more than 4,700 savings and loan associations across the nation, reported that several factors account for the likely change in prospects, among them the pick-up in the economy and the continuation of inflation.

The report is prepared by the League's 124-man Trends and Economic Policies Committee, chaired by E. O. Knowles, president, People's Savings Association, Toledo, Ohio.

"The current economic recovery appears to be picking up sufficient steam to guarantee a very good business year in 1973," the publication stated. "At the same time, our government's anti-inflation efforts appear to be only moderately successful."

"With this combination, we can expect higher credit demands, a lower savings rate and generally higher interest rates as 1973 comes into focus."

The publication said that the mortgage interest rate can also be expected to creep up with a resultant decline in house sales. It predicted higher home prices due to recent increases in material costs and another jump in labor costs.

Another factor adding to the monthly payments of homeowners and renters is the plight of our municipal governments which, according to the report, will require a continuation of increases in real estate taxes.

The current homebuilding boom is not expected to continue indefinitely.

"Signs of overheating have begun to appear, and housing starts are expected to taper off gradually during the next 18 months," the League report said. "As the backlog of demand for new dwellings is filled, vacancy rates will rise and homebuilders will cut back their plans. Signs of overbuilding have already begun to crop up, especially in the multi-family market."

The publication reported a cutback in the market absorption of new apartments. Today, 60 per cent of all new apartment units are occupied within the first three months. In 1970 and 1971 the absorption rate was 75-80 per cent during the same period.

The single family home market is reflecting similar supply-and-demand influences, with the ratio of homes for sale to sold units indicating that it takes a little longer to sell a house than it did a year ago.

During the first half of 1971, there was less than four months' supply of new homes on the market, currently, almost five months' supply of new units is on the market," the report said. "At the current rapid rate of absorption, this ratio should not yet be worrisome, but a further increase would be of concern."

Plan Heating First

According to the U. S. Department of Commerce, homeowners will spend $18 billion in home improvements this year. To get the most for their money, the Chicago-based Better Heating-Cooling Council advises them to plan their heating first, since nine out of ten home improvements projects will require heating. It will make the new room more livable all year long.

Summertime Leisure Is Boon To The Burglars

Practically everybody relishes long weekends and lengthy summertime vacations away from home including burglars.

According to ADT, the nation's leading supplier of electrical protection services to homes, business and institutions, the summer months afford the burglar a prime opportunity for attacks against residences.

For an experienced burglar, spotting an apartment or home that has been left temporarily vacant by a vacationing family is usually an easy matter. An accumulation of newspapers or milk bottles at a front or side door is one obvious clue, as are darkened windows during the early evening hours.

Citing current crime statistics compiled by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, ADT notes that nighttime residential burglaries soared 129 per cent in 1970, compared to 1960. The number of daytime burglaries of homes was even more alarming, with an increase of 337 per cent reported for the decade.

Also indicated by statistics is the fact that the number of burglaries begins to rise above the national average in July and August, abates in September, and then begins to climb to its annual peak in November.

If you plan to be away during the summer months, a few single precautions can actually decrease your home's vulnerability to intrusion. If your home isn't equipped with an effective burglar alarm system, preferably one that is linked by telephone line to a central station, the next best way to help thwart burglary is by giving your home a "lived in" appearance.

There are a number of ways to avoid tipping off a burglar to the fact that your home is unoccupied. Cancelling all deliveries will prevent a tell-tale clutter of newspapers and milk bottles from accumulating behind your door, ADT notes. By leaving a key with a neighbor, periodic checks of the home can be conducted and mail deliveries collected.

Still other precautions suggested by the company include the use of electric timers to turn house lights on at dusk, off at bedtime; periodic maintenance of lawns to prevent an uncared for look and the storing of valuables, such as stocks, bonds and jewelry in a safe deposit box.

Then, too, if you live in an area where police check on unoccupied homes, be certain to notify them of your date of departure and expected date of return. Just as there are basic "do's" in keeping your home secure during the summer vacation months, there are also several "don'ts," ADT cautions. Don't hide a key near a door for emergencies; it may be used to gain illegal entry. Don't draw all window shades or blinds. Similarly, don't disconnect the telephone or remove all patio and lawn furniture. One or two old pieces, which you won't mind losing, should be left in view.

Mandatory precautions include the use of saw-proof, dead bolt, double cylinder locks on all exterior doors; screwing wooden or metal blocks into the side track of sash windows to prevent them from being opened wide enough to permit entry and indelibly marking all appliances, cameras and similar items with personal identification to indicate ownership.

In addition, the firm has projects in Florida, New Jersey and California.

Phase I Of Ivy Glen Is Now Open

LIKE ALL IVY Glen-Palatine units, exterior design of The Draper House is in the Williamsburg tradition.

Draper House has four, two-story, two bedroom homes.

PITT-DIXON IS ONE of 10 exterior designs available at Ivy Glen-Palatine. It features four two-floor, two-bedroom homes and one two-bedroom ranch home.

The first phase of a $50 million, 120-acre condominium community called Ivy Glen-Palatine has opened in Palatine township.

Workmen and decorators have put the finishing touches on three furnished model suites and an elaborate display center at Ivy Glen-Palatine, located off Dundee Rd., just west of Route 53 in northwestern Cook County.

When completed, the 30-acre first phase of Ivy Glen-Palatine will consist of 664 condominium homes and 137 townhouses. Plans for the final 40 acres have not yet been completed.

The initial model units are housed in four and five-plex buildings designed in the colonial Williamsburg tradition. Model homes include a pair of two-bedroom colonial homes and a two-bedroom ranch home.

Prices of the Ivy Glen-Palatine homes range from $20,990 for a standard two-bedroom colonial unit to $23,990 for two bedroom patio units. Minimum down payment is 5 per cent.

Townhouse models will be open for inspection about October 1.

A new extension of Baldwin Road, from Dundee to Gardenia Lane, will serve Ivy Glen-Palatine. The huge site is bounded by Baldwin Road, Gardenia Lane, Long Grove, Nichols and Hicks Roads.

An integral part of the Ivy Glen-Palatine community will be a new elementary school to be built by Community School District 15 on 7.2 acres of land donated by Building Systems Housing Corporation and its parent company, Building Systems, Inc.

The first phase of Ivy Glen-Palatine also will include a recreation area, complete with outdoor swimming pools and bath facilities.

"Ivy Glen-Palatine presents the consumer with a complete quality package at a low price and with a small down payment," said Walter Zaremba, president of Building Systems Housing Corporation.

Zaremba pointed out that each home is centrally air conditioned, carpeted wall to wall and includes oven-range, dishwasher, refrigerator and disposal.

Floor plan of the Ivy Glen-Palatine homes features a large L-shaped living and dining room, adjoined by a large, fully-equipped kitchen.

Both bedrooms are large and include spacious closets. Tile baths are standard in all Ivy Glen-Palatine homes.

"Considerable effort has been made to insure resident privacy," Zaremba commented. "Our special sound-engineered walls insure this."

Each Ivy Glen home has its own entrance, enclosed garage and storage space.

How To Escape Home Air Pollution

You don't have to move to a South Sea island or encase your house and yard in a plastic dome to escape air pollution. Subtler means do exist for those who prefer to "work within the system."

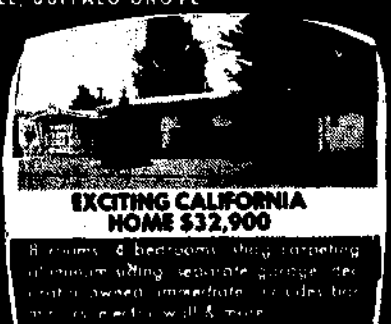

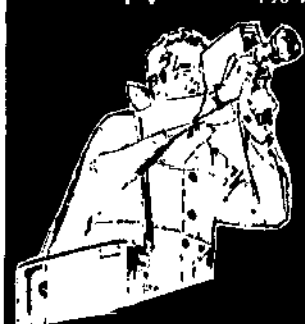

Electronic air cleaning units are now available which operate at low wattage to free the air of man-made pollutants (automobile emissions, industrial fumes, tobacco smoke, home heating and cooking fumes; and the natural pollutants, dust and pollen.

The West Bend Co. has developed a two-speed air cleaner which removes microscopic polluting particles as well as larger visible particles. Set at high speed, the unit circulates and purifies air in a 15x20 ft. room about seven times per hour. Minute particles are charged electronically and collected magnetically, while household odors are removed by means of a charcoal filter.

Time was, if you hoped to own a fancy house, you had to pay a fancy price.

Time's up. Thanks to a revolutionary way of building that does for houses what Henry Ford did for cars.

We put four fabulous two-story homes under just one roof. So they'd look like just one very big, very handsome house. And so we could split up the cost four ways.

We also manufactured all the parts we could. So they'd cost less and be made better. And we built all our houses in clusters. So every one would look out on a super-colossal front yard (instead of the typical, tiny front- and backyard). So we could even save you money on land.

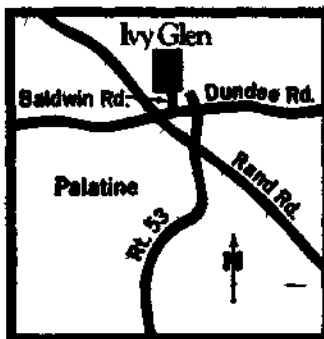

As for the inside, it's a dream. Big and cozy. Two bedrooms. Carpeting wall to wall. GE oven-range, refrigerator-freezer, dishwasher and disposer. Central heating and air conditioning. Storage space. Enclosed garage. And privacy aplenty, from your own entrance to special sound-engineered walls that hush all the noise.

There's more. Something you'd hardly expect to get for $20,990. No maintenance. Nothing at all to interfere with the way you spend your free time. And all for just $950 down and a total monthly payment of $151.*

Of course, you may want another bedroom. Fine. You've also got your choice of three-bedroom floor plans. And four- or five-family homes, in ten exterior designs and one or two stories. (We think variety is the spice of homes, too.)

You're welcome to see our model homes any day of the week between 10 and 10. We're in Palatine. On Baldwin Rd., north of Dundee (Rt. 68) between Rand and I-53. Ivy Glen. Handsome two- and three-bedroom homes, from $20,990. (312) 359-9212.

THE TOWN HOMES of Normandy Hills, Inc. in Northbrook offer two or three bedrooms with library and family room and 2½ baths. This community is located just west of Sportsman's Country Club.

Institute Trains Managers Of Low-Income Housing

In a major move to avert a critical shortage of professionally trained housing managers of low and moderate-income housing, the Institute of Real Estate Management, the national association of recognized property managers, has launched a nationwide program to interest and train individuals at the college level in the management of government subsidized housing.

"The nation's housing goal set by Congress of a 'decent home and suitable living environment for every American family' can presently only be met half-way," stated IREM President Paul H. Riddle, Pittsburgh.

He noted that the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) follows a timetable for the construction and rehabilitation of housing projects to meet the need of a "decent home," but solid provisions have not been made to insure a "suitable living environment" by training the 102,000 people that will be needed in the next five years to oversee the human interests of the nation's low and moderate-income families.

THE PROGRAM revolves around a prepared college course with text materials developed by IREM to serve the aims of HUD. Members of the Institute, who are accredited Certified Property Managers direct the course to students in two- and four-year colleges.

"Our aim is to have them reach the same degree of competence in management that exists in the profit-making areas of real estate," Riddle said.

First step in the education program has already been made as IREM members who will serve as instructors met in Chicago for a conference on teaching techniques.

Coupled with the college course, IREM has offered to send teams of professional property managers to manage on a trial basis some of the nation's critically delinquent housing projects. The offer was made to HUD regional offices to provide a concrete example that projects managed by professionals can reduce vandalism, decrease vacancies and contribute to the safety and health of the tenants.

After acquainting students participating in the program with the purpose of housing from both the standpoint of ownership and residents, the course analyzes the methods of determining need and existing housing inventory in any community with emphasis on the types and functions of federal programs.

THE MECHANICS of business administration and on-site human relations are covered through a study of safety and security, communications, social resources, residents' groups and recreational facilities.

Since its inception in 1934, IREM has been concerned with the development and recognition of professionalism in property management. The awarding of membership is based on experience, extensive local references, and education through the Institute courses. The 3,600-member Institute is a professional affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, headquartered in Chicago.

Normandy Hill Offers Freedom For Parents

If the creators of Normandy Hill in Northbrook have their way, there may soon be a new liberation movement — "The Mom and Dad Lib." Their spacious townhomes and condominium apartment homes offer new freedom, particularly to parents whose children are now young adults living a life of their own. By selling their present home and using the equity, chances are they can actually live luxuriously for less than before, without upkeep costs, but still enjoying tax benefits as a home owner.

Actually, this complete condominium community turns adults in their forties free to do the things time wouldn't permit while their youngsters were growing up. Mindful, however, that even though "liberated" Mom and Dad want and need space to put up children coming home to visit, most models have an extra bedroom and another spare room ideal as a combination guest room, den, TV, sewing, or sitting room.

In addition, with over 10 different floor plans and options available, buyers can choose virtually any lifestyle they prefer, from a large, lavish 3-bedroom townhome model with library and over 3500 square feet of living space, to a more compact 2-bedroom, 2-bath condominium apartment home covering approximately 1375 square feet.

Prices for apartment homes range from $39,900 to $63,900; townhomes from $64,500 to $68,900.

Normandy Hill is near to all the things that have made Northbrook one of the area's fastest growing and most prestigious suburbs. There's golf and bowling just a couple of blocks away at Sportsman's Country Club, only a short distance is Northbrook's new Sports Complex and ice skating rink. The Milwaukee Railroad Station is only a few minutes away, and drivers are close to both the Tri-State Tollway or Edens Expressway. Fine restaurants abound on nearby Milwaukee Avenue north and south of Wheeling.

When completed, Normandy Hill will include four condominium buildings, (the first of which is already over 80% sold). Each building will have 25 apartment homes, and there will be a total of 43 town home units.

A luxurious clubhouse which is completed and open to all residents includes a magnificent wood and gas-burning stone fireplace, indoor pool for year-round swimming, billiard room, men's and women's saunas, showers, lockers, and toilet facilities, plus ample room to socialize with friends and neighbors.

The 3-floor condominium buildings offer individually controlled central air conditioning, underground parking for residents, roomy, gaily decorated laundry room with automatic washers and dryers, ultra-modern elevators, and thickly carpeted corridors.

The entire community will be beautifully landscaped to provide secluded privacy. Most apartments have either a patio or terrace and such features as woodburning fireplaces, separate dining room, eating space in kitchen, king-sized master suites with dressing area and private baths, TV jacks, and choice of stone, ceramic or quarry floors in the entry.

Where Normandy Hill's apartment homes are actually one-floor ranch homes, the town homes are on 2 floors, including basement and attached garage. The builder makes available such choices as 2 bedrooms with sitting room or two bedrooms plus den.

The community is located just west of Sportsman's Country Club on Dundee Road (Rt. 68) within the Village of Northbrook limits. It can be reached by taking Edens Expressway to Dundee Road, and then turning west to Dundee homes. Or, take the Tri-State Tollway to Dundee Road and turn east to model.

PEPPY ORANGES, soothing whites, and a combination of furniture styles and periods help achieve an almost barn-like country atmosphere in the living room of the Dogwood, the upper level ranch model at The Trees of Wheaton. In creating the home for Albert Riley, Builder, Richard Honquest and Associates, interior designers, use a warm orange cut pile carpeting and deep orange casement style draperies to sound the color theme for the home. Lavish use of ferns and other botanical specimens — a Honquest trademark — and elaborate use of accessories help give a finished look to the room which is generously lighted by sliding thermal glass doors leading to a huge balcony unique to this unit. The woodwork has an old English brushed white finish.

Apartment Activity Down

In an analysis of home building activity in the six-county Chicago metropolitan area for the first half of 1972, single family home permits increased 4 per cent and multi-family permits decreased 22 per cent from the number reported in the same period last year, according to the Bell Federal Savings Survey of Building.

Home permits in 1971 totaled 11,537 while 11,972 are reported for the first half of this year. Permits for apartments during the first half of 1971 totaled 15,928 while only 12,444 were reported for the comparable period this year.

Bell's housing statistics reveal the apartment influx picked up sharply in 1961 and 1962, but then declined slightly until 1969 when a record 18,757 was reported in the six county area.

"We entered the 70's with very low vacancy rates and a relative space shortage," said Roland J. Barstow, President of Bell Federal Savings and Loan Association. "In 1971 a number of multi-family housing projects were initiated with many under special FHA programs so multi-family permits rose to peak levels."

Barstow said the single family increase indicates the firmness of this market and conceivably could offset the apartment decline by the end of this year.

The statistics of our Bell Federal Survey of Building show the years 1954 (20,034 homes), 1955 (23,863 homes), and 1956 (21,378 homes) as having attained the greatest growth in any first half in the entire postwar era.

TOTAL HOUSING units (including single family and apartment) reached only 23,416 this year compared to 27,295 in 1971. Last year was the 2nd greatest year since the end of World War II. The best effort was achieved in 1969 with 28,698 total housing units.

"The projected permit total by the end of 1972 indicates approximately 25,300 single family homes and 26,400 apartment units in the six county area covered by the Survey," indicated Barstow. His 51,700 total would be a decrease of 18 per cent from the 62,961 reported in the 12 month period of 1971.

"There is no doubt in my mind," continued Barstow, "that homebuilding gave the economy a powerful and badly needed shot-in-the-arm last year. Soaring housing activity did much to help lift the country out of a recession. In some sectors the demand appears to be catching up with the supply, but a high rate of mobility among home owners and a growing number of first time buyers continue to be important factors in stimulating the market.

"Also, the used housing market will be supported by the starts earlier this year. These starts are now becoming completions, and many of those who move into new homes have existing homes to sell."

"There is little question but that the high flow of savings into the nation's savings and loan associations has been the pump primer to the economic recovery in our country and, to the extent that savings continues to be channeled into thrift institutions, housing starts can remain in the forefront of this recovery," noted Barstow.

"BUILDERS AND savings and loan associations always have had a close relationship with each other. Today, the savings and loans serve homebuilders in many ways. A savings and loan could start out by lending a builder the bulk of the funds to buy vacant land, lend him more to make sewer, water and other on-site improvements, advance additional funds for model houses, and finally provide the long-term mortgages for the homebuyers."

"What of new housing for the rest of the year? When savings and loans are in a strong liquid position, they tend to make advance commitments many months into the future," said Barstow. "This condition exists today and we therefore are virtually assured of a strong support for housing from this source well in 1972," concluded Barstow.

Wisconsin Hilltop Club To Be Completed Soon

The Hilltop Club, an elaborate $100,000 clubhouse with recreational facilities, is now under construction at Abbey Hill, the luxury resort condominium community currently being developed by Hilltop Associates in Fontana-on-Geneva Lake, Wis.

Scheduled for completion this month, the two-story clubhouse is planned for the private use of condominium residents and their guests. When completed, it will have two lounges with wood-burning fireplaces, one on each level of the building. The upper lounge will be used for both formal and informal entertaining; the lower lounge will be used in winter as a warming house for ice skaters using the skating pond.

Other facilities include an outdoor swimming pool with an extensive surrounding sundeck; an outdoor therapy pool, saunas and locker rooms. The clubhouse will have two guest rooms. Living quarters for the community's maintenance manager also will be included in the clubhouse.

Abbey Hill, with over 50 condominium homes built so far, is the sister community of Abbey Springs Resort Condominiums and Recreation Core, also being developed in Fontana.

Residents of Abbey Hill automatically are entitled to use the facilities of the extensive Recreation Core of Abbey Springs and to become members of both the Yacht Club and Country Club.

Abbey Hill offers three types of condominium homes, ranging from two-to four-bedroom designs and priced from $42,000 to $53,500. The unique one-and two-level architectural designs blend into the thickly wooded environment.

The furnished model condominiums are located on Highway 67, southwest of Fontana, and are open daily (including weekends) from 11 a.m. until dusk.

Baird & Warner

Baird & Warner Mortgage and Realty Investors, Chicago-based real estate investment trust, declared a fourth quarter dividend of 44 cents per share.

In previous quarters the trust, which completes its first year of operation on July 31, announced successive dividends of 36, 34, and 38 cents per share. Together with the 44 cents announced for the current quarter the regular dividend payout during the trust's first fiscal year totals $1.46 per share.

Expert Notes Environment Emphasis

An acre of green grass sells homes of all ages.

"And this is a theme that many land developers are translating into successful housing developments," observed Duane A. Holladay, managing trustee of Continental Mortgage Investors, which is the nation's largest independently sponsored real estate trust in mortgage lending.

"The emphasis today is on environment — potential home buyers want to see, not hear what a new subdivision will look like. Many a developer has had his grand opening turn sour as he watched cars stream through the gate, stir up a miniature dust storm on unpaved streets — and then observed those same cars stream right back out again.

"NOR DOES THE prospective buyer want to spend time driving around and around looking for the model homes area that somehow or other remains hidden," Holladay noted.

Fortunately, he said, most developers realize that planning goes far beyond a simple subdivision street map and sample floor plans of proposed homes.

"Before a builder actually starts selling, he should translate at least a portion of his plans into reality and give the potential buyer something to see and touch," Holladay emphasized.

A GOOD CHECK list for a developer,

he said, should include:

Making certain the marketing program is geared to people-to-people relations; having a good house or apartment to start with; developing the best possible land plan.

Creating a sample of the planned environment and having it ready for the formal opening — landscaped entrances, model homes, greenbelts and recreational areas;

Keeping production areas clean; Concentrating sales centers — making them accessible and easy to find. These must be centers where visitors ask questions and get meaningful answers;

Emphasizing safety and security; one being ready to deliver. Potential buyers will not accept vague promises and time tables. They want specifics.

"The task of today's home builder and developer goes far beyond merely providing basic shelter. He must create an environment, indeed a lifestyle. The forward thinking builders know that potential homeowners buy for today but they plan for tomorrow," said Holladay.

Good Lighting Can Add To Your Home's Beauty

Well-placed lighting can create an outdoor living room usable for all members of the family.

But effective outdoor illumination calls for more than the casual placement of a few floodlights under the eaves, advises the American Home Lighting Institute (AHLI).

Outdoor lighting can expand your family's pleasures in two ways: it expands the size of your living area, both visually and spatially; it multiplies the hours and the seasons when your family can derive use and enjoyment from the garden.

Lighting also can make a home safer. A flood of illumination, available at the flick of a switch, wards off prowlers and thieves.

EXPERT HELP in planning outdoor lighting for beauty, livability and safety is available at AHLI "Light for Living Centers," recognized by AHLI as sources of quality lighting services.

Artistic planning of lighting can gain dimension for even a small urban patio and dramatize a sizable suburban garden.

The pleasures of a garden should not be confined to daytime and summertime. A sweep of lawn scattered with multi-colored autumn leaves, or the fragile tracery of icy branches can be enjoyed as fully as a flourishing garden in spring — if lighting lets it be seen.

Every house has at least one garden area that is worth night viewing — a graceful willow, 'weathered sculpture, colorful plantings, or perhaps even a stream or pool. When subtly lit, any of these emerge from the darkness with a radiant beauty visible only at night.

A well-lighted terrace or patio becomes a "garden room" — delightful for entertaining or just, quiet relaxing. Conceal 150 PAR floodlights in trees, or fasten to roof overhangs, focused on the terrace for maximum benefit.

FLOWER PLANTINGS are enhanced at night by low-to-the-ground fixtures, spiked among the plantings every 10 feet or so. Such lighting also provides safety for walking.

Trees, depending on their variety and placement, may be illuminated in varying ways for different effects.

Deciduous, open-branched trees, such as the flowering crabapple and the willow, benefit from lighting mounted within the tree. A floodlight, directed upward, will diffuse a luminous shimmer throughout the leaves.

Lacy, delicately foliaged trees, such as the European larch, are more attractive when lit from ground level. To silhouette the branches, place a spotlight behind the tree, with a small spot up front.

Local AHLI "Light for Living Centers" display a wide choice of styles and types of outdoor lighting fixtures, as well as offer guidance in selecting and placing them for best effects.

Their consultants can help bring your nighttime surroundings to life with light.

ON BEHALF of Centex Homes Corporation, James Bleaser (left), vice president, Illinois region, presents John Moodie, mayor of Palatine, with the deeds conveying title to land which belonged to Centex Homes in their communities of Hunting Ridge and Willow Creek. The land being deeded at Willow Creek, Centex Homes' condominium community at Rte. 53 and Northwest Highway in Palatine, consists of a 39-acre site which is planned for use as a recreational area and includes a lake of approximately 15 acres. The village of Palatine also received title to the pond located behind the model homes at Hunting Ridge, Centex Homes' custom built single-family home community located at South Quentin Road in Palatine.

TIPS TO HOME BUYERS AND HOME SELLERS FROM MAP MULTIPLE LISTING REAL ESTATE SERVICE

THE LOCATION OF YOUR HOME!

Certainly, there are many important factors to be considered when selecting a home. One of the most important is the actual LOCATION of the home in relation to conveniences, shops, schools, parks, transportation and future development and growth of the community.

Two practically identical homes can be priced quite differently and, although there can be no obvious difference in the style, space and condition of the homes, usually the home that has the better family location will obviously be worth more.

Location is just as important to the worth of the home as the actual interior and exterior features of the home. Your local MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate offices know the value of location and they make it a point to always show home buyers the advantage (and disadvantages) of various home locations. MAP Real Estate Salespeople know the Northwest Suburbs well... they can point out the many advantages of the area and the many lovely locations that make living more comfortable and convenient.

Bankers' Group Charged With Inconsistencies

The head of Oak Park Federal Savings & Loan Association has charged the Illinois Bankers Association with inconsistencies in the IBA's opposition to Oak Park Federal's application to move its headquarters to Oak Brook while retaining a branch in Oak Park.

John L. Domeier, president and board chairman of Oak Park Federal, said that IBA is correct in urging the Federal Home Loan Bank to maintain its policy of adhering to state guidelines on savings and loan branch operations.

"But since several state-chartered S&Ls already have been given permission to establish branches, thus establishing Illinois policy, the FHLB should grant our application to do the same thing," Domeier said.

The IBA has asked the FHLB to deny Oak Park Federal's request on the grounds that the S&L is not in "low income, inner-city area which is inadequately served by existing savings and loan facilities." Past FHLB policy permitted a federally-chartered S&L to set up headquarters elsewhere if deteriorating local conditions threatened its operations.

But Domeier pointed out that this FHLB policy was established before passage of the 1971 Illinois "facility law" which permits state-chartered S&Ls to set up branches. The Illinois conditions which must be met are those of community need, best interest of the association, no undue injury, and furtherance of the purpose of the facilities act.

"There is absolutely no mention made in Illinois statutes of an S&L having to prove it is in a deteriorating area before it can establish a branch," Domeier said. "While a deteriorating neighborhood may be a condition leading an S&L to seek to move elsewhere, this is not a situation which must exist by law."

"So if the IBA is to be consistent, then it must disregard the FHLB's deteriorating area condition which once applied but no longer does. The IBA voiced no opposition to branch applications of many other Illinois S&Ls, many of which made no mention of deteriorating areas in their applications. Why should the IBA bring this up in our case, unless it has an ulterior motive?"

Domeier noted that the IBA historically has been opposed to branch banking in any form, and successfully defeated Illinois legislation to permit commercial banks to set up branches. Domeier feels that IBA is extending its anti-branch campaign to federally-chartered S&Ls.

"If this is the case, then IBA is beating a dead horse," he said. "Branch banking for S&Ls is very much a reality, at least for state-chartered institutions. At last count, eight state S&Ls had received approval to establish branches, and nine federally-chartered S&Ls have applications pending before the FHLB. All we are asking for is that the FHLB treat the Federally-chartered S&Ls the same as the state-chartered institutions."

Domeier feels that IBA is acting in behalf of banks and S&Ls who fear competitive pressures if large federal S&Ls, such as Oak Park Federal, receive permission to open branches.

"But this is certainly not the case with us," he said. "We are seeking to establish a headquarters in Oak Brook, in the middle of what is the fastest growing county in Illinois, DuPage. There are only three savings and loan associations and six banks within three miles of our proposed site, compared with 22 S&Ls and 16 banks operating within three miles of our present office in Oak Park."

Oak Park Federal contends that since it is a regional savings and loan association rather than a neighborhood institution, it will be better able to serve the western suburban market from a new headquarters in Oak Brook while continuing to serve Oak Park through its

THIRD FULL-SCALE building program in the past 14-year period was recently completed at Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Association, Arlington Heights. Six-week open house was held to celebrate the recent expansion, which doubled its facilities:

A six-week open house celebrating the completion of a large-scale expansion of Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Association boosted the association's total assets above $100 million.

The milestone was reached during the final week ending July 15 as savers added $6 million in net savings over the six-week period. The $100 million goal was attained within 20 years of the association's founding in March, 1953.

Net savings by June 30, had reached $83,065,000, an 18.4 per cent increase during the current year. If projected to year-end 1972 it would mean a 39 per cent gain in net savings, well above last year's 22 per cent increase.

Expansion of the association's headquarters at Campbell and Evergreen St. in downtown Arlington Heights doubled the institution's facilities. It was the third full-scale building program in the past 14 years at this location. Walter Kroeber, of Arlington Heights, who designed the original building, erected in 1958, and planned its expansion in 1962, was also the architect for the most recent development, completed in May, 1972.

"When we planned the latest expansion, we reckoned with a 10-year period of efficient and comfortable use," observed Donald F. Morton, Arlington Federal Savings president. "The way savings and loans are coming in, we'll have to go back to the drawing board much sooner than that."

In addition to providing almost $20,000,000 in earnings to savers over the past 19½ years, Arlington Federal Savings has made over $150,000,000 available in home mortgage loans. Loan volume in 1971 alone reached $11,845,000.

The association began operations in 1953 in a leased store front on North State Road. As customers increased, the directors acquired a downtown corner location opposite the Chicago and Northwestern railroad station.

A Williamsburg colonial-style building with single-story wings was erected and occupied in December 1958, the association using 5,000 square feet of first-floor space to accommodate savers who at that time invested $8,350,000.

The year 1959 witnessed a 52 per cent increase in savings to $12,700,000, and by 1962 further expansion was in order. Addition of second-floor wings increased the total area to 17,000 square feet. Savings assets by year-end 1962 were $23,454,000.

The third and most recent development has increased capacity from 17,000 to 36,000 square feet. In addition, a separate drive-in facility on the Federal Savings parking lot, with staff access by underground corridor, permits simultaneous service to three car customers.

The Association's new quarters have been tastefully furnished and decorated in the Williamsburg tradition. Dark oak wainscoting, gold grass-cloth wallpaper, silk-screen-print draperies in orange with a linen-color background, oil paintings, and brass chandeliers convey a pleasant, homelike atmosphere.

A self-service elevator provides easy access to all four levels of the Federal Savings building. A winding staircase, a dominant feature of the old lobby, has been preserved in the expansion; it leads to the second-floor loan department.

Shopping Center Construction Heads For Record Increase

Shopping center construction, on the rise for the past 10 years, will extend that record in 1972 — accounting for approximately 17 per cent of all private commercial construction this year.

Durand A. Holladay, managing trustee of Continental Mortgage Investors, Boston, notes that "approximately $3.5-plus billion worth of new stores will be started in 1972."

According to the most recent CMI projections, the highest levels of shopping center construction will be recorded this year in Columbus, Ohio; San Diego; Phoenix; Denver; Atlanta; Boston; the Los Angeles/Long Beach area; Philadelphia; Milwaukee and San Francisco.

"By region, we expect the value of new center construction in the Northeast to be up about 14 per cent this year," Holladay said. The north central section will be up about 15 per cent. While the western section of the country will record an overall increase of about 9 per cent, production in some areas will be up as high as 15 to 18 per cent.

"In the South, shopping center construction has leveled off somewhat but there should still be a 4 to 5 per cent increase over 1971 — with a pickup in production in 1973," he said.

Construction costs for new shopping centers are about the same as for other types of commercial building.

The biggest problems facing most builders are a tight labor market, availability of some materials and rising land costs.

"As for architectural trends — well, as usual, the West again leads the rest of the nation in innovative shopping center designs and construction methods," Holladay said.

"ALONG THE EASTERN Seaboard — and especially in Florida — builders are very weather-conscious. Also, building codes in that part of the country do not lend themselves to the more fanciful architecture found in the West," he said.

There is a definitive trend toward multi-level, enclosed mall designs — especially the new, larger regional shopping centers that are now being built.

"The enclosed gallery-type center is certainly most popular," Holladay said. This type of design results in a highly diversified center for a relatively compact area. It can accommodate a larger number of shoppers without forcing them to walk long distances between shops — and stops.

"Builders are having no trouble finding the money — at attractive rates — to put their shopping center development plans into action. Although short-term interest rates are rising slightly, the outlook is for stable — possibly declining — long-term rates," he said.

Single-Family Building Booming

Single-family dwelling construction — now nourished by the availability of 95 per cent conventional mortgages — continues to boom across the country.

So observes Jackson W. Goss, president of Investors Mortgage Insurance Company, Boston, who notes that "many young marrieds are crowding into the home building market for the first time, impelled by the attraction of low cash down payments."

Investors Mortgage Insurance, a subsidiary of Continental Investment Corporation, Boston, is a leading organization in the private mortgage insurance industry. The company works with lenders, such as savings and loan associations, mutual savings banks and commercial banks, by insuring the top 20-25 per cent of high-ratio conventional mortgage loans.

"THE POPULARITY of the 95 per cent mortgage loan has spread into every section of the country — from the retirement communities of Southern Florida to the seascapes of Puget Sound and from leisure-oriented communities in Colorado Springs, Little Rock and Maryland to the condominium developments of Chicago and Dallas. And, although not limited to any particular age group, the 95 percenters strongly attract young families buying their first homes," Goss explains.

IMIC studies indicate a particularly large number of 95 per cent mortgage applications in the Midwest, with rapidly developing markets in the South, Southwest and Far West.

"In St. Louis, whole subdivisions of single-family units are enveloping land areas beyond the Missouri River to the northwest. In Chicago townhouses are also strong. Single-family homes and apartments are reported in demand in Detroit. In Dallas, builders are concentrating on townhouse condominiums, while Denver construction centers on detached homes and condos. Single-family homes lead the way in Atlanta, with condominiums popular in Hollywood, Fla.

"There are a few soft spots around the country," Goss points out, "but the market is strong in most other metropolitan areas.

"When more young potential buyers — and older couples approaching retirement — fully understand the advantages of combining low down payments with private mortgage insurance to cover the top 20 to 25 per cent of their conventional mortgage, I believe we will see an even greater upturn in home construction. This surge should continue well into next year," Goss predicts.

"The cooperation of lending institutions and other financial services organizations is making it possible for thousands of families to sink roots in their own communities and to experience the pride of home ownership.

"It's a new way of life for many, combined with a rebirth of civic responsibility — and, yes, this is good for everybody," Goss concludes.

Chicago NMLS Forms Council

The 24 Chicago member firms of National Multi-List Service (NMLS), comprising a total of 32 real estate offices, have formed their own metropolitan council to better serve the needs of the home buying and selling public relocating to and from the Greater Chicago area.

NMLS is a national marketing network of over 500 cooperating Realtor offices in 47 states. Annen & Busse, Inc. Realtors are the exclusive NMLS member for the MAP Multiple Listing area.

The council has announced plans to hold an all-day meeting and seminar for brokers and sales associates on Thursday, Sept. 27, at The Sheraton Oak Brook in Oak Brook. According to the Chairman Bob James, W. R. James Co., Oak Park, the meeting will center on the marketing innovations developed by NMLS, and future council plans in the area of advertising, and assisting the relocation needs of corporate transferees. More than 200 persons are expected to attend.

James, who is also an NMLS Regional Vice President will be assisted by Realtors: Donald G. Heidorn, Annen & Busse, Inc. Realtors, Arlington Heights; Victor & Helen Klein, Klein & Company, Glen Ellyn; Ruth Moyer, Heathstone Company, Hinsdale; Pete Sorrentino, Walter J. Peterson Realtors, Libertyville; Frank Jones, William R. Schomburg, Realtors, Homewood.

SPEAKING AT the meeting will be

George P. Shafran, NMLS president from Arlington, Va., and Hal W. Bonacker, NMLS director of marketing. Shafran is nationally known in real estate circles. His seven-office Better Homes Realty, Inc. had 1971 residential sales in excess of $110 million. A former member of the Virginia House of Delegates, Shafran was chairman of the 1971 Republican Governors Conference held at Williamsburg.

In their latest endeavor the council has inserted a full-page advertisement in the current "Chicagoand's Community Guide." The ad is headed, "Transferring to Chicago?" ... "You Have Friends Here — Test Them!" The Chicago communities served by these real estate offices, firm addresses and phone numbers are noted in the ad, which tells the reader he can contact any of the so noted Realtors for a free copy of each firm's Homes for Living magazine displaying photos, prices and descriptions of homes available in the Greater Chicago area.

The National Multi-List Service has also established a National Educational Center at its St. Louis headquarters.

Live WIRES For Gladstone

Gladstone, Realtors now has three live WIRES on its staff.

Recently installed as members of Women in Real Estate (WIRE) are Shay Verner and Eunice Lowery of Gladstone's Des Plaines office and Marian Faro of the firm's Franklin Park office.

The organization is composed of professional women interested in all aspects of the real estate field — from management to investments to financing. It keeps its members informed on new legislation and activities affecting Realtors throughout the Chicago area.

"Membership in WIRE is a mark of professionalism, and we are proud to have our associates accepted into the organization," said John L. Markay of the Gladstone firm. He and his partner Vincent J. Bolger recently opened their sixth office. "We are hiring more and more women on our staff," Bolger added. "They're naturals in this field."

MRS. VERNER ATTENDED Chicago's Harrison High School and later graduated from the Realtors Institute of Illinois. Mrs. Lowery, the mother of five youngsters, is a native Chicagoan who lived for several years in Bangkok, Thailand. Both are experienced saleswomen in the Des Plaines offices at 1255 Lee St.

Mrs. Faro joined the Franklin Park office, 9728 Franklin Ave., last year. A licensed real estate saleswoman since 1969, she is a former member of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors and a current member of the Leyden Board of Realtors.

Both Des Plaines residents, Mrs. Verner lives at 2849 Alden Ln. and Mrs. Lowery at 560 Ida.

Mrs. Faro lives at 2205 Gustave in Melrose Park.

Apartment Activity Is On The Downtrend: Bell

In an analysis of home building activity in the six county Chicago metropolitan area for the first half of 1972, single family home permits increased 4 per cent and multi-family permits decreased 22 per cent from the number reported in the same period last year, according to the Bell Federal Savings Survey of Building.

Home permits in 1971 totaled 11,537 while 11,972 are reported for the first half of this year. Permits for apartments during the first half of 1971 totaled 15,928 while only 12,444 were reported for the comparable period this year.

Bell's housing statistics reveal the apartment influx picked up sharply in 1961 and 1962, but then declining slightly until 1969 when a record 18,757 was reported in the six county area.

"We entered the 70's with very low vacancy rates and a relative space shortage," said Roland J. Barstow, President of Bell Federal Savings and Loan Association. "In 1971 a number of multi-family housing projects were initiated with many under special FHA programs to promote housing construction so multi-family permits rose to peak levels.

Barstow said the single family increase indicates the firmness of this market and conceivably could offset the apartment decline by the end of this year.

Total housing units (including single family and apartment) reached only 23,416 this year compared to 27,285 in 1971. Last year was the 2nd greatest year since the end of World War II. The best effort was achieved in 1969 with 28,698 total housing units.

"The projected permit total by the end of 1972 indicates approximately 25,300 single family homes and 26,400 apartment units in the six county area covered by the Survey," indicated Barstow. This 51,700 total would be a decrease of 18 per cent from the 62,961 reported in the 12 month period of 1971.

"There is no doubt in my mind," continued Barstow, "that homebuilding gave the economy a powerful and badly needed shot-in-the-arm last year. Soaring housing activity did much to help lift the country out of a recession. In some sectors the demand appears to be catching up with the supply, but a high rate of mobility among home owners and a growing number of first time buyers continue to be important factors in stimulating the market.

"Also, the used housing market will be supported by the starts earlier this year. These starts are now becoming completions, and many of those who move into new homes have existing homes to sell.

"There is little question but that the high flow of savings into the nation's savings and loan associations, has been the pump primer to the economic recovery in our country and, to the extent that savings continues to be channeled into thrift institutions, housing starts can remain in the forefront of this recovery," noted Barstow.

"Builders and savings and loan associations always have had a close relationship with each other. Today, the savings and loans serve homebuilders in many ways. A savings and loan could start out by lending a builder the bulk of the funds to buy vacant land, lend him more to make sewer, water and other on-site improvements, advance additional funds for model houses, and finally provide the long-term mortgages for the homebuyers.

BUILT MORE THAN a hundred years ago, rambling old farm house has withstood the test of time. Now occupied by the Byrn Witt family, the home provides a country setting for their modern lifestyle. Even though the family owns a boat with sleeping quarters, they always seem to "end up at home."

BUILT-IN CORNER cupboards in the dining room of the Byrn Witt home validate the age of the house. Barbara (light fixture) for a charming eclectic effect. She fashioned the drapery swag in one of her first attempts at combines country (drop-leaf table) with contemporary the sewing machine.

THE COZY and much used family room was added to the house by the previous owners. Reflecting the Americana look of the interior, it doubles as Barbara's office as well as a "romping" room for Melanie, 9, Ginger and Asta.

Suburban Living

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

How Suburbia Lives

Their Home Was A Case Of Love At First Sight

by FRAN HECKART

When the phone rang five years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Byrn Witt had no idea they would soon be moving from their ultra-modern 6-year-old home in Glenview to a 110-year-old farmhouse in Arlington Heights.

The caller was a friend of the Witts with the news that a house they would probably be interested in buying would soon be on the market.

"Our friend with the inside information said it was just the kind of house you 'barnyard Americans' will love," laughed Barbara Witt.

The first time the Witts and their three daughters saw the house in question was a winter night when 10 inches of snow brought their car to a standstill midway up the long lane. The former owners were in Florida at the time, — but without even seeing the interiors, the Witts agreed it was perfect for them.

"WE LITERALLY bought the house sight unseen," said Barbara. "I saw the inside once before we closed the sale, but it was just a positive feeling that led to the decision."

Known to most as "the big yellow house on State Road — just before Central Road," the stately old farm house has been occupied by the Witts the last five years.

Two lots, a shady lane, and an abundance of trees distinguish the rambling two-story house from the low slung ranch homes with their well-manicured shrubs that surround it.

Built in the early 1860s, the dwelling was once the farm house for the land that is now Scarsdale Estates. Unfounded rumors labeled it a ghost house, but historical fact indicates that it was once part of the Cyrus McCormick estate.

IN THE EARLY '30s the land around it was being developed but the original house remained. However, free loaders discovered the house was unoccupied and took advantage to remove five original fireplaces and the molding around the rooms. Since the ransacking, new fireplaces have been added along with molding. Previous owners added family room and a two-car garage to the 10-room house.

The Witts have successfully put charm and life back into the old house.

Barbara loves color and lots of Williamsburg blue can be found throughout the rooms. She feels that decorating comes through feeling and has done wonders with small, chopped up rooms that are so common in hundred-year-old houses.

The floors, which are restored to the natural wood, are one of Barbara's major accomplishments but were also one of her biggest headaches.

WHEN A KNOWLEDGEABLE friend commented that the view from the basement indicated that the floors were in good condition, Barbara decided to find out for herself.

She and Byrn began tearing up corners of the wall-to-wall carpeting the former owners had installed only to find layers of old linoleum and adhesive that time had "cemented" to the floors.

Determined to have natural floors, Barbara began consulting "floor people" — all with negative reactions intended to dampen her enthusiasm. Some questioned her sanity for wanting the floors restored.

"I showed one man a magazine picture of what I wanted done," Barbara recalled. "He simply shook his head and said, 'You can't have everything you want, lady.'"

Consequently the floors became a home project — not by choice, but necessity.

The Consumer

by Monica Wilch

"Do you have a good idea for a new product or service, but don't know how to get it marketed?"

So goes the pitch of certain so-called marketing engineers who have been advertising locally that they will make patent searches, obtain patents, check marketability and arrange for manufacture or sale of patents or patented products.

But don't fall for it. According to the Chicago Better Business Bureau, registered patent attorneys and agents are forbidden by regulations to advertise. Thus, these little known individuals and companies promising such services are usually not registered to practice and are unable to represent a client before the U.S. Patent Office.

THE BBB REPORTS it has received floods of inquiries and complaints in recent months concerning these offers, and it warns that inventors can be defrauded of large sums of money, lose valuable time and risk their chances of obtaining a legal patent. The Bureau advises that inventors check with the BBB before paying any advance fees for patent services, or be sure they are dealing with a reputable patent attorney.

The initial minimum Patent Office fee is $65, plus $119 upon issuance of a patent. Information on patenting can be obtained from the Office of Information Services, Patent Office, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D.C., 20231.

The Federal Trade Commission has ordered 23 manufacturers and advertisers of soaps and other detergent products to provide documentation for certain advertising claims. Most of the claims involve performance in relation to competing products, but one claim involves safety. The product is Ty-D-bol, a bathroom bowl cleaner manufactured by Knomark, Inc. of Jamaica, N.Y.; the claim to be substantiated is that Ty-D-bol is harmless to skin, pets and septic tanks.

While the FTC emphasizes that the call for proof of advertising claims is not an indication that the manufacturer is guilty of any violation, in this case there would appear to be good reason for question.

ACCORDING TO Dr. Charles C. Edwards of the Food and Drug Administration, "two categories of household products have caused a greater degree of hospitalization than others. These are caustics and corrosives, and petroleum products." Bowl cleaners are corrosives.

Moreover, the National Commission on Product Safety pointed out in its report published in 1971 that labels on household chemicals frequently fail to inform consumers of potential injury. Even when they conform to the Hazardous Substances Act, the commission said, they "fail to list relative alkalinity or toxicity levels. Names of hazardous ingredients and antidotes, as well as instructions for treatment, frequently are missing."

Such is the case with Ty-D-bol, as well as other bowl cleaners. They list no ingredients or warnings concerning improper usage. The consumer has no information on which to judge the product's safety except the advertisement, which simply claims harmlessness. And perhaps it is harmless, but if not, this call for substantiation may be a little late.

Once again it has been pointed out — this time in thorough tests by Consumers Union — that the only difference between brands of aspirin tablets is the price. Even more significant, CU reports in the August issue of Consumer Reports that there is no real clinical difference between any other over-the-counter pain-reliever.

WHILE ALL PRODUCTS called aspirin must by law conform to a precise standard set by the U.S. Pharmacopeia, products such as Anacin, Bufferin and Excedrin differ from aspirin only in the addition of caffeine and several other ingredients which do not add to their effectiveness, and in some cases weaken it.

Several complaints of deceptive advertising by the manufacturers of these analgesics are currently before the Federal Trade Commission. In the meantime, do not be misled by commercials promising "faster" or "more effective" pain relief, or "added ingredients to calm your nerves." CU recommends that consumers seeking a pain-reliever buy the cheapest available brand of aspirin.

Dear Dorothy: The apartment into which I have moved has unusually squeaky floors. Inasmuch as I plan to have wall-to-wall carpeting, I'd like to do something about the floors first. Do you have this information?—Mrs. H. A. Vardeman.

In houses, squeaky floors are remedied best by working from beneath, but you obviously can't do that in an apartment. There are times when a simple wedge in the proper place will solve it, but it's tricky finding that ideal spot. Some experts suggest epoxy glue being squeezed between floorboards.

However, you might try the simple way first of pouring powdered graphite in the area so that the boards won't rub against each other. Using the graphite spray is so simple it would be wise to start with this method. If these simple remedies don't work — do give them a few days' trial — I'm afraid you'll just have to call for a carpenter.

Dear Dorothy: Soy sauce is often used in our household and so I was more than delighted when my mother, who still lives in Japan, told me to grate horseradish over soy sauce stains on the tablecloth and allow it to set for a while. The cloth can then be laundered with no trace of a stain.—Sayoko Tomizawa

Home remedies are often fascinating. While the suggested method has always been to soak in cold water, then launder, or work detergent into the stain, then launder, it would be an interesting experiment to try the horseradish bit.

Dear Dorothy: To have really absorbent bath towels, be sure they are all cotton. Many bath towels (velour included) now have other fibers (rayon) mixed with the cotton. These are not very absorbent, especially on the printed side.—N.K.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

APRIL WITT, 14, shares her parents' love of history and antiques. She has an extensive collection of old dolls and is fond of Early American furniture and accents as reflected in her room decor.

How Suburbia Lives

Home Love At First Sight

"WE (BYRN IS THE talented one) spent countless hours scraping layers of linoleum and hundreds of dollars on sandpaper," said Barbara. "We were flying blind and encountered all sorts of problems. And the mess was unbearable."

When the sanding was completed, a dark stain, which enhances the rural provincial look of the furnishings, was applied.

Barbara is quick to admit that her first hobby is reading about her profession. She is learning disabilities teacher for District 25 and has a private practice in her home. She will be continuing work on her second master's in clinical psychology at Northwestern University this fall.

As director of Clearbrook Center for the Retarded, Byrn also shares Barbara's keen interest in people.

"We collect art from people," said Barbara. "Either we know the artists or get to know them."

A mixture of antiques and reproductions add to the rustic interiors of the house.

"WE STARTED collecting antiques about 15 years ago," Barbara remarked. "We like to adhere to the original craftsmanship in antiques and will often spend vacations looking for furniture."

Pennsylvania and Virginia are favorite antiquing grounds for the family.

Skill, Barbara feels that the intrinsic value of her furniture is not really in the objects, but in the strong memories they evoke. Reflecting their personable owners, favorite pieces are associated with people.

The quaint little couple in Pennsylvania, for example, will be remembered long after the cost of a chair is forgotten.

Of the Witts' children, Robin, a student at Northwestern; April, a freshman at Rolling Meadows High School; and Melanie, a fourth grader at Dryden, April shares her parents' love of history and antiques.

THE GIRLS HAVE decorated their own rooms to reflect their individual tastes. April prefers antique dolls and a canopy bed. Robin is interested in photography and uses a more modern approach to decorating. Although Melanie's tastes haven't developed yet, she has two yellow antique commodes in her room.

Two Siamese cats, Ginger the German Shepherd and a wirehaired terrier named Asta are also very much a part of the Witt family.

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

Progress report: This is the next best thing to heaven.

We moved into the new house the other day, the first real home we've had since moving from Arlington Heights to the northwoods of Wisconsin 10 months ago.

It's a lot like living in the heart of the Cook County Forest Preserve. This morning I got up and had a piece of homemade bread as I watched rivulets of sunshine dancing on Lake Content.

We can hardly make out our next door neighbor, even if we squint through the brush, but the local Welcome Wagon—a buck, a doe and two fawns—were at our window looking for handouts.

I'LL HAVE TO PUT out sugar water feeders for the hummingbirds who are tapping at the glass. "There is the lady who'll toss out peanuts for us," the chipmunks seem to say. I'd do the same for our lone bear, the raccoon and the skunk my daughter has already named "Little Flower," but as yet I don't know their culinary preferences. (Hope they stay away from my garden.) The red squirrels think our car is a garbage can. They sit in the tree tops eating pine nuts and drop the empty hulls on our hood. (There goes the neighborhood!)

The plan of nature is so very apparent here. We realized there was going to be a frost last night after thousands of no-see-um bugs died on our front patio. We could actually hear the sound of death as these tiny, usually silent insects succumbed to the impending change, hours before the temperature dropped.

WE NOTICED HOW the birds sit on the telephone wires just before it is going to rain, and how all the edible mushrooms have deer nibbles on them, while the poisonous ones don't. Before last night, I had never heard the mating call of a male hooted to his lady love or the sound of bats waking up at night.

The week holds promise of a picnic in the boat, some blackberry picking and looking at the stars through our newly acquired used telescope. (I haven't seen the Big Dipper in years, but here the sky is clear and the stars look very close.)

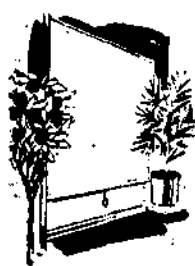

We spend our evenings grouped around the fireplace, watching the flames play or looking out the window, water-watching in the moonlight instead of TV-watching. I never realized that the lady of the lake has so many moods. I find the scent of the pine trees in the evening air is a good, clean fresh air perfume.

I DON'T USUALLY go into my personal life, but this one time I will indulge. It is not meant as a bragadocio thing; I just wanted to share with you one version of what the good life can be.

Obviously we can't all live in the woods or there wouldn't be any more woods. But for those of you who always dreamed of getting away from the pollution, the concrete, the crowds, there still are a precious few places if you are willing to pay the price. You'll have to sacrifice some material income, obviously, to live in a rural setting, be ruggedly individual or independently wealthy. But there still are places.

Reminder To Parents

Learning Begins At Home

by PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Your pre-school child chatters constantly, asks a lot of questions — about things seen, heard or imagined.

This bundle of energy explores more than the pot and pan closet. And he's like a piece of adhesive tape in a dust factory — he's so good at picking things up.

You love him, find him irritating at times and sometimes just look at him and think — "what a real puzzle."

At that point your pre-school child probably is ready for kindergarten. That is, according to authorities at the National Reading Center, created by President Nixon in 1970 to combat illiteracy and help assure functional reading skills to all Americans.

And the Center has something free for parents of pre-school children. A 12-article series, "Parents and Beginning Readers."

YOU GET YOUR free set by writing to Dept. B, National Reading Center, 1776 Massachusetts Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

The mini-pamphlets emphasize that Moms and Dads are their children's first teachers. Their primary job — and it should begin long before kindergarten — is to create the kind of home atmosphere that encourages a real desire to learn and a genuine pleasure in discovery.

Written by leading psychologists, educators and reading specialists, the Center series suggests four basic ways parents can prepare their children for kindergarten:

—Create a home atmosphere of eagerness to learn. Mrs. Mary Frances K. Johnson, education professor at the University of North Carolina, believes that in such a home, the child will be included in family doings from his earliest days. Talk about common experiences such as television news, the weather, shopping trips. Take him on special trips and outings to help him build a big background of first-hand experiences. Look at pictures, listen to records and make these activities a natural part of his experiences. Look things up. This will help get across the idea that books and reading are important and normal parts of life.

—HELP CHILD to do things at home he later may do in school. Encourage him to follow directions, to wait for help, for a piece of equipment or a drink of water, and to pick up after himself. Dr. E. Robert La Crosse, president of Pacific Oaks College, Pasadena, Calif., suggests that parents point out to their child that in school there will be one teacher and many children. Often the teacher will not be able to get to him the minute he wants her. Also, practice sitting still and keeping quiet. It will be hard for the preschooler, but it is necessary.

—Talk with child about what he can expect in school. Better yet, get big brother or sister to explain 'the ropes' — including high and low points of kindergarten life. If your child is the oldest or an only child, get an experienced neighborhood child to talk about the kindergarten modus operandi.

—Remember also that children model themselves after what they see in parents. Your own attitude will have a great deal to do with your child's mental set toward school, according to La Crosse. Have confidence in your child's ability to cope.

Passive Babies, Active Toddlers

The most responsive, vigorous newborns may not be the infants who develop into the most intelligent and active children. Rather, according to scientists from the U.S. National Institute of Mental Health, babies who are most passive during their first few days of life are often the ones who are more apt to mature into intelligent, responsive youngsters.

Next On The Agenda

WELCOME WAGON

Prospect Heights Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club will meet at 8 tonight at the Holiday Inn in Mount Prospect.

The program will be presented by Judy Cherney, decorator and manager of the Village Peddler in Elmhurst, who will conduct the group on a mental trip to auctions, garage sales and flea markets. She will give the benefit of her experience on what constitutes a bargain and where the best places are to find them.

All residents of Prospect Heights and the newly-annexed area of Mount Prospect are invited and can obtain further information by calling Mrs. Stephen McAvoy at 299-3636.

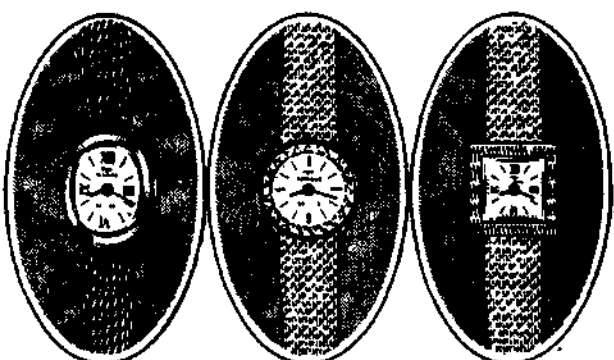

ELK GROVE HOMEMAKERS

Instead of the planned open meeting, Elk Grove Homemaker Unit will hold a regular meeting at noon next Wednesday in the Mount Prospect home of Mrs. William Lacin, 1211 Linneman Road. The lesson, "The ABCs of Bathrooms," to be given by Mrs. Ann Oltrogge and Mrs. H. Mahler will cover decorating and fixtures.

A date for the open meeting will be set and Mrs. T. Manthey and Mrs. I. Scharinghausen will serve the refreshments.

Five members of the unit, Mrs. Ella Busse, Mrs. E. Deeke, Mrs. W. Lacin, Mrs. H. Mahler and Mrs. Scharinghausen, served as the judges at the recent 4-H Fair held in Arlington Heights.

Before I joined the Payroll Savings Plan all I could save was string.

When it comes to saving money, most of us can use all the help we can get. Joining the Payroll Savings Plan is one easy way to force yourself to save. When you sign up, an amount you specify is set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's automatic. Everything is done for you.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5 1/2% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra 1/2%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

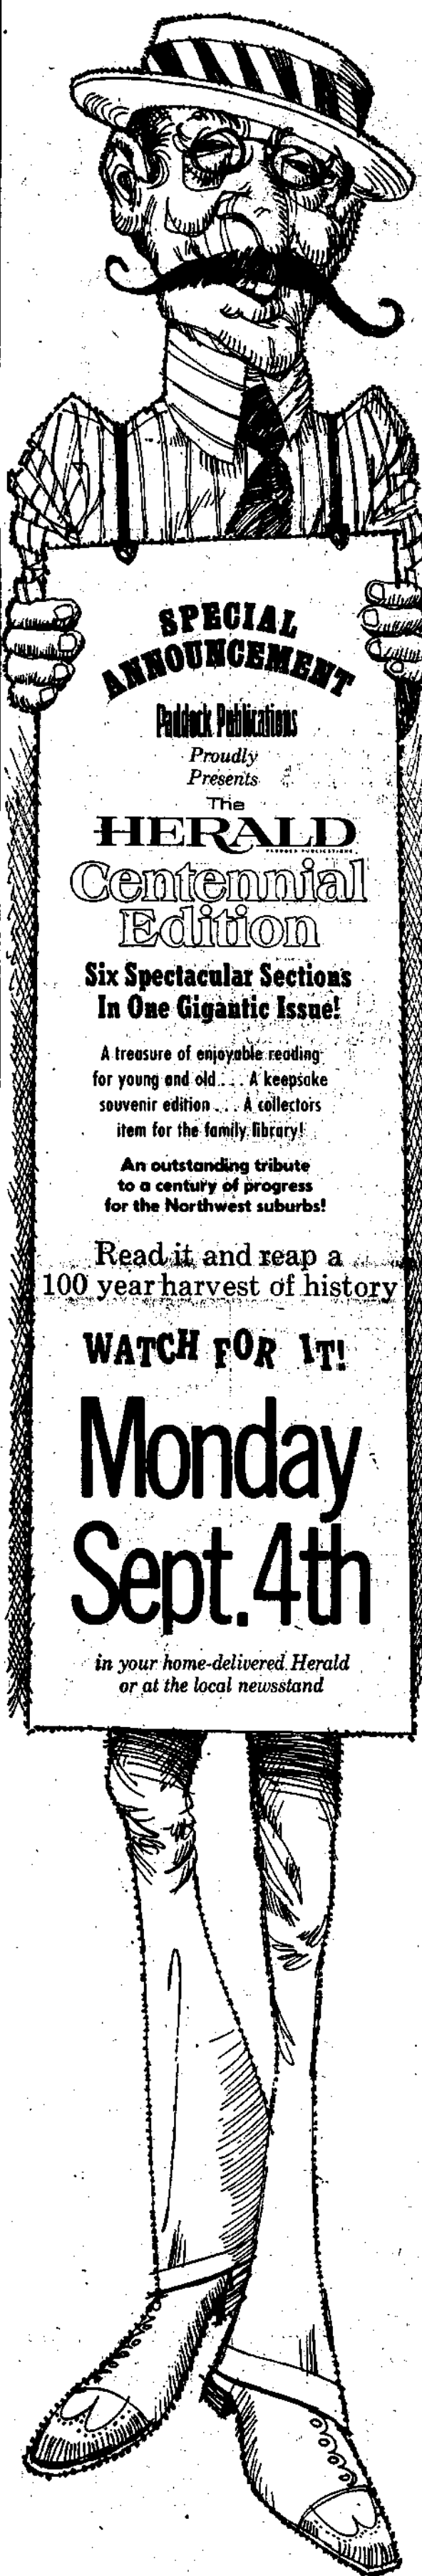

Stick with the plan and before you know it you'll have a bankroll waiting. That's when you'll find you can do a lot more with money than you can with string.

Take stock in America. New Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

The U.S. Government guarantees the principal and interest on all U.S. Savings Bonds.

An Old Fashioned Ice Cream Social is a wonderful kind of fund-raising party. It is easy and economical and can be adapted to any size crowd. Both young and old will enjoy the gaiety of the affair.

Assign a committee to make a simulated soda fountain counter — just some painted wooden crates or boards and a countertop covered with marbled patterned adhesive paper will do nicely. If possible, try to rent or borrow some old fashioned ice cream parlor tables and chairs. If these are not available, scatter as many small tables and chairs around as space allows.

Another group of volunteers can wait on customers. Encourage them to follow the Gay Nineties theme — long dresses and upswept hairdos for the girls; handlebar mustaches, white shirts with bow ties and sleeve-garters for the guys.

Keep your menu simple, sticking to the traditional favorites in ice cream and toppings. Suggested here are Super Banana Splits, Ice Cream Sundae Pie and Chocolate Peanut Topping for ice cream. These three recipes use All-American flavor favorites — chocolate, vanilla and strawberry ice cream; butterscotch, chocolate and marshmallow toppings; and peanuts.

OLD FASHIONED ICE CREAM SOCIAL

Super Banana Split

- 1 cup (6-ounce) butterscotch flavored morsels
- 3 tablespoons margarine
- ¾ cup light corn syrup
- ¼ cup chopped peanuts
- Bananas
- Ice cream
- Whipped cream
- Maraschino cherries

Melt together over hot water, butterscotch morsels and margarine. Stir mixture into corn syrup. Blend in chopped peanuts. Mix well. Makes 1½ cups sauce.

Slice bananas and place in dishes. Add scoops of ice cream. Spoon on peanut-butterscotch sauce. Top with whipped cream and cherries.

Royal Deluxe Chocolate Sauce

- 1 package (regular size) dark 'n' sweet chocolate pudding
- ½ cup sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2 cups water
- 2 tablespoons margarine
- ¼ teaspoon vanilla

Combine chocolate pudding, sugar and salt in a saucepan. Gradually stir in water, stirring to keep mixture smooth. Cook over medium high heat, stirring constantly until mixture comes to a boil; boil one minute, continuing to stir constantly. Remove from heat. Stir in margarine and vanilla. Cool. Makes 2½ cups (enough for 5 Ice Cream Sundaes).

Ice Cream Sundae Pie

- 4 cups corn flakes
- ½ cup chopped dry roasted peanuts
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- ¼ cup (½ stick) margarine, melted
- 1 pint (2 cups) vanilla ice cream, softened
- ½ cup Deluxe Chocolate Sauce
- 10 marshmallows

Crush corn flakes; combine with peanuts and sugar. Add melted margarine and mix well. Press mixture firmly against sides and bottom of an 8-inch pie plate. Place scoops of ice cream in pie crust. Freeze about ½ hour.

Place chocolate sauce and marshmallows in a saucepan. Heat until marshmallows are almost melted. Pour over ice cream to fill crust. Let stand about 5 minutes before returning to freezer. Freeze until firm. Remove from freezer 10 minutes before serving. Makes 8 servings.

Chocolate-Peanut Topping

- 1 package instant chocolate pudding
- 3 tablespoons water
- 1 cup light corn syrup
- ½ cup chopped dry roasted peanuts

Stir instant chocolate pudding into water to make a smooth mixture. Stir in corn syrup until well blended. Add chopped peanuts. Blend well. Serve over ice cream or over ice cream balls rolled in chopped dry roasted peanuts. Makes about 1½ cups.

Two Desserts For Warm Summer Days

Kitchens will be cooler and appetites delightfully appeased during warm summer days with these tempting dessert recipes. Both dishes can be made without baking because their basic ingredients are prepared from crushed cookies. Even this preparation is simplified when cookies are placed in a plastic bag and crushed with a rolling pin. In the lime pie, a choice of cookie flavors is suggested to satisfy everyone in your family and the photo will undoubtedly suggest a variety of toppings which can be added just before serving.

An interesting and unusual combination of flavors is obtained in the torte when blueberries and cream cheese are combined. Make appetites will particularly like the rich cheese flavor over the crunchy base.

Best of all, both desserts can be prepared in advance if desired and this permits chilling them to a refreshingly cool temperature.

COOKIE CRUSHED LIME PIE

15 coconut chocolate drop cookies or chocolate chip cookies
 1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
 1 3-ounce package lime flavored gelatin
 1 cup boiling water
 3/4 cup lemon-lime carbonated beverage, chilled
 1 cup heavy cream
 Sweetened whipped cream
 Chocolate curls

Place cookies in a plastic bag, or between two sheets of waxed paper and crush into fine crumbs using a rolling pin. Combine crumbs with butter or margarine, blending well. Press firmly into a 9-inch pie plate. Chill in refrigerator or, if desired, bake at 350 degrees, 8 minutes; then cool.

utes; then cool.

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; add carbonated beverage. Chill, stirring occasionally, until partially set. Whip heavy cream, whip gelatin and fold thoroughly into whipped cream. Pour into crust; chill until set. To garnish, spoon on dairy-petal dollops of sweetened whipped cream; top with chocolate curls. Makes 6 servings.

BLUEBERRY CHEESE TORTE

1 1/2 packets honey graham crackers
 1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
 1 8-ounce package cream cheese, softened
 1/4 cup milk
 1 1-pound 5-ounce can blueberry pie filling
 1 cup heavy cream
 2 tablespoons sugar

Roll graham crackers into fine crumbs. Combine with butter or margarine, mixing well. If desired, reserve 1/3 cup for topping. Press remaining crumbs onto bottom of a 9-quart (11 1/2 x 7 1/2 inch) glass baking dish. Chill for one hour.

Blend cream cheese with milk until smooth. Spread evenly over crumb crust. Chill until firm. Spread pie filling over cheese and chill again.

Whip and sweeten cream! Spread over blueberry filling. Sprinkle with remaining crumbs, if reserved. Cut into 8 - 12 servings.

Omelets Are Hostess Helpers

Eggs and potatoes are popular and versatile foods that stretch the family food dollar. For example, learning to make filled omelets can take a shrewd cook and hostess from breakfast through a midnight party snack. As an accompaniment, try a variation on french fried potatoes. These are called Potato Slims.

Cheese — 1/4 cup crumbled blue cheese, shredded Cheddar, Swiss or American per omelet.

Apple and sausage — Cut 1 pound sausage links into pieces. Brown in skillet. Drain off excess fat. Add 1 can apple pie filling, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1/2 teaspoon crumbled leaf sage. Heat. Allow 1/2-cup per omelet.

POTATO SLIMS

3 medium baking potatoes
 1/2 cup water
 2 tablespoons salad oil
 1/2 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
 1/2 cup grated Romano cheese
 1 envelope seasoned coating mix for chicken

Salt

Pare potatoes and cut into slices (potatoes may also be cut into strings as for French fries). Mix water with oil and pepper sauce in a small shallow dish. Add potato slices to moisture. Mix Romano cheese with coating mix in plastic bag. Shake excess moisture from potatoes and shake in bag, 8 to 10 slices at a time until evenly coated. Place potatoes in single layer on baking sheet lined with aluminum foil. Bake in 400-degree oven for 30 minutes. Sprinkle with salt. Makes 4 servings.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

FILLED OMELETS

2 eggs
 2 teaspoons cold water
 1/8 teaspoon salt
 1/8 teaspoon Tabasco

Pepper sauce
 1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Break eggs into bowl. Add water, salt and pepper sauce. Beat with a fork until mixed but not frothy. In seasoned 6-inch heavy skillet or omelet pan, heat butter until bubbly but not brown. Add beaten eggs. Over high heat, hold pan firmly and briskly shake pan to prevent eggs from sticking to surface. The eggs will cook quickly. It may be necessary to lift sides with a spatula to allow mixture to run under the cooked edges. Place filling in center of omelet and with a spatula fold in half. Slide onto heated plate. Makes one omelet.

Suggested fillings:
 Chili — Heat a 1-pound can of prepared chili without beans in small saucepan. Allow 1/2-cup per omelet.

The End Of Dull 'Diets'

Creativity With Common Items

Diet meals needn't be dull and monotonous... there are all types of ways to spark them up. For instance, be creative with common items like eggs or celery by teaming up with frozen vegetables like Brussels sprouts. Serve them chilled — in salad fashion... or serve them hot — right from the skillet.

For the salad, simply cook the sprouts per package directions, marinate them in low-calorie Italian dressing for added flavor and chill until serving time. Then, arrange sliced, hard-cooked eggs and pimiento with them on crisp lettuce leaves.

Each serving counts only approximately 118 calories and Brussels sprouts contribute Vitamin A and C plus iron, and the eggs, of course, supply necessary protein.

For the slim-line skillet dish, thaw the frozen sprouts, slice them thin, then saute them with green peppers and celery slices for a few minutes, just until tender. (Use imitation margarine to keep down the calories!) Serve immediately and eat as much as you like... each 1/2 cup serving counts only 69 calories.

ON-A-DIET SALAD

2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen Brussels sprouts, partially thawed
 1/2 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
 6 tablespoons low-calorie Italian dressing
 6 lettuce leaves
 6 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
 1 canned pimiento, cut into 6 strips

Prepare Brussels sprouts according to package directions, adding monosodium glutamate. Drain, if necessary. Mix with 4 tablespoons of the dressing. Chill several hours, stirring occasionally. Arrange approximately 1/2 cup marinated Brussels sprouts on each lettuce leaf with 1 egg and 1 pimiento strip. Sprinkle each serving with 1 teaspoon of remaining dressing. Makes 6 servings. Approximately 118 calories per serving.

SLIM-LINE SPROUT SKILLET

1/3 cup imitation margarine
 2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen Brussels sprouts, thawed and sliced thin
 1/2 cup each thinly sliced celery and sliced green pepper
 1 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon onion salt
 Dash pepper

Melt margarine in skillet. Add Brussels sprouts, celery and green pepper. Sprinkle with seasonings. Sauté until tender, about 5 minutes. Makes 6 servings. Approximately 69 calories per 1/2 cup serving.

On-A-Diet Salad

Household Hints

A good water heater has both pressure and temperature relief valves in operable condition. These valves should be designed so that they are easy to test for obstruction.

A peeler with a floating blade is a food saver. With it you can pare vegetables and fruits close to the skin so the parings are thin.

Empty shortening or coffee cans with tight covers are handy for storing sugar, flour and other dry foods that need to be kept covered. Used glass jars and plastic containers also are useful for storing foods.

Party Vegetable Dip

At your next patio party serve this Creamy Blue Cheese Dip with fresh-from-your-garden vegetable stick relishes. In a small mixing bowl beat together 1 cup (4 oz.) of crumbled blue cheese and 1 package (3 oz.) of cream cheese until smooth. Add 1/4 cup of tomato juice and 1 tablespoon of prepared horseradish to the cheese mixture. Yield: approx. 1 1/4 cups. May also be used as a filling for celery sticks.

Birthday Torte With Man Appeal

Birthdays aren't birthdays without cakes, of course. For an adult male, no bakery masterpiece trimmed with sugary astronauts will be much appreciated, nor will the musical cake stand that so delights a child. A fine homemade cake is what's needed.

Since most men are fans of spice cake, make a Spicy Birthday Torte; impressively four layers high. It's a unique cake in that crushed fortified oat flakes, which are folded into the batter, give the cake interesting flavor and a rather "tweedy" appearance, just right for a masculine birthday. The fluffy brown sugar frosting has spices which echo those in the cake. This luscious cake may well start a yearly tradition at your house. So it's all right if you cheat a bit on the number of candles, but just don't forget the date.

SPICY BIRTHDAY TORTE

2½ cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1/8 teaspoon ginger
1 cup vegetable shortening*
1½ cups sugar
3 egg yolks
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup plus 2 tablespoons milk*

1 cup crushed fortified oat flakes
3 egg whites
Birthday candles (optional)
*To use butter or margarine, decrease milk to 1 cup.
Sift flour with baking powder, salt, cinnamon, and ginger.
Cream shortening. Gradually add sugar; cream until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Blend in vanilla. Then alternately add flour mixture and milk; a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Fold in crushed oat flakes. Beat egg whites until stiff peaks will form; then carefully fold into batter.

Pour into two 9-inch layer pans which have been greased and floured. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes, or until cake tester inserted into center comes out clean. Cool in pans 10 minutes; then remove from pans and finish cooling on racks. Split each cake layer to make 4 thin layers. Fill and frost. Decorate with birthday candles.

SPICY SEA FOAM FROSTING

2 egg whites
1½ cups firmly packed brown sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
Dash of ginger
Dash of salt
1/3 cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine egg whites, sugar, cinnamon, ginger, salt, and water in top of double boiler. Beat with electric mixer or rotary beater until thoroughly mixed — about 1 minute. Place over boiling water and beat constantly at high speed of electric mixer or with rotary beater until frosting stands in stiff peaks — about 7 minutes. (Stir frosting up from bottom and sides of pan occasionally with rubber scraper, spatula, or spoon.) Remove from boiling water. For a smooth and satiny frosting, pour at once into a large bowl for final beating. Add vanilla and beat until thick enough to spread — about 1 minute. Makes about 5½ cups frosting.

Spicy Birthday Torte

Lazy Day Luncheon

Cottage Open-Face Sandwiches are a great lazy summer day luncheon menu idea. In a bowl combine 1½ cups cottage cheese, ¼ cup grated carrot, 1 tablespoon each sliced green onion and chopped parsley and ¼ teaspoon garlic salt; chill. Spread pumpnickel bread with butter; cover each slice with lettuce, salami and tomato slices. Top each sandwich with about ¼ cup cottage cheese mixture. (Makes 6 sandwiches.)

Chinese Fried Rice

Pair Up Rice And Ribs For A Great Family Meal

With a rack of ribs in the oven, crisping to perfection, you're on your way to some mighty good eating. Pair the ribs up with a tasty rice dish, such as Chinese Fried Rice, and you're on your way to a great family meal.

Chinese Fried Rice, made with packaged enriched pre-cooked rice, makes dinner carefree from the cook's viewpoint. Preparation takes but a few minutes. It's also a deliciously interesting dish flavored with egg strips, onions, and soy sauce. To complete the meal, just add a green vegetable or salad.

It's an interesting and fun way to bring an Oriental flair to your dinner table. You may also want to try Chinese Fried Rice with other meat entrees. It's simple to prepare, versatile, and economical.

CHINESE FRIED RICE

½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
2 eggs, slightly beaten
3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
1 1/3 cups minute rice
½ teaspoon salt
1 1/3 cups water
2 teaspoons soy sauce
¼ teaspoon sugar

Add ½ teaspoon salt and the pepper to the eggs. Melt butter in large skillet over low heat. Add egg mixture and fry slowly until firm, turning once. Remove from skillet and cut in thin strips. Sauté onion in butter remaining in skillet until lightly browned. Add rice, ½ teaspoon salt, and the water. Bring quickly to a boil over high heat. Cover and remove from heat. Let stand 5 minutes. Add egg strips, soy sauce, and sugar; mix lightly. Heat thoroughly. Serve at once. Makes about 3 1/3 cups or 4 servings.

BARBECUED SPARERIBS

3 to 4 pounds lean spareribs
1½ cups (18-ounce bottle) barbecue sauce, any flavor
¼ cup dark corn syrup
1½ tablespoons lemon juice
Cut spareribs into 2-rib sections. Cover with water and bring to a boil; then reduce heat and cook 20 to 30 minutes. Drain. Combine barbecue sauce, corn syrup, and lemon juice. Arrange drained spareribs in a shallow baking pan. Cover with barbecue sauce mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes; then turn ribs over and bake another 30 minutes, or until tender. For glazed appearance, put spareribs under broiler for 5 minutes. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

Spice Is The Life Of This Meat Loaf

Meat loaf is a favorite of millions as a main dish or filling for a sandwich. However, the tendency is to create one's own recipe or inherit a meat loaf recipe and never vary the ingredients. Herbs and spices do much to "beef" up the flavor of this popular dish. Next time, when mixing a loaf, try dehydrated onion and garlic products, chili powder, curry powder, Italian seasoning, poultry seasoning or a meat loaf seasoning. Use some of these in combination or singly. Also, don't forget that sweet spices add intriguing tastes, too. Some spices to try individually are ground allspice, cumin, ginger, cinnamon, cloves, cardamom, nutmeg or mace, caraway or fennel.

NUTMEG MEAT LOAF RING

2 pounds ground lean beef
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1 cup (8-oz.) tomato sauce
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
2 eggs, beaten
2 teaspoons onion powder
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper

In a large mixing bowl combine all ingredients. Mix well, but do not overmix. Turn into a 4½-cup ring mold. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven 45 to 50 minutes. Remove from oven; let meat loaf cool in pan 10 minutes. Turn out onto serving plate. Fill center with cooked peas and carrots; if desired. Makes 8 portions.

Economy Meals Can Be Elegant

THE HERALD

Thursday, August 17, 1972

Section 6 —7

by JOHN PAYNE

A home economist at Utah State University says a nutritious and elegant meal can be served for approximately 80 cents per serving.

But housewives may not like making their own breads and salad dressings, using such in-season bargains as parsnips and spinach, or continuing their reliance upon such thrifty favorites as hamburger or chicken wings.

The parsnips are cooked, mashed and deep-fat fried; the spinach is served with a bacon dressing; the hamburger used with a high protein meat extender and the chicken wings served in a tasty sweet and sour sauce.

"And," adds Phyllis R. Snow, dean of the college of family life, "we have come up with a new way of roasting chuck so the cook can have a rare and tender meat just like you would with roast beef."

The university put the ideas to work during a food festival attended by representatives of nutrition-oriented public organizations such as the Dairy Council, the Community Action Program and others.

"We wanted to look at our objectives and programs and see how we could work together in order to provide better nutrition for the people of Utah, especially for the low-income groups, and the senior citizens," Dean Snow said.

"We also hope to work out a study on malnutrition in Utah." The three-course buffet supper, featuring meat swirls with hamburger, chicken wings and chuck, was a "smashing" success, according to the student cooks who spent several weeks learning how to prepare the meals.

"We can show ways in which families can eat on a low-cost budget and not neglect either taste or nutrition," Miss Snow said.

THE COOKS used a Navajo Indian fry bread, which is scone-like, flat and bubbly with baking powder used as a leaven instead of yeast, and cooked in deep fat; a tomato aspic with cole slaw in the center, golden squash soup, and a tasty, but tart rhubarb cream pie as a dessert.

The meat extender for the hamburger consisted of milk and bread, used as a dressing, and the chuck roast was cooked at 275 degrees uncovered or with a "little tent of aluminum foil if you have a big roast."

The cooks emphasized elegance through an appealing combination of colors, tableware and, of course, the flickering light from candles always adds a touch of glamor to the meal.

"Actually, we cut costs by doing more than baking our own bread, and making our own salad dressings."

"First, we always try to use in-season fruits and vegetables because the cost is lower, and we make it a point to compare cost on a per serving basis."

"For example, whole peaches may look better than broken ones or tree-ripened products taste better than others. But it would be cheaper to use the bits and pieces and the non-tree ripened foods."

"But if I were serving a lovely pear salad, I would certainly want whole pears."

Housewives should also look for cheaper packaging. Raisins in boxes cost more than those in a plastic sack and while grade is important, especially in purchases of meat, the consumer should estimate how much bone she is getting.

The size of the container is important,

Dean Snow said, but a large size sometimes isn't the cheapest. While powdered milk is more economical than fresh milk, taste can be improved by adding some whole milk to the dried product.

"Lastly, it is necessary to prevent waste by proper storage of food. Bread, which costs 13 cents per home pound loaf, should be frozen; lettuce, apples and oranges stored in plastic bags in the hydrator of the refrigerator."

'Excellent Chicken Salad' Is Her Luncheon Specialty

by LOIS SEILER

"Excellent Chicken Salad" is the name appropriately given to one of the recipes featured today. It is a favorite of Mrs. Wilbur G. Danielson of Inverness, who likes to serve it for a ladies luncheon. In addition to chicken, the salad calls for celery, seedless grapes, nuts and hard-cooked eggs mixed with lemon-flavored mayonnaise. Served in lettuce cups, it is different and delicious.

"Hot rolls and a little fruit are ample accompaniments," Gerry Danielson said. Another of her specialties is a versatile recipe which can be used as a dinner entree or appetizer.

"Perhaps it's because they contain a few unique ingredients that they are called Surprise Meat Balls," Gerry explained, "and they are also surprisingly easy to prepare."

She simply mixes ground beef with bread crumbs, grated cheese, milk, eggs and lemon juice. Stuffed olives, pimiento and green pepper add texture and flavor. The meat mixture is formed into balls, wrapped in bacon and baked. No prior browning is needed and there is no last-minute fuss.

"YOU CAN DEFINITELY taste the Parmesan cheese in the meat balls," Gerry said. "They will serve four to six for dinner, with baked or au gratin potatoes and a green vegetable as appropriate accompaniments, and are ample as appetizers for a group of 12."

Another appealing appetizer that can be served nicely with the meat balls is a Hot Crab Cocktail Spread.

Easily mixed together, it consists of crabmeat combined with cream cheese seasoned with Worcestershire sauce and chopped green onion. Topped with slivered almonds, the mixture is baked for 15 minutes and used as a tasty hot spread for crackers.

In addition to cooking, Gerry enjoys collecting "old collectibles" and is a member of Four Silos Quilters. She also belongs to Inverness Ladies Bowling League and is secretary of Christ Lutheran Church Women.

Gerry and her husband, Wilbur, have three children: Donna (Mrs. Tom) Faust of Hoffman Estates, Denise, 17, and Robert, 8.

EXCELLENT CHICKEN SALAD

- 3 cups diced cooked chicken (2 whole chicken breasts)
- 2 cups celery, chopped
- 2 teaspoons salt

- 1½ cups mayonnaise
- 4 teaspoons lemon juice
- ½ cup cashews or almonds, halved
- 2 hard-cooked eggs
- 1 cup seedless grapes, halved

Cook chicken, if possible in a pressure cooker, in a small amount of water with one chicken bouillon cube and one bay leaf. Let cool in broth. Cut or tear in bite-size pieces, not too small. Add celery and salt.

Thin mayonnaise with lemon juice and if necessary, a little chicken broth. Do not get too thin. Pour over chicken mixture and toss lightly. Add eggs which have been cut in twelfths, nuts and grapes. Toss again and chill well. Serve in lettuce cups. Serves 8 to 10.

SURPRISE MEAT BALLS

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 cup coarse fresh white bread crumbs
- ½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
- ½ cup milk
- ½ green pepper, chopped (optional)
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- Juice of one lemon
- 2 tablespoons chopped stuffed olives
- 1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 8 strips bacon, cut in thirds

Mix all ingredients except bacon. Form into 24 balls. Wrap each ball in a bacon strip. Place seam-side down in a shallow pan and bake at 375 degrees for 45 minutes. Serves 4 to 6.

For appetizers, make smaller balls (at least 50) and cut bacon accordingly. Serves 12.

HOT CRAB COCKTAIL SPREAD

- 1 8-ounce package cream cheese
- 1 tablespoon milk
- 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
- 1 7½-ounce can crabmeat
- 2 tablespoons chopped green onion
- 2 tablespoons slivered almonds

Thoroughly combine cream cheese, milk and Worcestershire sauce.

Drain and flake crabmeat and add to cheese mixture along with chopped onion. Turn into greased 8-inch pie plate or small shallow baking dish. Top with slivered almonds. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes. Keep warm over candle warmer and spread on crackers.

CELERY, GRAPES, nuts and hard-cooked eggs are ingredients that contribute to the "excellence" of Mrs. Wilbur Danielson's favorite chicken salad. Mrs. Danielson serves the salad in lettuce cups for a ladies' luncheon entree. Hot rolls and fruit complete the easy menu.

The Dessert For Teatime

Teatime can be many things to many people. It can begin early in the morning or extend late into the afternoon. But no matter when it's held, it's a good time to get together with friends.

The next time you're planning a tea, serve Lemon-Coconut Meringue Bars as an accompanying dessert. They're a light nut pastry topped with lemon-flavored meringue, sprinkled with cookie concoction, and cut into bars. Their elegance makes them the type of dessert that's so right for that extra-special occasion, such as a tea. Also, they're perfect as finger food, so handy when you're serving a large crowd.

LEMON-COCONUT MERINGUE BARS

- ½ cup butter or margarine
- ½ cup sugar
- 2 egg yolks
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1½ cups shredded coconut
- ½ cup chopped pecans
- 2 teaspoons lemon rind
- 2 egg whites
- ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- Cream butter. Gradually add ½ cup sugar, creaming well after each addition. Beat in egg yolks, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each. Blend in salt and flour. Stir in 1 cup of the coconut, the pecans, and lemon rind. Spread evenly in a lightly greased 13x9-inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees about 20 minutes, or until golden brown around edges.

Meanwhile, beat egg whites with cream of tartar until foamy throughout. Gradually add ½ cup sugar, beating thoroughly after each addition. Gradually add lemon juice and continue beating until meringue will form very stiff shiny peaks. Spread over pastry in pan. Sprinkle top with remaining ¼ cup coconut. Bake at 375 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes, or until topping is golden brown. Cook; then cut into 1½x2-inch bars. Cover and store at room temperature. Makes 32 bars.

New Sauces For "Sword-Cookery"

The modern barbecue chef, with his battery of salt, seasonings and sauces, may seem to be a product of suburbia, but "sword-cooking," as the broiling of skewered meats is called in the Middle East, is one of the very oldest culinary arts.

Even as far back as the time of Homer's Odyssey there is mention of a king, a prince and three generals having joined forces in skewering and grilling lamb, goat and pork chunks. Usually cooking was woman's work, or possibly that of slaves in those days. Not so, however, the fun and creativity of outdoor cooking, the stirring up of the hot coals, the tasting of snippets of meat to judge the seasoning.

However, barbecues today are easier with such conveniences as Worcestershire sauce. Any number of different marinades and basting sauces can be put together quickly and simply by counting on this one sauce to add a savory mélange of some 20 different flavors and seasonings.

Since helping is such a part of the fun of patio partying, let each guest select and slip onto the skewer whatever appeals most. In addition to the meats and vegetables mentioned in the following recipes, you can provide other favorites such as cooked, canned potatoes; mushrooms, par-boiled whole onions and zucchini.

SWEET AND SOUR BEEF KABOBS

- 1 can (9 ounces) pineapple cubes
- 3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce

- 2 tablespoons honey
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 1 teaspoon salt

- 1 garlic clove, crushed
- 2 pounds lean, tender beef cubes, about 1½ inches thick

Sweet and Sour Beef Kabobs

- Tomato squares
- Green pepper wedges
- Small whole mushrooms

Drain pineapple cubes; reserve ½ cup syrup and cubes for later use. Combine pineapple syrup, Worcestershire sauce, honey, vinegar, salt and garlic. Place beef cubes in a snug-fitting bowl or double plastic bag. Pour Worcestershire sauce mixture over all. Cover or seal; refrigerate about 8 hours, mixing once. Arrange meat, vegetables and reserved pineapple cubes alternately on skewers. Broil over hot charcoal or under a preheated hot broiler for 5 to 8 minutes or until done as desired, turning once. Serve over rice, if desired. Yield: 6 to 8 portions.

MEATBALL KABOBS

- 1½ pounds ground lean beef
- 1 cup dry bread crumbs
- 1/3 cup minced onion
- ¼ cup sweet pickle relish
- ¼ cup water
- 3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
- 1 egg, lightly beaten
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- Green pepper cubes
- Cherry tomatoes

Lightly combine beef, bread crumbs, onion, relish, water, Worcestershire sauce, egg and salt. Shape into about 18 meatballs. Arrange on skewers alternately with green pepper and cherry tomatoes. Broil over hot charcoal or under a preheated hot broiler for 8 to 10 minutes or until done as desired, turning occasionally. Yield: 6 portions.

Lemon-Coconut Meringue Bars

Mostly For Men

By Charles Fries

During periods of war (declared ones, that is) cooks and chefs have been called upon to improvise in order to conserve important ingredients. Some time ago a reader had asked if I could print a recipe for the eggless, milkless, butterless cake which was popular during World War I.

I replied, at the time, that I could not locate such a recipe, but now I have, thanks to the collection of old cookbooks of Miriam Shekter, Urbana, Ill. Here it is:

In a large pan mix 2 cups sugar, 2 cups water, 2 tablespoons lard, 3 teaspoons cinnamon, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 box seeded raisins. Bring to boil and boil for 5 minutes.

Cool, then add 1 heaping teaspoon baking soda sifted in 3 cups flour. Form into a loaf cake. Line tin with well greased paper and bake 1 hour in a moderate oven.

And from out Wyoming way, here's a delightful sweet known as Minnie's Coffee Cake. Combine 1 cup brown sugar, ¼ cup white sugar, and 2 cups sifted flour. Reserve 1½ cups of this dry mixture for topping.

To the remainder add 1¼ cups buttermilk, 1 lightly beaten egg, 1 teaspoon baking soda, and an additional ½ cup sifted flour. Mix well and spread in a buttered 8-inch square baking pan.

Add 3 Heath bars and ½ cup chopped almonds or pecans to the reserved topping mixture. Top cake and bake 45 minutes at 325 degrees.

Mrs. Jean Seuss, Champaign, gave us this original recipe for what she terms Hungarian Lady Fingers.

ALLOW AN 8-OUNCE package of cream cheese and 2 sticks margarine to soften, then blend in a bowl. Add 2 cups of sifted flour and mix well.

Roll the dough in your hands and form walnut-size balls. Roll these out on powdered sugar.

Place on each ½ teaspoon pineapple or apricot preserves, or alternate to produce both kinds. Fold over and close ends to form lady fingers. Bake 15 minutes in a 350 degree oven. This will make about 24.

U.S. Department of Agriculture researchers recently gave a "fat test" to more than 2,200 homemakers in cities, towns and rural areas from coast to coast, and the majority flunked the test.

One series of questions concerned fat content of certain foods and another section explored consumers' opinions of dairy products.

Homemakers rated the fat content of these dairy products: whole and low-fat milk, American cheese, cottage cheese and ice cream. In addition, three "controls" were included to aid in data analysis — hard-boiled eggs, broiled chicken and broiled ground beef.

In rating the amount of fat in each item, the homemakers had 13 choices ranging from "none" to "100 per cent."

The majority gave wrong answers for most of the foods asked about. And the data on the five dairy products proved what the researchers had suspected — many consumers believe dairy foods contain much more fat than they actually do.

About 1 in 10 homemakers correctly estimated regular whole milk's fat content as being "up to 5 per cent." Almost all the others overestimated the fat content. In fact, 3 in 10 thought the answer was 50 per cent or more.

Most scored relatively well on low-fat fluid milk — possibly because its fat content is often indicated on the labels.

IC CREAM IS another product whose fat content tends to be overrated. About 6 in 10 homemakers estimated the fat content as 50 per cent or more. The correct answer — 19 to 19 per cent — was checked by fewer than 1 in 10.

The fat content of American cheese — 30 to 33 per cent — was correctly stated by only 1 in 10 of the respondents. For cottage cheese, 2 in 10 homemakers correctly indicated "up to 5 per cent."

The image of dairy products was tested for popularity, practicality, and food value, along with health and diet factors.

Homemakers were asked to select from a list of descriptive phrases they associate with each of 12 foods: seven dairy products, two well-known imitations (margarine and nondairy powdered creamer), and three "controls" (bread, eggs, and orange juice).

Ice cream ranked first in popularity, followed by orange juice. Ice milk and powdered creamer placed near the bottom, and low-fat milk scored the lowest on "adults like the taste."

In "practicality" group, nondairy powdered creamer topped the list of "keeps well."

Margarine came out best as being a "good value for the money" and "low cost per serving."

In the area of food value, eggs led the "high in protein" category.

Almost 40 per cent of the homemakers said that weightwatching influenced food choices for their households. Because the pattern of responses to questions on calorie content was similar to the pattern on the "high or low in fat" questions, it would seem that some boning up on nutrition is in order.

Fruit Oriental

Fruit Oriental Delights Summer Guests

Borrow ideas from the Orient when you are in the mood to prepare something special. This recipe for Fruit Oriental is a great American treat adapted especially for ease in cooking, as well as for use of easily available ingredients.

For Fruit Oriental use either fresh or canned fruits, or a combination of both, with serving dishes chosen to emphasize the exotic, oriental appearance. It's a great time for you to use that old fondue set in a wonderfully new way. To serve, let each guest spear a piece of sauteed fruit with a wooden pick and dip it into the heated mixture of maple syrup and sesame seeds, and then into a bowl of sesame seeds. It's a unique way to enjoy the fruits of summer.

FRUIT ORIENTAL

Assorted fruits, cut in about 75 bite-size pieces*
1 cup (about) cornstarch
¼ cup butter or margarine

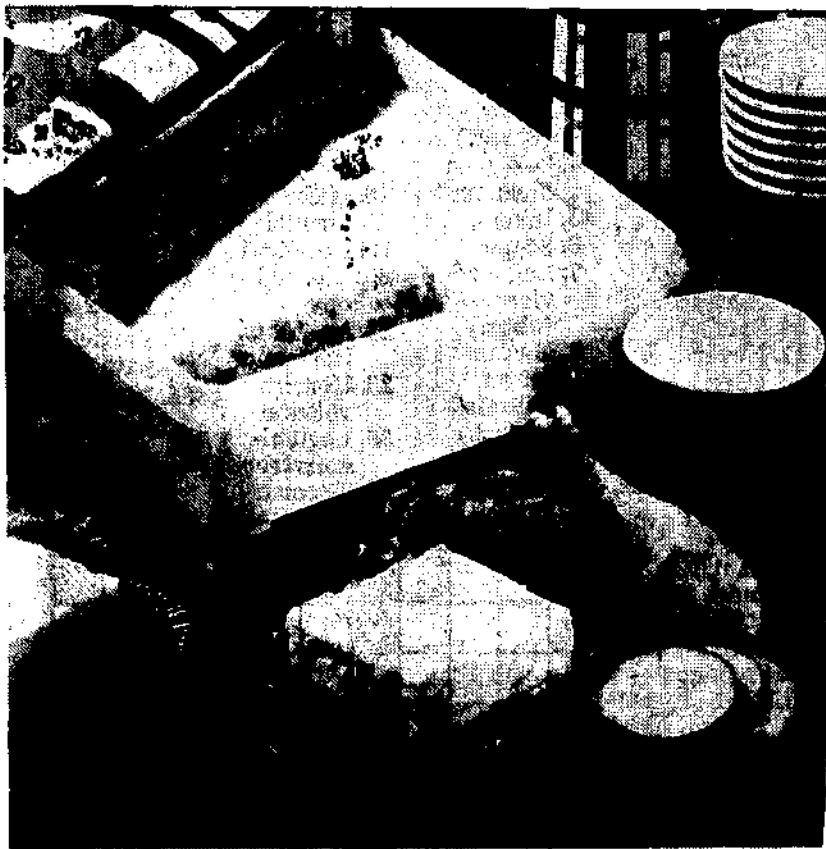

1 cup maple-blended syrup
¼ cup sesame seed, toasted

*Use bananas, peaches, oranges, apples and pineapple or well-drained canned fruits, such as mandarin oranges, pineapple chunks, sliced peaches.

Roll fruit pieces in cornstarch. Sauté in butter or margarine until lightly browned. Drain; then arrange on warmed platter to serve.

Meanwhile, combine maple-blended syrup and 2 teaspoons of the sesame seeds. Heat just to the boiling point. Place syrup mixture and remaining sesame seed in separate bowls. To serve, let each guest spear each piece of fruit with a wooden pick and dip into syrup mixture; then dip in sesame seed. Makes 8 servings.

Note: To serve as a compote, pour hot syrup mixture over sauteed fruits. Sprinkle with remaining sesame seed.

Golden Cheese Salad

Perfect Picnic Salad Spanish Pungent Pork

Summer's fine weather provides many occasions for fun and good food outdoors. And smart homemakers plan picnic menus that eliminate a lot of work by using foods that are easy to prepare at home and carry along on the outing.

Here's a salad recipe that's perfect with fried chicken and other picnic fare. Golden Cheese Salad is cool, refreshing, sparkling with flavor. Since it starts with lemon gelatin and includes grated carrots and tart-sweet pineapple, you may be reminded of the old-fashioned favorite, Perfection Salad. However, this updated version benefits from the addition of two new ingredients, shredded Cheddar cheese and dairy sour cream. Picknickers will savor the mellow goodness of Cheddar and the tangy, velvet-smoothness of sour cream, plus something more: good nutrition.

This appealing salad travels well, just keep it cool. Make it in one of those handy lightweight plastic pans with a tight-fitting cover, and when it's well-chilled, slip it into a pre-cooled, insulated bag. Longer trips to the picnic ground may require use of an ice chest or portable refrigerator.

This Golden Cheese Salad is sure to be a favorite with your family. Light and lemony, enlivened by sour cream and mellowed by Cheddar cheese, it's a pleasing accompaniment to any warm-weather meal. You'll enjoy it as much at home as you do on picnics and cookouts.

GOLDEN CHEESE SALAD

2 packages (3-oz. each) lemon flavor gelatin
2½ cups boiling water
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 can (13½ oz.) pineapple tidbits, undrained
1½ cups grated carrots
1 cup (4 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese

The Search For Mental Health

Electric Shock Used In Behavioral Therapy

This column is presented by Forest Hospital, in Des Plaines.

A transvestite is a person — usually a male — who compulsively engages in dressing up as a woman yet usually feels humiliated and demeaned by this experience which he is unable to control.

Dr. Lee Birk of the Massachusetts Mental Health Center in Boston has therapy. "One patient I treated several years ago with this problem was so ashamed of his behavior he made heroic attempts to rid himself of it," Dr. Birk explained.

"Although he didn't have very much money he'd go out and spend $75 to $80 for an outfit of women's clothes which he'd dress up in. Afterward he'd be so revulsed with what he'd done that he would throw away or burn what he bought and then like an addict looking for his next fix in a few days he'd have to find money to buy a new outfit. All of this is terribly destructive to his own sense of self and self-esteem.

"We intervened in that situation," continued Dr. Birk, "by when first making contact with him making it clear we didn't think he was bad for doing this but that we understood — along with him — that it certainly cost him a lot of money and a lot of anguish and if we could help him find a way to control this behavior he'd be better off.

"HE WAS INTERESTED in that and willing to undergo some mildly painful shock treatments in order to get rid of this troublesome behavior which was causing him more pain than shock treatments would ever do.

"We brought him into our laboratory," Dr. Birk explained, "with all his outfits. We were in an adjacent room with a one-way mirror and we got him to engage in the same behavior he wanted to get rid of. At different crucial sequences he'd get one to two seconds of shock and after a while — that is 10 to 12 sessions — this habit was brought under control. He was no longer under the mercy of the habit and his self esteem was helped considerably."

According to Dr. Birk shock treatment such as the method used in the treatment of the transvestite is called an aversive behavioral therapy technique. It is a procedure which employs a negative and unpleasant stimulus and is used by Dr. Birk in treating alcoholic patients.

"First we have the patient drink and we measure his alcohol blood level while we videotape the entire process. The next day, the patient and his wife or husband, view the videotape so they can decide with the therapist, at what point the patient's drinking should stop. The level is set and shock treatment is contingent on that decided level of alcohol consumption.

"The brain is the computer and people learn when they've had too much because their brain associates unpleasant consequences with the mental state of fuzziness or wooziness. The patient finds excessive drinking an unpleasant experience and avoids it. They may enjoy normal levels but are conditioned to never go too far in their drinking.

"Rather than aim at abstinence," Dr. Birk concluded, "with behavior therapy the endpoint is adaptive social drinking."

Veterans' News

Q — I HEAR World War II veterans can now get more insurance coverage. Is this true?

A — Yes. Policyholders with either term or permanent plans of insurance (V policies only) may request that any dividend due and payable be used to buy paid-up additions to their policies.

Q — I'M MARRIED and going to school under the GI Bill. Will I receive the extra allowance for the child we are expecting from the date of birth, or from the date I notify VA?

A — You'll be paid from the date of birth, provided you submit a copy of the birth certificate within one year of the child's birth.

Q — MY WIDOWED mother receives VA death pension benefits. Is she eligible for additional pension because she is now a patient in a nursing home?

A — Yes. Pensioners who need regular aid and attendance or who are in nursing homes are entitled to an additional special monthly aid and attendance allowance of $55 under the current law. Those under the "old" pension law may receive an additional $50 monthly.

Social Security and You

Q — I PLAN TO retire when I'm 65 (November 1972); so I will be applying for Medicare and monthly social security payments in a couple of weeks. However, next year I'm going to visit friends in Norway for a year. Can my checks be sent to me in Norway?

A — Yes. Social security checks can be sent to most foreign countries, including Norway. But be sure to notify the Social Security Administration of your address in Norway before leaving for your visit.

Q — MY WIFE and I were retired and getting monthly social security payments. My wife, who never worked under social security, died last month. My neighbors told me that I should apply for the lump-sum death payment to help with the funeral expenses. Is this correct?

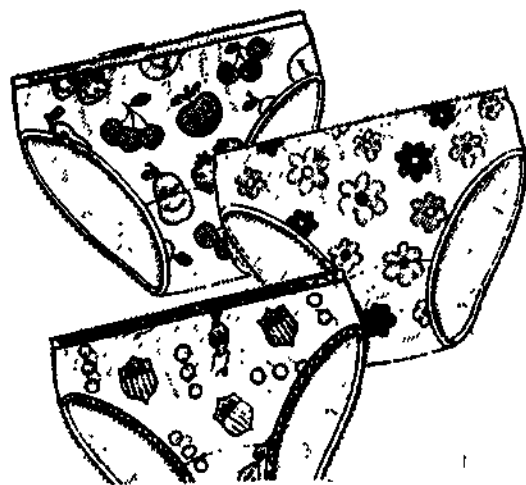

A — No. The death payment is only made when a worker, insured under social security dies.

Q — MY SON DIED recently leaving a widow and a small child who are now getting monthly social security payments. A neighbor told me that I might be able to get monthly checks as a parent. My son did support me, but I thought that a parent could not get payments if a worker left a widow and child. Is my neighbor right or am I?

A — Your neighbor is right. You may qualify for a monthly social security payment if you are 62 and if you were dependent on your son for at least one-half your support at the time of his death. You should call, write, or visit any social security office for more information about applying for payments.

To find out which social security office is closest to you, call 238-7000. If you live in Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Inverness, Palatine, Prospect Heights, Rolling Meadows or Wheeling, your local social security office is located at 120 West Eastman, Arlington Heights, Ill.

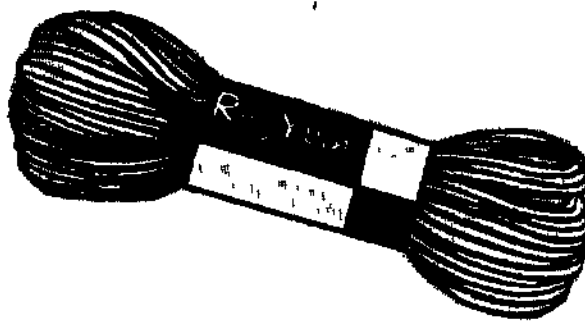

On Aug. 21, 1972 a new social security office will open at 770 Lee St. in Des Plaines to serve the communities of Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Niles, Park Ridge and Rosemont.

They Met At The Officers' Club

The chapel at Treasure Island Naval Station, San Francisco Bay, was the setting July 29 for the marriage of Susan Gay Laessle and John Pascal diLustro.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat T. diLustro, 712 Stuart Lane, Palatine, and Sue, daughter of Cdr. (U.S.N. Ret.) and Mrs. Frank W. Laessle of Berkeley, Calif., met at the Fleet Admiral Nimitz Club, Treasure Island, where their wedding reception was also held.

Jack spent four years in the U.S. Army, including a year in Vietnam, and was discharged as a first lieutenant. He is a '67 graduate of Murray State University, Murray, Ky., and is employed by California Casualty in San Mateo, Calif.

His bride was graduated from a junior college in Hawaii and in 1965 she was graduated from Colorado State University. She is now employed by a San Francisco law firm.

FOR THE 11 a.m. service Sue chose a floor-length Empire gown of white cotton blend and embroidered lace fashioned with long, full sleeves and a high neckline. An embroidered headpiece held her elbow-length veil, and she carried a bouquet of white roses and crystal flowers.

The bride's sister, Joan Laessle, Berkeley, was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were the groom's sisters, Diane diLustro, Los Angeles, and Patricia diLustro of New York City. All wore yellow cotton floor-length Empire gowns fashioned with low, round necklines, short, full sleeves and back bows. Lace chokers and bouquets of daisies and crystal flowers, with yellow roses added to the maid of honor's flowers, completed their ensembles.

Best man was Brian Anderson, Racine, Wis., and ushers were Al Waisanen, Ann Arbor, Mich., and the bride's brother, David Laessle, Berkeley. The couple honeymooned in La Jolla, Calif., before settling Aug. 6 at 3400 Sacramento, San Francisco.

Adm. Whistleblower Works Against The Pentagon

by TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON — Rear Admiral (Ret.) Gene LaRocque bumped into Elmo Zumwalt, chief of Naval Operations the other day in the Senate Office Building. There followed a tight exchange.

"Hello Elmo."

"Hello Gene."

Uncomfortable pause

"Well," LaRocque said, "I see we're working the same side of the street today."

"Yes," Zumwalt replied, "but apparently for different reasons."

Different reasons indeed. The two flag officers, long time pals and allies, have become as late something less than cozy. Elmo Zumwalt, who commands the most awesome naval force in the history of the sea, was in the Senate building that day to solicit a $9.7 billion appropriation to make it more awesome. Gene LaRocque, who commands a handful of ordinary irate taxpayers, and who believes as did Eisenhower in the dangers of unchecked military spending was there to torpedo the deal.

WHO IS GENE LAROCQUE and why is he shooting at his former employers? He is a man who has come somewhat late in life to believe there is something sad about spending $80 billion a year for guns, grenades and great big bombs. He is a sailor who has decided the nation's defense force may be so adequate that it is inadequate. He is, in sum, a suddenly concerned individual who believes the nation's civilians can make better use of the $9.7 billion appropriation than the nation's navy.

And so, at age 53, after 31 years at all levels of the Navy, six of them with one star rank, Gene LaRocque is making a new career out of watchdogging his old one.

Call him Admiral Whistleblower.

Says he with a sigh: "Since World War II, the United States has spent more than a trillion dollars in military money. We have created more than 2,000 military bases in 33 countries besides our own. We have developed a 'peacetime' force that once totaled 35 million and even now, at 2.4 million, is way too big. We have created a nuclear force of more than 1,000 intercontinental ballistic missiles, 500 strategic bombers and more than 650 undersea missiles. We have built up a force of more than a million defense workers in some 200,000 corporations to supply military needs. We have provided arms and money to some 90 different nations in the last 20 years. And we have committed ourselves to the defense of some 86 nations, from Upper Volta to Luxembourg. Now, maybe some people might think that because I'm a Navy man I shouldn't think this is excessive. But I do think it's excessive. I think the military has become too pervasive and powerful. It needs desperately to be slowed down."

THUS IT IS THE admiral has set up a privately funded — "government free" — operation in Washington called The Center for Defense Information. It is, in fact, a group of intellectual frogmen bent on sabotaging "unwarranted" military growth. Located in an old apartment building hard by the U.S. Capitol, the four-month-old organization has as its aim the shepherding of the Pentagon. LaRocque promises a steady stream of information and education material designed to "challenge existing assumptions on national defense and provide the basis for alternative policies."

Fire One: Elmo Zumwalt wants $9.7 billion in addition to the Navy Department's current $15 billion budget to meet what he says is "a major shift" in the Russian-American naval balance. LaRocque says the shift is imaginary. He says the $9.7 would be unnecessary waste.

"The U.S. Navy is now and will continue to be superior to the Russians. We have twice as many nuclear attack ships. We have five times as many separately targetable submarine missiles (2,900 to 500) We have four nuclear combat surface ships and the U.S.S.R. has none. We have 14 attack carriers and the U.S.S.R. has none."

ADM GENE LAROCQUE

Clearly, LaRocque adds, "There is no shift in the Russian favor."

Fire Two: The Defense Department has urgently requested funds to develop an ominous new super-sub called the Trident. The 16,000-ton nuclear-powered, multimissile machine would cost $1 billion each and replace the Polaris-Poseidon type underwater vessels. "Who needs them?" asks LaRocque. "Not us! Our present Polaris-Poseidon system is still developing. It won't be finished until 1976. And it will be still effective into the 1980s. With Polaris-Poseidon we can already destroy about 2,000 Soviet targets at a moment's notice. We can already wipe out about 88 million Soviet citizens in 220 Soviet towns. Isn't that enough for the time being?"

FIRE THREE: The Navy wants to build a fourth nuclear-powered aircraft carrier to cruise the Indian Ocean. Price, $1 billion. LaRocque says it's nonsense. "In the first place the carrier is not necessary, the day of the carrier has past. In the second place, it is quite clear the Indians do not like us sailing our nuclear weapons off their coast. Moreover, it will cost $3 billion, not $1 billion, to put a vessel in that ocean—$1 billion for the ship, $1 billion for the planes to sit on it, and $1 billion for support operations. I think we could better spend the money elsewhere — on the and mass for example. At the risk of sounding unpatriotic, I think we spend too much of our money on fancy ships and not enough on plain people."

To be sure, Adm. Gene LaRocque does run the risk — shooting torpedoes as he does — of sounding unpatriotic. And already there are mumbles from both military and civilian people that he's an ingrate, a renegade and a sorehead. Says one who wonders: "How the hell does he get off knocking the service? It gave him 31 years employment, a set of admiral's stars and a fat pension. He's a Judas is what he is, nothing more."

In fact, LaRocque's record indicates no disloyalty. He enlisted in the Navy as an apprentice seaman volunteer. He survived Pearl Harbor as a young ensign. He fought 13 major engagements in World War II, including an amphibious landing in the Marshall Islands. And went on to several lofty responsible postwar assignments.

His one service hangup, if it can be called that, was a distaste for Vietnam. "I've never been against it morally, but just because I thought it unwinnable." Some years ago he made a detailed study of naval bombing operations in the war — and found them wanting. "Ineffective," is the way he put it. That poked some noses. "Nobody ever pressured me, but I got the feeling I was in people's hair."

He retired on his own accord, perhaps a little earlier than his age and energy warranted, but wiser in the ways of war makers and hot to pass his lessons on to the public.

A SHORT MAN. Calm. Friendly in the face. Adm. LaRocque is still mostly Navy. He says he retired "1 April." He says the time is "1530 hours." If Zumwalt walked in his office LaRocque would probably snap a salute. Says he firmly: "I do not accept help from people who are peace at any price. I believe in a strong military. I believe we must sometimes kill people in the national interest. I am completely in favor of a military force that is entirely adequate to defend the United States."

And yet. And yet. "Hell, does anybody ever think how much we really spend on the military? I came across some figures the other day. Between 1963 and 1973 — 11 fiscal years — the federal government collected $775 billion dollars worth of individual (not including corporate) income tax. During the same period the government spent $758 billion dollars for defense outlay. That means all but $17 billion worth of individual income tax was shelled out in the name of national security."

Today is Thursday, Aug. 17, the 230th day of 1972 with 136 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Leo.

American frontiersman Davy Crockett was born Aug. 17, 1786.

On this day in history:

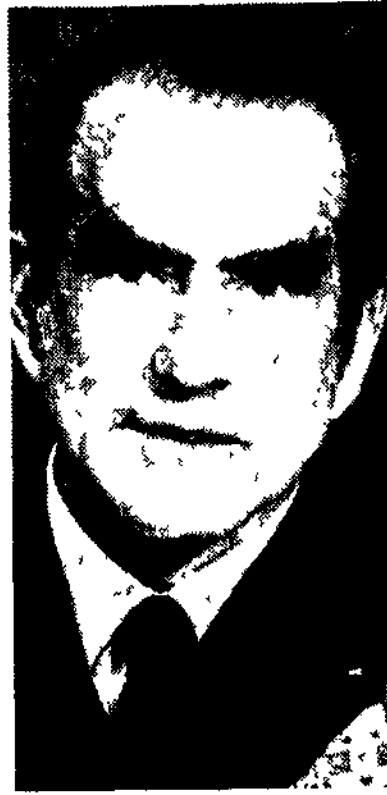

In 1915, a devastating hurricane struck Galveston, Tex. The death toll reached 275.

In 1933, first baseman Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees set a major league record by playing in his 1,308th consecutive game.

In 1965, after 34 persons had been killed in six days of violence, the curfew was lifted in the Watts section of Los Angeles.

In 1969, Dr. Philip Blaiberg, the world's longest living heart transplant patient to that time, died at the age of 60.

A THOUGHT for the day: Frontiersman Davy Crockett said, "I leave this rule for others when I'm dead: be always sure you're right . . . then go ahead."

ADM. ELMO ZUMWALT

National security? "The public may be surprised to learn that only about 25 per cent of their defense dollar goes to defense inside the United States. The rest, $83 billion goes to maintain and support troops and equipment in Europe, Asia and other places."

LaRocque raps his desk. Twists on his chair. Rolls his eyes. Do we really need to spend $25,471,000,000 in Europe this year, and next year, and the year after, etc.? Do we really need 500,000 troops, plus many of their families, overseas? Does America honestly intend to go to the defense of any of the 36 nations, like Mali (in Africa), we have agreed to go to the defense of? Would Ethiopia sink to despair if we didn't give them the usual $13 million in arms aid this year? The admiral says no.

"ACTUALLY, I believe one of the principal reasons we have so many troops committed overseas is that, that way, they are out of sight and thus don't have to be justified. Can you imagine what it would be if we brought all our troops and all our equipment home? They'd be hanging out the windows, we don't have room for them. We'd have to build new bases. And we'd have to justify their purpose. We'd have to explain just what all these fellows with guns are doing sitting around."

And so it is, Admiral Whistleblower, Gene LaRocque, shoots his shells at the redoubtable hull of "Pentagon Policy." Sort of like Ralph Nader with a spit-shine. "What I want to do," he says, looking over some figures, "is point out some things to the public. Things like this: In recent years the Pentagon has given 77,500 machine guns, 32,500 missiles, 4000 F-4 fighter planes, 243,000 trucks, and more than a million carbines and rifles to foreign countries." Once he has done that, the admiral says, smiling, he will step aside and let the public call its own torpedo shots.

Resubmit Issue To Voters

Park District Referendum In Fall On Indoor Swim Pool

Hoffman Estates Park District officials, at the urging of the Hoffman Estates Jaycees, announced Tuesday they would resubmit plans for an indoor swimming pool for voter approval this fall.

The decision was announced by Park Board President Tom Barber, after Jaycee representatives told the board they had received positive responses on the pool plan from several community groups.

The indoor swimming pool, which would be adjacent to the new Hoffman Estates High School, was part of a two-question general park improvement referendum voted on in June. Voters rejected the pool issue, which would have cost $475,000, by only 73 votes. They approved a $675,000 park development program at the same time.

BARBER SAID A committee of representatives from the park board, High School Dist. 211 and Jaycees will plan the referendum and report back to the park district on Sept. 19.

It is anticipated a date for the referendum will be set at that time. Park officials are required by law to wait 90 days, or until at least Sept. 10, to hold a new referendum.

Last week, the park district crossed another major hurdle in gaining support for the pool, when trustees for the high school district reaffirmed their support for the program. The park district and school district will share the cost of operating the facility, if it is approved. The indoor pool would be the first for Dist. 211.

An operating agreement outlining details of the pool program, joint use by both groups and costs will be signed by both groups if the referendum is approved.

BARBER SAID Tuesday he is "very confident" the issue will be approved this time around.

"I have been approached by many residents in the past few weeks who have encouraged the park district to seek approval for the pool," Barber said. He added many have said they failed to vote in the last referendum, because they thought the referendum was a sure thing.

Barber said last week the pool facility might be partially redesigned before another referendum is put to the voters.

The Jaycees and other civic groups have suggested the park district add exercise rooms and a whirlpool unit for use by the handicapped both in the same building as the pool. These features were not included in the initial design.

Barber said he did not know how much this might increase the cost of the facility. The architectural firm of Kessler, Mercl and Lochner will submit new designs to the park district incorporating those plans.

Suspect In Attempted Murder Shows

Daniel L. McGladdery, 19, charged with attempted murder after an incident early Tuesday morning in Hoffman Estates, surrendered Tuesday evening to the Niles Police Department.

The Lombard resident was released Wednesday morning after posting bond, reduced from $50,000 to $20,000 in a hearing in the Niles Branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

A warrant for McGladdery's arrest was issued Tuesday after he allegedly tried to run down an officer of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEG) during a drug arrest at the home of Charles E. Deering, 19, of 442 Bode Rd., Hoffman Estates. The warrant charged him with attempted murder and delivery of a controlled substance.

Police still are seeking an unidentified female, allegedly in the auto with McGladdery when he escaped arrest while officers fired at the car.

McGLADDERY AND FOUR other suburban residents facing drug charges are to be arraigned at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in the court rooms in Niles.

Other defendants and the charges they face are Deering, delivery of a controlled substance; Richard Alan Pain, 19, of 4700 Arbor Dr., Rolling Meadows, delivery of marijuana; Linda Marie Moser, 18, and Carl J. Isenberg, 17, both of 6654 Pine-tree, Hanover Park, delivery of a controlled substance, police said. All have posted bond.

MEG agents said they first arranged the purchase of drugs from the Hanover Park residents, and arrests there led them to Hoffman Estates. Deering's arrest then led the agents to Pain, said Niles Police Chief Clarence Emurison, MEG spokesman.

Clark Station Robbed 3rd Time In 5 Weeks

Cook County Sheriff's Police were searching for a man who staged a daylight armed robbery of the Clark Service Station, 150 E. Algonquin Rd., near Schaumburg, yesterday afternoon.

The stick-up marks the third time in five weeks that the station has been robbed. Initial reports indicate a lone gunman staged the robbery about 3 p.m.

The robber took about $70 according to the police.

The other robberies occurred July 11 and 24. In each case the robberies occurred during early morning hours and netted less than $50.

The gas station is located in an unincorporated section of Cook County between Rolling Meadows and Schaumburg.

Put On Boots For Groundbreaking

"Put on your boots," is the advice Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher gave Tuesday as he announced a 10 a.m. Aug. 28 groundbreaking ceremony for the village's new Civic Center.

Construction on the $1 million facility is expected to begin in 10 days. Since this summer's rains have turned the undeveloped site into a muddy walking place, Mayor Atcher called for boots as appropriate dress for those who attend the ceremony.

The village contracted with Pritscher and Erbach, low bidders for construction of phase one of the facility, to be located on the south side of Schaumburg Road a half-mile east of Roselle Road. For $704,370 the construction firm will deliver the bare building, said architect Al Eichsteadt, who designed the center.

THE VILLAGE will open bids for access road construction and drives; underground improvements, such as sewer and water, and mass excavation of the unimproved site and proposed lake Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the existing village hall.

Herb Aigner, chairman of the construction committee, said architects and other consultants fees and furnishings for the center will bring the price up to $928,478.

Landscaping and site and street work, including the lake, will bring the total price of the civic center to $1.107 million.

Although the total center is expected to cost $300,000 more than originally estimated, Mayor Atcher and the trustees expressed satisfaction with the final plans and complimented architect Eichsteadt.

ATCHER SAID the center will serve Schaumburg for 50 to 100 years, and will be built without taxing residents.

Schaumburg officials have passed and abated tax levies in the past. Tuesday the board approved a 1972 $500,000 tax levy, but pledged to abate the levy this year also. The mayor called approval of the levy an insurance measure.

Atcher explained a proposed bill would, if passed, freeze the amount of taxes a municipality could collect at the level approved in 1972.

Atcher stressed the $500,000 levy will be abated immediately if the bill is defeated, and if the bill passes the tax will be abated before the Jan. 1 collection date. The mayor said the village is in good financial shape, but is establishing the tax levy figure to retain the ability to levy taxes in the future.

Rudd Cites Illness, Resigns From Schaumburg Bd. Of Ed

Donnie Rudd, member of the Schaumburg Township School Dist. 34 Board of Education, submitted a letter of resignation Tuesday.

Rudd, who has undergone five major operations this year, said he faces further surgery and his ill health forces a resignation he has postponed before.

Board Pres. Dianne Hart, confirming Rudd's resignation, said it was received during a special session of the board Tuesday, but was not acted upon because of a lack of a quorum.

The board is expected to meet Sept. 7. Mrs. Hart said Rudd's resignation "leaves a void" on the board, on which he served as an active member for the past 2½ years.

THE VACANCY must be filled in 60 days, and the board will decide on how to fill the post during that time. In the past, we have asked for resumes and applications from interested residents," she added.

A year ago Rudd resigned as president of the school board, citing ill health, but remained as a member of the board.

Rudd said yesterday the past year has not been easy and that his workload has increased because of teacher negotiations and his work with the legislative and unification committees of which he is a member.

"I can't sit in a board slot and do nothing and thought it best to follow my doctor's orders, resign, and let the board pull someone else that can carry a full load," Rudd said.

If his health allows him to return to active service, Rudd said he would seek a seat on the board again.

Rudd, 39, a Hoffman Estates resident for the past four years is employed as a patent attorney for Quaker Oats.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Former presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger said he met privately with North Vietnamese negotiators in Paris as a emissary of George McGovern and told them the Democratic presidential candidate hoped they would press peace talks without regard to the American election.

Former President Lyndon Johnson has endorsed George McGovern for President.

Republicans swiftly blocked maverick Rep. Paul McCloskey's attempt to challenge President Nixon symbolically by having his name placed in nomination at next week's national convention. In two separate moves, the party denied McCloskey a chance to have his antiwar views brought to the convention floor and aired over nationwide television.

Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W.Va., charged an Air Force general who retired under fire will get a tax-free retirement payment for a claimed lung disability while thousands of coal miners are unable to collect black lung compensation payments.

Bombing incidents in the United States during July killed two persons and injured 13, the FBI reported.

Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's top foreign policy adviser, arrived in Saigon for a series of secret meetings with President Nguyen Van Thieu. Political observers speculated he had come either to reassure Thieu or to ask him to quit.

The World

Three unidentified military aircraft attacked a special Boeing airliner carrying Moroccan King Hassan II. The plane landed with Hassan uninjured.

The British government offered a $125,000 reward for the capture of a gang of psychopathic killers suspected of murdering up to 40 persons in Northern Ireland within the past month.

The African nations threatened to spoil a $600 million dream by walking out of the 20th Olympic summer games because of Rhodesia's participation.

The State

Mayor Richard Daley canceled his meeting with Sen. George McGovern because he was angry by a news magazine article in which McGovern appears to apologize for soliciting Daley's support, a Chicago newspaper reported.

The War

Heavy fighting was reported in both North and South Vietnam despite dramatic and puzzling trips by two of the top secret peace negotiators and speculation that a settlement is pending in the 11-year-old conflict.

Take Step Toward Park District Cooperation

A step towards increased cooperation between the park districts in Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg was taken Tuesday by the Hoffman Estates park board.

Tom Barber, park board president, introduced a resolution calling for the abolishment of higher non-resident fees for all recreation programs for persons living in Schaumburg. The resolution will not take effect until a similar action gets approval from the Schaumburg park board.

The action does not include use of a proposed in-door swimming pool. Higher fees for use of the indoor pool, if it is constructed, probably still would be charged.

Barber hopes to sit down with members of the Schaumburg board in an effort to get this cooperative program in operation. The resolution represents a first step and good intent on the part of the Hoffman Estates Park District, he said.

THE RESOLUTION WAS created because residents in some parts of Schaumburg live closer to Hoffman Estates parks than Schaumburg facilities, he said. This resolution would make it easier and cheaper for those residents to make use of recreational programs. He said the same situation exists for some Hoffman Estates residents who live closer to Schaumburg Park District facilities.

"We are trying to serve all the taxpayers in the area and penalize no one," Barber said. He added a letter will be sent to Robert Bock, Schaumburg Park Board President, outlining the park district's action.

In other action the board announced it is presently taking applications for persons wishing permits for boating on the park district's lakes. An ordinance was approved last month allowing non-motorized boats up to 16 feet in length on Finger, Highland and Highpoint lakes. Skippers must be at least 14-years-old. Persons with boats should register them at the park district offices. More information can be obtained from the park district.

The board also tabled a request from the Hoffman Estates Athletic Association for permission to place portable toilets in Highland Park.

PARK BOARD members expressed concern about health laws and placement of the toilets.

Barber also announced a preliminary meeting had been held with residents of Sheffield Towne to discuss the services offered by the park district. The area, located within the boundaries of both the Village of Schaumburg and the Hoffman Estates Park District, voted heavily against the park referendum last June. Until just before the referendum, many of the residents did not know they resided in the Hoffman Estates Park District.

The residents had considered dis-annexation from the park district because recreation facilities within the townhouse development closely equalled those offered by the park district.

Barber termed the meeting very cordial and informative. He added other meetings will probably take place. Representatives of the Schaumburg Park District also have met with the residents to outline their programs.

Lie Tests In Area Murders Are Slated

Chicago police planned Wednesday to administer lie detector tests in connection with the Barrington Hills murders to two brothers arrested with a stolen car.

Police said the pair, identified as John Egan, 25, and James Egan, 28, told them they could name three men who committed the four murders.

The bodies of retired insurance executive Paul Corbett, his wife, her daughter and sister, were found Aug. 5 in the Corbett's luxurious home in Barrington Hills, an exclusive suburb west of Chicago.

Chief John Killackey of the Chicago police criminal investigations division said checks were being made on the leads provided by the brothers, but that lie detector tests also would be administered.

The Egan brothers were arrested Tuesday night in a Chicago garage with a stolen car, police said.

Barrington Hills police could provide no details, but confirmed that police were checking out leads in connection with the Egan brothers.

Ground Round To Move Sign

The sign for Ground Round, a restaurant at Roselle and Higgins roads, will be relocated pending approval by the Hoffman Estates Village Board. The Hoffman Estates Zoning Board of Appeals recommended approval for the relocation Tuesday.

Presently, the sign for Union 76 almost blocks view of Ground Round's sign from the south. The board approved moving the sign from its present location at the south end of the property to the north-east corner of the restaurant, with a 10-foot setback.

In other business, the board recommended approval of a sidewalk variation for Rudolph Schneider of 501 Astor Lane. Schneider sought the variation because he wants to build a detached garage that will be only eight feet from the lot's side line. The zoning ordinance requires buildings in residential areas to be 15 feet from the side line.

THE AUTO THAT CRASHED into Lake Rossiter early yesterday morning after veering from Rte. 53 near Palatine Road, emerges from the man-made lake. James Otis, driver of the car, and his wife Mary, escaped injury when they crawled out of the car windows to safety. Otis apparently fell asleep at the wheel, police said. State trooper Richard Turner, in the car, searched the waters for several hours before the vehicle was discovered. Palatine fireman Joe Pannhausen is shown assisting in the salvage operation.

Pair Narrowly Escapes Watery Death

A Palatine couple narrowly escaped death early Wednesday after the car in which they were riding went off Illinois Rte. 53, down a steep embankment and into Lake Rossiter, just west of Palatine.

James D. Otis, 29, of 259 Boynton Dr., and his wife, Mary E., 28, emerged from the car without assistance. They were shaken but apparently uninjured.

Their 1971 red Chevrolet Impala later was retrieved from the 80-foot deep lake, about 70 feet from shore. The lake is more than 150 feet from the highway.

Palatine Police Lt. Frank Ortiz said the Otises were "lucky people. If they had the window closed with the air conditioning on, they would still be in there," he said as the car was pulled from the murky water.

The couple escaped by crawling through a window during the five to seven minutes that the car was afloat, making their way to shore, and up the embankment where they hailed Trooper Greg Fritz of the Illinois State Police.

FRITZ SAID if the couple had been injured and unable to get up to the highway, "nobody would have found them till morning." The accident occurred at 2:10 a.m.

State police said Otis apparently dozed while driving southbound in the right-hand lane of Illinois Rte. 53, about half a mile south of Palatine Road.

The car, traveling an estimated 60 m.p.h., veered off the highway, where there is no barrier, and gained additional momentum as it went down the 20-foot embankment.

Otis was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. He also was charged with not having an Illinois driver's license.

The Otises refused medical treatment and were taken home.

The effort to retrieve the car began at 6 a.m., but divers were unable to spot the car in the muddy water.

TWO FIREMEN from the Palatine Rural Fire Dept. later located the car with a hook dropped from a rowboat.

Divers Richard Turner of the Illinois State Police and Lance Bedini of the Palatine Police, attached hooks to the vehicle, and it was pulled from the water by a tow truck.

Turner, a diver for 15 years, said later the effort was the "hardest" he had encountered, because of the depth and coldness of the water, and the lack of visibility.

50% Mark Hit In Muscular Dystrophy Dr.

Members of the International Association of Firefighters AFL-CIO, Local 2061, in Hoffman Estates have passed the halfway point towards their goal in collecting funds for the national muscular dystrophy drive.

Richard Cordova, president of the local firefighters chapter and one of the organizers of the drive, said the recent "Fill the Boot" campaign netted $650. Firemen collected donations at intersections one weekend last month to raise the money.

Other donations from the volunteer firefighters association has brought the total over $300. Cordova said the group hopes to collect $1,500 to be turned over to the national organization during a giant Labor Day telethon.

The firefighters will seek more donations from local businesses, village officials and interested citizens in an effort to reach the goal, Cordova said.

Persons wishing to make donations may place their contributions in any of the muscular dystrophy collection cans displayed in many local stores.

Term Suit 'Political Football'

Area School Districts Could Lose Big Sum Through Suit

by RICH HONACK

In what has been termed a "political football game" by most school district administrators in Cook County, Dist. 21 stands to lose a large sum of money from tax revenue.

The exact amount of money that could be lost if a suit by Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton is successful has not yet been determined. The suit has been filed to try to lower the equalizer used in figuring state school aid.

Cullerton and county school officials are accusing state officials of cheating Cook County schools out of almost $38 million in state aid funds. However, if the suit is upheld and the districts get state money, the districts will lose some of the local tax revenue they now receive.

In Dist. 21 the amount of revenue lost would be almost double the amount of state aid that would be given to the district if the suit is upheld, according to Asst. Supt. John Barger.

For example, every dollar the district would gain in state aid would be offset by a $2 loss in local tax revenue. Thus the district's net loss would be $1 for every dollar allocated in state aid.

Barger said he thinks the idea behind the suit is political and the districts in the county are being used as "whipping boys."

STATE AID FOR school districts is set by a formula based in part on a school district's wealth or assessed valuation of property. In order to compensate for discrepancies in county assessment practices, the formula includes an equalizer.

The equalizer multiplied by the county assessments sets an equalized assessed valuation which is used in state aid computations. Barger feels it is in this assessment that Cullerton made an error and that Cullerton is now trying to make up for it by "using" the school districts.

The suit will also relieve some of the burden of school cost from the local taxpayer and give it to the state. However, in a county meeting Tuesday morning, several administrators said it would force them into cutting several programs valuation to the education of taxpayers' children.

Barger said Dist. 21 officials are confident the suit will be defeated because of this reason. He said if the suit is won almost all the districts will have to have referendums to make up the loss.

FOR INSTANCE, in the case of high school Dist. 214, officials report they will lose more than $1 million if the suit is granted.

Cullerton's suit was announced at a hearing Aug. 7 involving an investigation of Cook County assessment practices. Cullerton refused to appear at the hearing, but his legal counsel, Asst. State's Atty. James Rooney, read a letter saying the assessor will not produce subpoenaed county assessment records. The letter also challenged the department's legal right to demand the records.

Dist. 21 officials are going to wait and see what comes from the suit before they make any decision or take any action. It is not known when a decision will be rendered.

Moderate-Income Housing Accepted

by TOM VON MALDER

The advent of moderate-income housing in Mount Prospect — one of the first such developments in the Northwest suburbs — has not been met by pickets or angry citizens at village hall.

Instead the Huntington Commons apartments off Elmhurst Road south of Golf Road, have been quietly built, advertised and accepted. And by those in the $6,500-$11,000 income categories, they have been eagerly welcomed.

"We're ranting like crazy," said Janet Merutka, vice president of Marketing and promotion for the Littlestone Company, a Chicago real estate firm that is building the 324 units.

"It has been accepted well," commented Mount Prospect Mayor Robert D. Teichert. He said he has been asked by a number of people to use his influence to get them into the apartments. "Unsuccessfully," he added.

There are two government financing programs involved in the project; one includes state financing and the other federal subsidization.

George Headrich, an administrative assistant for the Illinois Housing Development Authority (IHDA), explained the two programs.

"The authority is making available to developers what we call 'below market' financing," he said. "Our purpose is to stimulate the housing market, particularly in the moderate or middle-income levels."

Apartment units built under the IHDA program are financed by state tax exempt securities. This means the builder is financed by the state at about 4-6 per cent interest while under conventional lending the rate would be in the neighborhood of 8-10 per cent.

Headrich called this program "middle income" designed and said that included families making $9,500-$15,000. However, the federal program is designed for "moderate housing," in the $6,000-$9,500 range.

Although all their three-bedroom units are subsidized, many are still available. Mrs. Merutka said the larger units "were not renting as well" as the others. She said all their subsidized one-bedroom units and most of the two-bedroom units have been rented.

Mrs. Merutka said some minority group families are participating in the program, but not as many as expected. Of four oriental families renting, only one comes under the subsidy program. She said it was the same for three black families.

"This is in no sense a program where the IHDA is trying to draw out people from the Chicago South Side," she said.

Headrich agreed. "There are no quotas or minority participation," he said. "We encourage the developer to make the housing available to everyone."

Under the IHDA program, the builder advertises as he would normally and is

Carnivals To Fight Muscular Dystrophy

Two more backyard carnivals against dystrophy will be held by Wheeling children Saturday. The children got the idea to raise money to fight muscular dystrophy from a cartoon television show.

At noon, April Bradow of 335 S. Wheeling Rd. will start her carnival, which will feature a penny pitch, bingo, roulette and Bozo buckets.

Michael Cacchione of 1072 Kenilworth Dr. will start his carnival at 1 p.m. Six neighborhood children have been helping Michael organize the carnival, which will include such games as a toy sail boat race, dart board and string bowling. Refreshments will be served.

Rents at the apartments are $190 for one bedroom, $241-$245 for two bedrooms and $296 for three bedrooms. However, those tenants under the federal program will actually pay less rent, the difference being made up by the subsidy.

Under the federal program, called Title 236 of the Federal Housing Act, a rent subsidy is paid to the building owner. Headrich said that the federal government in effect is paying the interest on the mortgage (which had already been reduced by the state program) after the owner pays the first per cent.

In the Littlestone development 108 of 324 units come under the federal program. "We have almost 50 of these subsidized apartments rented," Mrs. Merutka said. In all, 161 units have either

OK 30 Days For Vehicle Registration

The Wheeling Village Board Monday night approved an ordinance giving Wheeling residents 30 days to register their cars with the village.

Previously, residents were given only three days to register their vehicles after moving to the village or buying a new car. Trustee Michael Valenza last month proposed increasing this time period to seven business days. He called the three-day limit a "hardship" on village residents.

In other business, Trustee Edward Berger announced that the village would be ready to let bids on the McHenry Road extension project in the next week or two. Berger said plans for the project, which began in 1965, were nearly completed.

The board also approved the final acceptance of the Lilac Lane Subdivision. The board had been withholding approval until all sidewalks at the site were installed, even though other work at the site had been completed for nearly two years. With the final acceptance, the village assumes all maintenance costs for the site and releases all bonds and other securities.

THE TRUSTEES voted to pay M-W Construction Co. $10,961.29 for a water main connection and sanitary sewer stub between Wolf Road and Milwaukee Avenue. The project exceeded its estimated cost by $234.10, which was spent for tree removal in the area.

The village attorney was directed to draw up the necessary papers for the annexation of property at 642 S. Milwaukee Ave. The board also directed the zoning board to hold hearings on two parcels of land at 642 S. Milwaukee Ave.

The petition asked that one parcel be zoned for business use while the other be zoned for planned development. The land is presently under a residential zoning.

Sneaker Thief Tracked Down

Buffalo Grove police have reportedly solved the case of the "sneaker thieves" with the help of an Arlington Heights family.

Police said the three suspected thieves, believed to be responsible for five and possibly more break-ins within the last few weeks, are reportedly from Wheeling. Names of the individuals are not available because the three boys are juveniles.

According to Buffalo Grove detectives, the boys were caught earlier this week by an Arlington Heights family after the boys broke into the house.

Police say the three youths broke into at least five Buffalo Grove homes, including: 999 Beechwood Dr., 632 Weiner Dr., 776 Patton Dr., 145 Greengrass Dr. and 430 Sussex Ct.

Police added the youths may also lead them to other similar burglaries in the area. As it stands now the boys are being charged with the five Buffalo Grove burglaries, plus two in Arlington Heights, two in Wheeling and several in unincorporated Cook County.

The youths were arrested by Arlington Heights police, who have released no information on the case.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Former presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger said he met privately with North Vietnamese negotiators in Paris as an emissary of George McGovern and told them the Democratic presidential candidate hoped they would press peace talks without regard to the American election.

Former President Lyndon Johnson has endorsed George McGovern for President.

Republicans swiftly blocked maverick Rep. Paul McCloskey's attempt to challenge President Nixon symbolically by having his name placed in nomination at next week's national convention. In two separate moves, the party denied McCloskey a chance to have his antiwar views brought to the convention floor and sired over nationwide television.

President Nixon vetoed a politically sensitive bill to spend $30.5 billion—nearly $1.8 billion more than he asked—for federal health, education, welfare and labor programs. The house voted to sustain the veto.

Bombing incidents in the United States during July killed two persons and injured 13, the FBI reported.

Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's top foreign policy adviser, arrived in Saigon for a series of secret meetings with President Nguyen Van Thieu. Political observers speculated he had come either to reassure Thieu or to ask him to quit.

The World

Three unidentified military aircraft attacked a special Boeing airliner carrying Moroccan King Hassan II. The plane landed with Hassan uninjured.

The British government offered a $125,000 reward for the capture of a gang of psychopathic killers suspected of murdering up to 40 persons in Northern Ireland within the past month.

The African nations threatened to spoil a $600 million dream by walking out of the 20th Olympic summer games because of Rhodesia's participation.

The State

Mayor Richard Daley canceled his meeting with Sen. George McGovern because he was angry by a news magazine article in which McGovern appears to apologize for soliciting Daley's support, a Chicago newspaper reported.

The War

Heavy fighting was reported in both North and South Vietnam despite dramatic and puzzling trips by two of the top secret peace negotiators and speculation that a settlement is pending in the 11-year-old conflict.

The Dow Jones average lost 5.72 to 964.25. The average price of a common share decreased by 11 cents. Declines topped advances, 796 to 620, among the 1,762 issues crossing the tape. THE AUTO THAT CRASHED into Lake Rossiter early yesterday morning after veering from Rte. 53 near Palatine Road, emerges from the man-made lake. James Otis, driver of the car, and his wife Mary, escaped injury when they crawled out of the car windows to safety. Otis apparently fell asleep at the wheel, police said. State trooper Richard Turner, in the car, searched the waters for several hours before the vehicle was discovered. Palatine fireman Joe Pannhausen is shown assisting in the salvage operation.

Pair Narrowly Escapes Watery Car Crash Death

A Palatine couple narrowly escaped death early Wednesday after the car in which they were riding went off Illinois Rte. 53, down a steep embankment and into Lake Rossiter, just west of Palatine.

James D. Otis, 29, of 239 Boynton Dr., and his wife, Mary E., 28, emerged from the car without assistance. They were shaken but apparently uninjured.

Their 1971 red Chevrolet Impala later was retrieved from the 80-foot deep lake, about 70 feet from shore. The lake is more than 150 feet from the highway.

Palatine Police Lt. Frank Ortiz said the Otises were "lucky people. If they had the window closed with the air conditioning on, they would still be in there," he said as the car was pulled from the murky water.

The couple escaped by crawling through a window during the five to seven minutes that the car was afloat, making their way to shore, and up the embankment where they hailed Trooper Greg Fritz of the Illinois State Police.

Fritz said if the couple had been injured and unable to get up to the highway, "nobody would have found them till morning." The accident occurred at 2:10 a.m.

State police said Otis apparently dozed while driving southbound in the right-hand lane of Illinois Rte. 53, about half a mile south of Palatine Road.

The car, traveling an estimated 60 m.p.h., veered off the highway, where there is no barrier, and gained additional momentum as it went down the 20-foot embankment.

Otis was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. He also was charged with not having an Illinois driver's license.

The Otises refused medical treatment and were taken home.

The effort to retrieve the car began at 6 a.m., but divers were unable to spot the car in the muddy water.

TWO FIREMEN from the Palatine Rural Fire Dept. later located the car with a hook dropped from a rowboat.

Divers Richard Turner of the Illinois State Police and Lance Bedini of the Palatine Police, attached hooks to the vehicle, and it was pulled from the water by a tow truck.

Turner, a diver for 15 years, said later the effort was the "hardest" he had encountered, because of the depth and coldness of the water, and the lack of visibility.

No Tornadoes Sighted Monday

Buffalo Grove police said yesterday that despite widespread reports, no tornadoes were sighted in Buffalo Grove during the sudden storm Monday afternoon.

Police theorized that dust clouds blown up in construction sites in the village may have appeared to be tornado funnels to some persons.

Damage to several trees and roofs was not attributed to tornadoes. The roofs were partially damaged by high winds, and about 50 trees were knocked down, but the damage was not the type caused by tornadoes, police said.

Crash Injures Two

Two persons were taken to Holy Family Hospital Thursday night with injuries resulting from an auto accident at Milwaukee Avenue and Dundee Road.

Robert Sulski of Northbrook was charged with disobeying a red light and failure to reduce speed after his car struck an automobile driven by Leigh Sperry of Northbrook.

Susan Koehler of Northbrook, a passenger in Sulski's car, suffered leg injuries, and Leigh Sperry was taken to the hospital with head injuries.

Need Help? Just Call Pete Smith

by MARY HUTCHINGS
Pete Smith is going to frame his first movie contract and wait for Hollywood to call.

On a 24-hour pass from a recent hospital stay, he starred in his first film, "The Balance Sheet," made by Creative Establishment of Chicago.

The film will be distributed by the Governor's Commission on Employment of the Handicapped, of which Smith is an active and influential member.

Pete Smith is probably better known to Hoffman Estates residents as the civic leader who is responsible for the village's model ordinance — the first in Illinois — which requires that public buildings be architecturally accessible to the handicapped.

Smith was stricken with multiple sclerosis more than three years ago. Though he now may dream of a motorized wheelchair, he said the only difference in his life "is that it takes me a little longer to get from Point A to Point B. A transportation problem — that's all."

His attitude toward his handicap is inspirational to those who meet him as he wheels in and out of civic activities in the village.

"THE ONLY PERSON who is handicapped is the one who thinks he is," Smith said, radiating an inner strength and confidence that convinces and charms the listener.

"The day of the shut-in is gone," he added. "If I have any message I could get up on a soapbox and preach, it's 'get out and enjoy life. Come on in, the water's fine.'"

The man familiar to parade-goers as the guy "skiing" in his wheelchair behind the Jaycee car has long gotten over the "Why me?" period.

Smith's acceptance of what most would call a drastic change in his lifestyle is so remarkably good and his enthusiasm for "getting involved in anything you want" is so contagious his doctor sometimes asks him to talk with other patients.

"If anyone thinks life is passing them by, please call me," Smith offered. He's happy to help people buy wheelchairs and then teach them the fine points of "driving" one.

A salesman for Novo Airfreight in Elk Grove Village, the father of four drives himself with hand controls. He joked that his home at 402 Kingsdale houses a "two-chair" family — one for the home that allows him to get close to things, and one for the road, sturdy enough to bounce down curbs and do "wheelies" up them.

AN AVID BEARS' fan, he didn't miss a home game last year, and with sons

Bob, 12, and Patrick (P.J.), 6, will be rooting them on again this year.

His favorite sport, though, is "mental gymnastics."

It's hard to believe Smith when he describes himself as an "egotist," but he can quickly and accurately sense a person's "basic motivating factor" and readily admits that "fan" letters make him happy.

After the passing of the Hoffman Estates ordinance, his mail included inquiries into how to go about passing similar laws elsewhere, as well as anonymous "thank you" from the handicapped and elderly.

With the ranks of the handicapped being swelled here with the return of injured Vietnam veterans, Smith said the ramps and railings required in public buildings by the local ordinance will become even more important.

He praised the design of Woodfield, which "allows the handicapped to spend his money just as well as anybody else," and he's probably one of the few who has noticed the cut-away curbs on Michigan Avenue downtown and the half dozen Loop buildings with the "accessible to the handicapped" symbol.

Smith said he "couldn't make it without the help of my wife — my super-partner." His two daughters, Donna, 13, and Susie, 9 as well as the boys, the dog and two pet mice, keep the household busy. Smith included the Jaycees, who "won't let me be handicapped."

"You know, we don't have to bring the old theory of the city with us to the suburbs. We all need help; we can all help each other. Some are able to do more than others," Smith said.

Very few people do more to help than Pete Smith.

He laughed, "I get by with a little help from my friends."

Seek Way To Personalize Teaching

by CINDY TEW

Take a dozen teachers, throw them together for a month and ask them to come up with methods of personalizing teaching, and there's going to be fireworks.

And it's been a long, hot month in the air-conditioned conference room on the third floor of St. Viator High School.

The teachers, along with the administrators of St. Viator will put a new, almost radical, teaching approach to work in a few weeks.

Teachers knew they were stepping into the unknown when they signed their contracts last spring. They knew teaching was no longer going to be a personal operation and their private teaching methods would be challenged. And so far no one has quit.

TEACHERS WERE divided into four "schools," each with a different area of emphasis, and the teams have worked closely to build their school. The programs include:

- Social studies in which students will study man in relation to his society.
- Science in which technology will influence courses of the curriculum.
- Humanities in which students will study man and his culture.
- A traditional program, which will be essentially the same program St. Viator has always had, with no special emphasis on any subject.

"A GROUP DECISION has to be a compromise," said a member of the social studies faculty. As discussion proceeded, the sentence proved to be an understatement.

Staff members agreed that the personal teaching philosophy of individuals in the group runs from conservative to liberal.

"Let some students say that sonnets are hogwash — it's a basic human right not to be interested in a specific subject," said one teacher. "Let them develop their own interest."

"But we need structure. . ." And the teachers wrestle with the problem. The problem of communicating. Being able to incorporate new ideas into their system of teaching without changing their basic philosophy.

"WHAT WE NEED is some common ground — an umbrella under which we can follow our own avenues to teaching," said the chairman of the social studies school.

The teachers agree that they are basically committed to making the school more relevant to the students.

"All students will end their high school career with the same basic skills," said the Rev. Patrick Render, one of four top administrators at the school who will be part of a team of principals.

"The emphasis of the student's basic courses, however, will depend on which of the four programs he enrolls in," he said.

FATHER RENDER added that even the traditional program will be a little different than last year's program in that the teacher-student relationship will be more individualized.

"We can't develop personal teacher-student relationships if we can't build relationships between members of the staff, and that is part of what teachers are learning at the month-long seminars," Render said.

The cost of the program, including an additional two weeks salary for teachers and some cost for speakers, will add about $25,000 to this year's expenses at St. Viator.

"We look at this as an initial investment to demonstrate the worth of the program to others," said Father Render. The extra cost will be absorbed by a number of sources including foundations and the Viatorian order.

FRESH FROM HIS MOVIE debut in "The Balance Sheet," made for the Governor's Commission on Employment of the Handicapped, Pete Smith of Hoffman Estates checks some film cases while on the job at Novo Airfreight, Elk Grove Village, where he has been employed as a salesman for five years — three in a wheelchair.

Voters To Decide Coroner Question

by ROGER CAPETTINI
The life or death of the Cook County Coroner's Office will be in the hands of the voters when they go to the polls in the November general election.

But the county board still will have a voice in the matter.

The fate of the coroner's office was left to the voters when the County Board, in a special meeting last night, voted unanimously to place a referendum on the November ballot.

The board, however, was careful to retain power over the office by changing the wording of the referendum question from the way it was proposed originally.

THE BALLOT question, as approved last night, will ask if the elective coroner's office should be eliminated and replaced with a medical examiner's system, "headed by a licensed physician to be chosen by the president of the Cook County Board of Commissioners with the advice and consent of the members of the Cook County Board of Commissioners, to be effective Dec. 6, 1976."

That wording differs from the question proposed Aug. 7 by County Comm. Floyd T. Fulle of Des Plaines.

The Fulle resolution stipulated the medical examiner system would be "headed by a licensed forensic pathologist chosen and directed by a commission composed of the chiefs of the pathology departments of the major medical schools," in the county.

The resolution to place the question on the ballot, and to change the wording of the question was approved by the board after Dr. Andrew Toman, current county coroner, said he "fully approves" of the resolution.

Dr. Toman, who has been criticized frequently for his direction of the office, said that while he has instituted many improvements and changes in the past 12 years, many "archaic" aspects have been carried over, by state statute, from common law.

THE CORONER suggested, however, the chief medical examiner, if approved by the voters, should be appointed by the county board so the "public will maintain some interest in the selection and conduct of the medical examiner." That way, Dr. Toman said, "The people will still have a voice." He said if the board did not appoint the examiner the "direct line of authority would be broken."

Following Dr. Toman's remarks the board heard from seven other witnesses, all of whom said they supported the resolution and the abolition of the coroner's office.

expected to draw tenants only from his normal market area. He added though that there could be no discrimination against minority groups either.

Mayor Teichert is pleased with the way the development has been handled. He is known to be a proponent of gradual inclusion of low and moderate-income housing in the suburbs.

"I do think this is the way to do it," he said. "I am impressed by voluntary programs of this nature."

He pointed out the apartments will not be taken off the tax rolls as they would if the government built them, that they are "structures compatible with the community" and that the building codes and zoning laws have not been ignored in the construction.

Littlestone and Kenroy, Inc., original owners of the land, came to the village at the time they applied for the state program. "They asked if we had any objections and we said 'no,'" Teichert said. He added that the village asked the developers not to publicize their efforts.

Now Teichert said other area developers, including Kenroy, are interested in similar programs.

"On the whole (these apartments) are a good barometer of what can be done in the suburbs without fanfare," Teichert said.

There are other benefits under the program. Hoadrich said they require "a higher quality construction, larger room sizes" and attractive amenities.

The programs will be in effect at least through the 40 years of the mortgage, he added.

THE AUTO THAT CRASHED into Lake Rossiter early yesterday morning after veering from Rte. 53 near Palatine Road, emerges from the man-made lake. James Otis, driver of the car, and his wife

Mary, escaped injury when they crawled out of the car windows to safety. Otis apparently fell asleep at the wheel, police said. State trooper Richard Turner, in the car, searched the waters for several hours before the vehicle was discovered. Palatine fireman Joe Pannhausen is shown assisting in the salvage operation.

Pair Narrowly Escapes Watery Car Crash Death

A Palatine couple narrowly escaped death early Wednesday after the car in which they were riding went off Illinois Rte. 53, down a steep embankment and into Lake Rossiter, just west of Palatine.

James D. Otis, 23, of 239 Boynton Dr., and his wife, Mary E., 28, emerged from the car without assistance. They were shaken but apparently uninjured.

Their 1971 red Chevrolet Impala later was retrieved from the 80-foot deep lake, about 70 feet from shore. The lake is more than 150 feet from the highway.

Palatine Police Lt. Frank Ortiz said the Otises were "lucky people. If they had the window closed with the air conditioning on, they would still be in there," he said as the car was pulled from the murky water.

The couple escaped by crawling through a window during the five to seven minutes that the car was afloat, making their way to shore, and up the embankment where they hailed Trooper Greg Fritz of the Illinois State Police. FRITZ SAID if the couple had been injured and unable to get up to the highway, "nobody would have found them till morning." The accident occurred at 2:30 a.m.

State police said Otis apparently dozed while driving southbound in the right-hand lane of Illinois Rte. 53, about half a mile south of Palatine Road.

The car, traveling an estimated 60 m.p.h., veered off the highway, where there is no barrier, and gained additional momentum as it went down the 20-foot embankment.

Otis was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. He also was charged with not having an Illinois driver's license.

The Otises refused medical treatment and were taken home.

The effort to retrieve the car began at 6 a.m., but divers were unable to spot the car in the muddy water.

TWO FIREMEN from the Palatine Rural Fire Dept. later located the car with a hook dropped from a rowboat.

Divers Richard Turner of the Illinois State Police and Lance Bedini of the Palatine Police, attached hooks to the vehicle, and it was pulled from the water by a tow truck.

Turner, a diver for 15 years, said later the effort was the "hardest" he had encountered, because of the depth and coldness of the water, and the lack of visibility.

No Tornadoes Sighted Monday

Buffalo Grove police said yesterday that despite widespread reports, no tornadoes were sighted in Buffalo Grove during the sudden storm Monday afternoon.

Police theorized that dust clouds blown up in construction sites in the village may have appeared to be tornado funnels to some persons.

Damage to several trees and roofs was not attributed to tornadoes. The roofs were partially damaged by high winds, and about 60 trees were knocked down, but the damage was not the type caused by tornadoes, police said.

Crash Injures Two

Two persons were taken to Holy Family Hospital Thursday night with injuries resulting from an auto accident at Milwaukee Avenue and Dundee Road.

Robert Sulski of Northbrook was charged with disobeying a red light and failure to reduce speed after his car struck an automobile driven by Leigh Sperry of Northbrook.

Susan Koehler of Northbrook, a passenger in Sulski's car, suffered leg injuries, and Leigh Sperry was taken to the hospital with head injuries.

Need Help? Just Call Pete Smith

by MARY HUTCHINGS

Pete Smith is going to frame his first movie contract and wait for Hollywood to call.

On a 24-hour pass from a recent hospital stay, he starred in his first film, "The Balance Sheet," made by Creative Establishment of Chicago.

The film will be distributed by the Governor's Commission on Employment of the Handicapped, of which Smith is an active and influential member.

Pete Smith is probably better known to Hoffman Estates residents as the civic leader who is responsible for the village's model ordinance — the first in Illinois — which requires that public buildings be architecturally accessible to the handicapped.

Smith was stricken with multiple sclerosis more than three years ago. Though he now may dream of a motorized wheelchair, he said the only difference in his life "is that it takes me a little longer to get from Point A to Point B. A transportation problem — that's all."

His attitude toward his handicap is inspirational to those who meet him as he wheels in and out of civic activities in the village.

"THE ONLY PERSON who is handicapped is the one who thinks he is," Smith said, radiating an inner strength and confidence that convinces and charms the listener.

"The day of the shut-in is gone," he added. "If I have any message I could get up on a soapbox and preach, it's 'get out and enjoy life. Come on in, the water's fine.'"

The man familiar to parade-goers as the guy "skiing" in his wheel chair behind the Jaycee car has long gotten over the "Why me?" period.

Smith's acceptance of what most would call a drastic change in his life-style is so remarkably good and his enthusiasm for "getting involved in anything you want" is so contagious his doctor sometimes asks him to talk with other patients.

"If anyone thinks life is passing them by, please call me," Smith offered. He's happy to help people buy wheelchairs and then teach them the fine points of "driving" one.

A salesman for Novo Airfreight in Elk Grove Village, the father of four drives himself with hand controls. He joked that his home at 402 Kingsdale houses a "two-chair" family — one for the home that allows him to get close to things, and one for the road, sturdy enough to bounce down curbs and do "wheelies" up them.

AN AVID BEARS' fan, he didn't miss a home game last year, and with sons

Bob, 12, and Patrick (P.J.), 6, will be rooting them on again this year.

His favorite sport, though, is "mental gymnastics."

It's hard to believe Smith when he describes himself as an "egotist," but he can quickly and accurately sense a person's "basic motivating factor" and readily admits that "fan" letters make him happy.

After the passing of the Hoffman Estates ordinance, his mail included inquiries into how to go about passing similar laws elsewhere, as well as anonymous "thank you" from the handicapped and elderly.

With the ranks of the handicapped being swelled here with the return of injured Vietnam veterans, Smith said the ramps and railings required in public buildings by the local ordinance will become even more important.

He praised the design of Woodfield, which "allows the handicapped to spend his money just as well as anybody else," and he's probably one of the few who has noticed the cut-away curbs on Michigan Avenue downtown and the half dozen Loop buildings with the "accessible to the handicapped" symbol.

Smith said he "couldn't make it without the help of my wife — my super-partner." His two daughters, Donna, 13, and Susie, 9 as well as the boys, the dog and two pet mice, keep the household busy. Smith included the Jaycees, who "won't let me be handicapped."

"You know, we don't have to bring the old theory of the city with us to the suburbs. We all need help; we can all help each other. Some are able to do more than others," Smith said.

Very few people do more to help than Pete Smith.

He laughed, "I get by with a little help from my friends."

Seek Way To Personalize Teaching

by CINDY TEW

Take a dozen teachers, throw them together for a month and ask them to come up with methods of personalizing teaching, and there's going to be fireworks.

And it's been a long, hot month in the air-conditioned conference room on the third floor of St. Viator High School.

The teachers, along with the administrators of St. Viator will put a new, almost radical, teaching approach to work in a few weeks.

Teachers knew they were stepping into the unknown when they signed their contracts last spring. They knew teaching was no longer going to be a personal operation and their private teaching methods would be challenged. And so far no one has quit.

TEACHERS WERE divided into four "schools," each with a different area of emphasis, and the teams have worked closely to build their school. The programs include:

- Social studies in which students will study man in relation to his society.
- Science in which technology will influence courses of the curriculum.
- Humanities in which students will study man and his culture.

—A traditional program, which will be essentially the same program St. Viator has always had, with no special emphasis on any subject.

"A GROUP DECISION has to be a compromise," said a member of the social studies faculty. As discussion proceeded, the sentence proved to be an understatement.

Staff members agreed that the personal teaching philosophy of individuals in the group runs from conservative to liberal.

"Let some students say that sonnets are hogwash — it's a basic human right not to be interested in a specific subject," said one teacher. "Let them develop their own interest."

"But we need structure. . ." And the teachers wrestle with the problem. The problem of communicating. Being able to incorporate new ideas into their system of teaching without changing their basic philosophy.

"WHAT WE NEED is some common ground — an umbrella under which we can follow our own avenues to teaching," said the chairman of the social studies school.

The teachers agree that they are basically committed to making the school more relevant to the students.

"All students will end their high school career with the same basic skills," said the Rev. Patrick Render, one of four top administrators at the school who will be part of a team of principals.

"The emphasis of the student's basic courses, however, will depend on which of the four programs he enrolls in," he said.

FATHER RENDER added that even the traditional program will be a little different than last year's program in that the teacher-student relationship will be more individualized.

"We can't develop personal teacher-student relationships if we can't build relationships between members of the staff, and that is part of what teachers are learning at the month-long seminars," Render said.

The cost of the program, including an additional two weeks salary for teachers and some cost for speakers, will add about $25,000 to this year's expenses at St. Viator.

"We look at this as an initial investment to demonstrate the worth of the program to others," said Father Render. The extra cost will be absorbed by a number of sources including foundations and the Viatorian order.

FRESH FROM HIS MOVIE debut in "The Balance Sheet," made for the Governor's Commission on Employment for the Handicapped, Pete Smith of Hoffman Estates checks some film cases while on the job at Novo

Airfreight, Elk Grove Village, where he has been employed as a salesman for five years — three in a wheelchair.

Term Suit 'Political Football'

Area School Districts Could Lose Big Sum Through Suit

by RICH MONACK

In what has been termed a "political football game" by most school district administrators in Cook County, Dist. 21 stands to lose a large sum of money from tax revenue.

The exact amount of money that could be lost if a suit by Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton is successful has not yet been determined. The suit has been filed to try to lower the equalizer used in figuring state school aid.

Cullerton and county school officials are accusing state officials of cheating Cook County schools out of almost $38 million in state aid funds. However, if the suit is upheld and the districts get state money, the districts will lose some of the local tax revenue they now receive.

In Dist. 21 the amount of revenue lost would be almost double the amount of state aid that would be given to the district if the suit is upheld, according to Asst. Supt. John Barger.

For example, every dollar the district would gain in state aid would be offset by a $2 loss in local tax revenue. Thus the district's net loss would be $1 for every dollar allocated in state aid.

Barger said he thinks the idea behind the suit is political and the districts in the county are being used as "whipping boys."

STATE AID FOR school districts is set by a formula based in part on a school district's wealth or assessed valuation of property. In order to compensate for discrepancies in county assessment practices, the formula includes an equalizer.

The equalizer multiplied by the county assessments sets an equalized assessed valuation which is used in state aid computations. Barger feels it is in this assessment that Cullerton made an error and that Cullerton is now trying to make up for it by "using" the school districts.

The suit will also relieve some of the burden of school cost from the local taxpayer and give it to the state. However, in a county meeting Tuesday morning, several administrators said it would force them into cutting several programs valuation to the education of taxpayers' children.

Barger said Dist. 21 officials are confident the suit will be defeated because of this reason. He said if the suit is won almost all the districts will have to have referendums to make up the loss.

FOR INSTANCE, in the case of high school Dist. 214, officials report they will lose more than $1 million if the suit is granted.

Cullerton's suit was announced at a hearing Aug. 7 involving an investigation of Cook County assessment practices. Cullerton refused to appear at the hearing, but his legal counsel, Asst. State's Atty. James Rooney, read a letter saying the assessor will not produce subpoenaed county assessment records. The letter also challenged the department's legal right to demand the records.

Dist. 21 officials are going to wait and see what comes from the suit before they make any decision or take any action. It is not known when a decision will be rendered.

'Early' Trash Cans Marring Village Looks

by JILL BETTNER

Drive down a main thoroughfare in Buffalo Grove any Monday and admire the handiwork of the weekend gardeners.

What a view — carefully manicured lawns, neatly clipped hedges, well-trimmed trees. You'll really enjoy the scenery — that is, if you can see over the top of all the trash cans piled up at the curbs.

Don Schindler, city sanitarian, said Wednesday he has received numerous complaints of residents putting out their trash several days prior to the scheduled pick-up. A city ordinance makes it illegal to put trash out more than 12 hours before the pick-up time.

In the past two weeks, the police department has received calls from residents in the Cambridge area complaining that bags of grass clippings have been slit and the contents scattered over the neighborhood.

BESIDES MARRING the appearance of the village, Schindler said residents who stack their trash containers at the curb too early are also risking a health problem.

"The bags of grass clippings aren't a health hazard, but we don't want to establish a dangerous precedent," Schindler said. "People might leave other garbage at the curb and create a more serious problem in the future."

Schindler added that trash containers without lids invite flies and other insects. The city ordinance governing trash pick-up requires all containers to be covered.

"We're asking for cooperation, Schindler said. "If we don't get it, we'll issue warnings, followed by citations, to people who persist in putting their trash out too early. We don't want to do it," he added, "and it will be our last resort, but we've got to control this problem before it gets completely out of hand."

Moderate-Income Housing Accepted

by TOM VON MALDER

The advent of moderate-income housing in Mount Prospect — one of the first such developments in the Northwest suburbs — has not been met by pickets or angry citizens at village hall.

Inside the Huntington Commons apartments off Elmhurst Road south of Golf Road, have been quietly built, advertised and accepted. And by those in the $4,500-$11,000 income categories, they have been eagerly welcomed.

"We're renting like crazy," said Janet Meruka, vice president of Marketing and promotion for the Littlestone Company, a Chicago real estate firm that is building the 324 units.

"It has been accepted well," commented Mount Prospect Mayor Robert D. Teichert. He said he has been asked by a number of people to use his influence to get them into the apartments, "Unsuccessfully," he added.

There are two government financing programs involved in the project; one includes state financing and the other federal subsidization.

George Headrich, an administrative assistant for the Illinois Housing Development Authority (IHDA), explained the two programs.

"The authority is making available to developers what we call 'below market' financing," he said. "Our purpose is to stimulate the housing market, particularly in the moderate or middle-income levels."

Apartment units built under the IHDA program are financed by state tax exempt securities. This means the builder is financed by the state at about 4-6 percent interest while under conventional lending the rate would be in the neighborhood of 9-10 percent.

Headrich called this program "middle income" designed and said that included families making $4,500-$15,000. However, the federal program is designed for "moderate housing," in the $6,000-$9,500 range.

Rents at the apartments are $190 for one bedroom, $241-$245 for two bedrooms and $296 for three bedrooms. However, those tenants under the federal program will actually pay less rent, the difference being made up by the subsidy.

Under the federal program, called Title 238 of the Federal Housing Act, a rent subsidy is paid to the building owner. Headrich said that the federal government in effect is paying the interest on the mortgage (which had already been reduced by the state program) after the owner pays the first per cent.

In the Littlestone development 108 of 324 units come under the federal program. "We have almost 50 of these subsidized apartments rented," Mrs. Meruka said. In all, 161 units have either been rented or applied for.

Although all their three-bedroom units are subsidized, many are still available.

Mrs. Meruka said the larger units "were not renting as well" as the others. She said all their subsidized one-bedroom units and most of the two-bedroom units have been rented.

Mrs. Meruka said some "minority group families are participating in the program, but not as many as expected. Of four-oriental families renting, only one comes under the subsidy program. She said it was the same for three black families.

"This is in no sense a program where the IHDA is trying to draw out people from the Chicago South Side," she said. Headrich agreed.

"There are no quotas or minority participation," he said. "We encourage the developer to make the housing available to everyone."

Under the IHDA program, the builder advertises as he would normally and is

Village Bd. Combines Meeting, Workshop

The Buffalo Grove Village Board Monday night conducted its first combined public meeting and workshop.

The trustees previously met in regular sessions the first and third Mondays of each month and in workshop sessions the second and fourth Mondays. The board adopted the new schedule Aug. 7, voting to conduct a combined session on the second and fourth Mondays in order to speed official action on village matters.

Village Pres. Gary Armstrong said, "We've found that by not being able to conduct regular business on the second and fourth Mondays, our regular meetings were becoming extremely long. We'll still make a concerted effort to take questions at all meetings," he added.

Bazaar To Fight Muscular Dystrophy

The front yard of the Ronald Moore residence, 646 Hawthorne Rd., will be the scene Saturday of a most unusual bazaar.

Two of the Moore children, Laura, 8, and Julie, 6, will preside over the sale of a collection of children's toys and games, many of them homemade, from 1 to 5 p.m. Proceeds from the affair will go to the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America.

Included in the wares that will be offered for sale at the bazaar are hand puppets, novelty pillows and yarn dolls, all made by Mrs. Moore. Seashells, toys and games have been donated by other children in the neighborhood.

Sneaker Thief Tracked Down

Buffalo Grove police have reportedly solved the case of the "sneaker thieves" with the help of an Arlington Heights family.

Police said the three suspected thieves, believed to be responsible for five and possibly more break-ins within the last few weeks, are reportedly from Wheeling. Names of the individuals are not available because the three boys are juveniles.

According to Buffalo Grove detectives, the boys were caught earlier this week by an Arlington Heights family after the boys broke into the house.

Police say the three youths broke into at least five Buffalo Grove homes, including: 999 Beechwood Dr., 632 Weiner Dr., 776 Patton Dr., 145 Greengrass Dr. and 430 Sussex Ct.

Police added the youths may also lead them to other similar burglaries in the area. As it stands now the boys are being charged with the five Buffalo Grove burglaries, plus two in Arlington Heights, two in Wheeling and several in unincorporated Cook County.

The youths were arrested by Arlington Heights police, who have released no information on the case.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Former presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger said he met privately with North Vietnamese negotiators in Paris as an emissary of George McGovern and told them the Democratic presidential candidate hoped they would press peace talks without regard to the American election.

Former President Lyndon Johnson has endorsed George McGovern for President.

Republicans swiftly blocked maverick Rep. Paul McCloskey's attempt to challenge President Nixon symbolically by having his name placed in nomination at next week's national convention. In two separate moves, the party denied McCloskey a chance to have his antiwar views brought to the convention floor and sired over nationwide television.

President Nixon vetoed a politically sensitive bill to spend $30.5 billion—nearly $1.8 billion more than he asked—for federal health, education, welfare and labor programs. The house voted to sustain the veto.

Bombing incidents in the United States during July killed two persons and injured 12, the FBI reported.

Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's top foreign policy adviser, arrived in Saigon for a series of secret meetings with President Nguyen Van Thieu. Political observers speculated he had come either to reassure Thieu or to ask him to quit.

The World

Three unidentified military aircraft attacked a special Boeing airliner carrying Moroccan King Hassan II. The plane landed with Hassan uninjured.

The British government offered a $125,000 reward for the capture of a gang of psychopathic killers suspected of murdering up to 40 persons in Northern Ireland within the past month.

The African nations threatened to spoil a $800 million dream by walking out of the 1976 Olympic summer games because of Rhodesia's participation.

The State

Mayor Richard Daley canceled his meeting with Sen. George McGovern because he was angry by a news magazine article in which McGovern appears to apologize for soliciting Daley's support, a Chicago newspaper reported.

The War

Heavy fighting was reported in both North and South Vietnam despite dramatic and puzzling trips by two of the top secret peace negotiators and speculation that a settlement is pending in the 11-year-old conflict.

The Dow Jones average lost 5.72 to 964.25. The average price of a common share decreased by 11 cents. Declines topped advances, 798 to 620, among the 1,762 issues crossing the tape. THE AUTO THAT CRASHED into Lake Rossiter early yesterday morning after veering from Rte. 53 near Palatine Road, emerges from the man-made lake. James Otis, driver of the car, and his wife

Pair Narrowly Escapes Watery Car Crash Death

A Palatine couple narrowly escaped death early Wednesday after the car in which they were riding went off Illinois Rte. 53, down a steep embankment and into Lake Rossiter, just west of Palatine. James D. Otis, 29, of 259 Boynton Dr., and his wife, Mary E., 28, emerged from the car without assistance. They were shaken but apparently uninjured.

Their 1971 red Chevrolet Impala later was retrieved from the 80-foot deep lake, about 70 feet from shore. The lake is more than 150 feet from the highway.

Palatine Police Lt. Frank Ortiz said the Otises were "lucky people. If they had the window closed with the air conditioning on, they would still be in there," he said as the car was pulled from the murky water.

The couple escaped by crawling through a window during the five to seven minutes that the car was afloat, making their way to shore, and up the embankment where they hailed Trooper Greg Fritz of the Illinois State Police.

FRITZ SAID if the couple had been injured and unable to get up to the highway, "nobody would have found them till morning." The accident occurred at 2:10 a.m.

State police said Otis apparently dozed while driving southbound in the right-hand lane of Illinois Rte. 53, about half a mile south of Palatine Road.

The car, traveling an estimated 60 m.p.h., veered off the highway, where there is no barrier, and gained additional momentum as it went down the 20-foot embankment.

Otis was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. He also was charged with not having an Illinois driver's license.

The Otises refused medical treatment and were taken home.

The effort to retrieve the car began at 6 a.m., but divers were unable to spot the car in the muddy water.

TWO FIREMEN from the Palatine Rural Fire Dept. later located the car with a hook dropped from a rowboat.

Divers Richard Turner of the Illinois State Police and Lance Bedini of the Palatine Police, attached hooks to the vehicle, and it was pulled from the water by a tow truck.

Turner, a diver for 15 years, said later the effort was the "hardest" he had encountered, because of the depth and coldness of the water, and the lack of visibility.

No Tornadoes Sighted Monday

Buffalo Grove police said yesterday that despite widespread reports, no tornadoes were sighted in Buffalo Grove during the sudden storm Monday afternoon.

Police theorized that dust clouds blown up in construction sites in the village may have appeared to be tornado funnels to some persons.

Damage to several trees and roofs was not attributed to tornadoes. The roofs were partially damaged by high winds, and about 50 trees were knocked down, but the damage was not the type caused by tornadoes, police said.

Crash Injures Two

Two persons were taken to Holy Family Hospital Thursday night with injuries resulting from an auto accident at Milwaukee Avenue and Dundee Road.

Robert Sulski of Northbrook was charged with disobeying a red light and failure to reduce speed after his car struck an automobile driven by Leigh Sperry of Northbrook.

Susan Koehler of Northbrook, a passenger in Sulski's car, suffered leg injuries, and Leigh Sperry was taken to the hospital with head injuries.

Need Help? Just Call Pete Smith

by MARY HUTCHINGS

Pete Smith is going to frame his first movie contract and wait for Hollywood to call.

On a 24-hour pass from a recent hospital stay, he starred in his first film, "The Balance Sheet," made by Creative Establishment of Chicago.

The film will be distributed by the Governor's Commission on Employment of the Handicapped, of which Smith is an active and influential member.

Pete Smith is probably better known to Hoffman Estates residents as the civic leader who is responsible for the village's model ordinance — the first in Illinois — which requires that public buildings be architecturally accessible to the handicapped.

Smith was stricken with multiple sclerosis more than three years ago. Though he now may dream of a motorized wheelchair, he said the only difference in his life "is that it takes me a little longer to get from Point A to Point B. A transportation problem — that's all."

His attitude toward his handicap is inspirational to those who meet him as he wheels in and out of civic activities in the village.

"THE ONLY PERSON who is handicapped is the one who thinks he is," Smith said, radiating an inner strength and confidence that convinces and charms the listener.

"The day of the shut-in is gone," he added. "If I have any message I could get up on a soapbox and preach, it's 'get out and enjoy life. Come on in, the water's fine.'"

The man familiar to parade-goers as the guy "sking" in his wheel chair behind the Jaycee car has long gotten over the "Why me?" period.

Smith's acceptance of what most would call a drastic change in his life-style is so remarkably good and his enthusiasm for "getting involved in anything you want" is so contagious his doctor sometimes asks him to talk with other patients.

"If anyone thinks life is passing them by, please call me," Smith offered. He's happy to help people buy wheelchairs and then teach them the fine points of "driving" one.

A salesman for Novo Airfreight in Elk Grove Village, the father of four drives himself with hand controls. He joked that his home at 402 Kingsdale houses a "two-chair" family — one for the home that allows him to get close to things, and one for the road, sturdy enough to bounce down curbs and do "wheelies" up them.

AN AVID BEARS fan, he didn't miss a home game last year, and with sons

Bob, 12, and Patrick (P.J.), 6, will be rooting them on again this year.

His favorite sport, though, is "mental gymnastics."

It's hard to believe Smith when he describes himself as an "egotist," but he can quickly and accurately sense a person's "basic motivating factor" and readily admits that "fan" letters make him happy.

After the passing of the Hoffman Estates ordinance, his mail included inquiries into how to go about passing similar laws elsewhere, as well as anonymous "thank you's" from the handicapped and elderly.

With the ranks of the handicapped being swelled here with the return of injured Vietnam veterans, Smith said the ramps and railings required in public buildings by the local ordinance will become even more important.

He praised the design of Woodfield, which "allows the handicapped to spend his money just as well as anybody else," and he's probably one of the few who has noticed the cut-away curbs on Michigan Avenue downtown and the half dozen Loop buildings with the "accessible to the handicapped" symbol.

Smith said he "couldn't make it without the help of my wife — my super-partner." His two daughters, Donna, 13, and Susie, 9 as well as the boys, the dog and two pet mice, keep the household busy. Smith included the Jaycees, who "won't let me be handicapped."

"You know, we don't have to bring the old theory of the city with us to the suburbs. We all need help; we can all help each other. Some are able to do more than others," Smith said.

Very few people do more to help than Pete Smith.

He laughed, "I get by with a little help from my friends."

Seek Way To Personalize Teaching

by CINDY TEW

Take a dozen teachers, throw them together for a month and ask them to come up with methods of personalizing teaching, and there's going to be fireworks.

And it's been a long, hot month in the air-conditioned conference room on the third floor of St. Viator High School.

The teachers, along with the administrators of St. Viator will put a new, almost radical, teaching approach to work in a few weeks.

Teachers knew they were stepping into the unknown when they signed their contracts last spring. They knew teaching was no longer going to be a personal operation and their private teaching methods would be challenged. And so far no one has quit.

TEACHERS WERE divided into four "schools," each with a different area of emphasis, and the teams have worked closely to build their school. The programs include:

- Social studies in which students will study man in relation to his society.
- Science in which technology will influence courses of the curriculum.
- Humanities in which students will study man and his culture.

—A traditional program, which will be essentially the same program St. Viator has always had, with no special emphasis on any subject.

"A GROUP DECISION has to be a compromise," said a member of the social studies faculty. As discussion proceeded, the sentence proved to be an understatement.

Staff members agreed that the personal teaching philosophy of individuals in the group runs from conservative to liberal.

"Let some students say that sometimes are hogwash — it's a basic human right not to be interested in a specific subject," said one teacher. "Let them develop their own interest."

"But we need structure. . . ." And the teachers wrestle with the problem. The problem of communicating. Being able to incorporate new ideas into their system of teaching without changing their basic philosophy.

"WHAT WE NEED is some common ground — an umbrella under which we can follow our own avenues to teaching," said the chairman of the social studies school.

The teachers agree that they are basically committed to making the school more relevant to the students.

"All students will end their high school career with the same basic skills," said the Rev. Patrick Render, one of four top administrators at the school who will be part of a team of principals.

"The emphasis of the student's basic courses, however, will depend on which of the four programs he enrolls in," he said.

FATHER RENDER added that even the traditional program will be a little different than last year's program in that the teacher-student relationship will be more individualized.

"We can't develop personal teacher-student relationships if we can't build relationships between members of the staff, and that is part of what teachers are learning at the month-long seminars," Render said.

The cost of the program, including an additional two weeks salary for teachers and some cost for speakers, will add about $25,000 to this year's expenses at St. Viator.

"We look at this as an initial investment to demonstrate the worth of the program to others," said Father Render. The extra cost will be absorbed by a number of sources including foundations and the Victorian order.

FRESH FROM HIS MOVIE debut in "The Balance Sheet," made for the Governor's Commission on Employment of the Handicapped, Pete Smith of Hoffman Estates checks some film cases while on the job at Novo

Airfreight, Elk Grove Village, where he has been employed as a salesman for five years — three in a wheelchair.

$10,000 Study Is Described As Unworkable

The chairman of the Palatine Plan Commission has declared the $10,000 study of downtown Palatine that was prepared last spring "sounds good" but in practicality is "unworkable."

Thomas A. Moody Jr. suggested, and other members of the plan commission agreed, to refer back to the village board for further study and possible revision of the plan to improve downtown Palatine.

Moody said that on the whole, he is "kind of disenchanted" with the downtown study.

The study was prepared by Rolf C. Campbell and Associates, a Lake Bluff land-planning firm which was retained by the village.

Moody rejected a basic concept of the guidelines, to look at the downtown section as a whole, rather than as numerous component parts.

He said it is more practical to examine each piece of property on its own merits, and suggested that the plan commission use its power to get what it wants, rather than merely arbitrate developers' plans.

Moody also cited the density recommendations in the downtown study. Campbell had suggested that the allowable density near the downtown area be raised to encourage more multi-family developments, to revitalize downtown Palatine.

Moody said many developers "seem to feel Palatine is wide open" by making requests for an especially high density.

A MEMBER OF THE village board who attended the plan commission meeting, Terry L. Leighty, said he felt the $10,000 for preparing the study was "worthwhile," but added he "wouldn't want to spend another penny" on additional study.

The plan commission suggested that village officials determine once and for all where to put the proposed municipal building and library, and where the streets destined to be improved and widened, notably Palatine Road and Smith Street will go.

The commissioners maintained that once those decisions were made, even if it took condemnation proceedings, other pieces of the downtown puzzle would fit into place.

The plan commission offered to work with the village in devising the plans, and in the meantime, suggested that present zoning designations downtown be retained.

The plan commission also briefly discussed the continuing commercial development of Northwest Highway, which commissioner Edward F. O'Brien referred to as "the second downtown business district."

He expressed concern over the figures cited in the Campbell study that 8.9 per cent of the downtown structures were vacant, and 15.2 per cent of the land is vacant.

Commissioner Conrad Hansen pointed out that the vacancies are scattered throughout downtown, and thus cannot be pieced together for large developments.

THE AUTO THAT CRASHED into Lake Rossiter early yesterday morning after veering from Rte. 53 near Palatine Road, emerges from the man-made lake. James Otis, driver of the car, and his wife

Mary, escaped injury when they crawled out of the car windows to safety. Otis apparently fell asleep at the wheel, police said. State trooper Richard Turner, in the car, searched the waters for several hours before the vehicle was discovered. Palatine fireman Joe Pannhausen is shown assisting in the salvage operation.

Pair Narrowly Escapes Watery Death

A Palatine couple narrowly escaped death early Wednesday after the car in which they were riding went off Illinois

Rte. 53, down a steep embankment and into Lake Rossiter, just west of Palatine. James D. Otis, 29, of 288 Boynton Dr.,

Meeting May Help Solve Tree Problem

No immediate solutions have been found to ease an area-wide municipal problem — what to do with diseased and dead elm trees. But a meeting next month may move village officials closer to a cooperative effort in pooling their elms for disposal.

Ways to burn dead elm trees will be one of the first topics discussed at the Sept. 20 meeting of the Northwest Municipal Conference, Palatine Mayor Jack Moodie said yesterday.

Area-wide cooperation could help offset the cost of a screening device required by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) before burning of diseased trees is allowed.

In July, the EPA suggested alternatives to burning the diseased trees on the spot, which is outlawed. An air curtain device at a cost of $6,000 to $8,000 would eliminate the smoke from burning trees.

HAULING TREES to EPA-approved landfill sites is another alternative for villages, but the nearest landfills are in Morton Grove and Libertyville. Grinding trees into small chips was one of the most costly EPA suggestions, estimated at $40,000 to $60,000.

For now, because of budgeting limitations, Palatine is using its own alternative — contracting with a private firm to remove the trees.

Chopping down trees and hauling them away is a much slower process than the former method of burning them on location. Yet the trees must be removed somehow to prevent the dead tree breaking during a storm.

Inverness is feeling the pinch, too. During Tuesday's village board meeting, trustees learned that five elm trees around the Inverness fieldhouse must be removed.

Graduates Of Knox

Two Palatine women recently graduated with bachelor degrees from Knox College, Galesburg, Ill.

Linda Cline, 1137 W. Kenilworth, and Carol Daugherty, 1835 W. Stuart, were among 287 students graduating from the liberal arts college.

waite tried to explain to the audience of nearly 30 residents that as far as he knew, there was no way at present that the trees could be burned. Until recently, he said, the trees were burned in forest preserves, but that provision had been revoked by the Forest Preserve District.

Braithwaite and the trustees promised to look into ways the trees can be removed, but it is likely they will have to resort to the same cutting and hauling method used by Palatine.

Until a legal, less-expensive method of removal is available, villages probably will continue with the small's pace technique. Palatine now is averaging disposal of one tree a day, with more than 50 dead trees in the village.

Schools Could Lose $363,000 If Suit Wins

Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 will lose $363,000 if a lawsuit filed by Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton succeeds in changing the equalizer used in figuring state school aid.

Supt. Frank Whiteley said rough figures computed by district administrators indicate the district would gain $394,000 in state aid, but lose more than $600,000 in tax revenue, if Cullerton's suit is successful.

Dist. 15's bonding ability also would decrease by $2.3 million if the suit is successful.

"We are not bonded to our limit now but we were bonded to capacity until last year. If there is rapid development in the district this figure could become very significant," said Whiteley.

The equalizer is part of the formula used for determining the amount of state aid a school district will receive. The state Department of Local Government Affairs sets an equalizer for each county to compensate for differences in property assessment practices by county assess-sors. A district's assessment or wealth directly effects the amount of state aid it receives.

Cook County School Supt. Martwick and other Cook County officials have charged that the state has set the Cook County equalizer higher than the equalizer for other counties. As a result, they charge, local taxpayers have paid more property tax to support schools than in other areas and the schools have received less state aid than they are entitled to.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Former presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger said he met privately with North Vietnamese negotiators in Paris as an emissary of George McGovern and told them the Democratic presidential candidate hoped they would press peace talks without regard to the American election.

Former President Lyndon Johnson has endorsed George McGovern for President.

Republicans swiftly blocked maverick Rep. Paul McCloskey's attempt to challenge President Nixon symbolically by having his name placed in nomination at next week's national convention. In two separate moves, the party denied McCloskey a chance to have his antiwar views brought to the convention floor and aired over nationwide television.

President Nixon vetoed a politically sensitive bill to spend $30.5 billion—nearly $1.8 billion more than he asked—for federal health, education, welfare and labor programs. The house voted to sustain the veto.

Bombing incidents in the United States during July killed two persons and injured 13, the FBI reported.

Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's top foreign policy adviser, arrived in Saigon for a series of secret meetings with President Nguyen Van Thieu. Political observers speculated he had come either to reassure Thieu or to ask him to quit.

The World

Three unidentified military aircraft attacked a special Boeing airliner carrying Moroccan King Hassan II. The plane landed with Hassan uninjured.

The British government offered a $125,000 reward for the capture of a gang of psychopathic killers suspected of murdering up to 40 persons in Northern Ireland within the past month.

The African nations threatened to spoil a $600 million dream by walking out of the 20th Olympic summer games because of Rhodesia's participation.

The State

Mayor Richard Daley canceled his meeting with Sen. George McGovern because he was angry by a news magazine article in which McGovern appears to apologize for soliciting Daley's support, a Chicago newspaper reported.

The War

Heavy fighting was reported in both North and South Vietnam despite dramatic and puzzling trips by two of the top secret peace negotiators and speculation that a settlement is pending in the 11-year-old conflict.

The Dow Jones average lost 5.72 to 964.25. The average price of a common share decreased by 11 cents. Declines topped advances, 796 to 620, among the 1,762 issues crossing the tape. Inverness Board Outlaws Noise, Air, Water Pollution

Noise, air and water pollution were outlawed in Inverness this week. The Inverness village board unanimously approved an environmental protection ordinance that will provide local control over offenders.

With only minor changes, the Inverness ordinance mirrors a recently-passed Illinois state ordinance.

Basically, the local rules forbid coal burning as a major heating source; discharge of disagreeable, unwholesome or noxious odors; burning of garbage; discharge of sewage or soapy waters into open waters, storm sewers, etc., and noise loud enough to disturb neighbors.

Passage of a local environmental guide became more urgent with the approval of the state law. All offenders in communities not covered by a local ordinance fall under the jurisdiction of the state judicial system rather than the local police.

Tuesday's action ended nearly a year of consideration by the Inverness board.

A three-man committee had held public hearings, conducted a survey, and revised the ordinance before its final approval.

Trustees Alvin W. Ruck, A. James Valiere, and Robert E. Nelson were members of the environmental committee making the study.

INVERNESS ADDED one provision to its ordinance that was not in the state rules — no publicly-amplified sound truck will be allowed to drive in Inverness without first getting a $100 permit from the village.

"We didn't want trucks running through advertising furniture sales or something," Ruck said.

One unpopular provision is a ban on leaf burning, but Board Pres. Forrest S. Elleman explained that the ban had become a state law in July, so it was formally included in the local ordinance.

After passing the environmental ordinance, the village board prepared to begin drainage improvements on the Robert Skalicky property.

Skalicky, developers of the Cedar Knolls subdivision at Dundee and Elia roads, had been requested at earlier meetings to repair drainage facilities on his property and was given a deadline for starting the work.

If work has not begun within the next four to five days, when the time limit expires, the village will begin contracting for the drainage facilities.

Skalicky posted a bond-type arrangement with the village. A bank holds nearly $30,000 which the village may use to complete the project if Skalicky does not do the work, Braithwaite reported.

DRAINAGE PROBLEMS are suspected to stem from a broken tile in fields on Skalicky's property. Before Inverness was developed, farmers installed the tiles to provide drainage for the fields.

Improper drainage from Skalicky's land has reportedly caused property damage to two nearby neighbors as well, who claim their trees and shrubs are being killed by standing water.

Skalicky's own residence was worrying the trustees, too. Under construction for nearly two years, his house at 187 Betty Dr. does not have the required occupancy permit from the village. Residents suspect that the house may be occupied, and in executive session, village trustees pondered ways to legally inspect the property.

Such an inspection is generally required to determine the safety of electrical, plumbing and sanitation work, Braithwaite said.

In other business, trustees reappointed incumbent plan commission members John E. Berdelle and Edward B. Boehm to serve two-year terms in the commission. Their current appointments would have expired at Tuesday's board meeting.

Plan Shopping Center-Office Complex

Plans were outlined this week for a small shopping center — office complex on Northwest Highway in Palatine.

The two one-story buildings on the south side of the highway between Benton Street and Plum Grove Road would have space for about 14 shops and offices according to Wina C. Davidson, attorney for the developers.

The seven-acre site also would contain a two-story drive-in bank and parking for 324 cars.

As designed, the buildings would be set back from the highway, with access from all three adjoining streets.

A nearby resident, Mike Rovella, 426 N. Benton St., asked the plan commission during the public hearing on the project Tuesday night to block off the Benton entrance to the property to maintain the residential character of the street.

ANOTHER HOMEOWNER, James F. Wilson, whose property is at 22 E. Cornfort La., immediately south of the site, wanted assurance that adequate storm water drainage would be provided.

Wilson said the site stood under three feet of water this spring, which flowed there from north of Colfax Street.

Owners of the property are Royal S., Phoebe R., Robert S. and Elsie H. Browne, and Lee J. and June B. Boston.

The land currently is zoned R-1, single family residential district, and B-2, general service district. The petitioners are seeking B-1, shopping center district.

The two buildings in addition to the bank, would contain 50,160 square feet. The bank, which does not need approval because the zoning of its location is already acceptable, is to contain two floors of 5,000 square feet each.

Architect of the buildings is Peter J. Nitto of Wilmette.

The plan commission is expected to study the petition at a later date, and make a recommendation to the village board, which will take final action on the matter.

Registration To Open For Preschool Classes

The Salt Creek Rural Park District will open registration for fall and winter preschool classes beginning tomorrow.

The programs are for three- and four-year-olds, and all classes will begin the week of Sept. 10.

Classes for three-year-olds will meet in two sessions. The first will meet from 9 to 11 a.m., Tuesdays and Thursdays. The second session will meet from 1 to 3 p.m. the same days.

The fee will be $12 a month, and class sizes will be limited to 20 children.

To be eligible children must have turned three-year-old by June 1 of this year.

There will also be two sessions for four-year-olds. The first session will meet Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 9 to 11 a.m. Fee for this session is $17 monthly.

The afternoon session will be held Mondays and Wednesdays, from 1 to 3 p.m. The fee is $12.

Four-year-olds are eligible if they will be four by Dec. 1 this year.

Registration will be taken at Rose Park, 530 S. Williams St., Palatine. For more information call 259-6800.

Charge Palatine Man In 2-Car Collision

A Palatine man was charged with running a red light Wednesday night following a two-car collision at the intersection of Dundee Road and Ill. Rte. 53 in which a Chicago woman was injured.

Urban M. Ebert, 33, 1062 Tulip Way, Palatine, told police he was stopped at the traffic signal while east-bound on Dundee Road when he looked up, thought the light had changed and drove on. He collided with a car being driven north-bound on Rte. 53 by Mario V. Maida, 47, Chicago.

A passenger in the Maida car, Maria Maida, also 47, was taken to Northwest Community Hospital with slight head injuries by a fire department ambulance. She was treated and released.

Lie Tests In Area Murders Are Slated

Chicago police planned Wednesday to administer lie detector tests in connection with the Barrington Hills murders to two brothers arrested with a stolen car.

Police said the pair, identified as John Egan, 25, and James Egan, 28, told them they could name three men who committed the four murders.

The bodies of retired insurance executive Paul Corbett, his wife, her daughter and sister, were found Aug. 3 in the Corbett's luxurious home in Barrington Hills, an exclusive suburb west of Chicago.

Chief John Killackey of the Chicago police criminal investigations division said checks were being made on the leads provided by the brothers, but that lie detector tests also would be administered.

The Egans were arrested Tuesday night in a Chicago garage with a stolen car, police said.

Barrington Hills police could provide no details, but confirmed that police were checking out leads in connection with the Egan brothers.

Voters Will Decide Fate Of Coroner's Office

by ROGER CAPETTINI

The life or death of the Cook County Coroner's Office will be in the hands of the voters when they go to the polls in the November general election.

But the county board still will have a voice in the matter.

The fate of the coroner's office was left to the voters when the County Board, in a special meeting last night, voted unanimously to place a referendum on the November ballot.

The board, however, was careful to retain power over the office by changing the wording of the referendum question from the way it was proposed originally.

THE BALLOT question, as approved last night, will ask if the elective coroner's office should be eliminated and replaced with a medical examiner's system, "headed by a licensed physician to be chosen by the president of the Cook County Board of Commissioners with the advice and consent of the members of the Cook County Board of Commissioners, to be effective Dec. 6, 1976."

That wording differs from the question proposed Aug. 7 by County Comr. Floyd

T. Fulle of Des Plaines.

The Fulle resolution stipulated the medical examiner system would be "headed by a licensed forensic pathologist chosen and directed by a commission composed of the chiefs of the pathology departments of the major medical schools" in the county.

The resolution to place the question on the ballot, and to change the wording of the question was approved by the board after Dr. Andrew Toman, current county coroner, said he "fully approves" of the resolution.

Dr. Toman, who has been criticized frequently for his direction of the office, said that while he has instituted many improvements and changes in the past 12 years, many "archaic" aspects have been carried over, by state statute, from common law.

THE CORONER suggested, however, the chief medical examiner, if approved by the voters, should be appointed by the county board so the "public will maintain some interest in the selection and conduct of the medical examiner." That way, Dr. Toman said, "The people will still have a voice." He said if the board did not appoint the examiner the "direct line of authority would be broken."

Following Dr. Toman's remarks the board heard from seven other witnesses, all of whom said they supported the resolution and the abolition of the coroner's office.

One of those speakers was Donald Mulack, Republican candidate for coroner. Mulack was cut short in his remarks after the Democrats on the board, led by County Pres. George W. Dunne, took exception to Mulack's statements. Dunne and commissioners Charles Bonk, John Stroger and John Touhy accused Mulack of trying to speak to the press for selfish, political purposes.

AFTER BEING warned to limit his remarks to the "meat of the issue," Mulack was interrupted repeatedly by the foursome and finally was voted "out of order" by the eight Democrats in attendance.

The four Republicans present voted against denying Mulack the floor.

If the voters decide in November to approve the resolution, and thereby abolish the coroner's office, the county board will initiate action in Springfield to repeal the Coroner's Act, Dunne said. Then the county board would have to adopt an ordinance establishing the implementation and method of operation of the medical examiner's office.

It is at that point, Dunne argued with Fulle, that the method of selecting the chief examiner should be decided. Fulle then revised his original resolution, stating, "The important thing at this point is to get the question on the ballot."

The resolution had to be adopted prior to Monday if it was to appear on the ballot.

Fire District Is Costing $350,000 Annually

by KEN KOZAK
(Second of two parts)

It is costing the Rolling Meadows Fire Protection District between $350,000 and $400,000 annually to run that department. It is just about all they can afford.

And that, it is generally agreed, is the most significant argument in favor of turning control of the district over to the city.

The ramifications of the position are several: the district is extended to the limits of its taxing power, unless it goes to a referendum to raise its levy; the city is growing and as the city grows there is a greater demand placed on the fire department, a demand that necessitates spending more money to keep equipment and services up to date; the city can probably run the fire department without taxing as highly as the fire district does, making up the difference in expenses from the sales tax surplus. The fire district's budget probably will top $400,000 for the first time this fiscal year. That budget includes the cost of hiring six new firemen. The district doesn't have the money to pay for them, and will rely on the city to subsidize their wages.

THAT IS SYMPTOMATIC of the financial squeeze the fire district finds itself in. That is why they turned to the city for help.

The fire district can tax at a rate not to exceed 40 cents per $100 assessed property valuation. They are at that rate, and can go no higher without a referendum that could raise the rate 25 cents.

Although assessed valuation of property within the district increases annually, the growth is not sufficient to generate enough revenue to meet the fire department's increasing expenses.

What the city will be able to do if tomorrow's referendum passes is to levy the same rate as the fire district and supplement that revenue with surplus funds.

The surplus will be tapped almost immediately, in fact, to subsidize hiring the three men that are to be put on the fire department as soon as possible after the referendum.

The city also is confident that it can give taxpayers a break by taking over the district.

By using surplus funds to partially finance the operation of the fire district, city officials feel they may be able to get by without levying the entire 40 cent tax.

The reduction might not be significant on tax bills, but there is a guarantee that at worst there will be no increase in taxes to support the fire department once it comes into the city.

THE VIEW OF THE merger of the two municipal bodies is primarily directed toward the future.

As the city continues to expand in population and commercial development the demands placed on the fire department will multiply.

There is talk at this stage of the city growing to as large as 35,000 population by 1980. There is also talk right now of a need for even more than the six men that will be hired if the referendum passes; there is talk of a need for a new fire station to supplement the one built at the cost of a $180,000 bond issue eight years ago; there is talk of immediate needs for new fire fighting equipment.

Invested in the economic picture is the necessity for maintaining quality fire-fighting service. The city has repeatedly maintained they have no quarrel with the quality of work that the fire district trustees have done in keeping the fire department up to high standards.

Their concern, along with that of the trustees, is for the future, and by taking over the district they feel they will better be able to provide the money necessary to keep that quality high.

The fire district trustees have not argued that point. And their experience and expertise is expected to play a big part — at least in the coming year — in assuring that the city does the right things with the department.

THE TRUSTEES have agreed to serve as consultants to the city council, and act in an advisory capacity during the first year.

But authority for running and funding the fire department if the merger goes through will ultimately rest in the hands of the city councilmen.

This is what voters will be asked to agree to this weekend:

—First they will be asked to indicate if they feel the city should take over the fire department.

—Then they will be asked to give the city the department's taxing power.

The first question is preferential and is not binding on the parties to the merger. The second question is not binding either, but without taxing authority for the city council the merger probably will not go through.

If Cullerton Suit Succeeds

Schools May Lose $363,000

Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 will lose $363,000 if a lawsuit filed by Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton succeeds in changing the equalizer used in figuring state school aid.

Supt. Frank Whiteley said rough figures computed by district administrators indicate the district would gain $334,000 in state aid, but lose more than $690,000 in tax revenue, if Cullerton's suit is successful.

Dist. 15's bonding ability also would decrease by $2.3 million if the suit is successful.

cessful.

"We are not bonded to our limit now but we were bonded to capacity until last year. If there is rapid development in the district this figure could become very significant," said Whiteley.

The equalizer is part of the formula used for determining the amount of state aid a school district will receive. The state Department of Local Government Affairs sets an equalizer for each county to compensate for differences in property assessment practices by county assess-sors. A district's assessment or wealth directly effects the amount of state aid it receives.

Cook County School Supt. Martwick and other Cook County officials have charged that the state has set the Cook County equalizer higher than the equalizer for other counties. As a result, they charge, local taxpayers have paid more property tax to support schools than in other areas and the schools have received less state aid than they are entitled to.

Yikes! Gals Dominate Softball Diamond

by JOANN VAN WYE

Water seeped through their gym shoes as the women outfitted in blue jeans and green T-shirts ran onto the flooded field for pregame practice.

They ranged in age from 19 to 45, in status from single to grandmother of four.

Some fluttered their false eyelashes and adjusted their neatly tied back bleached blond hair while others looked like they would be more at home behind the wheel of a big truck.

A more diverse group of women one could never find. But for the next two hours the women were a team with one common goal — winning.

AS GAME TIME approached the team huddled for a little pep talk and to get the starting lineup.

"Kathy — third base, Rita — catcher, Judy — left field, Chic — shortstop..." Mary rattled through nine positions.

"Who's pitching?" someone chides. A holl falls over the team as Mary, the team captain, announces that she is. "No hard feelings, just wanted to keep the record straight."

MARY TUCKS her long brown hair under a green cap as she takes her place on the mound and the others scramble to their positions in the field ready to defend the first place position in the women's 16-inch slow-pitch softball league.

A few practice pitches and George, the umpire, yells "play ball." It's the Edwards (sponsors of the Rolling Meadows Park District team) vs. the Quaker Oats.

The first inning was a disaster as the Quaker Oats team got off to a quick lead but later Edwards took command and it was their game for the remaining six innings.

Hardly what one could call a game of skill, it was more a contest to see which team would make the fewest errors.

Everything was going right for Edwards. What should have been a simple pop out by Rita materialized into a "grand slammer" as the other team overthrew bases, dropped the ball and just out and out bungled the play.

"You should have been out 1,000 times," a teammate greeted Rita at home.

THE DUST HAD barely settled when Debbie came to bat and slammed another homer, legitimate this time, into deep left field.

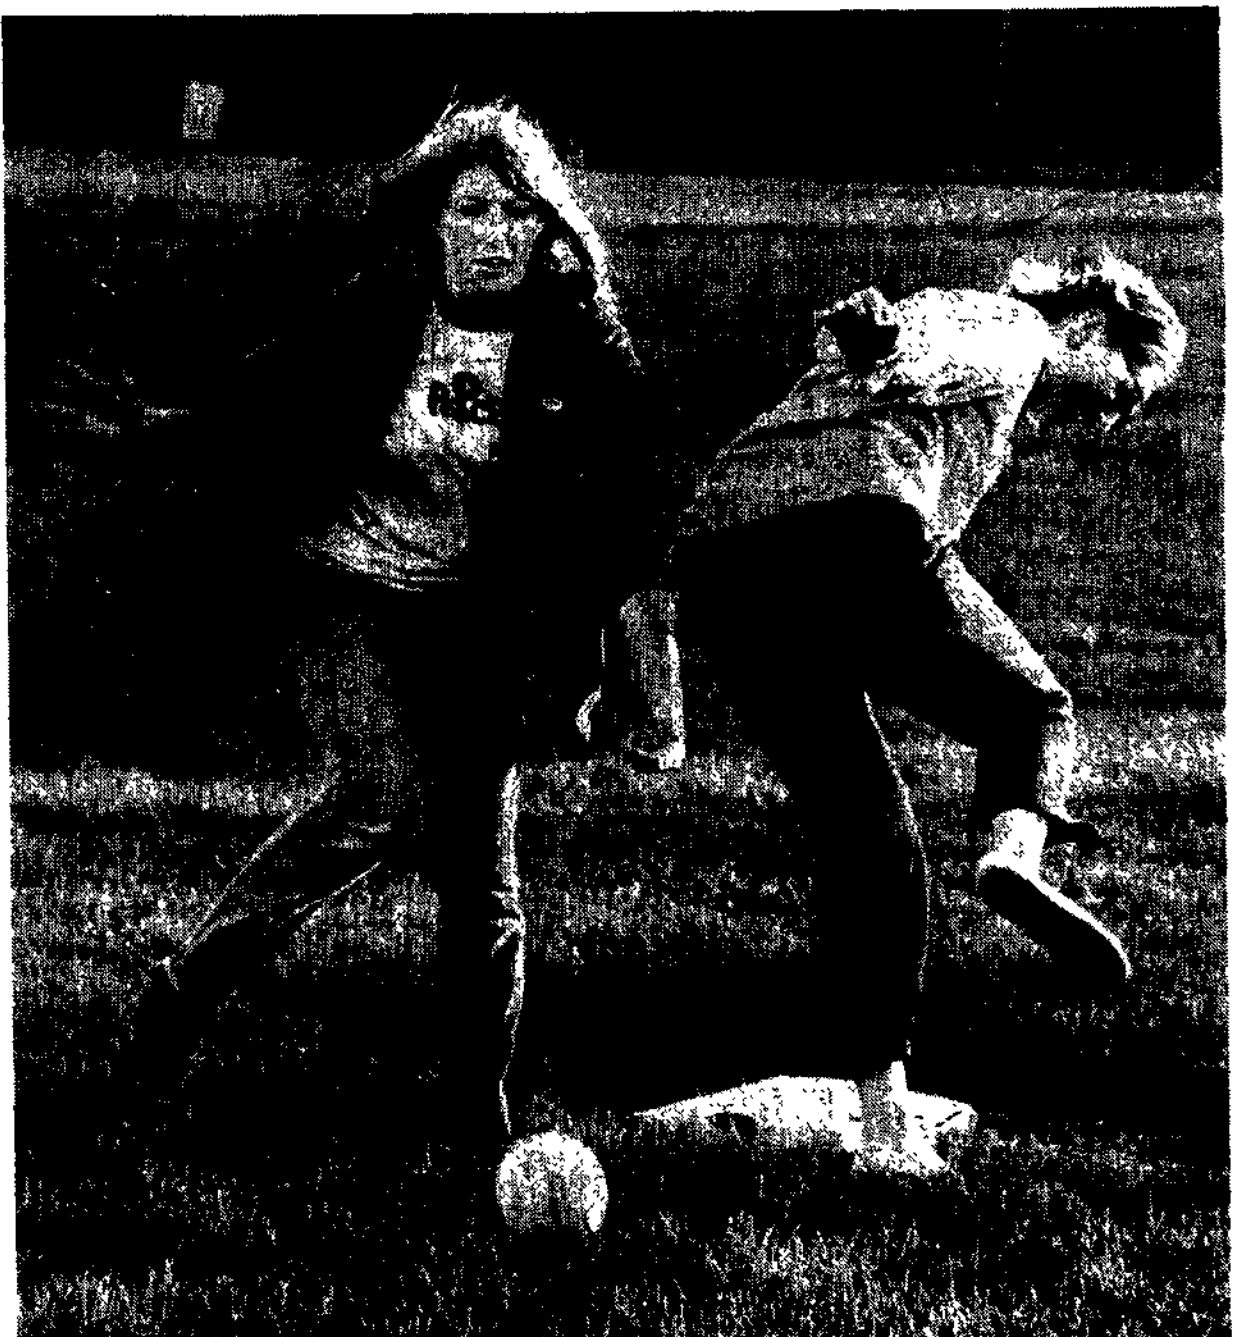

Mary changed the lineup after four innings and a wide margin of points to give everyone a chance to play.

As gum-chopping Sal ran off the field to take her place in a rocking lawn chair on the sidelines, other displaced team members found a comfortable spot on the ground.

Out of the game, they were far from inactive as they kept the talk from the sidelines fast and furious, encouraging their own players and harassing the other team, all just part of the game.

Despite a seventh inning rally by Quaker Oats, the final score was 24-13.

As the team ran off the field there were forgotten husbands and children to reclaim from the sidelines and dishes and diapers to return home to.

FIRST BASE CAN be a busy place. A Rolling Meadows player stumbles for the base while the first basemen utilizes on the other team's errors, the Rolling Meadows team won 24-17.

THE AUTO THAT CRASHED into Lake Roskiter early yesterday morning after veering from Rte. 53 near Palatine Road, emerges from the man-made lake. James Otis, driver of the car, and his wife

Mary, escaped injury when they crawled out of the car windows to safety. Otis apparently fell asleep at the wheel, police said. State trooper Richard Turner, in the car, searched the waters for several hours before the vehicle was discovered. Palatine fireman Joe Pannhausen is shown assisting in the salvage operation.

Pair Narrowly Escapes Watery Car Crash Death

A Palatine couple narrowly escaped death early Wednesday after the car in which they were riding went off Illinois Rte. 53, down a steep embankment and into Lake Roskiter, just west of Palatine. James D. Otis, 29, of 259 Boynton Dr., and his wife, Mary E., 28, emerged from the car without assistance. They were shaken but apparently uninjured.

Their 1971 red Chevrolet Impala later was retrieved from the 80-foot deep lake, about 70 feet from shore. The lake is more than 150 feet from the highway.

Palatine Police Lt. Frank Ortiz said the Otises were "lucky people. If they had the window closed with the air conditioning on, they would still be in there," he said as the car was pulled from the murky water.

The couple escaped by crawling through a window during the five to seven minutes that the car was afloat, making their way to shore, and up the embankment where they hailed Trooper Greg Fritz of the Illinois State Police.

Fritz said if the couple had been injured and unable to get up to the highway, "nobody would have found them till morning." The accident occurred at 2:10 a.m.

State police said Otis apparently dozed while driving southbound in the right-hand lane of Illinois Rte. 53, about half a mile south of Palatine Road.

The car, traveling an estimated 60 m.p.h., veered off the highway, where there is no barrier, and gained additional momentum as it went down the 20-foot embankment.

Otis was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. He also was charged with not having an Illinois driver's license.

The Otises refused medical treatment and were taken home.

The effort to retrieve the car began at 6 a.m., but divers were unable to spot the car in the muddy water.

TWO FIREMEN from the Palatine Rural Fire Dept. later located the car with a hook dropped from a rowboat.

Divers Richard Turner of the Illinois State Police and Lance Bedini of the Palatine Police, attached hooks to the vehicle, and it was pulled from the water by a tow truck.

Turner, a diver for 15 years, said later the effort was the "hardest" he had encountered, because of the depth and coldness of the water, and the lack of visibility.

New Annex Hearings For Apartments

Rehearings on a petition to annex land near Harper College to Rolling Meadows for an apartment and shopping development have been scheduled for later this month and early in September.

This will be the second round of public hearings on the property owned by Eugene and Antoinette Beery. After completing the entire petitioning process several weeks ago, it was learned by the

Rolling Meadows City Council that there were irregularities in the petition for annexation and rezoning, and in the building

Lie Tests In Area Murders Are Slated

Chicago police planned Wednesday to administer lie detector tests in connection with the Barrington Hills murders to two brothers arrested with a stolen car.

Police said the pair, identified as John Egan, 25, and James Egan, 29, told them they could name three men who committed the four murders.

The bodies of retired insurance executive Paul Corbett, his wife, her daughter and sister, were found Aug. 5 in the Corbett's luxurious home in Barrington Hills, an exclusive suburb west of Chicago.

Chief John Killackey of the Chicago police criminal investigations division said checks were being made on the leads provided by the brothers, but that lie detector tests also would be administered.

The Egan brothers were arrested Tuesday night in a Chicago garage with a stolen car, police said.

Barrington Hills police could provide no details, but confirmed that police were checking out leads in connection with the Egan brothers.

ing plans

Beery and his partners in the development want to build a seven-building, 984-unit apartment complex on 44 acres and a five-acre shopping center.

Their previous petition was thrown out because it contained an incomplete legal description of their property.

The property is located south of Euclid-Lake Avenue, and between Harper College and Quentin Road.

The first hearing, before a special city zoning commission, will be held Aug. 29 at 9 p.m. at city hall.

A public hearing before the city council is scheduled for Sept. 12 at 8:30 p.m.

Area School Districts Could Lose Big Sum Through Suit

School districts serving Mount Prospect and Prospect Heights would lose substantial sums of tax money if a lawsuit filed by Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton succeeds in changing the equalizer used to compute school state aid, say most local school officials.

Most local school officials agree that the lower equalizer proposed by Cullerton would probably bring increases in state aid. But they are quick to point out that a lower equalizer would decrease the amount of real estate taxes a district can collect.

Officials in Dist. 21 and Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 estimate their districts would lose twice as much in tax money as they would gain in state aid from Cullerton's proposal.

HIGH SCHOOL Dist. 214 Asst. Supt. Robert Weber said his district would lose about $1 million if Cullerton wins his case against Gov. Richard Ogilvie and two other state officials. He said Cullerton's proposal would give the district $1,094,000 more in state aid, but would cause a loss of $2,050,000 in tax revenue.

Cullerton and Cook County Supt. Richard Martwick are charging the state has set the Cook County equalizer higher than the equalizer for other counties. The equalizer, used to determine the amount of state aid a district receives, is set by the state Department of Local Government Affairs to compensate for differences in property assessment practices by county assessors. The equalizer is also used to determine the amount of real estate taxes a district can levy.

County officials and Cullerton charge that as a result of the high equalizer, local taxpayers have paid more property tax to support schools than in other areas. They also said that schools have received less state aid than they are entitled to.

It's Up To The Voters Now

by ROGER CAPETTINI

The life or death of the Cook County Coroner's Office will be in the hands of the voters when they go to the polls in the November general election.

But the county board still will have a voice in the matter.

The fate of the coroner's office was left to the voters when the County Board, in a special meeting last night, voted unanimously to place a referendum on the November ballot.

The board, however, was careful to retain power over the office by changing the wording of the referendum question from the way it was proposed originally.

THE BALLOT question, as approved last night, will ask if the elective coroner's office should be eliminated and replaced with a medical examiner's system, "headed by a licensed physician to be chosen by the president of the Cook County Board of Commissioners with the advice and consent of the members of the Cook County Board of Commissioners, to be effective Dec. 6, 1976."

That wording differs from the question proposed Aug. 7 by County Comr. Floyd T. Fulle of Des Plaines.

The Fulle resolution stipulated the medical examiner system would be "headed by a licensed forensic pathologist chosen and directed by a commission composed of the chiefs of the pathology departments of the major medical schools," in the county.

The resolution to place the question on the ballot, and to change the wording of the question was approved by the board after Dr. Andrew Toman, current county coroner, said he "fully approves" of the resolution.

Dr. Toman, who has been criticized frequently for his direction of the office, said that while he has instituted many improvements and changes in the past 12 years, many "archaic" aspects have been carried over, by state statute, from common law.

THE CORONER suggested, however, the chief medical examiner, if approved by the voters, should be appointed by the county board so the "public will maintain some interest in the selection and conduct of the medical examiner." That way, Dr. Toman said, "The people will still have a voice." He said if the board did not appoint the examiner the "direct line of authority would be broken."

Following Dr. Toman's remarks the board heard from seven other witnesses, all of whom said they supported the resolution and the abolition of the coroner's office.

One of those speakers was Donald Mulack, Republican candidate for coroner.

Mulack was cut short in his remarks after the Democrats on the board, led by County Pres. George W. Dunne, took exception to Mulack's statements. Dunne and commissioners Charles Bonk, John Stroger and John Touhy accused Mulack of trying to speak to the press for selfish, political purposes.

AFTER BEING warned to limit his remarks to the "meat of the issue," Mulack was interrupted repeatedly by the four Democrats and finally was voted "out of order" by the eight Democrats in attendance.

The four Republicans present voted against denying Mulack the floor.

If the voters decide in November to approve the resolution, and thereby abolish the coroner's office, the county board will initiate action in Springfield to repeal the Coroner's Act, Dunne said. Then the county board would have to adopt an ordinance establishing the implementation and method of operation of the medical examiner's office.

It is at that point, Dunne argued with Fulle, that the method of selecting the chief examiner should be decided. Fulle then revised his original resolution, stating, "The important thing at this point is to get the question on the ballot."

The resolution had to be adopted prior to Monday if it was to appear on the ballot.

School Boundaries Change; Erviti Acts Ahead Of Board

Attendance boundaries were changed, effective Tuesday for five Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 schools. Boundaries were changed for John Jay, Robert Frost and Forest View schools in Mount Prospect and Brentwood and High Ridge Knolls schools in Des Plaines.

The changes were an administrative action by James Erviti, superintendent.

Principals of the schools confirmed that the changes were made in accordance with a letter dated July 28 that Erviti mailed to them.

The changes were apparently made without board approval.

Harry Peterson, school board chairman, said board members were "appraised of the action," but have "taken no formal action."

"We're aware of the plan and the need," said Peterson.

Peterson said he would have to consult with the board's attorney to see if the changes could be made without board approval.

FRANK HINES, board attorney, declined to comment on the legality of the changes. "It is not my position to answer legal questions to the general public," said Hines.

Erviti is on vacation and could not be reached for comment.

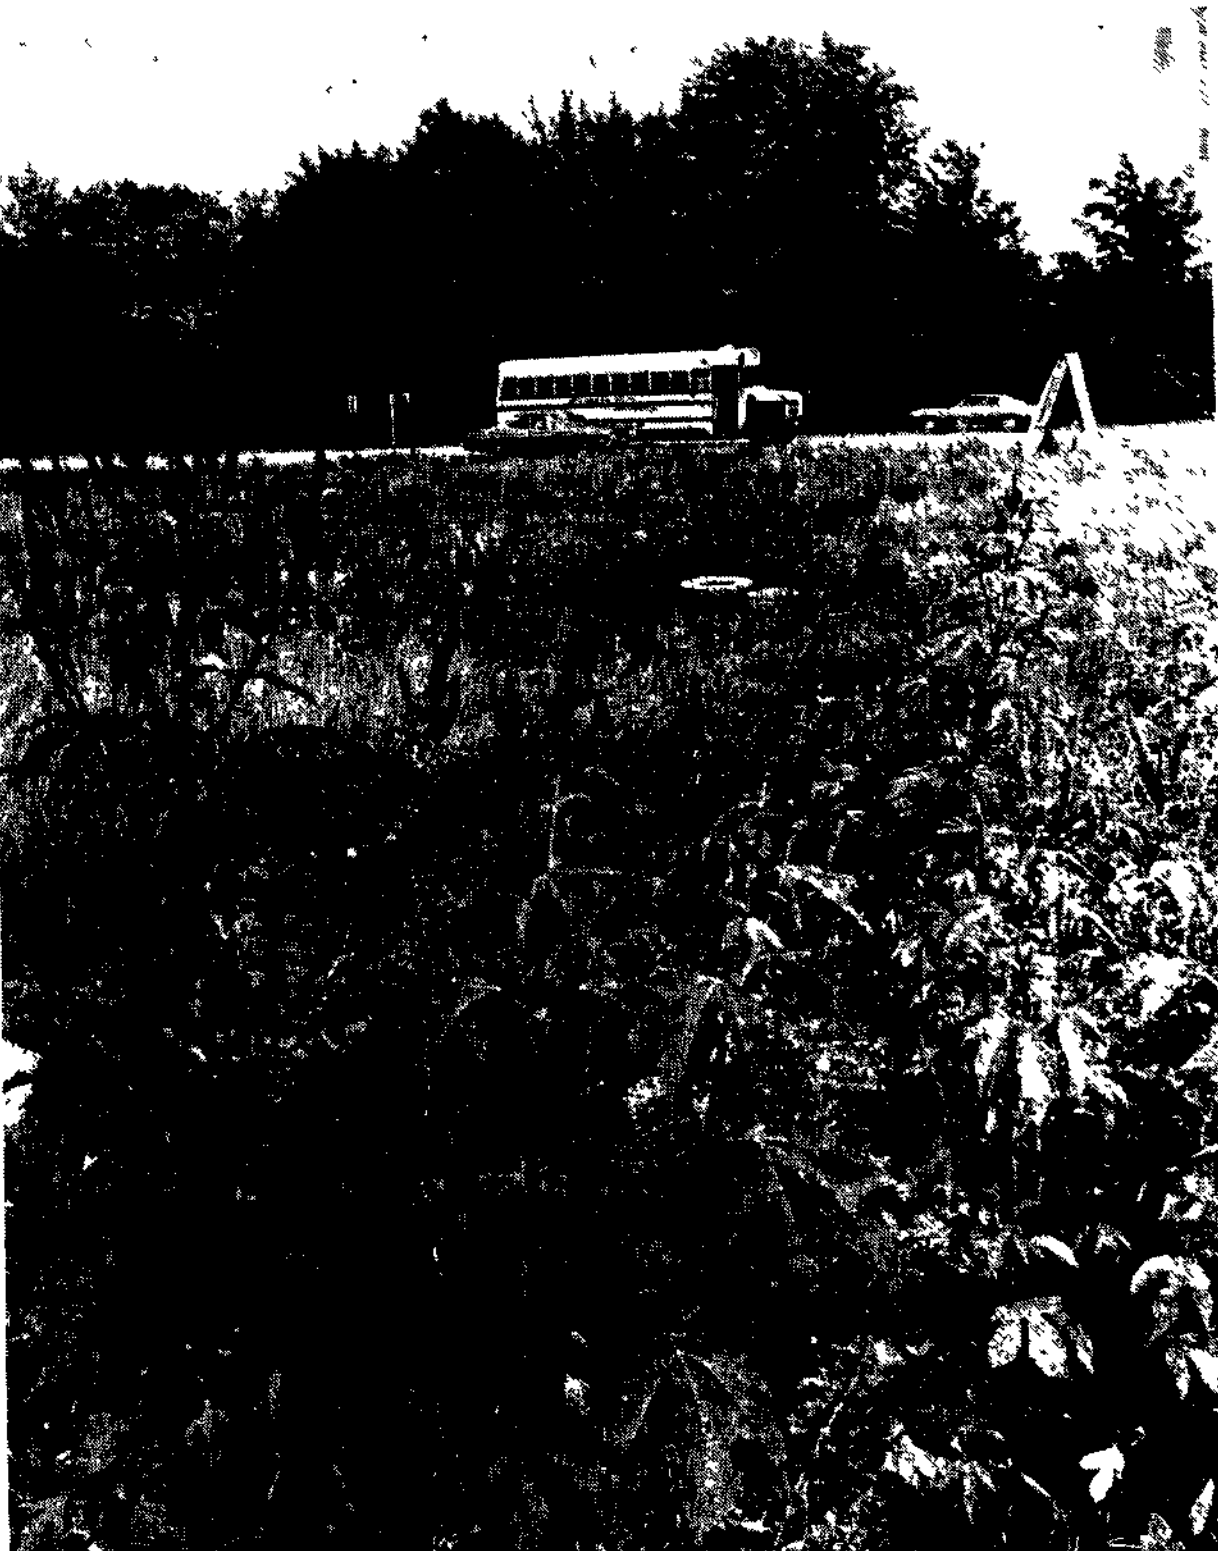

When questioned about the boundary changes, a spokesman for the legal division of the Illinois Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction said, "As a general rule, it should be a question for school board determination. The reason is that the school board represents the different areas that will be affected."

The spokesman said he was basing his opinion on a general interpretation of the school code.

Peterson said the board planned to take action on boundary changes when a special attendance boundary committee submitted its report in October.

The boundary committee was formed in April to study anticipated student population at all district schools and make recommendations for boundaries through 1977.

To date, the committee has considered boundary changes for Robert Frost and Cook schools, but no official recommendations (Continued on page 2)

3 Of 6 Parochial Schools Hike Tuition

Three of six parochial schools in the Mount Prospect and Prospect Heights areas have announced raises in tuition or fees for the 1972-73 school year.

School boards at Christian Liberty Academy and St. Alphonsus Catholic School in Prospect Heights and St. Paul Lutheran in Mount Prospect have voted to raise fees.

At Christian Liberty, tuition will be increased from $400 to $425 for kindergarten students and from $800 to $850 for students in first through 12th grades. "We haven't increased our tuition for several years," the Rev. Paul Lindstrom, director of Christian Liberty, said Friday. "The decision to raise tuition was made because of the increased costs of everything — salaries, telephone bills, etc."

At St. Alphonsus, tuition will be increased by about 25 per cent for the 500 students who attend. Tuition for one child will be $200 a year, an increase of $50, and for two children, the tuition will be $250; also an increase of $50. Families with more than two children will pay $275 a year.

ACCORDING TO Myron Heimerle, St. Alphonsus board president, the hike came because of a $61,000 operating deficit in the school and because of a decrease in Sunday collections due to the opening of a neighboring parish several years ago.

At St. Paul's registration and book fees for students are going up $5. The increase will bring total fees for students who are church members to $60. Tuition for Lutheran non-members is $350 a year per family and $400 a year per family for students who aren't Lutherans.

At the three other parochial schools in the area, St. John Lutheran, St. Emily's and St. Raymond's, tuition and fees will remain the same. At St. John's, the fee will be $200 for one child and $300 for families with two or more students.

Fees at St. Emily's will stay at $100 a year for one child and $150 a year for families with two or more children. At St. Raymond's yearly tuition will remain at $150 for one student and at $200 for two children. A family with more than two children will continue to pay $225 a year.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Former presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger said he met privately with North Vietnamese negotiators in Paris as an emissary of George McGovern and told them the Democratic presidential candidate hoped they would press peace talks without regard to the American election.

Former President Lyndon Johnson has endorsed George McGovern for President.

Republicans swiftly blocked maverick Rep. Paul McCloskey's attempt to challenge President Nixon symbolically by having his name placed in nomination at next week's national convention. In two separate moves, the party denied McCloskey a chance to have his antiwar views brought to the convention floor and aired over nationwide television.

President Nixon vetoed a politically sensitive bill to spend $30.5 billion—nearly $1.8 billion more than he asked—for federal health, education, welfare and labor programs. The house voted to sustain the veto.

Bombing incidents in the United States during July killed two persons and injured 13, the FBI reported.

Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's top foreign policy adviser, arrived in Saigon for a series of secret meetings with President Nguyen Van Thieu. Political observers speculated he had come either to reassure Thieu or to ask him to quit.

The World

Three unidentified military aircraft attacked a special Boeing airliner carrying Moroccan King Hassan II. The plane landed with Hassan uninjured.

The British government offered a $125,000 reward for the capture of a gang of psychopathic killers suspected of murdering up to 40 persons in Northern Ireland within the past month.

The African nations threatened to spoil a $600 million dream by walking out of the 20th Olympic summer games because of Rhodesia's participation.

The State

Mayor Richard Daley canceled his meeting with Sen. George McGovern because he was angry by a news magazine article in which McGovern appears to apologize for soliciting Daley's support, a Chicago newspaper reported.

The War

Heavy fighting was reported in both North and South Vietnam despite dramatic and puzzling trips by two of the top secret peace negotiators and speculation that a settlement is pending in the 11-year-old conflict.

Mental Health Center Opening Set

A new mental health center that will serve Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships will open Sept. 1, according to officials of Elk Grove Community Service. The agency, an arm of the Elk Grove Village, government, recently received a $52,000 state grant to provide mental health services to the two townships. Jorden Rosen, executive director of Community Service, said Dr. Charles Turk, will be hired as a part-time psychiatrist. Three full-time social workers, one of them a youth worker, and a full-time secretary, will also be hired. The names of the other new employees were not announced. Rosen said that all employees for the new center will be hired by Aug. 22. Prior to the awarding of the grant, Elk Grove and Schaumburg as well as Palatine and Wheeling townships all were served by the Northwest Mental Health Association (NMHA) of Arlington Heights.

dations have been presented to the school board. The committee is charged by the board to place the welfare of all the children in the district as its first concern. At a meeting held Tuesday evening, the committee discussed formal adoption of certain principles to be used in recommending boundary changes. The motion to adopt the principles was tabled pending further discussion. THE CHANGES MADE by the district administration this week were in anticipation of increased student population at Frost and Jay schools from housing construction now being completed. Erviti has estimated that approximately 20 children now at Frost would be affected by the boundary changes. Judd

Gets 4-5 Years On Sex Charge

An Arlington Heights man, accused of deviate sexual assault in Mount Prospect, pleaded guilty yesterday in Niles Court and was sentenced to 4-5 years in the state penitentiary. Ronald Delzer, 36, of 1860 W. Algonquin Rd., was apprehended by police Friday night after he had visited his wife's apartment. Delzer had failed to appear in court June 27 and allegedly had been staying in Wisconsin since then. The assault took place about 7:30 p.m. June 19 in the Jewel foodstore parking lot, 200 W. Northwest Hwy. Delzer had picked up a hitchhiking, 16-year-old Arlington Heights youth and taken him to the lot where, police said, he threatened the youth with a knife and sexually assaulted him.

River Trails Construction 45 Days Behind

Construction at the River Trails Junior High School is not expected to be finished until after school begins, Dist. 26 Supt. Tom Warden said Tuesday. According to Warden, the architect has set Nov. 25 as the new project date. Construction is now about 45 days behind. Despite the delay, it is expected that the new cafeteria will be finished before the start of school. Warden said that he had received a letter forwarded to him by the architect saying that Herb Nelson, the head of construction for William Kuhlmann Co., had "indicated that the interior remodeling and kitchen will be finished before the start of school." The cafeteria area has been cleaned out, Warden said, and things there are "far more encouraging today than so far in the last two weeks."

Decision On 80 Condos Delayed Until Sept. 19

Final village board action on a proposed multi-family complex for River Road, just north of Camp McDonald Road, was postponed until Sept. 19 when the petitioner failed to provide all the necessary exhibits.

Although no vote was taken Tuesday on the 80-condominium plans of the Brickman Mid-West Corp., there was plenty of discussion as numerous residents spoke in opposition to the plan at the Mount Prospect Village board meeting.

Before the board were final readings of ordinances rezoning the property and approving the proposed plan unit development. But two of the four exhibits required were missing and another exhibit did not contain enough details of the plan to satisfy board members.

Atty. Robert Moore, who represented Brickman, said the reason the exhibits were not available was "a misunderstanding."

A SPOKESMAN for one group of residents, Fred W. Schierhorn, 1517 Park Dr., questioned the contention by Brickman and his representatives (made throughout several hearings on the subject) that the property had been zoned for multi-family and commercial use in the county "for some 10 years."

Schierhorn said rezoning requests by Brickman were turned down "repeatedly" by the Cook County Zoning Board until "a hastily called meeting, possibly the day after Thanksgiving" in 1969.

Moore said he "did not have as good a memory" as Schierhorn about any Thanksgiving meeting, but added that the property was given multi-family designation in the 1960 Cook County Comprehensive Plan.

Mrs. Frederick J. Bott Jr., 1513 N. Park Dr., complained about high weeds and junk on the Brickman property. She also said at least four people in the area were attempting to sell their homes because of the proposed five-story building.

Mayor Robert D. Teichert instructed Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley to have the condition of the property checked out as to weeds and junk.

ANOTHER RESIDENT, Ben Herman, 1915 Yuma Ln., who is the president of the Rainbow Ridge Homeowners Association, said his group would not want to see any residential use of the Brickman property. They would prefer a commercial use, he said.

He said his group felt residential use would increase the strain on the area's schools and recreation facilities.

Another man, from Dogwood Lane, suggested the while matter should have gone back to the plan commission since the proposal had changed from a six-story, 85-unit building with one floor of commercial space to its present 80 units in five stories with no commercial.

The plan commission voted against the Brickman project in an 80 vote saying the density was too high. Later, the revised plan was given preliminary approval by the village board in a 4-0 vote to concur with its judiciary committee's recommendation to allow the project. (Trustee Kenneth V. Scholten was absent and Trustee Patrick J. Link had to pass because of his involvement with objectors to the plan.)

In all, about 20 residents were at Tuesday's meeting to protest the plan. However, not all spoke.

Approve Pact For Bridge

A contract for construction of the William Street bridge was awarded Tuesday to the John Burns Construction Co. of Orlando Park.

Trustee George B. Anderson called the $84,884 bid "a bargain." The Burns' bid was $14,986 below the consulting engineer's estimate of $99,870 and was the lowest of the five bids received on the project.

Construction is expected to begin next month. Village Eng. Leonard H. Dicke has estimated that the bridge will be completed in early November. It is the third in a series of five bridges across Weller Creek to which the village board committed themselves several years ago. Bridges now span the creek at See-Gwun Avenue and George Street.

The bridge will be paid for out of the village's share of the Illinois Motor Fuel Tax fund rebate to municipalities.

None of the 50 or so residents who signed petitions against the bridge last December and January appeared at the village board meeting to object Tuesday.

THE ONLY QUESTION on the bridge came from a See-Gwun Avenue resident. P. W. Petersen, 701 See-Gwun Ave., asked the board to make sure the proposed bridge would arch high enough so that creek water in flood situations would not strike the side of the bridge and wash back into adjacent yards.

Petersen said that this is what happens now to the See-Gwun bridge which first sends water into the yard of his across the street neighbor and then into his yard.

"We have Dam One on the creek, don't build Dam Two," he said.

Mayor Robert D. Teichert said that he understood the bridge to be designed "to accommodate all the water levels recorded." However, he added it could be checked again, even though state approval for the design has already been obtained.

Petersen said that the state had approved the See-Gwun bridge too, that it hadn't stopped the water from hitting the bridge and backing up. He suggested the water levels used in designing the bridges was perhaps too low.

The board action on the awarding of the contract was unanimous, with Trustee Daniel J. Ahern absent.

Lie Tests Are Slated

Chicago police planned Wednesday to administer lie detector tests in connection with the Barrington Hills murders to two brothers arrested with a stolen car.

Police said the pair, identified as John Egan, 25, and James Egan, 29, told them they could name three men who committed the four murders.

The bodies of retired insurance executive Paul Corbett, his wife, her daughter and sister, were found Aug. 5 in the Corbett's luxurious home in Barrington Hills, an exclusive suburb west of Chicago.

Chief John Killackey of the Chicago police criminal investigations division said checks were being made on the leads provided by the brothers, but that lie detector tests also would be administered.

THE AUTO THAT CRASHED into Lake Rossiter near Palatine Road, emerges from the man-made lake. James Otis, driver of the car, and his wife early yesterday morning after veering from Rte. 53. Mary, escaped injury when they crawled out of the car windows to safety. Otis apparently fell asleep at the wheel, police said. State trooper Richard Turner, in the car, searched the waters for several hours before the vehicle was discovered. Palatine fireman Joe Pannhausen is shown assisting in the salvage operation.

Pair Narrowly Escapes Watery Death

A Palatine couple narrowly escaped death early Wednesday after the car in which they were riding went off Illinois Rte. 53, down a steep embankment and into Lake Rossiter, just west of Palatine. James D. Otis, 29, of 259 Boynton Dr., and his wife, Mary E., 28, emerged from the car without assistance. They were shaken but apparently uninjured.

Their 1971 red Chevrolet Impala later was retrieved from the 80-foot deep lake, about 70 feet from shore. The lake is more than 150 feet from the highway.

Palatine Police Lt. Frank Ortiz said the Otises were "lucky people. If they had the window closed with the air conditioning on, they would still be in there," he said as the car was pulled from the murky water.

The couple escaped by crawling through a window during the five to seven minutes that the car was afloat, making their way to shore, and up the embankment where they hailed Trooper Greg Fritz of the Illinois State Police.

FRITZ SAID if the couple had been injured and unable to get up to the highway, "nobody would have found them till morning." The accident occurred at 2:10 a.m. State police said Otis apparently dozed while driving southbound in the right-hand lane of Illinois Rte. 53, about half a mile south of Palatine Road.

The car, traveling an estimated 60 m.p.h., veered off the highway, where there is no barrier, and gained additional momentum as it went down the 20-foot embankment.

Otis was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. He also was charged with not having an Illinois driver's license.

The Otises refused medical treatment and were taken home.

The effort to retrieve the car began at 6 a.m., but divers were unable to spot the car in the muddy water.

TWO FIREMEN from the Palatine Rural Fire Dept. later located the car with a hook dropped from a rowboat.

Divers Richard Turner of the Illinois State Police and Lance Bedini of the Palatine Police, attached hooks to the vehicle, and it was pulled from the water by a tow truck.

Turner, a diver for 15 years, said later the effort was the "hardest" he had encountered, because of the depth and coldness of the water, and the lack of visibility.

Board Names Principals At 2 Schools

Two new principals were appointed by the River Trails School Dist. 26 board Tuesday night.

Martin Rupe was appointed principal at Indian Grove School, 208 S. Lee St., and Arthur J. Adelberg was appointed principal at Feehanville School, 1400 E. Kensington Rd. Both will receive salaries of $17,750.

Rupe, 48, a native of Ottumwa, Iowa, has 16 years experience including teaching, administrative and counseling experience at the elementary, high school and college levels according to Supt. Thomas Warden. Formerly a principal in School Dist. 91 in Forest Park, Rupe teaches part-time in the graduate school of education at Loyola University, Chicago.

Arthur Adelberg, also appointed by the board Tuesday, is a native of Chicago and has taught, supervised and been active in administrative posts in both Minnesota and Northern Illinois. He served as superintendent of School Dist. 3 in Elmhurst from 1957 to 1969.

Rupe will replace David Dossett who resigned in July to become principal in Mundelein Dist. 75. Adelberg replaces Bea Amundson who has been reassigned as a teacher at River Trails Junior High School and director of career and outdoor education in the district.

Also hired by the board Tuesday night were four new teachers. Mrs. Terry Schaps was hired as a language arts teacher at River Trails Junior High. Ann Dickerson was appointed to the intermediate team at Bond School. Also hired was Mrs. Dickerson's husband, William, who will serve as a physical education teacher at Fairview School. Edward Dreyer was appointed to a new position in the science and math department of the Junior High.

lerton's office, local districts last year lost the following amounts in state aid because of the high equalizer: Dist. 21, $182,416; Prospect Heights Dist. 23, $48,845; River Trails Dist. 26, $83,708; Mount Prospect Dist. 57, $133,781; Dist. 59, $472,660; and Dist. 214, $1,264,492.

"THE NEW EQUALIZER would mean large losses," said Prospect Heights Dist. 23 Business Mgr. James Hendren. "Besides tax revenue going down, we would also lose bonding power and our tax warrant limitation (which determines the amount of money a district can borrow) would be lowered."

Hendren said a new equalizer could also mean a loss in state aid if the state decides to change the rest of the state aid formula to correspond to a new equalizer.

Both Hendren and Dist. 17 Asst. Supt. J. C. Busenbhart said they did not know how much their districts would lose in taxes because they do not have 1972 assessed valuation and new equalizer figures.

Dist. 26 Asst. Supt. James Retzlaff said Dist. 26 officials have not computed what the new equalizer would mean in dollars to the district. He did say, "We assume we might get a state aid increase and if we lose tax revenue it would be made up by state aid."

Urges Community-Oriented Unit

A Citizens' Advisory Committee to help the River Trails School Dist. 26 board in solving community-oriented problems was proposed by board members Ted Wattenberg at the school board's meeting Tuesday night.

The committee would be composed of interested citizens and assist the board in solving such problems as school vandalism, the choice of a site for a new school, and formulating district policy, Wattenberg said.

"They would do the things that we, as a board, do not have time to do," he said.

Wattenberg reported that he had approached Marsha Lupton, former PTA president and member of the Dist. 26 General Caucus that helped choose the new school board members, to serve as the chairman of the proposed committee. Supt. Thomas Warden said he had talked to Mrs. Lupton on the phone, but said she had several questions about the scope and powers of such a committee.

"SHE SAID THAT there has to be a fine balance between the committee as a rubber stamp for the administration and an instrument for interested community groups," Warden said. She told him that she would like to have more information on the structure of the committee before making any decision.

Several suggestions were offered for the form the advisory group should take. Board member Sylvia Lurie said that she would like to keep the group to "matters involving parents and taxpayers, not those of professional educators, such as curriculum."

Part Of School Land Sought By Village For Road Work

An offer will be made by the Village of Mount Prospect to owners of the Central School property for the purchase of two strips of land that are part of the downtown site.

The two seven-foot-wide strips are needed for the planned intersection work along Main Street, from Central Road to Evergreen Avenue. State and federal funding for about 70 per cent of the total cost of the project has already been obtained for the project.

Should the owners, who are represented by Alexander Magnus, not accept the offer and refuse to negotiate for a price, condemnation proceedings will be started at the Sept. 5 village board meeting, Mayor Robert D. Teichert said yesterday.

THE OFFER will be based on a recent appraisal of the two strips that was undertaken for the village. Reportedly, this appraisal came up with a $18,800 figure. In this year's village budget, $18,000 has been set aside for this land acquisition.

Teichert said his "patience is at an end" with Magnus. According to an informal agreement, designed to avoid condemnation of the strips by the village, both sides were to have appraisals made.

As of yet, Magnus has submitted no appraisal to the village, although when he was contacted two weeks ago by the Herald, he said such an appraisal was "in the works."

Both Teichert and Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley met Friday with Magnus. Teichert would not go into the details of the discussion other than to say that no agreement was reached and the Magnus talked "in concepts" of what his group might do with the whole property.

This lack of agreement Friday and Magnus' apparent unchangeable position led to yesterday's action by Teichert.

AT VARIOUS TIMES there has been talk of a Jewel Foodstore, a high-rise office building which would also include village hall offices, and moderate or low-income housing being planned for the site.

An earlier attempt by Magnus to have the building rezoned for an office building was defeated, primarily because the proper setbacks, were not included in the plan, Teichert said. Meanwhile, the abandoned school, called an attractive nuisance for children by some citizens, still stands on the southeast corner of the Main Street and Central Road.

Senior Citizen Outings Set

Three all-day outings for senior citizens are scheduled within the next month, according to Elizabeth Meyer, director of the Mount Prospect Extensioneers.

On Thursday, Aug. 24, the Extensioneers, the Des Plaines Golden Agers, the Bensenville, Itasca and Jefferson Park senior citizens groups will sponsor a picnic on the grounds of the Community Presbyterian Church, 407 N. Main St. The picnic will begin at 10:30 a.m. Participants are asked to bring their own lunches. Beverages will be provided.

On Tuesday, Aug. 29, Senior Citizens Day, the Extensioneers will charter a bus to Wrigley Field for the Cubs-Dodgers game. Charge for a round-trip ticket is $1.25. The bus leaves from the Community Presbyterian Church parking lot at 11:00 a.m. According to Mrs. Meyer, there is still space available for 20 persons. Anyone interested should call her at CL 4-3189.

On Sept. 14, the Extensioneers will take a group to Starved Rock State Park the charge for the day, including a round-trip ticket is $10. This includes a meal at the Starved Rock Lodge. The bus leaves at 7 a.m. from the church parking lot. Anyone interested should call for reservations.

Finally, on Oct. 14, the Extensioneers are planning a 15-day trip to Hawaii. The tour includes a visit to all the islands as well as a luau, a polynesian culture tour and dinner at the Volcano House. All meals and tours are included in the $700 package price. Reservations are open to all interested senior citizens.

ECC Says Village Held Back Waste Disposal Data

The Arlington Heights village administration came under strong attack last night by the Environmental Control Commission (ECC) which charged that information needed to complete a solid waste disposal report has been concealed.

The charges were made after ECC member Marilyn Macko found that a report on a method of solid waste disposal, which was presented to the village on Nov. 29, 1971, was never relayed to the commission.

Mrs. Macko also cited several questions listed in a Nov. 1 questionnaire to the village administration regarding various forms of solid waste disposal, which were never answered.

"All they gave us was the solid waste disposal report of Jan. 29 (which recommended an incinerator for solid waste disposal)," she said. "And that report was not even directed at us."

"IT HAS BEEN LIKE pulling teeth to get information out of the village administration," said ECC Chairman Edward Kokkelenberg.

According to Mrs. Macko, the village administration decided that an incinerator is the best method to solving the solid waste disposal problem in the village a long time ago, and all information that did not lead to that conclusion has been disregarded.

"I feel we have an advisory relation with the administration," said Mrs. Macko. "It takes enough time to dig out information without having to look over our shoulder every second at the administration. It's like working for two competing companies."

The commission has been studying the solid waste disposal problem for a year. Last month a subcommittee of the commission recommended that landfills be used to dispose of the village's solid waste.

In an effort to get the village to divulge needed information, the commission sent a memorandum to Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson requesting data on the current Arlington Heights landfill within 10 days. The commission asked that data include measures being taken to bring the landfill into compliance with Environmental Protection Agency regulations and the projected cost of bringing the landfill into such compliance.

"THESE FACTS ARE needed if we are to come up with valid conclusions on whether or not landfilling in our sanitary landfill is still a viable alternative," Kokkelenberg said.

Though not presented in a formal request to the administration, the commission asked that members be kept up to date with a village study of the landfill, which is coinciding with a professional study of the site.

"I understand the administration holds the engineering study data suspect," said ECC Member Mary Schlot. "I'd like to know what data the village has collected and how it is different from the study."

The engineering report, by Harza Co., is still in a working draft state and is expected to be completed shortly. Another study which the ECC is holding its final report for is a village study of land adjacent to the existing landfill, which has been promised for Aug. 20.

"It's imperative we have all this information before issuing a report," said Kokkelenberg. "We don't want to have a completed report picked apart by the administration with information it has failed to give us."

The final commission report is scheduled for completion Sept. 15.

Plan Board Gets Look At Atrium Plans

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission got its first formal look at the townhouse project proposed for the 45-acre site at the northeast corner of Palatine Road and Rte. 53 last night.

The developer, I. Simon, Inc., presented two alternate plans for the project which would be known as Atrium.

The first scheme showed 360 townhouse units of one and two stories, each with a one-car garage with additional parking in front of each unit.

The second scheme showed a total of 408 units at the site, 348 townhouses and 60 apartment condominiums which would be located in a single four-story building.

James Whiting of the Greenbrier Civic Association outlined that homeowners group's feelings toward the development in a six-point letter which he read to the commission.

Included were:

—The impact of the development on Greenbrier, the enrollment of which Whiting said could be expected to increase by 75 per cent.

—Traffic hazards at the intersection of Palatine Road and Kennicott Drive, one of the main entrances to the proposed development.

—Adequate water supply for the development.

—Adequate sewer and storm water detention.

—Compatibility of the proposed development with surrounding neighborhood.

—A guarantee that all units in the development would be for sale units as now proposed.

Rec Room Fire Damage Put At $8,000

A general alarm fire in a basement recreation room late Wednesday night caused $8,000 damage to the home of Albert Kozakiewicz, 611 W. Braeside Dr.

Four units of the Arlington Heights Fire Department responded at 11:32 p.m. to a call from a neighbor of Kozakiewicz, who was out of the house at the time.

Firemen discovered the fire, apparently caused by an electrical short, in the recreation room in the northwest corner of the basement.

Firemen fought the blaze for an hour and a half, confining it to the basement room. Heat and smoke were transmitted throughout the house, however, causing damage elsewhere. Damage was estimated at $5,000 to the house and $3,000 to the contents.

At 6:45 a.m. Thursday, firemen were again called to the Kozakiewicz house, this time to extinguish a fire in the driveway. A lounge chair, part of the household goods salvaged from the earlier fire and placed in the driveway, had rekindled. The second fire was quickly brought under control.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Former presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger said he met privately with North Vietnamese negotiators in Paris as an emissary of George McGovern and told them the Democratic presidential candidate hoped they would press peace talks without regard to the American election.

Former President Lyndon Johnson has endorsed George McGovern for President.

Republicans swiftly blocked maverick Rep. Paul McCloskey's attempt to challenge President Nixon symbolically by having his name placed in nomination at next week's national convention. In two separate moves, the party denied McCloskey a chance to have his antiwar views brought to the convention floor and aired over nationwide television.

President Nixon vetoed a politically sensitive bill to spend $30.5 billion—nearly $1.8 billion more than he asked—for federal health, education, welfare and labor programs. The house voted to sustain the veto.

Bombing incidents in the United States during July killed two persons and injured 13, the FBI reported.

Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's top foreign policy adviser, arrived in Saigon for a series of secret meetings with President Nguyen Van Thieu. Political observers speculated he had come either to reassure Thieu or to ask him to quit.

The World

Three unidentified military aircraft attacked a special Boeing airliner carrying Moroccan King Hassan II. The plane landed with Hassan uninjured.

The British government offered a $125,000 reward for the capture of a gang of psychopathic killers suspected of murdering up to 40 persons in Northern Ireland within the past month.

The African nations threatened to spoil a $600 million dream by walking out of the 20th Olympic summer games because of Rhodesia's participation.

The State

Mayor Richard Daley canceled his meeting with Sen. George McGovern because he was angry by a news magazine article in which McGovern appears to apologize for soliciting Daley's support, a Chicago newspaper reported.

The War

Heavy fighting was reported in both North and South Vietnam despite dramatic and puzzling trysts by two of the top secret peace negotiators and speculation that a settlement is pending in the 11-year-old conflict.

The Dow Jones average lost 5.72 to 964.25. The average price of a common share decreased by 11 cents. Declines topped advances, 796 to 620, among the 1,762 issues crossing the tape. Dozen Teachers Map Way To Personalized Teaching

by CINDY TEW

Take a dozen teachers, throw them together for a month and ask them to come up with methods of personalizing teaching, and there's going to be fireworks.

And it's been a long, hot month in the air-conditioned conference room on the third floor of St. Viator High School.

The teachers, along with the administrators of St. Viator will put a new, almost radical, teaching approach to work in a few weeks.

Teachers knew they were stepping into the unknown when they signed their contracts last spring. They knew teaching was no longer going to be a personal operation and their private teaching methods would be challenged. And so far no one has quit.

TEACHERS WERE divided into four "schools," each with a different area of emphasis, and the teams have worked closely to build their school. The programs include:

- Social studies in which students will study man in relation to his society.
- Science in which technology will influence courses of the curriculum.
- Humanities in which students will study man and his culture.
- A traditional program, which will be essentially the same program St. Vlasor has always had, with no special emphasis on any subject.

"A GROUP DECISION has to be a compromise," said a member of the so-

Staff members agreed that the personnel teaching philosophy of individuals in the group runs from conservative to liberal.

"Let some students say that sonnets are hogwash — it's a basic human right not to be interested in a specific subject," said one teacher. "Let them develop their own interest."

"But we need structure. . . ." And the teachers wrestle with the problem. The problem of communicating. Being able to incorporate new ideas into their system of teaching without changing their basic philosophy.

"WHAT WE NEED is some common ground — an umbrella under which we can follow our own avenues to teaching," said the chairman of the social studies school.

The teachers agree that they are basically committed to making the school more relevant to the students.

"All students will end their high school career with the same basic skills," said the Rev. Patrick Render, one of four top administrators at the school who will be part of a team of principals.

"The emphasis of the student's basic courses, however, will depend on which of the four programs he enrolls in," he said.

FATHER RENDER added that even the traditional program will be a little different than last year's program in that FATHER RENDER added that even the traditional program will be a little different than last year's program in that the teacher-student relationship will be more individualized.

"We can't develop personal teacher-student relationships if we can't build relationships between members of the staff, and that is part of what teachers are learning at the month-long seminars," Render said.

The cost of the program, including an additional two weeks salary for teachers and some cost for speakers, will add about $25,000 to this year's expenses at St. Viator.

"We look at this as an initial investment to demonstrate the worth of the program to others," said Father Render. The extra cost will be absorbed by a number of sources including foundations and the Viatorian order.

Voters Will Decide Fate Of Coroner's Office

by ROGER CAPELLINI
The life or death of the Cook County Coroner's Office will be in the hands of the voters when they go to the polls in the November general election.
But the county board still will have a voice in the matter.
The fate of the coroner's office was left to the voters when the County Board, in a special meeting last night, voted unanimously to place a referendum on the No-

The board, however, was careful to retain power over the office by changing the wording of the referendum question from the way it was proposed originally.

THE BALLOT question, as approved last night, will ask if the elective coroner's office should be eliminated and replaced with a medical examiner's system, "headed by a licensed physician to be chosen by the president of the Cook County Board of Commissioners with the advice and consent of the members of the Cook County Board of Commissioners, to be effective Dec. 6, 1976."

That wording differs from the question proposed Aug. 7 by County Commr. Floyd T. Fulle of Des Plaines.

The Fulle resolution stipulated the medical examiner system would be "headed by a licensed forensic pathologist chosen and directed by a commis-

Dr. Toman, who has been criticized frequently for his direction of the effort way, Dr. Toman said, "The people will still have a voice." He said if the board did not appoint the examiner the "direct line of authority would be broken."

Following Dr. Toman's remarks the board heard from seven other witnesses all of whom said they supported the resolution and the abolition of the coroner's office.

One of those speakers was Donald Mu-

Weather Conditions Aid Tree Borers

If the trees around your house are looking a little sickly this season, they may be the victim of a summer invasion being mounted by a variety of tree borers.

Tree borers are the larvae of certain moths and beetles and one variety, the Bronze Birch Borer, is threatening to wipe out the few remaining stands of white birches in this area, according to a University of Illinois horticulturalist.

Tree borers are an annual arboreal menace but are especially threatening this year because of certain weather conditions, explains James Fizzell, a horticulturalist with the University of Illinois extension service in Des Plaines.

A combination of a dry summer last year and a mild and early winter with little or no snow cover during the coldest months has weakened trees in this area, Fizzell says. And a weak tree is more

Once borers have made their way into the wood of the tree it is very difficult to get them out. Sprays are used on the outside of the trees to kill borers as they are hatched and begin to burrow into the bark, he said.

THE CORONER suggested, however, the chief medical examiner, if approved by the voters, should be appointed by the county board so the "public will maintain some interest in the selection and conduct of the medical examiner." That

Deny Solicitor License Exemption

The Arlington Heights Village Board rejected for the first time a request for exemption from the village's solicitor ordinance.

The ordinance, passed last Oct. 4, requires that solicitors in Arlington Heights be registered and licensed by the village. License cost is $10.

In addition, the ordinance restricts solicitors and peddlers from calling on residents who have the "No solicitors or peddlers invited" sign posted near the main entrance to their house.

The village board regularly waives the licensing fees for non-profit solicitation such as Boy Scout candy sales.

But Monday night the trustees refused to grant such relief to the United Boys Group International, a "limited profit organization" seeking to conduct a candy sale one week during August, September and October.

Borers commonly found in fruit trees are the Peach Tree Borer, which is the larva of the Clear Winged moth, Fizzell said. Another borer, the Ash Borer, attacks ash trees and is the larva of a large beetle. Ash Borers can live in a tree for two or three years.

There are chemical means of control. First identify the type of borer afflicting your trees because different types of borers require different kinds and times of spraying, according to Fizzell.

One chemical called Cygon is effective against beetle borers but is no deterrent to the Peach Tree Borer, Fizzell said. For months borers a chemical called Sevin is most effective.

Another chemical spray, Lindane, will kill borers but is not recommended because it is a hydrocarbon with a long generally unavailable and not recom-

Travel Agents Help With Vacation Plans

by KURT BAER

The boss tells them when. The wife tells them where. And we try to tell them how.

That at least is the way one local travel agent summed up her work in helping residents who are hankering to travel to get the most out of their precious vacation time.

Disney World near Orlando, Fla., and on the west coast are turning up as two of the most visited vacation spots this summer, according to a spot check of local travel bureaus.

For vacationers with domestic destinations, August is still probably the most popular of the summer vacation months. Although one travel agent reports a growing trend toward taking several one-week vacations at various times throughout the year, rather than one long vacation during the summer.

"THE OPPORTUNITY for one-week vacations is expanding tremendously," says Penny Herrmann of the Roberta Fisher Travel Agency in Arlington Heights. She cites the popularity of the numerous airline package trips and even the one-week cruise as evidence of the interest in shorter but more frequent vacations.

"An awful lot of people are going to Disney World," says Linda Lank of the Wayne Griffin Travel Agency. "Hotels there are booked for August, September and October, and now even November dates are starting to go very fast."

Penny Herrmann thinks she may be booking more trips to Los Angeles and Las Vegas. But none of the agencies polled appear to be booking many week-long vacations to New York City.

"People going to New York might go for a weekend for the theater or something. But there's more of that in the fall or winter and then it's usually part of a business trip," says Jill Freeland of the Arlington Travel Agency.

The automobile is still the most popular vehicle for the family vacation. But Linda Lank says she has found some of her clients interested in the Amtrak trains.

"A few people take the trains, but I don't think Amtrak has really conditioned people yet," Jill Freeland says. "Usually people don't have time for the train. People who are interested, come in interested."

FOR LONG TRIPS in a limited time the obvious answer is the airplane. Recent skyjackings do not seem to be affecting people's air travel plans, the agencies report.

"I think most people recognize there's nothing we can do about it," Linda Lank says. "There are people who say they won't fly but there have always been people who wouldn't fly."

International travel, too, seems to be on the upswing. But August is not the best month to go to Europe, Jill Freeland says, because August is the traditional vacation month for Europeans.

"I can't give you any official statistics but I think I'm making more international bookings this year than in the past," one agent said.

Still for the family man anyway, the U.S. is a very popular vacationland. "It gives him a chance to get the kids out and see the country," says Linda Lank.

Girls Softball Team Here Second Best In Tournament

The Arlington Heights Lassie League, a girls 12-inch softball team sponsored by the park district, came out second best in a double elimination tournament recently sponsored by Hoffman Estates.

The girls, who had a 13-4 season, won all but two of their tournament games, and the only team that bested them was a Roselle team.

Maureen Coleman was the winning pitcher in the first four games of the tournament against Elk Grove, Wheeling, Hanover Park and Des Plaines.

In the game against Elk Grove, Maureen Hitzman led the attack with a double and two singles. Other big hitters were Terry Ciffone and Carol Erd. Arlington won 11-4.

The Wheeling team, which had been undefeated for five years, went down 4-2 to Arlington Heights. Donna Miller and Marie Gustke were the best hitters of the day.

Four singles by Jennifer Hammerli paved the way for a 15-6 victory over Hanover Park. The 10-1 victory over Des Plaines was aided by the bats of Holly Hutchinson and Donna Miller.

Suspect In Attempted Murder Gives Self Up

Daniel L. McGladdery, 19, charged with attempted murder after an incident early Tuesday morning in Hoffman Estates, surrendered Tuesday evening to the Niles Police Department.

The Lombard resident was released Wednesday morning after posting bond, reduced from $50,000 to $20,000 in a hearing in the Niles Branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

A warrant for McGladdery's arrest was issued Tuesday after he allegedly tried to run down an officer of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEG) during a drug arrest at the home of Charles E. Deering, 19, of 442 Bode Rd., Hoffman Estates. The warrant charged him with attempted murder and delivery of a controlled substance.

Police still are seeking an unidentified female, allegedly in the auto with McGladdery when he escaped arrest while officers fired at the car.

McGLADDERY AND FOUR other suburban residents facing drug charges are to be arraigned at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in the court rooms in Niles.

Other defendants and the charges they face are Deering, delivery of a controlled substance; Richard Alan Pain, 19, of 4700 Arbor Dr., Rolling Meadows, delivery of marijuana; Linda Marie Moser, 18, and Carl J. Isenberg, 17, both of 6654 Pine-tree, Hanover Park, delivery of a controlled substance, police said. All have posted bond.

MEG agents said they first arranged the purchase of drugs from the Hanover Park residents, and arrests there led them to Hoffman Estates. Deering's arrest then led the agents to Pain, said Niles Police Chief Clarence Emrikson, MEG spokesman.

In the arrests, the agents confiscated marijuana, amphetamines and LSD with an estimated total street value of $3,500, said Emrikson.

A train ride, dart throw and movies will be part of a carnival to be held Thursday at the home of Scott A. Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Reynolds, 2515 Cedar Glen Dr., Arlington Heights.

The carnival, to earn money to help finance research and patient services for muscular dystrophy, will begin at 1 p.m. Assisting Scott will be his brother, Mark.

$2.25 Million Loss Faces Schools If Suit Succeeds

Maine Township High Schools and Des Plaines Elementary School Dist. 62 will lose about $2.25 million in tax money if the Cook County assessor wins a lawsuit seeking to change the formula used in figuring state aid to schools.

Although the same change would give school districts more state aid money, it would reduce the assessed valuation and taxes on property in the area by a greater amount, giving a net loss to local school districts.

According to Harold Markworth, business manager at High School Dist. 207, Maine Township high schools will lose about $1 million under the new formula.

Although the district will receive more than $200,000 in additional state aid, it would lose $1.2 million in property tax money, he said.

Richard Short, superintendent at Dist. 207, attended a meeting Monday between suburban school officials and Richard J. Martwick, Cook County superintendent of schools, who is supporting the formula change. During the meeting Short said he opposed the change because Dist. 207 and other suburban schools would lose tax revenue.

HAROLD BRIESCHKE, director of business services at Dist. 62, said the district will lose about $1.25 million if the formula change is made. Dist. 62 would receive more than $300,000 more in state aid but would lose more than $1.5 million in tax revenue. The change in the formula is still being studied by administrators at Dist. 62, he said.

Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton, Martwick, and other county Democrats, hope to lower the equalizer used in figuring assessed valuations from 50 per cent to 43 per cent of market value, the same percentage used in other Illinois counties.

The equalizer is part of the formula used for determining the amount of state aid a school district will receive. The state Department of Local Government Affairs sets an equalizer for each county to compensate for differences in property assessment practices by county assessors. A district's assessment or wealth directly affects the amount of state aid it receives.

Martwick and other Cook County officials have charged the state has set the Cook County equalizer higher than the equalizer in other counties. As a result local taxpayers have paid more property tax to support schools than in other counties and the schools have received less state aid than they are entitled to.

HIGH SCHOOL Dist. 214 in Elk Grove and Wheeling townships would lose $1 million if Cullerton's lawsuit succeeds in changing the state equalizer for Cook County, a Dist. 214 official said Monday.

Asst. Supt. Robert Weber said the change would give the district $1,094,000 more in state aid, but "to get that we would lose $2,050,000 in tax revenue."

Weber said the higher equalizer is needed for Cook County in order to bring up property assessments because County Assessor P. J. Cullerton assesses property at a lower rate than assessors in other counties. A cut in the equalizer, he said, will mean more tax dollars lost to Dist. 214 than dollars gained in state aid under the present formula.

"What it really boils down to is that if Cullerton would do his job in the first place, the equalizer wouldn't be necessary," Weber said. "But as long as assessments are low we need a higher equalizer."

Seek Way Out Of Fire Dist. Relationships

by DEBORAH ORIN

After wrestling with the problem for several years, the city of Des Plaines continues to seek a way out of its costly relationships with neighboring fire protection districts.

The districts, responsible for providing fire protection in unincorporated areas, traditionally have contracted with neighboring municipal fire departments such as Des Plaines, which has been in the business for almost 20 years.

But city officials are becoming more and more uncomfortable with figures that show Des Plaines is giving fire service to neighboring Waycinden Park and Park Ridge Manor at much lower rates than those charged its own residents.

In effect, it's a subsidy to homeowners whose taxes are much lower than those paid by Des Plaines citizens.

"Why should people who pay taxes in the City of Des Plaines in any way subsidize people who do not?" says Ald. John Seitz (7th), chairman of the city council's fire committee, whose views probably are shared by most other aldermen.

MAYOR HERBERT BEHRELL, who agrees, says the city should stop serving outside fire districts "if we possibly can."

"In the first place, we should be serving our people and our people only. In the second place, you learn by experience that every time a city or village supplies service to an unincorporated area, there's less and less reason for them to annex," says the mayor.

The city has agreed to continue "stand-by" service to Park Ridge Manor and Waycinden, which is part of the Elk Grove Rural Fire Protection District. It hopes to increase the contributions from both subdivisions for next year.

But Seitz sees a further problem even if the unincorporated areas were to pay the same fire protection taxes as Des Plaines residents. Under current contracts, service to the outside districts hinges on Des Plaines' ability to supply assistance without jeopardizing its own fire protection. If the outside districts were to pay full taxes, says Seitz, they would have the right to expect full rather than the present "standby" service.

Seitz acknowledges that calls from the outside districts have been few and thus far have not conflicted with needs in Des Plaines. The fire department answered a total of about 2,200 calls in 1971, including nine from Park Ridge Manor and 37 in the Elk Grove Rural district. Still, says Seitz, "There's always a remote pos-

Morton Grove, Golf Join Battle

Villages Oppose Oakton Site

The village boards of Morton Grove and Golf have joined the growing controversy over Oakton Community College's choice of a site for its permanent campus.

The Morton Grove board passed a resolution Tuesday night opposing the college's selection of a 52-acre property on Beckwith Road in Morton Grove. A similar measure was passed last week by the Golf Village Board.

Announcement of the resolutions, made later Tuesday night at a meeting of the Oakton Board, brought cheers and applause from a group of 230 Morton Grove and Golf residents who had attended the meeting to protest the choice of the Beckwith site.

According to Fred Huber, Morton Grove village administrator, the village board's resolution was the result of petitions brought to village officials by a citizens' group of homeowners who live near the proposed campus. Golf officials were not available for comment.

Niles Township Elementary School Dist. 67 Board of Education sent a letter opposing the site to the Morton Grove Village Board and the Oakton Board following its Aug. 10 meeting. The letter gave two reasons for opposing the site according to Madge Bilanko, district business manager and board secretary. The school board objected to the removal of 52 acres of taxable property from the school district and also claimed that the college would cause a traffic hazard to children attending local elementary and junior high schools.

Since most of the property is now vacant it is valuable to the school district because it produces tax revenue but doesn't contribute many children to the school system, said Mrs. Bilanko.

ACCORDING TO a spokesman in the Morton Grove village planning office, most of the land has already been subdivided, indicating that houses may be built there, possibly reducing the net value of the land to the school district.

Several of the 230 residents attending the college board meeting expressed concern about traffic problems in the Beckwith Road area. According to Arthur Nolan of Golf, the Golf Village Board opposed the site because residents complained about traffic conditions on Beckwith Road and Narragansett Avenue.

A study conducted by Barton Aschman, a traffic research firm, said population growth in Morton Grove would make widening of existing roads in the area necessary whether the college built there or not.

Paul Gilson, chairman of the college board site committee, said the college hopes to widen Narragansett Avenue from 20 to 24 feet, a full two lanes. Residents attending the meeting told Gilson the forest preserve district owns the east half of the road and would be unwilling to allow the road to be widened.

Saul Weiner, a member of the citizens' committee opposed to the site, said the 52 acres at Beckwith Road is too small for a campus. Several residents said they favored two alternative sites in the far northwest corner of the college district because they are larger.

The two sites are both owned by the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese and are available for sale. One is on the south-

Faces 'Pot' Possession

A 21-year-old Maywood man was arrested and charged by Des Plaines police with possession of marijuana Tuesday night after he was stopped for a traffic violation.

Lawrence Hill, 21, of 412 S. 21st Ave., Maywood, was also charged with driving with a suspended license and improper display of license plates.

Patrolman Stanley Stack stopped the auto driven by Hill on the corner of Graceland Avenue and Prairie Avenue because of the auto's license were reportedly not properly displayed.

Stack said in his reports that while questioning Hill he observed a rolled cigarette in the auto's ashtray containing what later tested to be marijuana.

According to reports, when Stack returned to his squad for a moment he saw a bag of what also tested later to be marijuana drop outside Hill's auto.

Police said Hill later admitted the marijuana belonged to him. Two passengers in the car with him at the time of his arrest were released without being charged.

Hill was released on a $1,000 bond and scheduled to appear in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit court, Oct. 5 at 11 a.m.

Man, 20, Charged In Two Exposure Cases

A 20-year-old Waukegan man was arrested by Des Plaines police Tuesday and charged with indecent exposure. He was later charged by Libertyville police with a similar offense that had occurred earlier.

William David Walther, 20, of 2090 Linden Ave., Waukegan, was arrested by Des Plaines patrolman Steven Merriman and Wendall Whitted about 5 p.m. in the 2700 block of Algonquin Road. Walther was reportedly driving a car at the time of his arrest with the license plate number given by the three exposure victims.

According to reports, a 17-year-old girl told police a man exposed himself to her on the corner of Margret Street and Forest Avenue about 11 a.m. Shortly afterwards police said a 14-year-old girl reported a man exposed himself to her on the corner of Cora and Van Buren streets. Police said both girls got the license number and description of the auto used by the offender.

BEFORE WALTHER was nabbed, Des Plaines police received information from Libertyville police the car was also used in an exposure case in that town earlier in the day.

Sgt. Russell Morrill of the Libertyville police said yesterday Walther approached a teen-age girl in that town and ordered her to get in the car. Morrill said when the girl refused Walther allegedly exposed himself, then drove off.

Walther was charged with public indecency by Des Plaines police and released on a $1,000 bond. He later turned himself into Libertyville police who also charged him with public indecency and also released him on a $1,000 bond.

Walther is scheduled to appear in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit court Sept. 21, at 11 a.m. to answer the Des Plaines charge.

He will appear in court in Waukegan Sept. 21 to answer the Libertyville charge.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Former presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger said he met privately with North Vietnamese negotiators in Paris as an emissary of George McGovern and told them the Democratic presidential candidate hoped they would press peace talks without regard to the American election.

Former President Lyndon Johnson has endorsed George McGovern for President.

Republicans swiftly blocked maverick Rep. Paul McCloskey's attempt to challenge President Nixon symbolically by having his name placed in nomination at next week's national convention. In two separate moves, the party denied McCloskey a chance to have his antiwar views brought to the convention floor and aired over nationwide television.

President Nixon vetoed a politically sensitive bill to spend $30.5 billion—nearly $1.8 billion more than he asked—for federal health, education, welfare and labor programs. The house voted to sustain the veto.

Bombing incidents in the United States during July killed two persons and injured 13, the FBI reported.

Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's top foreign policy adviser, arrived in Saigon for a series of secret meetings with President Nguyen Van Thieu. Political observers speculated he had come either to reassure Thieu or to ask him to quit.

The World

Three unidentified military aircraft attacked a special Boeing airliner carrying Moroccan King Hassan II. The plane landed with Hassan uninjured.

The British government offered a $125,000 reward for the capture of a gang of psychopathic killers suspected of murdering up to 40 persons in Northern Ireland within the past month.

The African nations threatened to spoil a $600 million dream by walking out of the 20th Olympic summer games because of Rhodesia's participation.

The State

Mayor Richard Daley canceled his meeting with Sen. George McGovern because he was angry by a news magazine article in which McGovern appears to apologize for soliciting Daley's support, a Chicago newspaper reported.

The War

Heavy fighting was reported in both North and South Vietnam despite dramatic and puzzling trips by two of the top secret peace negotiators and speculation that a settlement is pending in the 11-year-old conflict.

Boundary Change At 5 Schools; Erviti Acts Ahead Of Board

Attendance boundaries were changed, effective Tuesday for five Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 schools. Boundaries were changed for John Jay, Robert Frost and Forest View schools in Mount Prospect and Brentwood and High Ridge Knolls schools in Des Plaines.

The changes were an administrative action by James Erviti, superintendent. Principals of the schools confirmed that the changes were made in accordance with a letter dated July 26 that Erviti mailed to them.

The changes were apparently made without board approval.

Harry Peterson, school board chairman, said board members were "appraised of the action," but have "taken no formal action."

"We're aware of the plan and the need," said Peterson.

Peterson said he would have to consult with the board's attorney to see if the changes could be made without board approval.

FRANK HINES, board attorney, declined to comment on the legality of the changes. "It is not my position to answer legal questions to the general public," said Hines.

Erviti is on vacation and could not be reached for comment.

When questioned about the boundary changes, a spokesman for the legal division of the Illinois Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction said, "As a general rule, it should be a question for school board determination. The reason is that the school board represents the different areas that will be affected."

The spokesman said he was basing his opinion on a general interpretation of the school code.

Peterson said the board planned to take action on boundary changes when a special attendance boundary committee submitted its report in October.

The boundary committee was formed in April to study anticipated student population at all district schools and make recommendations for boundaries through 1977.

To date, the committee has considered boundary changes for Robert Frost and Cook schools, but no official recommendations have been presented to the school board.

The committee is charged by the board to place the welfare of all the children in the district as its first concern.

At a meeting held Tuesday evening, the committee discussed formal adoption of certain principles to be used in recommending boundary changes. The motion to adopt the principles was tabled pending further discussion.

THE CHANGES MADE by the district administration this week were in anticipation of increased student population at Frost and Jay schools from housing construction now being completed.

Erviti has estimated that approximately 20 children now at Frost would be affected by the boundary changes. Judd Thompson, principal at Frost, said letters explaining the change were being sent to parents whose children are affected.

Children now in the district who are affected by the changes may still attend their present school under the district's "open transfer" policy.

In the letter sent to the school principals, Erviti outlined the boundary changes as:

"John Jay Area: Remove the DeMucci Apartment complex located along Golf Road and attach the area bounded on the east by Oakwood Drive, on the south by Palm Drive, to Tamarack (Drive) and Tamarack (Drive) to Thornwood (Lane) and along the line of Thornwood (Lane) to Goebbert Road, and the west by Goebbert Road to Forest View School. Remove the area of Gate House and Village Green (apartments), the area west of Goebbert Road and south of Seeger Road and attach it to Forest View."

"Attach to High Ridge Knolls (School) all territory east of Linneman (Road), south of the center line of Huntington Commons (Road), west of Elmhurst Road, and north of Dempster (Street)."

In the letter, Erviti said he expects no change in the junior high school boundaries.

Free transportation will be furnished to the K-5 buildings from areas remote to the schools and where hazardous street crossings are involved.

No Gain In Lower Equalizer: Perry

Arthur Perry, Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59 assistant superintendent for administrative services, is opposed to lowering the equalizer to compute state aid to schools.

Perry said the district "would lose far more in local tax revenue than it would gain in state aid."

Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton, Richard Martwick, county superintendent of education and other Democratic counties have charged that the state has used a higher equalizer for Cook County than for any other county in the state. They want the equalizer for Cook County lowered.

Cullerton is now suing the state to get the equalizer lowered.

According to Cullerton, Dist. 59 is losing $442,660 in state aid because of the high equalizer.

Perry said the district would suffer a net loss in funding if state aid increased while the local tax revenue declined.

PERRY SAID he had not figured the overall loss for Dist. 59, but said it would be "large."

He estimated that every dollar gained in state aid would result in a two-dollar loss from local tax revenue.

A meeting for school district officials was held Monday at the invitation of county officials. The meeting became disorganized when the school officials refused the county's claims.

Perry said he "didn't bother going to the meeting because it was politically oriented."

The equalizer is part of the formula used for determining the amount of state aid a school district will receive. The Illinois Department of Local Government Affairs sets an equalizer for each county to compensate for differences in property assessment practices by county assessors.

Board Names Principals At 2 Schools

Two new principals were appointed by the River Trails School Dist. 26 board Tuesday night.

Martin Rupe was appointed principal at Indian Grove School, 208 S. Lee St., and Arthur J. Adelberg was appointed principal at Feehanville School, 1400 E. Kensington Rd. Both will receive salaries of $17,750.

Rupe, 46, a native of Ottumwa, Iowa, has 16 years experience including teaching, administrative and counseling experience at the elementary, high school and college levels according to Supt. Thomas Warden. Formerly a principal in School Dist. 91 in Forest Park, Rupe teaches part-time in the graduate school of education at Loyola University, Chicago.

Arthur Adelberg, also appointed by the board Tuesday, is a native of Chicago and has taught, supervised and been active in administrative posts in both Minnesota and Northern Illinois. He served as superintendent of School Dist. 3 in Elmhurst from 1957 to 1969.

Rupe will replace David Dossett who resigned in July to become principal in Mundelein Dist. 75. Adelberg replaces Bea Amundson who has been reassigned as a teacher at River Trails Junior High School and director of career and outdoor education in the district.

Also hired by the board Tuesday night were four new teachers. Mrs. Terry Schaps was hired as a language arts teacher at River Trails Junior High. Ann Dickerson was appointed to the intermediate team at Bond School. Also hired was Mrs. Dickerson's husband, William, who will serve as a physical education teacher at Fairview School. Edward Dreyer was appointed to a new position in the science and math department of the Junior High.

Suspect In Attempted Murder Gives Self Up

Daniel L. McGladdery, 19, charged with attempted murder after an incident early Tuesday morning in Hoffman Estates, surrendered Tuesday evening to the Niles Police Department.

The Lombard resident was released Wednesday morning after posting bond, reduced from $50,000 to $20,000 in a hearing in the Niles Branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

A warrant for McGladdery's arrest was issued Tuesday after he allegedly tried to run down an officer of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEG) during a drug arrest at the home of Charles E. Deering, 19, of 442 Bode Rd., Hoffman Estates. The warrant charged him with attempted murder and delivery of a controlled substance.

Police still are seeking an unidentified female, allegedly in the auto with McGladdery when he escaped arrest while officers fired at the car.

McGLADDERY AND FOUR other suburban residents facing drug charges are to be arraigned at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in the court rooms in Niles.

Other defendants and the charges they face are Deering, delivery of a controlled substance; Richard Alan Pain, 19, of 4700 Arbor Dr., Rolling Meadows, delivery of marijuana; Linda Marie Moser, 18, and Carl J. Isenberg, 17, both of 6654 Pine-tree, Hanover Park, delivery of a controlled substance, police said. All have posted bond.

MEG agents said they first arranged the purchase of drugs from the Hanover Park residents, and arrests there led them to Hoffman Estates. Deering's arrest then led the agents to Pain, said Niles Police Chief Clarence Emrikson, MEG spokesman.

In the arrests, the agents confiscated marijuana, amphetamines and LSD with an estimated total street value of $3,500, said Emrikson.

River Trails Construction 45 Days Behind

Construction at the River Trails Junior High School is not expected to be finished until after school begins, Dist. 26 Supt. Tom Warden said Tuesday.

According to Warden, the architect has set Nov. 25 as the new project date. Construction is now about 45 days behind.

Despite the delay, it is expected that the new cafeteria will be finished before the start of school. Warden said that he had received a letter forwarded to him by the architect saying that Herb Nelson, the head of construction for William Kuhlmann Co., had "indicated that the interior remodeling and kitchen will be finished before the start of school."

The cafeteria area has been cleaned out, Warden said, and things there are "far more encouraging today than so far in the last two weeks."

Administrative Salaries Hiked

In an executive session Tuesday night, the River Trails School Dist. 26 board approved a new schedule of administrative salaries. The board set a salary of $22,900 for the district superintendent, a raise of $1,400 over last year.

The assistant superintendent's salary was set at $21,800, a raise of $1,300 over last year. Principals' salaries were designated at a range of $13,000 to $19,000. Last year the range was $14,500 to $18,000.

Voters To Decide Coroner Question

by ROGER CAPETTINI

The life or death of the Cook County Coroner's Office will be in the hands of the voters when they go to the polls in the November general election.

But the county board still will have a voice in the matter.

The fate of the coroner's office was left to the voters when the County Board, in a special meeting last night, voted unanimously to place a referendum on the November ballot.

The board, however, was careful to retain power over the office by changing the wording of the referendum question from the way it was proposed originally.

THE BALLOT question, as approved last night, will ask if the elective coroner's office should be eliminated and replaced with a medical examiner's system, "headed by a licensed physician to be chosen by the president of the Cook County Board of Commissioners with the advice and consent of the members of the Cook County Board of Commissioners, to be effective Dec. 6, 1976."

That wording differs from the question proposed Aug. 7 by County Comr. Floyd T. Fulle of Des Plaines.

The Fulle resolution stipulated the medical examiner system would be "headed by a licensed forensic pathologist chosen and directed by a commission composed of the chiefs of the pathology departments of the major medical schools," in the county.

The resolution to place the question on the ballot, and to change the wording of the question was approved by the board after Dr. Andrew Toman, current county coroner, said he "fully approves" of the resolution.

Dr. Toman, who has been criticized frequently for his direction of the office, said that while he has instituted many improvements and changes in the past 12 years, many "archaic" aspects have been carried over, by state statute, from common law.

THE CORONER suggested, however, the chief medical examiner, if approved by the voters, should be appointed by the county board so the "public will maintain some interest in the selection and conduct of the medical examiner." That way, Dr. Toman said, "The people will still have a voice." He said if the board did not appoint the examiner the "direct line of authority would be broken."

Following Dr. Toman's remarks the board heard from seven other witnesses, all of whom said they supported the resolution and the abolition of the coroner's office.

One of those speakers was Donald Mulack, Republican candidate for coroner.

Mulack was cut short in his remarks after the Democrats on the board, led by County Pres. George W. Dunne, took exception to Mulack's statements. Dunne and commissioners Charles Bonk, John Stroger and John Touhy accused Mulack of trying to speak to the press for selfish, political purposes.

AFTER BEING warned to limit his remarks to the "meat of the issue," Mulack was interrupted repeatedly by the foursome and finally was voted "out of order" by the eight Democrats in attendance.

The four Republicans present voted against denying Mulack the floor.

If the voters decide in November to approve the resolution, and thereby abolish the coroner's office, the county board will initiate action in Springfield to repeal the Coroner's Act, Dunne said. Then the county board would have to adopt an ordinance establishing the implementation and method of operation of the medical examiner's office.

It is at that point, Dunne argued with Fulle, that the method of selecting the chief examiner should be decided. Fulle then revised his original resolution, stating, "The important thing at this point is to get the question on the ballot."

The resolution had to be adopted prior to Monday if it was to appear on the ballot.

east corner of Wolf and Foundry roads in Des Plaines and the other is on the south side of Central Road east of the Des Plaines River. Both are over 100 acres.

Gilson said the two sites are not centrally located in the college district, which is made up of Maine and Niles townships, are not easily accessible from existing roads and are poorly drained. A fourth site under consideration is outside the junior college district.

Gilson said 52 acres is adequate for Oakton's campus because the Illinois Junior College board has recently limited the enrollment and the amount of building space of junior colleges. Based on a maximum enrollment of the equivalent of 6,000 full-time students, the state board limited Oakton to 250,480 square feet of building space, or from six to 10 acres of buildings no more than three stories high.

SOME RESIDENTS questioned whether the college could limit its enrollment. Harper College in Palatine, has 200 acres of land and an expected enrollment this fall of 12,000 students. Almost all the buildings are two stories and college officials are looking for a second campus. Triton College in River Grove has 96 acres and an enrollment of more than 12,000 students.

According to Jerome Long, director of communication services, the college isn't overcrowded even though three high school districts have annexed to the college district within the last year. Long said two buildings are now under construction at Triton but none of the buildings is over three stories high.

Gilson said the Illinois Junior College Board recommended that when Oakton's enrollment began to teach the equivalent of 6,000, a second campus should be built. Oakton officials expect the equivalent of 1900 full-time student this fall, or a total of about 4,000 students.

The citizens' group said that the Beckwith Road site will be even more inadequate if other townships, such as Northfield, New Trier, and Evanston, join Oakton's community college district. Gilson said because space and enrollment are limited, a second campus would have to be built.

The board took no action after listening to questions from the residents for almost two hours. It has scheduled a special meeting on Aug. 30 at 8 p.m. at Golf Junior High School, 9401 Waukegan Rd., Morton Grove. The board will present its rationale in choosing the site during the meeting and will answer questions about the site from the public.

A preliminary study of possible land use by the college at the Beckwith Road site was revealed during Tuesday night's meeting. The proposal shows academic buildings at the northeast corner of the site, north of Beckwith Road and adjacent to the Cook County forest preserve. Physical education buildings are on the southeast corner of the site, south of Beckwith Road and also next to the forest preserve.

Gilson said the college does not want to put its buildings next to residential housing on the north and west edges of the site. Residents in the area have complained that the college would destroy one of the last few areas of open land in Morton Grove.

When asked what happened to the 33 sites under consideration when the college board began its site search almost three years ago, Gilson said many of the sites were under the 50 acre minimum and others had been bought and have been developed.

Cigarettes, $400 Taken From Truck

A 1971 Ford Econoline van truck valued at $2,000 was taken from the parking lot of a Des Plaines department store

Tuesday and returned yesterday minus 170 cartons of cigarettes and $400 in cash that were in the truck when it was stolen.

Navy Seaman Timothy M. Burke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil F. Burke of 1822 Spruce St., Des Plaines, is a crewmember of the research and development vessel USS Observation Island, which has been presented with a commemorative Poseidon Flag for her valuable contributions to the Navy's Polaris and Poseidon and Army's Safeguard missile development program. His ship is homeported at Pearl Harbor.

According to reports, Murfic Brown, an employee of the Western Automatic Music Corp., 4206 N. Western Ave., Chicago was servicing a vending machine about 11:30 p.m. inside K-Mart's, 1155 Oakton St. when the truck was stolen.

Police said the cigarettes and $400 in coins were in the truck at the time of the theft. The truck was found returned to the K-Mart's parking lot about 12:30 a.m. yesterday.

Police are investigating the incident.

APRIL WITT, 14, shares her parents' love of history and is fond of Early American furniture and accents as antiques. She has an extensive collection of old dolls reflected in her room decor.

Home Love At First Sight

"WE (BYRN IS THE talented one) spent countless hours scraping layers of linoleum and hundreds of dollars on sandpaper," said Barbara. "We were flying blind and encountered all sorts of problems. And the mess was unbearable."

When the sanding was completed, a dark stain, which enhances the rural provincial look of the furnishings, was applied.

Barbara is quick to admit that her first hobby is reading about her profession. She is learning disabilities teacher for District 25 and has a private practice in her home. She will be continuing work on her second master's in clinical psychology at Northwestern University this fall.

As director of Clearbrook Center for the Retarded, Byrn also shares Barbara's keen interest in people.

"We collect art from people," said Barbara. "Either we know the artists or get to know them."

A mixture of antiques and reproductions add to the rustic interiors of the house.

"WE STARTED collecting antiques about 15 years ago," Barbara remarked.

"We like to adhere to the original craftsmanship in antiques and will often spend vacations looking for furniture."

Pennsylvania and Virginia are favorite antiquing grounds for the family.

Still, Barbara feels that the intrinsic value of her furniture is not really in the objects, but in the strong memories they evoke. Reflecting their personable owners, favorite pieces are associated with people.

The quaint little couple in Pennsylvania, for example, will be remembered long after the cost of a chair is forgotten.

Of the Witts' children, Robin, a student at Northwestern; April, a freshman at Rolling Meadows High School; and Melanie, a fourth grader at Dryden, April shares her parents' love of history and antiques.

THE GIRLS HAVE decorated their own rooms to reflect their individual tastes. April prefers antique dolls and a canopy bed. Robin is interested in photography and uses a more modern approach to decorating. Although Melanie's tastes haven't developed yet, she has two yellow antique commodes in her room.

Two Siamese cats, Ginger the German Shepherd and a wirehaired terrier named Asta are also very much a part of the Witt family.

Free Program For Women

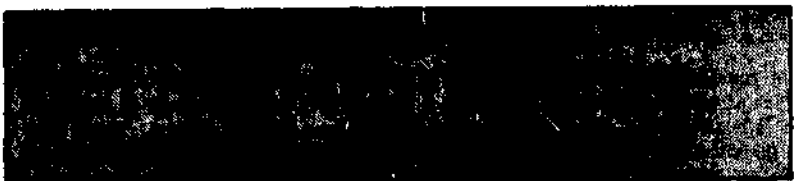

To introduce women to the new fall 10-week series on "What It Means To Be A Woman," Forest Hospital Postgraduate Center is offering a program without charge on Thursday, Aug. 24, at 7:30 p.m. in the Forest Hospital Center Auditorium. The hospital is located at 555 Wilson Lane, Des Plaines.

The program, entitled "We as Women: A Night of Exploration," will feature a documentary film, "Growing Up Female," which explores the lives of six women of various ages, ethnic backgrounds and economic status. Following the film, small group discussions led by social therapists will be held.

During the 10-week series, women will be encouraged to share their feelings in such areas as self-image, goal direction, marriage and the liberation movement.

Those planning on attending the Aug. 24 program are asked to call Anita Brown at 827-8811. She will also furnish any additional information upon request.

Dear Dorothy: The apartment into which I have moved has unusually squeaky floors. Inasmuch as I plan to have wall-to-wall carpeting, I'd like to do something about the floors first. Do you have this information?—Mrs. H. A. Vardeman.

In houses, squeaky floors are remedied best by working from beneath, but you obviously can't do that in an apartment. There are times when a simple wedge in the proper place will solve it, but it's tricky finding that ideal spot. Some experts suggest epoxy glue being squeezed between floorboards.

However, you might try the simple way first of pouring powdered graphite in the area so that the boards won't rub against each other. Using the graphite spray is so simple it would be wise to start with this method. If these simple remedies don't work — do give them a few days' trial — I'm afraid you'll just have to call for a carpenter.

Dear Dorothy: Soy sauce is often used in our household and so I was more than delighted when my mother, who still lives in Japan, told me to grate horseradish over soy sauce stains on the tablecloth and allow it to set for a while. The cloth can then be laundered with no trace of a stain.—Sayoko Tomizawa

Home remedies are often fascinating. While the suggested method has always been to soak in cold water, then launder, or work detergent into the stain, then launder, it would be an interesting experiment to try the horseradish bit.

Dear Dorothy: To have really absorbent bath towels, be sure they are all cotton. Many bath towels (velour included) now have other fibers (rayon) mixed with the cotton. These are not very absorbent, especially on the printed side.—N.K.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

The Potting Shed

by Mary E. Gabor

Progress report: This is the next best thing to heaven.

We moved into the new house the other day, the first real home we've had since moving from Arlington Heights to the northwoods of Wisconsin 10 months ago.

It's a lot like living in the heart of the Cook County Forest Preserve. This morning I got up and had a piece of homemade bread as I watched rivulets of sunshine dancing on Lake Content.

We can hardly make out our next door neighbor, even if we squint through the brush, but the local Welcome Wagon — a buck, a doe and two fawns — were at our window looking for handouts.

I'LL HAVE TO PUT out sugar water feeders for the hummingbirds who are tapping at the glass. "There is the lady who'll toss out peanuts for us," the chipmunks seem to say. I'd do the same for our lone bear, the raccoon and the skunk my daughter has already named "Little Flower," but as yet I don't know their culinary preferences. (Hope they stay away from my garden.) The red squirrels think our car is a garbage can. They sit in the tree tops eating pine nuts and drop the empty hulls on our hood. (There goes the neighborhood!)

The plan of nature is so very apparent here. We realized there was going to be a frost last night after thousands of no-see-um bugs died on our front patio. We could actually hear the sound of death as these tiny, usually silent insects succumbed to the impending change, hours before the temperature dropped.

WE NOTICED HOW the birds sit on the telephone wires just before it is going to rain, and how all the edible mushrooms have deer nibbles on them, while the poisonous ones don't. Before last night, I had never heard the mating call of a male hoptoad to his lady love or the sound of bats waking up at night.

ability we could be caught with a major fire or disaster in both places at the same time. The impossible has an occasional habit of happening, and in fighting fires one minute can make a great deal of difference."

But for the most part, the problems are financial. Des Plaines residents paid a rate of 22.77 cents per $100 of assessed valuation in 1971 for fire protection, including firemen's pensions. That is, a family whose house is assessed at $10,000 is paying 22.77 cents for the year.

In Park Ridge Manor, the rate is only 9.5 cents per $100, or $9.50 on a house assessed at $10,000. In the Elk Grove Rural district the rate is 13.80 cents, or $13.80 on a $10,000 house.

FURTHERMORE, a substantial portion of the total fire protection cost in Des Plaines is paid out of other revenues, including license fees, court fines, and sales taxes. Of the $890,284 Des Plaines spent on fire protection in 1971, only $599,507 came directly from the 22.77-cent property tax. In contrast, the unincorporated districts pay for fire protection solely out of property taxes.

But for the fire districts, the maximum tax rate is set by law as a fixed percentage of assessed valuation, and Park Ridge Manor and Elk Grove Rural say they are taxing to the legal limit. Bill Besky, secretary to the Park Ridge Manor Fire Protection Board, says his district has the lowest assessed valuation in the Northwest suburbs and no more land. He adds, "We couldn't grow if we wanted to."

Furthermore, municipalities like Des Plaines are annexing more and more property from the unincorporated areas, often the most valuable, tax-rich property. As a result, the tax base in the unincorporated areas, shrinks, their tax revenue declines, and they find it increasingly difficult to provide adequate fire protection on their own.

This aspect of the problem was highlighted Aug. 7 when the city council voted to annex the Joseph Lumber Co., 121-1311 Rand Rd., removing another piece of valuable property from the North Maine Fire Protection District, which formed its own fire department when Des Plaines refused to renew its contract at the end of 1969.

Des Plaines refused the renewal because the North Maine area had grown to the point where additional equipment and a new fire station would have been required to serve it without hurting Des Plaines fire protection rating, the basis for fire insurance rates.

The Park Ridge Manor district, which includes about 300 homes south of Dempster Street and east of Potter Road is adjacent to the city of Park Ridge, so the logical solution to its fire protection problem might seem annexation to that city. But residents of Park Ridge Manor already have turned down two annexation referendums. Among the reasons they cite are fears that annexation would lead to substantial tax increases and change the area's rural character.

Park Ridge Manor currently is paying $4,000 a year for fire protection, with a rise to $6,000 under consideration for next year. The Des Plaines city council has made it clear that it does not intend to continue coverage after December 31, 1973, leaving Park Ridge Manor with the choice of either annexing to Park Ridge or buying fire protection elsewhere.

In the Elk Grove Rural district, Des Plaines serves the Waycinden Park area, which it surrounds completely. Waycinden includes about 510 homes west of Mount Prospect Road and east of Elmhurst Road. Although Des Plaines currently is exploring the possibility of annexing the area, the issue is complicated by the fact that Waycinden Park is served by a private water company. The purchase of its facilities would represent a substantial expenditure. City officials feel this cost should not be borne

The payment for fire protection in Waycinden Park is tentatively slated to rise 50 per cent next year, going from $9,000 to $13,500 and more closely approaching the rate paid by Des Plaines residents.

Meanwhile, since the North Maine district set up its own service in 1968, Des Plaines and other nearby municipalities have continued to nibble away at property in the district, substantially reducing its tax base. In fact, the property tax for fire protection in North Maine today stands at 50.8 cents per $100 assessed valuation, or $50.80 on an $10,000 house. This higher rate indicates the real cost of providing fire protection and the difficulty an unincorporated area has in doing so.

North Maine, with its viability threatened by continuing annexations, filed suit in May, 1971, challenging the 1965 state law that allows territory annexed by a municipality to be automatically removed from the tax rolls of the fire district unless the district can prove it would cause irreparable harm.

The suit charges that the law is unconstitutional because it is discriminatory, vague, impairs the obligation of contract, and has an ex post facto character. Named as defendants were Des Plaines, Niles and Park Ridge. North Maine has lost several cases in which it sought to prove, under the 1965 statute, that annexations would result in irreparable harm.

WILHELM LEVANDER, attorney for the North Maine district, says "the shoe ought to be on the other foot." Levander feels that before a municipality is allowed to annex property, it should have to prove that the annexation will not hurt the fire protection district.

According to Lavander, "the 1965 statute was a poorly constructed effort to eliminate tax burdens for some people while at the same time causing a very detrimental tax burden for others. It's a very perplexing problem, but this isn't a good solution." The case currently is scheduled to come up again in Cook County Circuit Court on Sept. 14.

Behrel feels that the long-range prospects for the North Maine district are not good. He foresees a continued dwindling of its tax base until either Des Plaines or Niles has to take over the district.

North Mine, which is having difficulty meeting its current expenses, sees no immediate prospect of repaying the $58,600 still owed Des Plaines for fire services before December, 1969. A repayment of $10,000 is budgeted for next year but Des Plaines officials do not expect to receive much or any of the money in the near future.

At one time there was talk of a law suit to collect the money, but now sentiment generally is against the move. Behrel says, "I don't think we should sue. You don't get blood out of a turnip and they must supply services to their own people first. Even if we did sue and won, we still couldn't collect the money because they just don't have it." The mayor adds that the debt does not constitute a straight $58,600 loss since it represents services rendered rather than out-of-pocket expenses.

Clarifications of the problem may be provided after the North Maine suit is heard on Sept. 14, but it seems likely the fire protection issue will be around for some time to come.

Fear Is Way Of Life For The Wealthy

Living within arm's reach of a burglar alarm button is a way of life for residents of plush Barrington Hills.

Thousands of dollars worth of security systems are the sergeant at arms for this community of sliding glass doors and hilltop estates.

The Paul M. Corbett home was equipped with some $2,000 of home security detectors, but he still was gunned down by intruders along with three members of his family. In the wake of the murders Barrington Hills families are afraid.

"I've never seen the wealthy people so concerned . . . not just in Barrington Hills but throughout the area," said John Humphrey, owner of the Palatine firm which installed Corbett's burglar alarm devices as well as nearly half of all the security systems in the homes of Corbett's neighbors.

Since the murders Friday night, Aug. 4, Barrington Hills homeowners have called Humphrey for "system checks and adding more equipment . . . They want to make sure they're safe."

Barrington Hills residents always have been concerned about the possibility of intruders in search of jewelry, money and other household belongings.

"Families there want a system to turn on at night," Humphrey said. "They also want the family to be protected from intruders while they are away."

Humphrey added that sometimes persons with burglar detection systems do not activate the alarm unless they are away from home, or at night while they sleep.

"That's the way it was at Corbett's," he said. "People don't want to be restricted."

Most of the exclusive Barrington Hills residences have built in burglary alarm buttons, which are active 24-hours-a-day and connected to the village police department.

Corbett was 10 feet from an active burglar alarm button when he was murdered.

The isolation of homes there by the forest preserve and wooded hills launched many of the new residents of the community to invest in the home detection systems.

"People feel insecure when they can't see a light in their neighbor's window," he said.

Humphrey, who has been in the home security system business for seven years, notes "two events have motivated people" to invest in the systems. "The Percy killing in 1966 and the Corbett murder," he said.

(One of Illinois Sen. Charles Percy's daughters was slain in a North Shore suburb several years ago. The case remains unsolved.)

"When something like this happens there is always a rash of dogs, alarms and locksmaths. Fifty per cent of all the systems installed are requested by people who already have had one burglary," he said.

Humphrey has sold and installed home security systems from Lake Geneva, Wis., to Joliet, but testifies the North and Northwest suburbs are the areas of biggest demand.

"It's the biggest around here because the money's here."

Lie Tests Are Slated

Chicago police planned Wednesday to administer lie detector tests in connection with the Barrington Hills murders to two brothers arrested with a stolen car.

Police said the pair, identified as John Egan, 25, and James Egan, 29, told them they could name three men who committed the four murders.

The bodies of retired insurance executive Paul Corbett, his wife, her daughter and sister, were found Aug. 5 in the Corbett's luxurious home in Barrington Hills, an exclusive suburb west of Chicago.

Chief John Killackey of the Chicago police criminal investigations division said checks were being made on the leads provided by the brothers, but that lie detector tests also would be administered.

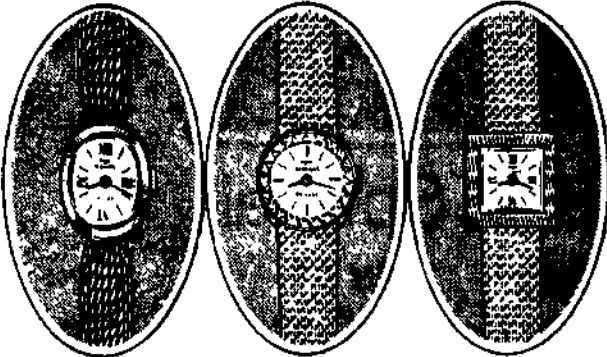

The Egan brothers were arrested Tuesday night in a Chicago garage with a stolen car, police said.

Barrington Hills police could provide no details, but confirmed that police were checking out leads in connection with the Egan brothers.

Bruning Moving Offices To Facility In Schaumburg

Addressograph Multigraph Corp. has announced it will move its Bruning division headquarters, now located in Des Plaines, and a Mount Prospect-based computer facility into new offices in Schaumburg.

The 75,000-square foot Schaumburg facility, to be called the AM Building, will house the Bruning Division staff, which will move from 1155 Times Dr., Des Plaines, and the Graphics Service and Supplies division staff. The latter is a new AM division formed July 1.

Almost 300 employees will be based in the Schaumburg building, first of three contemporary office buildings in a planned $200-million development of Walden Investment Corporation, Chicago, rising at the northwest corner of the Northwest Tollway and Rte. 53. Occupancy of the AM building is slated to begin Sept. 15.

The first three floors will contain administrative offices for 110 personnel and fully-equipped training facilities for the Graphics Service and Supplies Division, according to William H. Slomp, Jr., GSSD vice president and general manager.

THE TOP TWO floors will house about 185 Bruning division administrative personnel formerly situated at Bruning headquarters in Des Plaines, and a computer center previously located at AM's Multigraphics Division headquarters at 1800 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect.

The 35,000-square foot Times Drive facility will be converted into Bruning's engineering center, employing more than 100 research and development personnel, according to A. T. Craft, vice president and general manager.

Bruning, a manufacturer and marketer of diazo reproduction equipment and supplies and microfilm and micrographic products, has manufacturing facilities in Mount Prospect, Guilford, Conn., Broomall, Pa., and City of Industry and Menlo Park, Calif. In all, the division employs about 1,600 persons.

Graphics Service and Supplies Division was formed to consolidate and strengthen maintenance and parts service to AM graphics machine customers and to manufacture and market AM's line of general business machine and office supplies. It employs more than 2,000 persons in 225 field offices around the U.S. and in two Cleveland plants.

Slomp said the proximity of the Schaumburg location to O'Hare Airport for trainees' transportation and to the Des Plaines and Mount Prospect engineering operations of the two-machine-manufacturing divisions made the site suitable for GSSD's requirements. The AM building address is 1834 Walden Office Square.

2 Students Honored

David W. Williams, 680 S. Manor Court, Des Plaines, and Gary G. Smith, 1616 Ash St., Des Plaines, foundry engineering students at University of Illinois received awards during the recent 13th annual Industrial Night of the U. of I. student branch of the American Foundrymen's Society. Williams received a grant from the society for a study of binders in molding core sand, and Smith received a Foundry Education Scholarship. Five U. of I. students were honored with awards at the event.

Addressograph Multigraph is moving to this building in Schaumburg.

Mid-Teen Drama! No Decision But Several Thrills

by TOM CARKEEK

Their opponents represented First National Bank, but it was Allen's Men's Store which demonstrated it knew best how to economize its hits and draw interest from three enemy errors in the final game of the Des Moines Mid-Teen Baseball League best-of-three tournament series Tuesday night.

Allen's managed only two safeties, back-to-back singles in the fourth by Mike Paul and Chris Mielke, off First National ace Mark Ackerman, but the American League champ used them for one run and parlayed three First National boots into two other tallies to scrape up a 3-3 tie. The game had to be called after six innings due to darkness.

Although Allen's scored in somewhat other than artistically pleasing manners, First National actually headed into the bottom of the sixth with their backs to the wall, trailing 3-2 and realizing full well that the converging dark skies would bring the contest to a halt immediately after their turn at bat. But not only did First National tie the score, only a miracle — a triple play — stopped them from winning it all.

Joe Litwin opened the last of the sixth by reaching on a sharp grounder that handcuffed third baseman Rich Slapke. That prompted Allen's head coach Jay Jenni to pull starter Jim Olsen in favor of Bill Slapke. Mike Werner worked Slapke for a base on balls and both runners moved into scoring position on a wild pitch.

First National's Bill Carl, attempting to bunt, then popped a little blooper over the charging Rich Slapke's head behind third, scoring Litwin. Slapke intentionally walked Bill Zierke, filling the bases with no one out and the score tied.

With Allen's outfield and infield drawn way in, Frank Vaia ripped a vicious line drive which shortstop John O'Connor leaped to spear, turned and tagged Carl off second base, then whirled and fired to Bill Slapke covering the plate. Werner, churning in from third, never had a chance. The triple play ended the threat, the inning and the game. It will be picked up from that point at 6 p.m. tonight.

Allen's tallied two fluke runs in the third to take an early 2-0 lead. Bruce Beam led off by hitting a long fly to left-center which went for two bases when Litwin and Rob Ross collided trying to catch it. A sacrifice by Olsen, a walk to Mike Nugent and Bill Slapke's strikeout put men at first and third with two out.

First National blew a golden opportunity to get out of the inning unscathed when Jeff Myers lofted a pop foul which catcher Leon Wilkens misjudged, giving Myers new life. Then Wilkens, trying to pick Beam off third, heaved the ball into left, allowing Beam to score and going as Wilkens' second error in two minutes. Myers then hit a slow roller to short which Vaia overthrew at first, permitting Nugent to come home. Only a fine diving catch by Litwin for the final out prevented further damage.

But the National League tidbits struck back for two in the third. After Carl singled and Zierke walked, Vaia drove an RBI single to right. Olsen intentionally passed Ackerman to load the bases, but the strategy backfired when Nick Favia tricked a soft spinner into shallow right, scoring Zierke. That made it 2-2.

Allen's forged into the lead in their next at-bat on singles by Paul and Mielke, the only hits off Ackerman, and a sacrifice fly by Beam. But the wild sixth inning forced tonight's continuance.

First National collected eight hits to Allen's two and Ackerman fanned nine and walked one to Olsen's and Slapke's combined total of three "K's" and seven walks, but the key to First National's inability to win it lay in the chances they missed. First National stranded 10 runners in six innings, including three men each in the first and the third.

FORCE AT HOME. The home plate umpire signals First National runs earlier in the third inning The game for the Mid-Teen championship was called due to darkness after six innings had been completed with the score deadlocked at 3-3. The game will be picked up at 6 p.m. tonight. (Photo by Greg Warner)

West Park's Johnson Team Cops City 4A Title

Johnson's Sporting Goods from West Park won the City 4A Boys Baseball Championship by defeating C-Line Products from South 11-4. Bob Nelson and Bruce Boettcher supplied the hitting power with both collecting three hits in three at bats. Bill Georepoulos picked up the pitching win for Johnson's.

To reach the finals Johnson's nipped Johnson's Sporting Goods of South Park 4-3 in nine innings. The game was called because of darkness tied 3-3 with the West Johnson's runs coming on a three-run homer by Bill Georepoulos. Bob Nelson pitched the entire nine innings to register the win when Tony Cabello singled home the winning run in the bottom of the ninth inning. Nelson allowed only three hits in the nine-inning performance.

Johnson's Sporting Goods of West won its American League divisional title with a 10-7 record for the fourth time in four years. Johnson's then played Firemen, champions of the National Division for the West Park Championship, and won the game 4-2 on a three-hitter by Georepoulos. A three-run double by Scott Sullivan proved to be the winning hit for Johnson's.

The Firemen overcame the league-leading Optimist team by beating them 11-3 in the last game of the season to tie their records at 10-7 each. Firemen then defeated the Optimists 7-3 in a playoff to win the National League title.

The South Park 4A League divides their schedule into two halves. C-Line Products, the second-half winner, defeated Johnson's Sporting Goods, first-half winner, 10-2 for the overall South Park Championship.

The two leagues will now compete against each other with a 14-year-old All-Star best-of-three series to end the season.

FAN FARE

THE AUTO THAT CRASHED into Lake Rosier near Palatine Road, emerges from the man-made lake. James Otis, driver of the car, and his wife Mary, escaped injury when they crawled out of the car windows to safety. Otis apparently fell asleep at the wheel, police said. State trooper Richard Turner, in the car, searched the waters for several hours before the vehicle was discovered. Palatine fireman Joe Pannhausen is shown assisting in the salvage operation.

Park Attorney To File Suit Against Vandals

The Mount Prospect Park District Board of Commissioners have instructed its attorney, Richard Ward, to file suit against three juveniles for damages resulting from break-ins and thefts at two park facilities over the Memorial Day weekend.

A total of six minors were involved in the incident which cost the park district $3,773 in theft and damage. A $700 tape recorder, six stop watches and two microphones with amplifiers still are missing from the Lions Park Recreation Center and the Mount Prospect Country Club.

Parents of the juveniles have made restitution, and the park district plans to grant them releases guaranteeing that the park district will not sue. The park district is filing suit only against those who have not made restitution.

"We're not looking to make money, but when people injure taxpayers' property, we have the responsibility to cover the loss," Board Pres. Robert Jackson said.

Attorney Ward said the minors would be sued under the parental responsibility act which was passed by the Illinois General Assembly in 1968. The act gives a public body the right to sue the parent of a juvenile between the ages of 11 and 19 who is living at home, if the juvenile has committed "willful or malicious acts" damaging the property of a public body. According to the law, the parent is liable only up to $500 in damages. That is, he is liable for $500 for the minor and $500 for himself. According to Ward, the suit will be filed by Sept. 13, the date of the next park board meeting.

Asked whether he thinks the suit will be successful, Ward said that there is a question about it in his mind. "It's a new act and there have been no other reported cases that I can find," he said.

Pair Narrowly Escapes Watery Death

A Palatine couple narrowly escaped death early Wednesday after the car in which they were riding went off Illinois Rte. 53, down a steep embankment and into Lake Rosier, just west of Palatine. James D. Otis, 29, of 259 Boynton Dr., and his wife, Mary E., 28, emerged from the car without assistance. They were shaken but apparently uninjured.

Their 1971 red Chevrolet Impala later was retrieved from the 80-foot deep lake, about 70 feet from shore. The lake is more than 150 feet from the highway.

Palatine Police Lt. Frank Ortiz said the Otises were "lucky people. If they had the window closed with the air conditioning on, they would still be in there," he said as the car was pulled from the murky water.

The couple escaped by crawling through a window during the five to seven minutes that the car was afloat, making their way to shore, and up the embankment where they hailed Trooper Greg Fritz of the Illinois State Police.

Fritz said if the couple had been injured and unable to get up to the highway, "nobody would have found them till morning." The accident occurred at 2:10 a.m.

State police said Otis apparently dozed while driving southbound in the right-hand lane of Illinois Rte. 53, about half a mile south of Palatine Road.

The car, traveling an estimated 60 m.p.h., veered off the highway, where there is no barrier, and gained additional momentum as it went down the 20-foot embankment.

Otis was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. He also was charged with not having an Illinois driver's license.

Suburbs Collect $272,637 In Fines In '72

Northwest suburban communities have received a total of $272,637 in fines collected by the Cook County Circuit Court so far this year.

Most of the revenue rebated to the municipalities results from fines levied in traffic cases, according to Matthew J. Danaher, clerk of the court.

The figures reflect the communities' share of the revenue through the month of June.

Arlington Heights received a total of $41,037.50 to date this year as compared to $47,588.50 during the same period in 1971. In June alone, Arlington Heights received $7,111 in revenue from the court.

Buffalo Grove received $381 in June, bringing that community's revenue so far this year to $3,327. During the same period last year Buffalo Grove received $3,496 in revenue.

DES PLAINES has received fines totaling $50,154 so far this year as compared to $50,989 last year for the first half of the year. In June Des Plaines received $10,213 from the fines.

Elk Grove Village fines brought $11,259 to the village in June for a total of $54,644 so far this year. Last year fines totaled $59,134 for the same six-month period.

Hoffman Estates showed an increase of $16,224 for the first six months of 1972 as compared to $13,892 in the same period in 1971. June brought $1,758 to Hoffman Estates.

Mount Prospect totals through June reached $17,885. But in 1971 the village collected $21,006 during the same period. June revenue for the village was $3,138.

Palatine collected $3,055 in June to bring the six-month total up to $20,725.50. Last year the village collected $26,192 during the same period.

ROLLING MEADOWS has received revenue totaling $13,095.50 from the courts so far this year with a June total of $2,200. For the first six months last year the city collected $14,820.

Schaumburg fines totaled only $33,901.60 so far this year as compared to $45,586 last year for the same period. In June Schaumburg received $8,151 in fine reimbursements.

Wheeling collected $1,998 in June to bring this year's total to $12,643 as compared to $13,353 for the same period in 1971.

County Board Committee OKs Strong Pollution Bill

A Cook County Board committee yesterday approved new, more stringent regulations on air pollution, but delayed action on a noise abatement ordinance for the county.

The new air pollution ordinance will bring the county regulations in line with those enforced by the state once the county board gives the ordinance formal approval.

The public service committee delayed action on the proposed noise and vibration regulation until September at the suggestion of Commissioner Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines. Fulle questioned whether the proposed noise regulations might not be redundant of already existing disturbance of the peace laws.

He said the commissioners needed additional time to digest the proposed ordinance and objections presented yesterday by truck, snowmobile and lawn mower manufacturers.

Moreover, he noted that while the county is setting decibel levels for noises from trucks and other land machinery, residents of the area within a five-mile radius of O'Hare International Airport must endure "an average noise level of up to 100 decibels."

"What about a noise ordinance for O'Hare Field?" Fulle said.

The new air pollution control ordinance will reduce allowable smoke emissions from No. 2 on the Ringelmann chart for measuring smoke darkness to No. 1.

SAMUEL BOORAS, director of the county department of environmental control, explained that the new county law will exceed state regulations in two respects.

Booras said the state law waives a violation despite smoke darkness in cases, where a "stack test" shows that the number of particles suspended in the smoke are below the legal limit.

The county will not allow such a waiver, Booras said, because it would weaken application of the new air pollution control law.

The county regulation on particles in smoke would limit particles to one-tenth grain per standard cubic foot of exhaust gases. That is another limitation that exceeds state regulations.

During discussion on the proposed noise and vibration regulations, Booras said the county's proposed law is similar to one adopted by the city of Chicago.

HE SAID FEDERAL officials have found the proposed county law to be in conformance with anticipated federal regulations on noise levels for machinery manufacture.

Representatives of engine manufacturers, tractor companies, truckers, farm machinery producers, snowmobile firms, companies that make lawn mowers, and stone quarry operators testified before the committee on the proposed noise regulations.

Several speakers asked the county to leave setting of standards of manufacture of specific machinery up to the federal government. They asked the county to concentrate instead on regulating the noise produced by a user in relation to the specific location where a machine is used.

Teacher Glad To Be Involved

by WANDALYN RICE

Robert Grabitz just may miss a couple of days of his classes at Prospect High School next January.

He'll be attending the Inaugural Ball in Washington, D.C., if George McGovern upsets Richard Nixon and wins the presidency.

Grabitz, the chairman of the language and social studies division at Prospect, will be on McGovern's inaugural guest list for a simple reason — he was a McGovern delegate in the Illinois delegation to the Democratic National Convention.

Grabitz had never before run for a political office when he decided to run for a delegation seat. Now, looking back, the 15-year teacher says, "I'm glad I did it. I'm sure I'll get an invitation to the inaugural ball if McGovern's elected and that'll be a swinging party."

ONCE HE GOT TO Miami, Grabitz found himself part of a state delegation encircled by controversy as the fight to unseat Mayor Richard Daley began.

"We were the center of a lot of interest and had press people all around us," Grabitz said, recalling the first night of the convention. "The McGovern people on the delegation were getting pretty good information on what was happening on the Daley thing."

Even so, McGovern floor workers kept talking of a compromise delegation right up until the vote to unseat the regular Chicago Democrats was taken, he said.

"I realized Daley was going down the drain a few minutes before the vote when John Touhy (A Daley representative) refused to compromise."

The unseating of the mayor's delegation has been the one issue Grabitz has gotten the most questions about since he returned from Miami. "I'm surprised that the most ringing defenses of Daley come from Republicans," he said.

Even as he defends the convention action because "Daley obviously broke the rules," he agrees he regretted it.

"I had mixed feelings about it as did most of the Illinois delegation. I think Daley could have swung it if he had made a real professional effort to be seated, but his supporters were poorly organized and the speeches for him had very little emotion," he said.

GRABITZ ASSUMES more questions about his convention experience will come up once school starts, both from his students at Prospect and from the political science class he teaches at Harper College.

He has, however, so far declined to speak to an all-school assembly at Prospect. "I don't think there is that much interest by the majority of students," he said. "There are about 15 per cent of the students who are very involved."

Each year when Grabitz begins his classes, he tells all his students he is a Democrat. "That way," he says, "They can take everything I say with a grain of salt. I try to be as objective as possible and I do not debate my students. It isn't fair for a teacher to debate a student, because I have more ammunition than they do."

Outside of the classroom, however, Grabitz does not intend to stay neutral this fall. He will be working for McGovern.

"If I had to bet," he said, "I'd bet on Nixon, but I don't think McGovern is going to do nearly as bad as everyone thinks he is. I don't say that McGovern can win, but six months ago everyone said it was impossible for him to be nominated."

Once the election is over, Grabitz expects his interest in politics will continue, but he has no plans for the elections scheduled for 1976 and beyond.

"RIGHT NOW I WOULD have to say that this was my last hurrah," he said, seated comfortably in his living room. "It's a very time-consuming and expensive thing. I'd say the whole works probably cost me $1,500. You'd be amazed at the phone calls you can run up doing something like this."

But even so, he said, the convention, during which he got 15 hours of sleep in four days, was worth it.

Two Youths Are Charged With Theft

Two Des Plaines youths were charged with theft Monday after they were apprehended by a Des Plaines patrolman for allegedly stealing cans of paint and paint supplies valued at $20 from an automobile.

According to reports, Patrolman Ralph Tovar, responding to a call of a burglary, apprehended Richard J. Blake, 17, of 1160 Stark Pl., and Jimmy Talley, 17, of 815 Oakton St., after he saw the pair walking through the Town and Country Trailer Park, 815 Oakton St., Des Plaines.

Tovar said that while questioning the youths, he noticed the paint cans in the rear of Blake's auto, parked nearby, and also spotted ownership paper belonging to an auto parked next to Blake's car.

The pair later admitted taking the paint cans from the other car before Tovar arrived, according to police.

Blake and Talley were released on $1,000 bonds each and scheduled to appear in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court Sept. 7 at 1:30 p.m.

NIPC Prepares Waste Disposal Plan

A plan for optimum disposal of solid wastes in the six-county Chicago metropolitan area is being prepared by the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC).

The study, expected to be completed within this fiscal year, will seek methods of waste disposal which can be most economically used and will recommend generalized areas as potential sites for future sanitary landfills.

Once the plan and a series of alternatives to the main recommendations is complete, the proposal will be presented to the public for reactions, NIPC Chief Engineer Joseph Smedile said.

Smedile, who reported on the plan to the NIPC planning committee Wednesday, said data for the plan has been collected in recent years.

A PRELIMINARY report inventorying the state of solid waste collection and disposal across the country and particularly within the northeastern Illinois area has been completed, he said.

The report includes a survey of costs for various communities in the six-county metropolitan area, and a chart showing existing landfill and incinerator sites where communities in the area dispose of their waste.

The plan itself will carry the data collected in the report one step further in estimating volumes of solid waste which will have to be disposed of in the future and in seeking the least expensive way to dispose of the solid waste, he said.

Smedile said selection of new landfill and incinerator sites is "touchy," but he said the mapping of potential landfill sites would only be for generalized area and not for specific pieces of property.

THIS IS A FREE INVITATION TO GRAND OPENING III. FOR $23,150 YOU CAN STAY FOREVER.

Perhaps you don't think $23,150 will get you much these days.

At Village on the Lake, it gets you a way of living that's just about perfect.

It gets you wall-to-wall carpeting, air conditioning, appliances and your own private balcony.

It gets you right next door to Elk Grove Village yet a mere 35 minutes from the Loop.

At Village on the Lake, twenty-three grand even gets you beautiful landscaping and a full-time maintenance crew to keep it that way.

Plus a private 35-acre lake (we don't call it Village on the Lake for nothing), tennis courts, swimming pool and a delightfully appointed social room.

Most important, $23,150 gets you a spacious, attractive, very livable one-bedroom condominium home. And for a little more, you can get all of the good things listed above in an even more spacious two-bedroom model.

But don't believe everything you read in this ad. Come out and see for yourself during our Grand Opening of Building III.

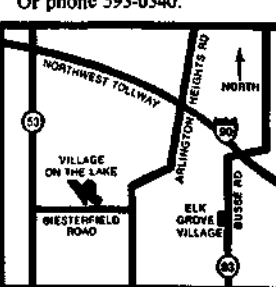

Get your pick of the best views (imagine having breakfast on your balcony while you look out over the lake).

Poke around. Ask questions (like how much equity you'll build every month even with a minimum $1250 down payment). Take off your shoes and go wading in the lake.

Our models are open daily, 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.; Saturday, to 6. Sunday, to 8.

Just exit the Northwest Tollway at Route 53 south, drive four miles to Biesterfeld Road and turn east to Village on the Lake (two blocks past Alexian Brothers Medical Center) for a 23-grand salute.
